No. 39. Henry Bry claims six and a half arpents of land in front, by the depth of forty arpents, equal to two hundred and twenty American acres, on the left bank of the river Ouachita, near Fort Miro. There is no title filed with this claim, but, by an authentic act passed before the Spanish commandant in 1786, this land was sold or exchanged, by Jean Francis Carter, to Jean Ramirez, for another tract of land. In this act mention is made that the parties exchanged their titles. The title of Carter cannot be found; but that of Ramirez has been here exhibited, and is an order of survey granted by Governor Miro to him, under date the 31st March, 1786. It is, therefore, probable that they were both titles of the same order. This land was sold at public auction, on the decease of Ramirez, to Joseph Piboto, in 1788. In this sale, made by the commandant, it is mentioned that the title of Carter was then exhibited, as, also, that the land was settled and under cultivation. Piboto sold to Pierre Preve in 1789; and, in this sale, mention again is made of the titles being produced, (apert les titres.) Preve sold to Joseph Coupelle in 1793, and Coupelle to the present claimant. All these conveyances are authentic acts, passed before the commandant, and the land is proved to have been settled, and in constant cultivation, upwards of thirty-five years.

No. 52. William Weathersbee claims a tract of land of twelve arpents in front, by the depth of forty arpents, equal to four hundred and six American acres, situated on the west bank of the river Ouachita, near the mouth of the bayou Toupar, in the parish of Ouachita, supposed to have been originally granted to Joseph de la Baume, who sold to the Baron de Bastrop, under whom the present claimant purchased, at sheriff's sale. There is no title filed with this claim, but there is produced a plat of survey, made for Joseph de la Baume, on the 22d April, 1800, by James McLaughlin, conformably to his instructions from Don Carlos Laveau Trudeau, Surveyor General. It is not known that surveys were made under the Spanish Government without an order of survey issuing from the Governor to the Surveyor General, and from thence to his deputy. John Filhiol, formerly Spanish commandant at Ouachita, deposes that the aforesaid James McLaughlin was appointed and commissioned as deputy, by the Surveyor General, to his certain knowledge. James McLaughlin deposes that La Baume settled the land in question about the year 1799. He understood that La Baume sold to Baron de Bastrop in 1801, and that the baron continued to inhabit the same until some months after the Americans took possession of the country. These two witnesses are respectable men, and entitled to credit.

No. 53. Antoine Drago claims a tract of land of six arpents front, by the depth of forty arpents, equal to two hundred and three American acres, situated on the west bank of the river Ouachita, about a mile above the town of Monroe. In this claim Etienne Ripon deposes and says that, about twenty-four or twenty-five years ago, this land was inhabited and cultivated by Madame L'Ainé, who resided thereon about three years; that she sold to Jenkins, and he to Wallet, who sold to Jean Villard, who inhabited and cultivated the same, and resided thereon about five or six years; that he sold to C. Lindeman, who sold to J. F. Girod, who sold to the claimant, and that he is certain that the said land has been always settled and cultivated by some of the above named persons from the time of Madame L'Ainé to this day. Charles Betin deposes that, in the year 1795, he saw Madame L'Ainé on the land in question, and that, from that time until the present, the land has been always settled and cultivated, and has never been vacant. These two witnesses are entitled to credit.

No. 54. Michel Le Villain La Chapelle claims a tract of land of four and a half arpents front, by the depth of forty arpents, equal to one hundred and fifty-two American acres, situated on the north side of the bayou Siard, in the parish of Ouachita. In this claim is filed a plat of survey made by James McLaughlin, a legal Spanish surveyor, dated the 21st February, 1801. Also, Charles Betin deposes that, in the year 1801, he was ordered by the commandant (as syndic of that quarter) to assist at the survey of the land in question; that the claimant procured this land from the Spanish Government for the use of the wood thereon, having a place on the other side of the bayou where he resided; and that, from that time until the present, the claimant has possessed the said land, and made use of it for the timber and other wood it contained. This witness is respectable, and entitled to credit.

No. 55. Eleanor Hook claims a tract of land of ten arpents front, on each side of the bayou Siard, in the parish of Ouachita, by the depth of forty arpents, equal to six hundred and seventy-seven American acres. This land is supposed to have been granted to Michel Le Villain, under whom this claimant derives her right, by regular conveyances; first from Le Villain, in 1801, to Baron de Bastrop. In this claim Etienne Ripon deposes that, about twenty-six years ago, he saw a person of the name of Dufrené who was settled on this land, and that he lived on it for two or three years. Also, Samuel Blazier deposes that, about twenty-eight years ago, he saw Dufrené on the land settled, and that he cultivated it for two years or more. These two witnesses are entitled to credit.

No. 56. Eleanor Hook claims six arpents of land front, by the depth of forty arpents, equal to two hundred and three American acres, situate on the south side of the bayou Siard, in the parish of Ouachita, supposed to have been granted to Simon Le Bœuff, who sold by authentic act in 1800 to the Baron de Bastrop, under whom this claimant holds by regular conveyances. In this claim Samuel Blazier deposes that, about twenty-eight years ago, a certain Duval was settled on this land and cultivated the same; that he afterwards sold to Simon Le Bœuff, who lived on the same three or four years. Also, Etienne Ripon deposes that, about twenty-eight years ago, François Duval was living on, and cultivating the land in question; that he lived there five or six years, and then sold to Simon Le Bœuff, who lived on the same about three years. These two witnesses are entitled to credit.

No. 57. Eleanor Hook claims a tract of land of ten arpents front, by forty arpents deep, equal to three hundred and thirty-eight American acres, situate on the south side of bayou Siard, in the county of Ouachita, supposed to have been granted to Pierre Olivot, who sold by authentic act to John Filhiol in 1797, who sold the same year to the Baron de Bastrop, under whom the claimant holds by regular conveyances. In this case Jean Filhiol deposes that Pierre Olivot had a title to this land, which he procured as commandant from the Spanish Government, and that the said Olivot lived on, and cultivated the same in the year 1797. This witness is a respectable man.

No. 58. Eleanor Hook claims a tract of land of twelve arpents front, by the depth of forty arpents, equal to four hundred and six American acres, situate on the river Ouachita, at the junction of the bayou Siard, descending the Ouachita. This land is supposed to have been granted to William Epinet, who sold by authentic act to the Baron de Bastrop in the year 1796, under whom the claimant holds. In this claim Jean Filhiol deposes that he procured a title to this land in his quality of commandant, for the said William Epinet, from the Spanish Government, and that said Epinet lived on, and cultivated said land in the year 1796. This witness is a respectable man.

No. 59. The parish of Ouachita claims a tract of land at the junction of the river Ouachita and bayou Siard, of three arpents front on theriver, by five arpents deep, equal to twelve American acres and sixty-nine one-hundredths. In this claim Jean Filhiol, former Spanish commandant, deposes that he came to Ouachita as commandant in the year 1783; that, some time afterwards, at a general assembly of the inhabitants, it was agreed to set apart a piece of ground, not conceded, of the dimensions claimed, for the purpose of a graveyard, and to build a church upon; that, therefore, a portion was enclosed for a graveyard; that, in the year 1794, several persons were buried there, and, that the inhabitants continued to bury there until the change of Government, and that this land was always considered as public property. Also, Etienne Ripon deposes that, he has been an inhabitant of Ouachita for forty years; that, in the year 1793 the inhabitants (among whom he was one,) were ordered by the commandant to furnish pickets, and fence in this land for a graveyard, and that it was constantly used thereafter as a burying ground. These two witnesses are worthy of credit. This is a small piece of land, but very important to the feelings of the inhabitants.

No. 60. The representatives of Jean Baptiste Prudhomme claim a tract of land of six arpents front, by the depth of forty arpents, equal to two hundred and three American acres, situated on the left bank of the river Ouachita, about four leagues above Fort Miro. In this claim there is filed a plat of survey made by James McLaughlin, a legal Spanish surveyor, dated 26th March, 1802. Also, Samuel Blazier deposes that, about twenty-eight years ago, he lived with the old claimant, Prudhomme, and helped him to clear this land, and that said Prudhomme continued to reside on, and cultivate said land until his death, many years after, and that he was living on the same in 1803. Etienne Ripon deposes that, about twenty-eight years ago, said Prudhomme was settled on this land, and that he continued to live on, and cultivate the same until his death, which happened about ten years ago. Both these witnesses are believed entitled to credit.

No. 61. The Baron de Bastrop claims a tract of land of eighteen hundred arpents, superficial, more or less, equal to one thousand five hundred and twenty-three American acres, situated at the junction of the bayou Siard with the river Ouachita. In this claim is filed a plat of survey made by James McLaughlin, a legal Spanish surveyor, in October, 1802, for the Baron de Bastrop, as also six deeds of sale, all authentic acts, passed before the commandant between the years 1796 and 1801.

CLAIMS OF THE THIRD CLASS.

No. 62. Peter B. Bruin claims a tract of land of eight hundred arpents, equal to six hundred and seventy-seven American acres, situated in the parish of Concordia, on the Mississippi, about three miles below bayou Pierre. In this claim Joseph Vidal, formerly commandant at Concordia, deposes that, about the year 1801, he permitted the claimant, who had requested a much larger grant, to survey the land claimed; that, some time afterwards, he went to Spain; that, on his return in 1806, he found the claimant had a large settlement on the land, and that he lived upon it with his family for some years. James Dunlap deposes that, he does not know when the settlement of this land was commenced, but that, in the year 1809, he was on the land; that, it was then well improved by the claimant, who lived thereon with his family, and had a house, negro cabins, and a larger piece of land in cultivation, say fifty acres, with twenty or thirty negroes; that the claimant continued to occupy and cultivate said land ever since, except when disturbed by inundation. William Collins deposes that he passed the house of the claimant in the year 1806 or 1807; that, at that time, there was a considerable improvement, from sixty to eighty acres of land cleared, and that, from the appearance of the trees and improvements, it must have been commenced some years previous; that many years ago, say ten or fifteen, he had heard from the claimant, and from Captain Vidal, the commandant, that the claimant had a grant of said land before the change of Government. This testimony is believed to be correct. The two first witnesses are men of high respectability.

No. 63. Richard Green claims a tract of land of one league square, equal to five thousand four hundred and sixteen American acres, situate at the mouth of Rackoon creek, on the Row Gully, and parish of Rapides. It appears this land is claimed for the use of the pine timber on it to supply a saw-mill. Valentine Layssard, formerly commandant at Rapides, deposes that, some time in the year 1801 or 1802, the claimant obtained from him, as commandant, a grant of one league square (the land in question) for a mill. Louis Huffman, Valentine Deville, and Jontee Deville severally depose that Jean Baptiste Jeannet and Philip O'Neil were employed by the claimant to get out timber to build his mill with, before the change of Government, as said Jeannet died in the year 1803. Philip O'Neil deposes that, about the year 1802, he was employed by the claimant, with his father-in-law, J. B. Jeannet, to get out timber for him for a mill, at the mouth of Rackoon creek, and that said claimant paid him fifty dollars for his part of the work. These witnesses are believed entitled to credit.

No. 64. Jacques Paul claims a tract of land of twenty arpents front, by the depth of forty arpents, equal to six hundred and seventy-seven American acres, situate in the prairie of Catahoula, joining the land of Robert Wilson. There is filed in this claim a requête, signed by the commandant, Valentine Layssard, on the 4th June, 1801. Richard Green deposes, that he knows the claimant inhabited and cultivated this land in 1802, and that he continued to live on and cultivate the same until the high water of 1815. This testimony is believed entitled to credit.

No. 65. The representatives of Lewis White claim a tract of land of six hundred and forty acres, situate on the west bank of the river Ouachita, at the Ecor à fabri. In this claim Jean Filhiol deposes, that the claimant was settled on this land thirty-eight years ago, and cultivated the same; that he remained on the land two or three years, when he was killed by the Indians; that his widow and children resided there afterwards about two years. Jean Heberard deposes, that he is sixty-three years old; that, about the year 1793, he saw the widow of White on this land with her children, and that she remained on the same until the year 1806. This testimony is believed entitled to credit.

No. 66. Solomon C. Philips claims a tract of land of six hundred and forty acres, situated on the west bank of the river Mississippi, in the parish of Concordia, below the foot of Diamond island. This claimant holds under a sale from Samuel Hanna, the first settler. In this claim Joseph Hanna deposes, that he descended the river with his brother, Samuel Hanna, in the month of April, 1803; that his brother landed in Concordia, where he settled on the land in question; and that, after bringing his family from Tennessee, he resided on said land, and cultivated it, till he sold to the claimant, in 1813. This witness is believed entitled to credit.

No. 67. Adam Huffman claims six hundred and forty acres of land on the bayou Dareau, near its confluence with Red river, in the parish of Rapides. Valentine Layssard deposes that the claimant had permission from him, as commandant, to settle on this land, about the year 1801. Richard Green deposes that the claimant resided on this land in 1801, 1802, and 1803, and kept stock there, having seen his cattle on the premises. Valentine Deville and Philip O'Neil depose, that the claimant improved this land in 1801, and has cultivated and kept it ever since as a stock farm. This testimony is believed.

No. 70. David Devore claims a tract of land of twenty arpents front, by the depth of forty, equal to six hundred and seventy-seven acres, situated on the south side of the bayou Catahoula. Valentine Layssard deposes that, in the year 1802, the claimant was brought before him, as commandant; that he took the oath required by the Government, and was permitted to settle on the bayou Catahoula. Richard Green deposes that, in the years 1802 and 1803, the claimant cultivated this land, as he saw corn growing there; and that he has seen the land cultivated generally since, until the high water in 1815. This testimony is believed.

No. 71. George Whitacre claims twenty arpents front of land, by forty arpents in depth, equal to six hundred and seventy-seven American acres, on the bayou Catahoula, joining the land of David Devore. Valentine Layssard in this claim deposes that, in the year 1802, the claimant had permission from him (then commandant) to settle on this land; and, further, that he then took the oath required by that Government. Also, Richard Green deposes that, in 1802 and 1803, the claimant was settled on and cultivated this land; that he saw several acres of corn there; and he believes the land was generally cultivated until the high water of 1815. Also, John Dyson deposes that he saw the claimant planting corn on this land in 1802, and shortly after saw it growing. This testimony is believed.

No. 72. The heirs of Benjamin Miller claim a tract of land of twenty arpents front, by the depth of forty arpents, equal to six hundred and seventy-seven American acres, in the parish of Rapides, at the White Cliffs, on the north side of Red river. In this claim Adam Huffman deposes that he was well acquainted with Benjamin Miller; that he lived on the White Cliffs, on the north side of Red river, in 1798 and 1799, and, as he believes, has continued in possession until this time. Also, Valentine Layssard deposes that, many years before the change of Government, his father, then acting commandant, gave permission to said Miller to settle on the north side of Red river, verbally, or by a requête signed by him. This testimony is believed correct.

No. 73. The heirs of Richard Earl claim six hundred and forty acres of land in the prairie of Catahoula, and parish of same name. In this claim Richard Green deposes, that he has perfect knowledge that the said Earl inhabited and cultivated the land in question in the years 1801, 1802, and 1803, and ever since until his death, which happened in the year 1818. Also, John Dyson deposes that he saw said Earl settled on this land in 1799; and that he has perfect knowledge that he lived on and cultivated the same until his death, in 1818. This testimony is believed to be correct.

No. 75. John Henry claims six hundred and forty acres of land, situated on the right bank of the Ouachita river, in the parish of Catahoula. In this claim Jean Heberard deposes that this land was settled by Theophilus Hughes in 1801, who continued to reside on and cultivate the same until about the year 1807, when this deponent left that part of the country; and that said Hughes resided on said land on the 20th December, 1803. This claimant holds under Hughes by regular conveyance. This testimony is believed correct.

No. 76. John Henry claims a tract of six hundred and forty acres, situated on the right bank of Black river, in the parish of Catahoula. In this claim John Heberard deposes that the land in question was settled by Joseph Harris long before the year 1803; that said Harris continued to reside on and cultivate the said land until deponent left that part of the country in 1807; and that said Harris was settled and living on the said land on the 20th of December, 1803. The claimant holds under Harris. This testimony is believed correct.

No. 77. John Henry claims a tract of land of six hundred and forty acres, situated on the right bank of Black river, in the parish of Catahoula. In this claim Jean Heberard deposes that he knows that Joseph Thomas was settled on the land in question long before the year 1803; that said Thomas continued to inhabit and cultivate the same until the deponent left that part of the country, in 1807; and that, on the 20th December, 1803, Thomas was settled and living on said land. The claimant holds under Thomas. This testimony is believed correct.

No. 78. John Henry claims a tract of land of six hundred and forty acres, situate on the right bank of the river Ouachita, in the parish of Catahoula. In this claim Jean Heberard deposes, that the land in question was in his near neighborhood, and was settled by Alexander Mahon, about 1802; that said Mahon continued to reside on and cultivate the same until this deponent left that part of the country, about 1807; and that said Mahon lived on said land on the 20th December, 1803. The claimant holds under Mahon. This testimony is believed.

No. 82. Edward Broughton and the heirs of William Rutherford claim a tract of land of eight hundred acres, situated on the west side of lake St. Peter, in the parish of Concordia. In this claim there is filed an authentic certified copy of a survey for this land for John Rhea, surveyed by Peter Walker, on the 15th July, 1803, who was commissioned surveyor, from the indisposition of the adjutant surveyor. To this survey there is a certificate of Joseph Vidal, the commandant, that said land was surveyed at the request of John Rhea; that it was not occupied by any other person; and referring him to the Intendant to confirm his title. This is dated the same day. These claimants hold under Rhea, by sheriff's sale.

No. 83. The heirs of Baptiste Fafar claim six hundred and forty acres of land, situated on the river Bœuf, in the parish of Ouachita. In this claim Jean Heberard deposes that, in 1792, this land was settled and cultivated by Baptiste Fafar, who remained on the same until his death; when his son, Joseph Fafar, took possession, and cultivated it on and before the 20th December, 1803, and since that time until his death. This testimony is believed.

No. 99. Augustus O'Neal claims six hundred and forty acres of land, situated on the bayou Rigolet, north of Red river, joining lands of Michel Lapance. In this claim, Michel Lapance, Louis Huffman, and Adam Huffman severally depose that the claimant settled the land in question by John Sanders, a hireling, in 1801, who made a crop that year; that the claimant moved on to the land in 1802, and has continued to inhabit and cultivate the same from that time until now. This testimony is believed correct.

No. 100. Lewis L. Huffman claims six hundred and forty acres of land, situated on the north side of Red river, about two miles above the mouth of bayou Maree. In this claim, Adam Huffman and Augustus O'Neal severally depose that the claimant settled on this land in August, 1803, and has inhabited and cultivated the same until now. This testimony is believed correct.

CLASS FOURTH.

No. 68. Elijah L. Clark claims a tract of land of seven hundred and thirty-three acres, situated on the lake St. Joseph, in the county of Concordia. In this claim Elijah Clark deposes that the claimant settled on the land in November, 1803, and cleared several acres of land, and had his camp thereon; and that he has continued to occupy and cultivate said land generally ever since. Also, Samuel Durosset deposes that, in November, 1803, the claimant settled on the land; that he immediately cleared several acres of land, and sowed some seeds; that he had his camp on the land, and actually inhabited and cultivated the same on 20th December, 1803, and, since that period, by himself or for his use, generally until now. He further says that said Clark, as well as himself and others in his neighborhood, had permission to settle from the Spanish commandant.

No. 69. Lewis Clark claims a tract of land of six hundred and forty acres, situated in the county of Concordia, on the lake St. Joseph. In this claim Elijah Clark deposes that the claimant settled on the land in November, 1803; had his camp there, and cleared several acres of land; and that, on the 20th December, 1803, he inhabited and cultivated the same; and that he has cultivated and occupied the land generally ever since. Also, Samuel Durosset deposes that the claimant settled on the land in question in November, 1803; that he had his camp on the same, and immediately cleared several acres of land, and sowed seeds; that, on the 20th December, 1803, he inhabited and cultivated the land, and has continued to do so generally ever since. He further says that the claimant, as well as himself and some others who settled in the neighborhood about the same time, had all permission to settle from the Spanish commandant.

No. 74. John Lordevise claims a tract of land of six hundred and forty acres, situated at the mouth of the bayou L'Argent, on the Tensaw, and parish of Concordia. In this claim John Henry deposes that, in the latter part of the year 1802, he was at the house of the claimant, who lived on the land in question, and had cultivated it the same year, as he saw cornstalks on the land, and purchased potatoes and other articles from him; he knows that Lordevise remained on said land, and cultivated it for several years afterwards, and believes he was on it the 20th December, 1803.

No. 79. David Michie claims four hundred and seventy-five acres of land, situated in the parish of Concordia, about thirty miles below Vidalia. In this claim there is filed a copy of a survey said to have been executed by Peter Walker on the 18th July, 1802, by virtue of a grant from Don Joseph Vidal, dated the 10th July, but no legal proof of either. William Glasscock, a witness, deposes that he knows this land was improved and cultivated previous to December, 1803; a cane-patch was cut, and turnips sown, and a cabin erected thereon. Several applicants for land had their claims surveyed by said Walker on the same day, among whom this deponent was one. He was one of the chain-carriers for the survey, and recollects this land was about thirty-two miles below the post of Concordia.

No. 80. John Holliday claims a tract of land of six hundred and forty acres, situated about thirty miles below Vidalia, on the west margin of the Mississippi. William Glasscock deposes that he knows said land was surveyed by Peter Walker, who was a surveyor under the Spanish Government, and was improved and cultivated previous to December, 1803. There was on the land a cabin, and a small field of corn; and this land was never occupied and improved previous to the claimant's grant from Joseph Vidal, the Spanish commandant.

No. 81. J. P. McNeill and the heirs of William Rutherford claim three hundred and twenty acres of land, situate on the river Mississippi, about thirty miles from Vidalia, in Concordia. The claimants hold by regular deeds from William G. Forman. No other title.

No. 84. James Floyd claims six hundred and forty acres of land on the Mississippi river, between that and lake Providence. In this claim William Saunders deposes that the claimant settled this land in the spring of 1803, at which time this deponent lived with him, and continued so until 1805: during which time Floyd continued on the land, and this deponent believes he has inhabited and cultivated it for many successive years, having been at his house again in 1813, and that Floyd is still on it; that he knows Floyd had permission from the Spanish Government to settle, because he went with him and others to the Spanish commandant, and heard them obtain his permission to settle.

No. 85. William Culfield claims six hundred and forty acres of land in the parish of Concordia, between the river Mississippi and lake Providence, adjoining the claim of James Floyd. In this claim William Saunders deposes that, early in the spring of 1803, the claimant settled on lake Providence, near the Mississippi, and adjoining lands settled by James Floyd; that Culfield built cabins, and put in a few acres of corn, and continued to inhabit and cultivate said land for many successive years, as this deponent lived with Floyd, adjoining, until 1805, when he left him, but was again at Floyd's in 1813, when Culfield was living on his land, and, as deponent believes, is still on it. Deponent knows Culfield had permission from the Spanish Government to settle, because he was with him, and heard him obtain it.

No. 86. William Collins claims six hundred and forty acres of land on lake Providence, in Concordia parish. In this claim William Saunders deposes that, early in the spring of 1803, the claimant settled on lake Providence, next the river adjoining lands settled by Floyd; that Collins built cabins, and put in a small field of corn that year, and continued to inhabit and cultivate said lands for many years, as deponent lived with Floyd, adjoining, until 1805, when he left him, but was again at Floyd's in 1813, when Collins was living on his land, and, as he believes, is still on it. This deponent was present when said Collins obtained permission from the Spanish Government to settle on said land.

No. 87. William H. Collins claims six hundred and forty acres of land on the west bank of the river Mississippi, three or four miles below Fort Adams, in the county of Concordia. In this claim John Neal deposes that, in the spring of the year 1802, the claimant settled on the land in question; that he cleared land, built houses, and continued by himself, or others for his use, to inhabit and cultivate said land ever since, except when prevented by high water, but always re-occupying as soon as the flood had subsided; that this deponent has generally lived in the neighborhood, and has often heard, and does believe, that said Collins had permission from the Spanish Government to settle on said land.

No. 88. John Nelson claims six hundred and forty acres of land in the parish of Concordia, joining lands of Isaac Taylor. In this claim John Neal deposes that, some time in the year 1800, the claimant settled on the west bank of the Mississippi, about six miles below Fort Adams, just above Isaac Taylor; that he built houses and cleared lands, which he has by himself, and others for his use, continued to inhabit and cultivate ever since, except when driven off by high water; that this deponent generally lived in the neighborhood, and has often heard and does believe said Nelson was settled on the land by permission of the Spanish Government. James Sims deposes that, in the fall of 1802, he was at Isaac Taylor's, and at that time the claimant resided on and cultivated the land immediately above Taylor's; that, about Christmas of next year, deponent spent two weeks at Taylor's, and Nelson was then on said land, and that deponent frequently saw him there several years afterwards.

No. 89. John Boyd, Jun. claims six hundred and forty acres of land in the parish of Concordia, on the west bank of the Mississippi, joining William H. Collins. In this claim John Neal deposes that, early in the fall of 1802, the claimant settled on the land in question; that he built his cabins and cleared land, and, in the spring of 1803, planted his first crop, and has continued by himself, or others for his use, to inhabit and cultivate the same, except when driven off by high water. That this deponent generally lived in the settlement, and has understood, and believes, that Boyd had permission from the Spanish Government to settle on said land.

No. 90. Isaac Taylor claims six hundred and forty acres of land in Concordia, six or seven miles below Fort Adams. In this claim John Neal deposes that, some time in the year 1800, the claimant settled the land in question; that he continued to inhabit and cultivate the same until 1811, when he was driven off by the high water; that, since that time, the claimant has kept continued possession by others when the waters permitted. This deponent has understood, and verily believes, that Taylor was settled on said land by permission of the Spanish Government. Also, James Sims deposes that, early in the fall of 1802, the said Taylor gave him permission to cut wood on his land; that Taylor was then living in comfortable cabins, and had made that year a considerable crop of corn and pumpkins; that he was again at Taylor's about a week before Christmas of the next year, and stayed with him two weeks, and was at his house two or three years afterwards.

No. 91. John Kesler claims six hundred and forty acres of land in the parish of Concordia, on the right bank of the Mississippi river, two or three miles below the Petty Gulf. In this claim James Young deposes that, in the year 1802, the claimant lived on and cultivated the land in question, and this deponent, having been there frequently since, does verily believe that he has occupied it ever since, except when disturbed by high water, and that the said Kesler settled there with the permission of the Spanish Government.

No. 92. James Jarvis claims six hundred and forty acres of land in the parish of Concordia, nearly opposite the Petit Gulf. In this claim James Young deposes that the claimant did live on, and cultivate the land in question in the year 1802, which he settled on by permission of the Spanish Government, adjoining land claimed by John Kesler; and this deponent, having been there frequently since, does verily believe he has occupied it ever since, except when disturbed by the high water.

No. 93. James Ceders claims six hundred and forty acres of land in Sicily island. In this claim Samuel Thompson deposes that, in the years 1802 and 1803, the claimant did inhabit and cultivate a certain tract of land in Sicily island, in the State of Louisiana.

No. 94. John Nailer claims six hundred and forty acres of land in the parish of Concordia, nearly opposite bayou Pierre. In this claim Samuel Thompson deposes that the claimant cleared and cultivated the land in question since the years 1802 and 1803.

No. 95. James Clayton claims six hundred and forty acres of land in the parish of Concordia. In this claim William Thompson deposes that the claimant commenced clearing and building on a tract of land on the west of the Mississippi, between Fort Adams and Red river in 1802, and continued to cultivate the same since that period, unless in the time of high water, which land was settled and occupied by permission of the Spanish Government.

No. 96. John Strange claims six hundred and forty acres of land on the north side of Red river, a little below Vermilion island. John Jones, in this claim, deposes that the claimant did inhabit and cultivate the land in question, adjoining lands of Richard Jarvis, in 1802. This deponent was then at Strange's house, and, having been there frequently since, does verily believe that he hath occupied and cultivated it since that period, and further, that he settled it with the permission of the Spanish Government.

No. 97. Richard Jarvis claims six hundred and forty acres of land on the north of Red river, near Vermilion island, adjoining lands of John Strange. In this claim John Jones deposes that the claimant commenced building on and clearing this land in 1801, and that he has occupied and cultivated the same from that period until the present time.

No. 98. Parker Carradini claims five hundred arpents of land, equal to four hundred and twenty-three American acres, in the parish of Catahoula, on the west side of lake Sicily. In this claim is filed a requête signed by Manuel Gayoso de Lemos, at Natchez, the 29th March, 1797, for the quantity claimed, which is requested in the Spanish Dominions. This appears to be a floating requête. Leonard Hudson, a witness, deposes that, in February or March, 1803, he was at the house of the claimant on Lastley's lake, about four miles from Catahoula court house, at which time he was comfortably settled on this land; that he continued to inhabit and cultivate the same for many successive years, as this deponent frequently called at his house.

No. 101. George Rhea claims a tract of land of six hundred and forty acres on the North bank of Little river, two or three miles below the Chickasaw bayou. In this claim William Welsh deposes that the claimant inhabited and cultivated the land in question in the years 1802 and 1803, and ever since, by permission of the Spanish Government.

No. 102. William Rhea claims six hundred and forty acres of land on the Chickasaw bayou, a branch of Little river. In this claim William Welsh deposes that the claimant inhabited and cultivated the land in question in 1802 and 1803, and ever since that time.

No. 103. John Fountain claims a tract of land of forty arpents front, by the ordinary depth, equal to one thousand three hundred and fifty-four American acres, on the bayou Dareau, or Dearborn, north of Red river, about eighteen miles above Alexandria. In this claim is filed a requête, signed by Valentine Lassard, commandant at Rapides, in 7th May, 1800. William Simmons deposes that the claimant inhabited and cultivated the land in question in the years 1802 and 1803, and is yet in possession of it, and holds it by virtue of a requête from the Spanish Government.

No. 104. Joseph King claims two hundred and forty arpents, equal to two hundred and three American acres, on bayou Pierre. This claim is founded on an order of survey granted to the claimant by Estevan Miro, Governor of Louisiana, and signed by him at New Orleans, the 26th of April, 1790.

No. 105. Robert Davis claims a tract of land of eight hundred arpents, equal to six hundred and seventy-seven American acres, situated on Thompson's creek, where it enters into Red river on the north side. In this claim is filed a requête signed by Manuel Gayoso de Lemos, at Natchez, the 9th January, 1795, for eight hundred arpents, in favor of the claimant, situated between the waters of the river Buffalo and Thompson's creek. Also, Samuel Wright, a witness, deposes that he knows that the claimant settled and cultivated this land in the years 1802 and 1803, and for many years since.

No. 106. John Boyd, Sen., claims a tract of land of one thousand arpents, equal to eight hundred and forty-six American acres, on both sides of the bayou Dareau, north of Red river. In this claim is filed an authentic certified copy of a requête, signed by Manuel Gayoso de Lemos, dated Natchez, 29th March, 1797, in favor of the claimant, for one thousand arpents of land in any place in the district where it may be found. Also, William Kinchen, a witness, deposes that he well knows the claimant, and that he did actually cultivate and inhabit the land in question on the bayou Dareau in 1802 and 1803, and continues in possession.

No. 107. Frederic Man claims five hundred arpents of land, equal to four hundred and twenty-three American acres, situated on the bayou Feliciana. In this claim there is filed a requête, signed by Manuel Gayoso de Lemos, at Natchez, the 31st January, 1795, in favor of the claimant for the land as claimed.

No. 108. Hugh Logan claims two hundred and forty arpents of land, equal to two hundred and three American acres, situated on Cole's creek. In this claim there is filed an order of survey, signed by Estevan Miro, Governor of Louisiana, dated at New Orleans, the 7th of April, 1791, for the land as claimed.

No. 109. Bennet Truly claims two hundred arpents of land, equal to one hundred and sixty-nine American acres, situated on the bayou St. Catherine. In this claim there is filed an order of survey, signed by Estevan Miro, Governor of Louisiana, dated at New Orleans the 3d of January, 1787, in favor of the claimant for the above land.

No. 110. Jacob Stampley claims two hundred arpents of land, equal to one hundred and sixty-nine American acres, on any vacant land in the Spanish dominions. In this claim there is filed a grant or order signed by Manuel Gayoso de Lemos, Governor of the district (distrito) of Natchez, dated 18th January, 1793, directing the surveyor of that Government to put in possession the claimant of two hundred arpents of land wherever it may be found vacant, for his services as a volunteer in the cavalry for six months.

No. 111. George R. Carradine and Richard Carradine claim one thousand arpents of land, equal to eight hundred and forty-six American acres, situated on the north side of Red river below the raft. In this claim is filed an authentic copy of a requête, signed by Manuel Gayoso de Lemos, at Natchez, 29th March, 1797, in favor of the claimants, for one thousand arpents of land where the same may be found vacant in the Spanish dominions. Also, William Thompson deposes that the claimants inhabited and cultivated a tract of land containing one thousand arpents on Red river, below the raft adjoining land of Parker Carradine, in the year 1802, and occupied the same since that period.

No. 112. John Jose Carradine claims five hundred arpents of land, equal to four hundred and twenty-three American acres, on the north bank of Red river, below the land of George R. Carradine. In this claim is filed an authentic copy of a petition to the Governor of Louisiana, for a grant of such a quantity of land as may be thought proper in the annexed certificate of the Surveyor General, which is signed by the Baron de Carondelet, at New Orleans, 2d March, 1797, directing the same to the Governor of Natchez. On this order Manuel Gayoso de Lemos, the Governor of Natchez, under the date of 2d April, 1797, says that he considers the claimant deserving of five hundred arpents of land where it is requested. Also, William Thompson deposes that the claimant did inhabit and cultivate a tract of land on Red river, below the raft, and adjoining land of George and Richard Carradine, in the year 1802, which has been occupied ever since that time.

No. 113. Parker Carradine claims five hundred arpents of land, equal to four hundred and twenty-three American acres, on the north side of Red river, below the raft. In this claim there is filed an authentic copy of a requête, signed by Manuel Gayoso de Lemos, at Natchez, the 29th March, 1797, granting five hundred arpents of land to the claimant where it may be vacant in the Spanish dominions. Also, William Welsh deposes that the claimant inhabited and cultivated a tract of land on the north of Red river, and near the raft, in 1802, which has been occupied and cultivated ever since that period.

No. 114. Ardin Howard claims eight hundred arpents of land, equal to six hundred and seven-seventy American acres, on the north side of Red river, below and joining land of John J. Carradine. In this claim is filed an authentic copy of a requête, signed by Manuel Gayoso de Lemos at Natchez, the 10th March, 1797, in favor of the claimant, for eight hundred arpents of land where the same may be found vacant in the Spanish dominions. Also, William Thompson deposes that the claimant did inhabit and cultivate and settle a tract of land on Red river, below the raft, adjoining land of John J. Carradine, in the year 1802, and ever since that period.

Respecting these four last claims, James Williams, a witness, deposes that, in crossing the river Mississippi, he unfortunately dropped his pocket-book, containing a number of valuable papers, among which were a grant or warrant of survey in favor of George R. Carradine and Richard Carradine for one thousand arpents of land, dated 20th March, 1797; one warrant or grant in favor of John J. Carradine for five hundred arpents of land, with a certificate from the surveyor that the land was vacant, dated 2d April, 1797; one in favor of Ardin Howard for eight hundred arpents of land, dated 10th March, 1797; and one in favor of Parker Carradine for five hundred arpents of land, dated 20th March, 1791, which papers he was employed to lay before the Commissioners of the Land Offices at Ouachita.

LAND OFFICE, OUACHITA, January 1, 1821.

I, Daniel J. Sutton, Register of the Land Office for the district north of the Red river, in the State of Louisiana, do hereby certify that the foregoing report is a faithful abstract of the notices of land claims, and of the evidence thereon, filed in this office, in pursuance of the act entitled "An act supplementary to the several acts for the adjustment of land claims in the State of Louisiana," approved 11th May, 1820.

LAND OFFICE, OUACHITA, December 14, 1820.

Antoine Dumontier claims a tract of land of fifty arpents front, by the depth of forty arpents, situated near the lake Providence, above Natchez, founded on an order of survey granted by Governor Galvez, and signed by him at New Orleans, the 8th December, 1776.

ANTOINE DUMONTIER.

[TRANSLATION OF THE REQUETE.]

DECEMBER 3, 1776.

To His Excellency Don Bernardo de Galvez, Governor of the province of Louisiana, &c. &c.

Antoine Dumontier, an inhabitant of the Illinois, desiring to settle himself on the lake called Providence, above Natchez, humbly presents himself before your excellency, praying that your excellency would have the bounty to grant him the quantity of fifty arpents front of land, with the depth of forty on the said lake; bounded on the upper side by the lands of Mr. Burette, and on the lower side by vacant lands: a favor which the suppliant hopes to receive from your excellency, and will not cease to offer up prayers for the preservation of your life.

ANTOINE DUMONTIER.

[TRANSLATION OF THE ORDER OF SURVEY.]

NEW ORLEANS, December 8, 1776.

The surveyor of this province will establish this party on the fifty arpents front which he solicits, with the ordinary depth, and will make a plat thereof with the limits and boundaries, in order to deliver to the suppliant a title in form.

DE GALVEZ.

LAND OFFICE, OUACHITA, December 30, 1820.

Personally appeared before the undersigned, Register of the Land Office for the district north of Red river, John Millikin, who, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he removed on to the Mississippi river, eighteen miles above the Walnut hills by computation, and forty-five below the place then known by the name of Stock Island lake, (now called lake Providence,) in March, eighteen hundred and ten, and has continued to cultivate on said place ever since; and that, in the capacity of a militia officer, since the organization of the militia in that place, he thinks he knows every settler on lake Providence and the river, from the Walnut hills to the thirty-third degree of north latitude; and that, in the fall of eighteen hundred and thirteen, he, at the request of Anthony Glass and most of the settlers there and on the river, surveyed and made plats of the places of most of the settlers, as will be seen on application at the Land Office at Opelousas, and that he has no recollection of James Floyd or William Colfield, nor has any such names ever been enrolled in the battalion, nor has he known of any men living or settling on the river or Stock Island lake, now called lake Providence, of the above names, or William Saunders, having lived there. The deponent knoweth that William Collins, the son of Charles Collins, deceased, lived on a place granted to said Charles, deceased, six miles above the Walnut hills, from the year eighteen hundred and ten until some time in eighteen hundred and fourteen, when, on an order for a draft, he removed with his family to lake Providence, as said by his neighbors to avoid the draft. That, in said year, on an order from General Thomas Barker, or accompanied with an order from Colonel William Willis, then said deponent's senior officer, he went to lake Providence to raise and send on all the men that could be spared, where he saw said Collins in the house of James Estill, where he stayed, as this deponent believes, until the ensuing May, when he passed down the river by the dwelling of this deponent, and went up the Yazoo to Charles Collins, Jun., his brother, who had a Choctaw wife, where he shortly died, as this deponent was informed and verily believes. That, in 1813, September or October, when this deponent was at Stock Island, he knows of a Mrs. Fruit on the river, one mile below the mouth of Stock Island lake, and on the lake, Hugh White, Samuel White, Herbert Hood, two or three of the name of Dempsey, and William Barker, who raised corn, &c. in that year; and, further, he perfectly recollects that, on requesting Glass, and those for whom he surveyed, the name to be set on the plats, that, on a consultation, it was agreed to call the place lake Providence; and that, until that time, the citizens of the parish called it Stock Island lake, and believes it was so known to all passers of the river; and further this deponent saith not.

JOHN MILLIKIN.

Sworn to, and subscribed at Ouachita, the 30th December, 1820, before me,

D. J. SUTTON, Register.

DEAR SIR:

OPELOUSAS, January 1, 1821.

Your favor of the 25th ultimo was handed to me yesterday evening by Mr. Graham. I highly appreciate your laudable vigilance to detect and prevent a most disgraceful scene of speculation, which I find has extended itself to every district in which the law of May last could have effect. I might, I have no doubt, have received several hundred entries under the law; but, perfectly understanding the language of it, and entertaining no doubt as to its spirit, I have refused to receive either original entries or additional testimony, in all cases which had not for their basis some concession from the Spanish Government. I have been urged to receive the commandant's requêtes; but, knowing with what facility they may be obtained, and being confident it could not have been the intention of Congress to regard them as concessions, I have refused them in every case. The consequence has been, that I have only taken about seventy-five entries under the late law, the privileges of entering under which expired yesterday evening.

When I come to sum up I believe I shall find that much more than half the land claimed under the late law is claimed under fraudulent and counterfeit documents. I could not refuse them; indeed, I did not wish to refuse them; it was best to take them out of circulation; but I know very well how to dispose of them.

No attempt has been made to establish at this office any Concordia claims entered under former laws; and, if there had been attempts, they must have failed, unless genuine Spanish concessions could have been produced.

Your friend,

LEV. M. WAILES.

Major JOHN MILLIKIN.

SIR:

PARISH CONCORDIA, LOUISIANA, February 1, 1821.

Being one amongst a great number who have made small purchases of lands coming under the law granting pre-emptions to actual settlers in Louisiana at or previous to 1814, I thought it prudent to go to Ouachita at the time prescribed by law for closing the office, when, to my astonishment, I was peremptorily and positively refused a sight of the records and entries, though previously promised a transcript should be given me.

The enclosed paper, dated 14th December, 1820, purports to be a translation of a Spanish concession on lake Providence, which was granted in 1776: now, to my certain knowledge, lake Providence did not receive its name until the year 1813; then it was named by myself, and never known as such before.

I cannot shut my eyes to the danger myself and a great number of my neighbors, and the citizens of this parish, are exposed to; for, if one claim can be forged and sworn to, hundreds may be, and no doubt are; for I, from being an actual inhabitant for eleven years, believe that not one valid claim was left improved in the year 1813, as I then attended at Opelousas, and sought in every fair way to prove my claims. I could, however, find no such way; but two men offered their services to be my witnesses for one hundred dollars each; by those two men I could have proved my own claim, and, if necessary, a thousand others. Thus you can see what a system has been pursued to monopolize all the lands of this State.

I also enclose you the letter from L. M. Wailes, (the Register at Opelousas,) which will show you that my opinion is supported by his, in believing most of the claims recently entered and proved are forgeries; in fact I saw the former commandant sitting in the office.

From the above circumstances I hope you will not think me intrusive, when I request that (for the benefit of the claimants under the pre-emption law) you recommend no decisive measures in favor of claims recently proved and entered, until we, the actual settlers, may be heard in the way you may think best; or, that you sanction no claims covering pre-emptions inhabited at or since the year 1814.

Not having the honor of an acquaintance with the members in Congress from my own State, I refer you to the delegation from the State of Mississippi.

I have the honor to be, most respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN MILLIKIN.

JOSIAH MEIGS, Esq., General Land Commissioner.

Translation of the concession to the Baron de Bastrop, in the words and figures following, to wit:

JUNE 21, 1796.

Considering the advantages which must result from the settlement projected by the Baron de Bastrop, the commandant of Ouachita, Don Juan Filhiol, shall designate a square of twelve leagues, one-half on the side of the bayou Siard, and one-half on the side fronting the river Ouachita, to collocate on said land the families which were directed by said Baron on that spot, it being well understood that no concession to any family shall be no less than four hundred superficial arpents of land, being gratis and free from all taxes, the principal object of that settlement being exclusively the culture of wheat.

The exportation of the produce of this province being free of duties, the petitioner shall undoubtedly be permitted to export all the flour coming from the mills of the Ouachita to the Havana, and all other posts designated for the free trade of this province.

The Government shall take charge of the conducting of the families from New Madrid to the Ouachita, and they shall be furnished with a sufficient quantity of provisions for their wants during the space of six months, and in proportion of their seed time; no one shall be molested for religious matters; and the Catholic Apostolic Roman religion shall be publicly permitted; and said petitioner shall be permitted to direct to said settlement families to the number of five hundred.

At the expiration of three years, the establishment not proving to be settled in its greatest part, the said twelve leagues in square designated for the families to be directed there by the petitioner, shall be taken possession of by the families presenting themselves the first.

Ibid: To the Baron de Bastrop, with due regard of the advantages which must result to the population of the Ouachita, and to the province in general, from the encouragement of the culture of wheat, and from the construction of mills, which the petitioner is in the intention of establishing at his own expenses, I do hereby grant, in the name of His Majesty, and by the powers vested in me, permission of surrounding the bayou Siard, on which are to be established the mills, with a dike, in the place the most convenient for his works; equally I grant to him the exclusive enjoyment of six toises of land on each side of the bayou Siard, from its origin to its discharge, to enable said petitioner to execute the works and dikes necessary to his mills: it being well understood that no clause in this concession shall be so construed as to prevent the free navigation of the said bayou to all the inhabitants who may be in need of using the same, who, notwithstanding, shall not have the right of erecting any bridge, nor embarrassing the navigation, which forever must be free and expeditious, under the conditions before expressed: and the mills deemed convenient being constructed, the petitioner shall dispose of said mills and of all the adjacent ground, as property entirely of his own, by virtue of the present decree; and for its better confirmation, proceedings of survey shall be had, which shall be transmitted to me by the commandant, Don Juan Filhiol, to furnish the interested with a corresponding title in due form: it being the formal and express condition of this concession, that at least one mill shall be constructed within the space of two years, otherwise the same to be null.

I do hereby certify the foregoing and translation of the same to be true and correct, said copy taken from an original entry in the book before described, and making part of the Spanish documents relative to land grants now deposited in this office.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, at the city of New Orleans, this eighth day of September, in the year of our Lord 1821, and in the 46th year of American independence.

CHARLES APPE, Clerk and translator Land Office East Dis.

N. B. The original itself being defective in some parts the translation of course must suffer.

CHARLES APPE.

Names of proprietors of land on Bayou de Siard who would be unjustly disturbed in the quiet possession of their property should Bastrop's claim to six toises on both sides of the bayou be confirmed.

This grant to Bastrop was revoked by the Spanish Government, the settlers there having presented then a petition to the proper authorities, showing how injurious to the settlement, and how unjust such concession would be. Bastrop never made, nor never could erect, water grist mills on that bayou, and this was one of the peremptory conditions of that grant.

Among these owners there are now thirty-six heads of families settled on this land. The United States' lands there are very rich, but will not be worth surveying if the claim of six toises is confirmed to Bastrop. That land would do better to be surveyed in tracts of about forty acres deep, as on the Ouachita river and Mississippi. Having made the foregoing statement altogether from memory, I might have made some slight errors, but I give it as being generally correct.

No. 369.

[2d Session.]

INDIAN GRANT TO CAPTAIN CARVER.

COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE, JANUARY 23, 1823.

Mr. VAN DYKE, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the petition of Samuel Harrison, agent for the heirs of Captain Jonathan Carver, praying for the recognition and confirmation of an Indian deed for a large tract of land near St. Anthony's Fall, on the Mississippi; and, also, the petition of the Rev. Samuel Peters, L. L. D., who claims said tract of land as assignee of the heirs of said Captain Carver, and prays that he may be permitted to take possession of the same, reported:

The petitioners state that Captain Jonathan Carver, in the year 1766, took a long tour among the Indian tribes, two hundred miles west of the Fall of St. Anthony, in the Mississippi, and made important discoveries during his travels and residence of two years and five months with various Indian tribes, which he caused to be printed and published in London, in 1773.

That, by his conciliatory manners, he gained the good-will of the Indian tribes, and became the peace-maker between two large nations who were at war; and, to reward him for his wisdom and friendly interposition, the sachems of the Naudowissies were pleased to grant, and accordingly gave to him and his heirs, a deed for a tract of land therein specially described, dated at the Great Cave, May the 1st, 1767; that the chief of said tribe made him a chief of their tribe on the same day, and he then engaged to return and settle in said territory with his family and connexions. (An alleged copy of said deed is inserted in the first mentioned petition.) That Captain Jonathan Carver afterwards returned to Boston, and sailed for London, where he arrived in the year 1769, and soon after laid his deed before the British Government, praying for the confirmation of it, and received for an answer that it should be confirmed as soon as the history of his travels was printed and published. But in consequence of the misunderstanding which existed between Great Britain and America, the ratification of the deed was suspended. That Captain Jonathan Carver died in London, January 31st, 1780, leaving a numerous progeny; and, by the establishment of the independence of America, the right to ratify Indian grants devolved upon the Government of the United States.

The Rev. Samuel Peters in his petition further states that Lefei, the present Emperor of the Sioux and Naudowissies, and Redwing, a sachem, the heirs and successors of the two grand chiefs who signed the said deed to Captain Carver, have given satisfactory and positive proof that they allowed their ancestors' deed to be genuine, good, and valid, and that Captain Carver's heirs and assigns are the owners of said territory, and may occupy it free of all molestation.

The committee have examined and considered the claim thus exhibited by the petitioners, and remark that the original deed is not produced, nor any competent legal evidence offered of its execution; nor is there any proof that the persons who it is alleged made the deed were the chiefs of said tribe, nor that (if chiefs) they had authority to grant and give away the land belonging to their tribe. The paper annexed to the petition, as a copy of said deed, has no subscribing witnesses, and it would seem impossible, at this remote period, to ascertain the important fact, that the persons who signed the deed comprehended and understood the meaning and effect of their act.

The want of proof as to these facts would interpose in the way of the claimants insuperable difficulties. But, in the opinion of the committee, the claim is not such as the United States are under any obligation to allow, even if the deed were proved in legal form.

The British Government, before the time when the alleged deed bears date, had deemed it prudent and necessary, for the preservation of peace with the Indian tribes under their sovereignty, protection, and dominion, to prevent British subjects from purchasing lands from the Indians; and this rule of policy was made known and enforced by the proclamation of the King of Great Britain of 7th October, 1763, which contains an express prohibition.

Captain Carver, aware of the law, and knowing that such a contract could not vest the legal title in him, applied to the British Government to ratify and confirm the Indian grant, and though it was competent for that Government then to confirm the grant, and vest the title of said land in him, yet, from some cause, that Government did not think proper to do so. The territory has since become the property of the United States, and an Indian grant not good against the British Government would appear to be not binding upon the United States' Government. What benefit the British Government derived from the services of Captain Carver by his travels and residence among the Indians, that Government alone could determine, and alone could judge what remuneration those services deserved.

One fact appears from the declaration of Mr. Peters, in his statement in writing among the papers exhibited, namely, that the British Government did give Captain Carver the sum of one thousand three hundred and seventy-five pounds six shillings and eight pence sterling. To the United States, however, Captain Carver rendered no service which could be assumed as an equitable ground for the support of the petitioners' claim.

The committee, being of opinion that the United States are not bound, in law or equity, to confirm the said alleged Indian grant, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted.

MONEYS ARISING FROM THE SALE OF PUBLIC LANDS GRANTED TO THE NEW STATES TO AID IN OPENING ROADS AND CANALS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 27, 1823.

SIR:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, January 27, 1823.

In obedience to a resolution of the House of Representatives, of the 3d instant, directing the Secretary of the Treasury to furnish the House "with a statement of the several amounts which have arisen from the sales of public lands within the States of Ohio, Indiana, Mississippi, Illinois, Alabama, and Missouri, appropriated by law for opening roads and canals leading to said States, which has been paid, or is due, to each of said States, appropriated by law for opening roads and canals within the same," I have the honor to transmit two statements, marked A and B, which contain the information required by the resolution.

By the latter statement it appears that there has been paid to the State of Ohio $5,864 47 more than the net proceeds of the three per cent. fund appropriated by law for opening roads and canals within the State. Upon examination it has been found that, in ascertaining the net proceeds of the sales of public lands, the expenses of surveying the same had not been deducted from the amount of sales. This error has been corrected in the statement marked A, which has produced a balance against that State, which will be deducted from the amount of the said fund that may accumulate during the present year.

I remain, with respect, your most obedient servant,

WM. H. CRAWFORD.

APPLICATION FOR THE REMISSION OF A FORFEITURE.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 28, 1823.

Mr. RANKIN, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the petition of Alexander Macomb, reported:

Previously to the adoption of the system now in existence, in relation to the mode of disposing of the public land, Congress, by a resolution of the 1st of April, 1787, directed the Board of Treasury, after drawing for a quantity of lands assigned to the army of the revolution, to expose the residue of a tract of country now within the State of Ohio, at public auction, giving notice of such sale in at least one newspaper in each State for five months anterior to the time of sale. One-third of the purchase money, by that resolution, was required to be paid immediately in any of the public securities of the United States, to the Treasurer of said States; and the remaining two-thirds in like manner, to be paid in three months after the date of the sale. A condition of the sale, of which public notice was also given, was, that, if the remaining two-thirds was not paid within the time prescribed, the first payment was declared to be forfeited, and the land directed to be again exposed to sale. In pursuance of this resolution a quantity of land was sold at the coffee-house, in the city of New York, between the 21st of September and 9th of October, 1787, when Messrs. Macomb and Edgar became the purchasers of the quantity of 35,457 acres for the sum of \$88,764 39-90ths, of which they immediately paid, in the public securities, one-third, amounting to about the sum of \$29,782 65 $\frac{1}{2}$, agreeably to the conditions of the sale. The remaining two-thirds of the purchase money was never paid, in consequence of which the one-third paid was forfeited, and the land reverted to the United States. The object of this application to Congress is to have the one-third forfeited restored in any way the most agreeable to the National Legislature. In support of this application, without denying the right to exact the forfeiture, restoration is urged on two grounds. First, the Government, the petitioner alleges, was benefited by the forfeiture, inasmuch as the land, after it had reverted, sold for a much greater sum than had been stipulated to be paid by Macomb and Edgar. Secondly, their inability to complete the payments arose from their having expended the means of making the payment in building a ship for the China trade, by which the Government received upwards of \$200,000 in revenue at a time when it was much wanted to meet public demands.

The quantity of land purchased by two individuals shows that the intention was to speculate in Western lands, and the statement of the petition, that the failure to meet the payments arose from a desire also to enjoy the profits of the China trade. Grasping at too much they failed in the intended speculation. This class of cases appeals much less forcibly to the generosity of Congress than another, for which no remedy has been heretofore provided: cases where individuals have purchased with a view to settlement, to procure a residence for old age, and a patrimony for their offspring, and whose forfeitures have arisen, not from an attempt to employ their capital more advantageously in other pursuits, but from those vicissitudes in human affairs that can neither be foreseen nor avoided—the acts of an overruling Providence, or a devotion to the service of their country. Fortunately for the Government the land sold higher at the second sale than the first. Had it sold for less the United States must have sustained the loss; and it is not probable the petitioner would have felt himself under any obligation to have made up the deficiency. It is also true the Government has received money for which Macomb and Edgar have received no equivalent; but this, independent of a rigid exaction of the terms of the contract, can be considered nothing more than a compensation for the risk and delay attending a second sale, and a remuneration for the actual expense attending such first and second sale. All cases of forfeited recognizances, bonds, &c., are cases where the individual receives no equivalent; but it would be dangerous to say in all such cases the money shall be restored. Your committee can see nothing, either in the nature of this purchase, or the reasons assigned for a failure to comply with the reasonable and well known conditions of the sale, which entitles the petitioner to the interposition of Congress in his favor. We, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner ought not to be granted.

CHEROKEE RESERVATIONS IN ALABAMA.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, ON THE 28TH OF JANUARY, 1823.

Mr. RANKIN, from the Committee on the Public Lands, to whom was referred the petitions of William Wilson, Andrew Lacy, Amos Robertson, Conelsky, John McNary, and Joseph Elliot, formerly of the Cherokee nation of Indians, but now within the State of Alabama, praying that certain reservations of land made by treaty to them for life, and in fee simple to their heirs, be vested in the present possessors in fee simple, reported:

Heretofore, humanity has in vain extended her hand to rescue from annihilation whole nations, aborigines of this country. As we have increased they have diminished; and while they have disregarded or avoided our arts of civilization, they have seized our vices with avidity, by which they have wasted away until the very names of nations, once powerful, are now scarcely recollected or known. While thus gradually disappearing, they have, at all times, since the discovery of this country, been abundantly supplied with missionaries, zealous in the work of humanity and religion, who have constantly presented the most flattering pictures of their success in civilization and christianizing them. A single question, the answer to which every one is prepared to make, presents a most melancholy commentary on these reports of success. Where have been, where are these subjects, trophies of your victories over ignorance, cruelty, superstition, and barbarism? Experience has long since proclaimed, in language too strong to be disregarded, the almost total inefficiency of the measures heretofore adopted for the civilization of the Indians, and most strongly indicated the necessity of adopting a different policy. Reason unites with experience on this subject. If the wilderness converts to savages our own people, in defiance of early habits, and their having been reared and educated in the bosom of civilized society, can we expect in such a place to change the man, by nature, education, and habit, a savage? Mere occupancy, without the power of disposing of it, is too slender a hold on property to render its acquisition desirable. Custom, the established common law of some Indian nations, deprives the parent of the power of transmitting to his own offspring, when he is torn from them by death, any property, real or personal, he owned while living. Such things necessarily paralyze the arm of industry. The example one individual presents to another in society, and an honorable competition in the accumulation of property, is also a powerful stimulus to industry. This stimulus can never be felt in the bosom of the savage who has no example of industry to imitate, no competition in the pursuit of wealth, no paternal feelings to gratify in providing a competency for his children, but whose habitation is the wilderness, and his farm the chase. The only instances among Indians of a desire to accumulate property, and to progress in civilization, are found connected with ideas of separate property received from our people who have settled among them, and formed matrimonial connexions with them. The commissioners who formed the treaties by which these reservations were made, appear to have viewed the impossibility of civilizing Indians while permitted to roam through an extensive wilderness without any of the inducements to industry which spring from separate property, as demonstrated by experience, and intending to stimulate them to industry by the example of our own citizens and the security of their property; to teach them the arts of civilization, and preserve them from that destruction which has attended other nations, made these reservations for the benefit of the Indians. To those attached to his manner of living, and to the Indian himself, the condition that he shall forfeit his land if he abandons it, is disagreeable; but the inconvenience will be much less to their children, educated with different habits, than to the original possessor. But if permitted to alien these estates, is it not highly probable that both would return and sink into the savage state? Your committee are not prepared to say, until it is at least tested by experience, that this new course of policy, adopted by the commissioners making these reservations, is founded in error; but, on the contrary, we believe that a correspondent policy, adopted by the States interested, would lead to an early extinguishment of the community of Indian title, and more effectually lead to their civilization than any measures which could be adopted. Nor are we prepared, at this time, to say that it is within the scope of the powers of Congress to enlarge the life estate of the present possessor, so as to defeat the fee simple right already vested in the heirs.

From a careful examination of this subject the committee have agreed to recommend to the House the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioners have leave to withdraw their several petitions and accompanying documents.

CLAIM TO LAND IN MISSISSIPPI.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 31, 1823.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, made the following report:

The Committee on Private Land Claims, to whom were referred the petition and accompanying documents of Joseph Vidal, have had the same under consideration, and report:

The petitioner claims three tracts of land, situated in the State of Mississippi, by virtue of orders and warrants of survey, bearing date while the Spanish Government existed, in what was called the district of Natchez, one in the name of Margaretta Thompson, for one thousand arpents, one in the name of Jacintha Gallagher, for one thousand arpents, and one in the name of Thomas Thompson, for eight hundred arpents. The petitioner states that, at the time the Board of Commissioners appointed to adjust land titles was in session, he and his family were in Europe, which prevented the exhibition of the proofs necessary to authorize a confirmation of his claims, wherefore he now prays the passage of an act for that purpose.

It appears, from a certified copy of the record kept by the Board of Commissioners, that, on the 26th day of March, 1806, Margaretta Thompson claimed one thousand arpents, situate on the waters of bayou Pierre, in Claiborne county, by virtue of a Spanish patent, dated the 2d day of December, 1797, founded on a warrant or order of survey, dated the 15th day of January, 1795.

The representatives of Jacintha Vidal claimed one thousand arpents, on the same waters, by virtue of a Spanish patent to Jacintha Gallagher, dated the 2d day of December, 1797, founded on a warrant or order of survey, dated the 25th of March, 1794.

About the same time Thomas Thompson claimed eight hundred arpents, situated on the same waters, and produced in support of his claim a Spanish patent, dated the 2d day of December, 1797, founded on a warrant or order of survey, dated the — day of March, 1795.

The Board disallowed these claims for the want of sufficient evidence, and on suspicion of their being antedated.

Such documents are on file as are mentioned in minutes from the record of the Board of Commissioners.

George Overaker swears that he knew Thomas Thompson, in the district of Natchez, in the year 1793; knows that he resided there until the year 1802 or 1803, when he died; does not doubt he was a resident there on the 27th day of October, 1795. He swears the same in regard to Jacintha Gallagher, except that she died in 1801. He also swears that he knew Margaretta Gallagher, and believes she resided in that district from 1795 to 1801.

Lewis Evans swears that what George Overaker has stated is true, except that Thomas Thompson died in 1804.

John Minor swears that, in 1790 or 1791, he was acquainted with Thomas Thompson, Jacintha and Margaretta Gallagher, in the district of Natchez, where they continued to live until about the year 1800.

The Hon. T. H. Williams, of the Senate, who was a member of the Board of Commissioners, states that the petitioner was in Spain at the time the board was in session, and did not, it is believed, return to the Mississippi Territory until after its dissolution.

Mr. Williams further states, that an opinion having prevailed that the Spanish Government had issued a number of antecedent titles to lands in the Mississippi Territory, Congress, by the 3d section of the act passed the 27th March, 1804, (see L. L., p. 259,) authorized the commissioners to lay the claimants under a rule to produce other evidence than the grant itself in support of their titles. It must be remembered that, by the act of the 3d of March, 1803, (see L. L., p. 254,) every person on that day occupying a tract of land without a title, was allowed a right of pre-emption. These squatters, as they are called, frequently settled on lands granted by the Spanish Government, and must, of course, feel interested in defeating them. Vidal's claims were impeached, and it is probable there were persons settled on the lands he claimed; the commissioners, in such cases, laid the parties under a rule to prove the time the surveys were made. If they refused to comply with this order, (and most of them did refuse or neglect to do so,) the commissioners were "not satisfied" that the grants were genuine.

The first act for adjusting titles to lands in the Mississippi Territory, was passed the 3d of March, 1803; (see L. L., p. 254;) the first section was intended to confirm titles to lands inhabited and cultivated on the 27th of October, 1795, and for which the claimants held British or Spanish warrants or orders of survey, bearing date prior to that period. The board was not furnished with proof of habitation and cultivation on that day.

By the fourth section of an act passed the 31st of March, 1808, (see L. L., p. 264,) the Registers of the Land Offices east and west of Pearl river were required to report to the Secretary of the Treasury all the claims of certain persons to lands in the Mississippi Territory, founded on British or Spanish warrants or orders of survey, granted prior to the 27th of November, 1795, not confirmed by former laws. The reports made in pursuance of this provision were laid before Congress; and, on the 30th of June, 1812, an act was passed (see L. L., p. 268,) confirming to every person, or the legal representatives of every person, claiming lands in the Mississippi Territory, by virtue of a British or Spanish warrant or order of survey, granted prior to the 27th October, 1795, and who were, on that day, resident in that district of country. By this act proof of habitation and cultivation of the land claimed is not deemed indispensable; and no person, whatever might have been the extent of his claim, was confirmed in his title to a greater quantity of land than 640 acres.

The proof that the persons under whom the petitioner claims were residents in the district of Natchez on the 27th of November, 1795, is deemed, by the committee, satisfactory; nor have they reason to doubt the genuineness of the warrants or orders of survey.

The charge of antedating appears not to be well founded. If a fraud of this kind had been attempted, it is a little extraordinary that an earlier day had not been assumed, particularly in regard to the patents: these bear date subsequent to the treaty, though about the time the surrender of the country took place. It is not contended the instruments called patents possess complete validity; yet, to say the Spanish officers who granted them were actuated by criminal motives, would be to intimate a total want of circumspection on their part. It would have been just as easy for them to have used a date, when their jurisdiction could not be questioned, as any other.

Joseph Vidal furnishes no proof of his having any claim to the lands in question. It has been stated he was the husband of Jacintha Vidal, and that he is her legal representative.

A bill is herewith reported for the relief of the legal representatives of the persons in whose right the petitioner claims.

APPLICATION OF THE UNITED BRETHREN TO BE DIVESTED OF THE TRUST ESTATE OF THE LANDS CONVEYED FOR THE BENEFIT OF CERTAIN CHRISTIAN INDIANS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE, FEBRUARY 7, 1823.

Mr. VAN DYKE, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the memorial of Lewis D. De Schweenitz, agent of the Society of United Brethren for propagating the Gospel among the Heathen, expressing the earnest wish of these ciety to be divested of the trust estate of certain lands on the Muskingum, in the State of Ohio, which were granted and conveyed to the said society by the United States, by patent, bearing date the 24th day of February, 1798, reported:

That, on inquiry, the committee have ascertained that some of the Indians, (say twenty,) for whose use and benefit the grant of lands abovementioned was made to the said Society of United Brethren, yet live upon a part of the said lands, under the care of the society; and others of them, to the number of about one hundred and fifty persons, remain at Fairfield, in Canada, under the care of two pious missionaries of said society. It is, therefore, apparent, that the trust created by the said patent has not yet expired, and will not expire, so long as any of the persons, for whose benefit it was created, shall remain. The rules of law governing trust estates, prohibit the trustee from doing any act that will defeat the object intended by its creation; and it is not in the power of the trustee to put an end to the trust at his pleasure. If he grant the estate to another, the grantee must take it clothed with all the equity of the trust, and thus become himself a trustee. No act of the said society can divest the right of the Indians, for whose benefit the land was granted. The United States having granted the lands without limitation, and without reserving the right of revoking the grant, upon any condition, or on the happening of any event, the committee are of opinion that, under existing circumstances, Congress does not possess any power to legislate upon the subject, and, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the committee be discharged from the further consideration of the said memorial.

LAND CLAIMS IN FLORIDA.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, BY THE CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC LANDS,
With a bill for ascertaining claims and titles to lands in Florida, February 10, 1823.

[TRANSLATION.]

PETITION OF F. M. ARREDONDO.

SEÑOR GOVERNOR:

ST. AUGUSTINE OF FLORIDA, 17th February, 1820.

I, Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, Jun., an inhabitant of this city, with due respect to your lordship, say that, to be on my guard in the case of the cession of this province to the United States happening to take effect, and to have a safeguard to oppose to any claim which, under the pretext of ancient titles, might be attempted by English subjects upon any of the various lands which have been granted to me, although by their emigration they lost all their right, your lordship would be pleased to aid me, by ordering that, by the notary of the Government, testimony in continuation be authorized of the third article of the definitive treaty of peace between the Crown of Spain and that of England, signed at Versailles, on the twentieth of January, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-three, and the official letter of prolongation for the emigration of the English subjects; which documents are collected in evidence to the acts of inventory of bargain and sale of the houses and grounds which reverted to the royal patrimony at the time of the English having evacuated this province, by their owners having left them pro derelicto. That there be also authorized the testimony of the fourth article of the edict of good government, published in this place on the 2d of September, 1790, relative to the royal order of 5th April, 1786, upon the remaining, in this said province, of the English inhabitants, under the indispensable condition of taking the oath of fidelity: which royal order, which is in the office of the Secretary of the Government, I pray you to be pleased also to order to be delivered to the said notary, that he may legalize testimony from it, and that the whole proceeding may be lodged in the public office, and that testimony of the whole process may be furnished to me. Therefore, I pray your lordship to be pleased to decree as I request; which favor I expect from your justice.

F. M. ARREDONDO.

DECREE.

ST. AUGUSTINE, February 17, 1820.

In every thing as is requested.
 Before me,

COPPINGER.

JUAN DE ENTRALGO, Notary of Government.

NOTIFICATION.

At St. Augustine, on the same day, month, and year, I notified the preceding decree to Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, Jun., attested, Entralgo. In compliance with the command, and at sight of the definitive treaty of peace made at Versailles the 20th January, 1783, which was approved in Spain by the King, our lord, I copy literally the third article, which, with the said approval and official letter of prolongation aforesaid, is as follows:

ARTICLE 3. His Britannic Majesty shall cede to His Catholic Majesty East Florida, and His Catholic Majesty shall keep East Florida, it being well understood that there shall be granted to the subjects of His Britannic Majesty, who are established, as well in the island of Minorca as in the two Floridas, the term of eighteen months, which shall be counted from the day of the ratification of the definitive treaty, to sell their property, recover their debts, and transport their effects and persons, without molestation on account of their religion, or under any other pretext whatsoever, excepting that of debts or criminal causes: and His Britannic Majesty shall have the power of causing to be transported from East Florida all the effects which may belong to him, whether artillery or any others whatsoever. Don Carlos, by the grace of God, King of Castille, Leon, Arragon, the Two Sicilies, Jerusalem, Navarre, Granada, Toledo, Valencia, Galicia, Majorca, Seville, Cerdena, Cordova, Corcega, Murcia, Jaen, the Algarves, Algesiras, Gibraltar, the Canary islands, the East and West Indies, the islands and continent of the ocean, Archduke of Austria, Duke of Borgona, Brabant, and Milan, Count of Absburg, Flanders, Tyrol, and Barcelona, Lord of Biscay, and of Molina, &c. Whereas, in consequence of the preliminary articles of peace between my Crown and that of England, signed at Versailles the 20th of January, of this year, by the Count of Aranda, my ambassador to the Most Christian King, with my full powers, and by Don Alcine Fitz Herbert, minister plenipotentiary of the King of Great Britain, of which ratifications made by me and by His Britannic Majesty, were afterwards exchanged in due form, the same Count of Aranda, on my part, and, on that of His Britannic Majesty, the Duke of Manchester, ambassador to the Most Christian King, and his plenipotentiary, have labored and brought to a happy conclusion the definitive treaty of peace, which consists of a preamble and twelve articles, with other two separate articles, all in the French tongue, the contents of which, with its translation into Spanish, is of the following tenor. [Here was inserted the treaty.] Wherefore, having seen and examined the before inserted definitive treaty, the twelve articles which it contains, and the two separate ones which follow it, I have come to approve and ratify what it and they contain, as in virtue of these presents I approve and ratify it in the greatest and most ample form that I can, promising, on the faith and word of a King, to fulfil and observe it, and to cause it to be fulfilled and observed entirely, as if I myself had done and signed it. In faith of which, I have ordered these presents to be despatched, signed with my hand, sealed with my privy seal, and countersigned by the underwritten, my Counsellor of State, first Secretary of State and of Despatch. Given at Ildefonso, the twelfth of September, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-three.

I, THE KING.

JOSE MONINO.

OFFICIAL LETTER.

SIR:

At the moment of sailing for Vera Cruz, the 16th of this month, His Excellency Count de Galvez charged me to copy for you the royal order which he had just received, considering the delay with which his excellency could execute it if he waited to put it into execution from Mexico; in virtue of which I do it, the said royal order being of the tenor following:

ROYAL ORDER.

In consequence of what I have intimated to your excellency in the letter of the 24th of January last, the King has been pleased to prolong, by four months, the eighteen, stipulated in the definitive article of peace for the emigration of the English subjects who may be in West Florida. I communicate to your excellency this royal determination, that its fulfilment may be provided for. God preserve your excellency many years. The Pardo, seventh of February, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-five. Don José de Galvez. Senor Count de Galvez. God preserve you many years. Havana, the nineteenth of May, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-five. I kiss your hands, and am your most obedient servant, Bernardo Francoso. Senor Don Vicente Manuel de Zerpedes. Florida.

FOOTING.

It is agreeable to the documents cited, which have been delivered to me by the Governor and Commander General of this place, to whom I returned them; and in virtue of this decree I give these presents at St. Augustine, of Florida, the eighth of March, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-one. Signed, Domingo Rodriguez de Leon, notary of Government.

It is agreeable to the testimony of their originals, which are collected for the process instituted in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety, upon the sale of houses and lands which were abandoned and returned into the royal patrimony, in consequence of their English owners having emigrated, which process is in the archive under my charge, to which I refer; and, in fulfilment of the command in the decree preceding, I sign and seal these presents at St. Augustine, of Florida, the eighteenth of February, one thousand eight hundred and twenty. Signed, Juan de Entralgo, notary of Government.

ROYAL ORDER.

Of this date I communicate to the Captain General of both Floridas, Count de Galvez, the following royal order: At a council of the Board of State, and upon a view of what your excellency has expressed in a former letter, number fifty-six, and of the contents of the copy enclosed from the Governor of Louisiana, Don Estevan Miro, respecting the difficulties which occur, that the English and American families established at Baton Rouge, Mobile, Pensacola, and Natchez, may go from said provinces agreeably to the last treaty of peace, the King has been pleased to approve of the provision which your excellency has made with the said Governor, that no novelty should take place towards the said families; it being his royal will that the permission be continued to them of dwelling where they are established, on the condition that, for the present, and as indispensable circumstances, they take a solemn oath of fidelity and obedience to His Majesty, and that they go not out of the limits wherein they are actually situated without the power of going to other parts, not having an express license of the Government. That those who shall not comply with these just conditions, depart by sea for the colonies of North America at their expense, or, in defect of that, at the expense of the King, who shall be reimbursed from their effects, as far as possible. That this same concession be extended to the inhabitants of East Florida, as far as it may be adapted to it; and that in Natchez and other places of both Floridas, where it is convenient, parishes of Irish clergy be established, in order to bring said colonists and their children and families to our religion, with the sweetness and mildness which it advises. In order that this royal resolution may have due accomplishment, and the good success which His Majesty promises himself, it is necessary that your excellency (availing yourself of your own observations, and of those which the Governors Miro and Zerpedes may furnish you) form a plan or arrangement of the mode which should be pursued in the said parishes, with an expression of the number of clergymen who are to serve them; in an understanding that, under this date, I inform the bishop of Salamanca to cause, in the mean time, four to be chosen of known zeal, virtue, and learning, from those of that university, or any other part where he has them, and that this royal resolution be sent to the said Governors for their understanding and fulfilment. God, &c. Such is the order of His Majesty for the purpose therein expressed. God preserve you many years. The Pardo, fifth of April, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-six. The Marquis of Sonora. To the Governor of St. Augustine, of Florida.

DECREE.

St. Augustine, of Florida, twelfth of August, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-one. Let a copy of this royal order be taken in the royal office, and let the original be returned to the Department.

QUESADA.

NOTE.—That of the date of the preceding decree, a copy of this royal order, which remains in the office under my charge, and was returned to the office of the Government Secretary, was taken, according to the orders of the same decree.

GONZALO ZAMORANA.

It is agreeable to its original, which is in the Secretary's office of this Government, to which I refer; and, in fulfilment of orders, I seal and sign the present testimony at St. Augustine, of Florida, the eighteenth of February, one thousand eight hundred and twenty.

Sealed: JUAN DE ENTRALGO, Notary of Government.

FOURTH ARTICLE OF THE EDICT OF GOOD GOVERNMENT.

The King, our lord, by royal order of the 5th of April, 1786, grants to all the foreigners who may have been inhabitants of this province at the time of the English authority, that they may remain in it, protected in the possession of their land and effects, under the indispensable conditions of taking the oath of fidelity, of not augmenting the said lands, nor transferring themselves to any others. Consequently, all those who have not conformed, and do not conform to the said conditions, within thirty days, positively, by proceeding to show me their dispositions in person, or, if absent, by letters, to do what is proper, shall depart from this province aforesaid.

This is agreeable to the fourth article of the edict of good government, which is in the bureau of war, and was published in this place, with the usual formalities, on the 2d of September, 1790, by order of the political and military Governor thereof, as appears from the book of edicts which is in the archive under my charge, to which I refer; and, in fulfilment of orders, I seal and sign these presents, at St. Augustine, of Florida, the 18th of February, 1820. Sealed:

JUAN DE ENTRALGO, Notary of Government.

SURVEYS SINCE 1818.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, FEBRUARY 11, 1823.

SIR:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, February 11, 1823.

In obedience to a resolution of the House of Representatives, of the 17th ultimo, requiring the Secretary of the Treasury to lay before the House "a statement showing what contracts have been made by the several Surveyors General of Public Lands; for services performed since the 1st day of January, 1819; with whom made, and when; for what quantity to each; whether the surveys were actually made by the original contractors in person, or others under sub-contracts; if, by others, at what price per mile said surveys were performed; what price was stipulated to be paid per mile to each contractor; and whether the surveys have been faithfully executed;" I have the honor to transmit a statement from the office of the Register of the Treasury, and a report from the Commissioner of the General Land Office, which contain the information required by the resolution, as far as the records of the Department will admit.

I remain, with respect, your most obedient servant,

WM. H. CRAWFORD.

Hon. P. P. BARBOUR,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

SIR:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, GENERAL LAND OFFICE, January 27, 1823.

In obedience to the resolution of the House of Representatives, of the 17th instant, which has been referred to this office, I have the honor to state that there are no documents or records in the Land Office which will enable me to give the information required, except in answer to that part of the resolution which calls for a statement whether the surveys of the public lands have been faithfully executed. Neither the originals nor copies of contracts made by the Surveyors General of Public Lands have been deposited in the Land Office since the 1st of January, 1819. The accounts of the Surveyors General being left in another branch of the Treasury, I cannot state the prices charged for surveying by deputies; and, not having the contracts, I cannot say what compensation was stipulated to be paid. A careful examination has been made of the surveys returned since the 1st of January, 1819, and they are found, generally, to have been faithfully executed.

It may be proper, however, that I should particularly notice some surveys made under General Rector, in which there are greater deviations than usual from the cardinal points.

In all large surveys there will be greater or less deviations from the cardinal points, and these will increase or diminish the number of acres in the smaller tracts. The convexity of the earth, and the influence of minerals upon the magnetic needle, are among the principal causes of these deviations. In almost all the public surveys it is found that the northern and western tiers of sections in the different townships, contain either more or less than six hundred and forty acres. Although the law requires that each township shall contain thirty-six square miles, it provides that the excess and deficiency which may arise in the surveys shall be thrown on the north and west sides of the township.

The deviations above alluded to, in the surveys executed under General Rector, extend to about twenty-eight townships. These surveys have a diagonal shape, and the sections bordering on the fifth principal meridian, both east and west, contain, on an average, at least from ten to twelve hundred acres each. As General Rector was in the city it was deemed proper to ask him the reason why these surveys were thus executed. It appears that the error was made in the measurement of the fifth principal meridian drawn from the mouth of the Arkansas river. This line was run prior to 1819, and before General Rector was appointed Surveyor General. The township distances were intended to be marked at every six miles on this line, as also every mile for the sectional corners, and every half of a mile for the corners of quarter sections.

The mode of surveying the public lands requires, after the meridian line is run, to fix a base line east and west, and then to run parallel and standard lines at thirty miles distance from each other; surveys of townships and sections are then executed; the exterior lines of townships designate the different ranges. It may at once, therefore, be seen that the measurement on the above meridian line being too long, would cause a deviation from the cardinal points in running from the corners marked on it to similar corners on the parallel range line, which had been correctly measured.

This explanation must be satisfactory, as it accounts for the manner in which the above surveys have been made, without attaching blame to the Surveyor General.

Justice requires that I should further remark that it appears extensive surveys have been executed on each side of the above meridian, but not adjoining to it, before the discovery was made that it had been incorrectly measured. This being the case it was impossible to correct the error without re-surveying large districts of country. The sections bordering on the meridian, which contain an excess of acres, are divided into eighty acre lots, so that little or no inconvenience can arise to purchasers from the form of the surveys.

Believing it to be important that copies of contracts made by Surveyors General should be deposited in the Land Office, I have issued a circular to them, strictly requiring copies of all contracts, hereafter made with their deputies, to be forwarded without delay.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN McLEAN.

SIR:

GENERAL LAND OFFICE, July 20, 1818.

The Secretary of the Treasury is desirous of having lands prepared for sale in the county of Arkansas. You will, therefore, please to cause to be surveyed about sixty townships, and subdivided as usual. If this quantity of saleable lands cannot be found in one body, the subdivided townships may be connected by surveying the intermediate lands into townships only.

I am, &c.

JOSIAH MEIGS.

Sir:

GENERAL LAND OFFICE, December 23, 1818.

Your letter of the 9th, covering sketches of part of Missouri and Illinois, and instructions to your deputy for surveying South Missouri, was received some time ago, and laid before the Secretary of the Treasury, who returned them this day, without any remarks. Since the receipt of said letter, you were advised of a credit of twenty thousand dollars, with Receivers at Kaskaskia and Edwardsville. I am, &c.

JOSIAH MEIGS.

WILLIAM RECTOR, Esq., Surveyor General, St. Louis, Missouri.

Sir:

GENERAL LAND OFFICE, December 26, 1818.

I am gratified to know, by yours of the 30th November, that your surveys of military bounty lands, between the St. Francis and Arkansas, may be expected in a few days.

You have done rightly with respect to surveys in the districts of St. Louis and Howard county. Your estimate for your official expenses, in 1819, has been received and noticed. Your labors have been great, and I am happy to say that they have been performed with distinguished promptitude and fidelity.

I am, &c.

JOSIAH MEIGS.

WILLIAM RECTOR, Esq., Surveyor General, St. Louis, Missouri.

Sir:

SURVEYOR'S OFFICE FOR THE TERRITORIES OF ILLINOIS AND MISSOURI, }
St. Louis, August 24, 1818.

I received, by last mail, your letter of the 20th ultimo, in which you directed me to cause to be laid off, and subdivided into sections, &c., about sixty townships of land in the county of Arkansas. Since I received that letter, I have sent out to engage a sufficient number of the most experienced and judicious and enterprising deputy surveyors, four of whom I shall start, as soon as practicable, to survey some standard lines through different parts of the country, to explore the lands, to select the best and most saleable parts, and to lay off and survey the exterior boundaries of the whole of the sixty townships. As soon as I am apprized that these surveyors have made the necessary progress in this preliminary business, I will send a sufficient number of subdividing surveyors to do the whole work in a short time, so that I can calculate to have the sixty townships ready for market by the early part of next spring. The whole of the field work of the thirty townships in the district of Edwardsville has been completed, &c.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, REGISTER'S OFFICE, February 10, 1823.

JOSEPH NOURSE, Register.

SURVEYOR'S OFFICE FOR THE TERRITORIES OF

ILLINOIS AND MISSOURI, St. Louis, November 9, 1818.

SIR:

You will herewith receive a sketch of that part of the country of Arkansas, where I have, in conformity with the instructions contained in your letter of the 20th July last, made arrangements to survey and prepare for sale sixty, or perhaps eighty townships of land. I also transmit you copies of my contract with, and instructions to, Thomas Rector, whom I have employed to survey two Indian boundary lines, the base line, three standard lines, to explore that part of the country, to select the best and most saleable parts, to lay off the exterior boundary lines of all the townships to be subdivided, to assign to each deputy surveyor the number of townships which they have contracted with me to subdivide into sections, &c., and to superintend that business generally. He is well qualified to discharge the important duties assigned to him, being thoroughly acquainted both with the theory and practice of surveying public lands, and possessing a good constitution, enterprise, and integrity.

I am, &c.,

WM. RECTOR.

JOSIAH MEIGS, Esq., Commissioner General Land Office.

SIR:

SURVEYOR'S OFFICE, St. Louis, April 14, 1819.

You will receive, herewith, a sketch of the surveys which have lately been made, and which are now under operation, in the Territory of Arkansas. You will discover, from the sketch, that the townships which have been and are to be subdivided into sections, &c., embrace separate and detached tracts. This was done in conformity with the instructions which I gave to the deputy surveyor whom I employed to superintend, generally, the surveys in that quarter of the country, in order to include the best and most saleable lands, as well as the principal settlements. (See a copy of my instructions to Thomas Rector, heretofore transmitted to the General Land Office.) These townships do embrace the principal settlements, and, I believe, the largest bodies of fertile and saleable lands. There is, however, on Red river, and its waters, a considerable quantity of excellent lands, that is not embraced by these surveys, particularly river bottoms, which, in many places are wide, and free from inundations, and extremely rich, and would sell at a high price, which can be surveyed and prepared for sale, from time to time, as Government may be disposed to bring them into market. Several of the subdividing surveyors have already completed their work in the field, and, from information that I have received from the other deputy surveyors employed in that business, expect to receive returns of the whole of those surveys before the first of July next, so that these lands may be brought into market next fall; much of which, I am induced to believe, will sell for a good price.

I deem it unnecessary, at this time, to go into any thing like a particular description of the different parts of the country over which the standard and other lines have been surveyed, as I shall, as soon as I receive and examine the surveys, transmit to the General Land Office plats and descriptions of the whole, together with the report of the superintending deputy surveyor, who was instructed to examine and report the quality of the intermediate tracts of country. I will, however, remark, that Red river and its waters afford a much larger proportion of good saleable lands than any other part of that territory where we have yet surveyed or explored. That part of the country, too, is considered healthy, and extremely well adapted to the produce of cotton, as well as every thing else that grows well in the United States in the same latitude, which induces most of the emigrants to that Territory, who have any capital, to settle on those waters. Taking into consideration the situation of the surveys that have been made, and that will probably soon be made, and the quantity of the lands, and other natural advantages, possessed by the several parts of the Territory of Arkansas, I am of opinion that the land office to be established for the sale of those lands should be fixed somewhere in what is called Mount Prairie settlement, and I am informed that a place called the Saline Landing, in township No. 12, south of the base line, in range No. 27 or 28, west of the fifth principal meridian line, is the most suitable spot.

I am, &c.,

W. RECTOR.

JOSIAH MEIGS, Esq., Commissioner General Land Office.

No. 377.]

[2d SESSION.]

CLAIM OF THE NEW ENGLAND MISSISSIPPI LAND COMPANY.

COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE, FEBRUARY 11, 1823.

Mr. VAN BUREN, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the petition of Ebenezer Oliver and others, directors of an association called the "New England Mississippi Land Company," reported:

That, by an act of Congress, dated March 31, 1814, entitled "An act providing for the indemnification of certain claimants of public land in the Mississippi Territory," it is enacted that every person or persons claiming said lands, who have exhibited their claims to the Secretary of State, "shall be allowed, until the first Monday in January next, to deposite in the office of Secretary of State of the United States a sufficient legal release of all such claim or claims to the United States, and an assignment and transfer to the United States of their right and claim to any sum of money" paid into the Treasury of the State of Georgia as a consideration for the purchase of the land released, with a power to recover the same, "such release, assignment, transfer, and power, to take effect on indemnification of such claimants being made conformably to the provisions of this act."

And the Secretary of State, Secretary of the Treasury, and the Attorney General of the United States for the time being, were thereby constituted and appointed a Board of Commissioners, "and fully authorized and required to adjudge and determine upon the sufficiency of the release and assignments and powers to be executed and deposited in the office of Secretary of State; and, also, to adjudge and finally to determine upon all controversies arising from such claims so released as aforesaid, which may be found to conflict with, and be adverse to, each other; and, also, to adjudge and determine upon all such claims under the aforesaid act, or pretended act of the State of Georgia, as may be found to have accrued to the United States by operation of law."

By the act aforesaid the President was authorized and required to cause to be issued from the Treasury of the United States to such claimants, respectively, certificates of stock, payable out of the moneys arising from the sale of said public lands, and, among other companies, to the person claiming in the name or under the Georgia Mississippi Company, under the like terms and restrictions, a sum not exceeding, in the whole, one million five hundred and fifty thousand dollars; provided, that any person having claim under either of said companies, and entitled to indemnity by virtue of this act, shall receive such indemnity only in proportion to the amount of such claim."

By an act of Congress supplementary to the above, dated the 23d January, 1815, the President was authorized by and with the advice of the Senate, to appoint three fit and disinterested persons to be and act as commissioners, by virtue of the said first mentioned act, in the place of the public officers therein mentioned. The said persons were constituted and appointed a Board of Commissioners, which board was "declared to be intended to effect the same purposes and services as the said original board," and was thereby "authorized to execute all the powers granted to, and directed to perform all the duties enjoined upon the said original Board of Commissioners, according to the intent and provisions of the act aforesaid."

In pursuance of the said last mentioned act, Thomas Swann, Francis S. Key, and John Law, of the District of Columbia, were duly appointed commissioners to perform said service, and from the decree herewith exhibited, and from the case of Brown against Gilman, decided in the Supreme Court of the United States, and reported in the 4th volume of Wheaton's Reports, it doth appear that the Georgia Mississippi Company, mentioned in said act, sold and conveyed to certain persons in New England all the land which they had acquired by said act, or pretended act of the State of Georgia, estimated to contain eleven million three hundred and eighty thousand acres, at and after the rate of ten cents per acre, two cents of which were paid in money, and the residue by notes of the respective purchasers, payable in successive years, with approved endorsers. The deed of conveyance, in due form of law, was made, to the purchasers, and being placed in "escrow" for a short time, on payment of the money and reception of the notes, with endorsers satisfactory to the vendors, said deed was duly delivered to the purchasers who formed the association above mentioned, and conveyed their respective shares in said land to the trustees of the said New England Mississippi Land Company, who were authorized to issue negotiable certificates, or scrips, so called, declaring the possessors thereof to be entitled to the proceeds of the quantity of land therein mentioned. The said trustees of the New England Mississippi Land Company, and directors thereof, petitioners as aforesaid, in pursuance of said act of indemnification, made proper releases and assignments of all right and claim to said land and money in the Treasury of Georgia, to the United States, and deposited the same in the office of Secretary of State, as required by said act, and presented a claim for indemnification for the whole of said land, amounting, by said act, to one million five hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

The Georgia Mississippi Company, above named, presented a claim to said commissioners, for indemnification, to the amount of nine hundred and fifty-seven thousand six hundred acres, part of said land sold by them as aforesaid, equal to one hundred and thirty thousand four hundred and twenty-five dollars and twelve one-hundredths, say $130,425 12, in consequence of certain unpaid notes they possessed, given in part for the purchase of said land, amounting to ninety-five thousand seven hundred and sixty dollars, say $95,760, which claim of said Georgia Mississippi Company was opposed by said New England Company, none of which members were indebted on said notes, the sale of said land, by the said original purchasers or parties to said notes, having been made soon after they acquired the title as above, their assignees being members of the company. The said commissioners, however, adjudged and decreed that the said Georgia Mississippi Land Company, as vendors of said land (although no mortgage or special security was made or reserved thereon) had a just right or lien upon said quantity of land for which said unpaid notes were given. And the said commissioners accordingly did adjudge and assign, out of the said sum of one million five hundred and fifty thousand dollars, the sum of one hundred and thirty thousand four hundred and twenty-five dollars and twelve one-hundredths, say $130,425 12, to the said Georgia Mississippi Land Company, the largest portion of which, about three-fourths, as appears by the said decree of said commissioners, was adjudged to belong to the United States, who claimed under the said Georgia Mississippi Land Company, in virtue of shares therein surrendered to the State of Georgia, and by the act aforesaid reserved to the United States; and the United States, as appears by the said decree, now retain from said original sum, as representing shares of said Georgia Mississippi Land Company, a larger sum than the said one hundred and thirty thousand four hundred and twenty-five dollars and twelve one-hundredths, say $130,425 12, taken by said commissioners from the said New England Mississippi Land Company as aforesaid. It also appears, by the report of said commissioners herewith, that the said commissioners received in claims on said fund the certificates or scrip of divers persons, issued by the trustees of said New England Mississippi Land Company, to the amount of one-fourth part of the stock of said company, or thereabouts; said directors urged to said commissioners that persons who held their certificates, and were thereby members of the company, ought to resort to the trustees or treasurer for their share or dividend after the indemnification had been received by the treasurer. But the board considered that such certificate-holder might well apply to them for payment or satisfaction of their scrip in said company, deducting the reasonable proportion of the expenses of the company.

They also decreed that persons holding the scrip or certificate of said company, which were derived originally from the sales made by parties to said unpaid notes, had no claim whatever on said fund, and, in a distribution thereof, assigned to such certificate-holders, whose claim they allowed as above, their proportion of the company's funds, unincumbered by certificates derived originally from the parties to said notes as aforesaid.

It further appears, from the said case of Brown and Gilman, being a suit brought against said directors by the holder of one of the said certificates, which had issued from the title of the parties to said unpaid notes aforesaid, that the commissioners erred in pronouncing that there was any lien upon said land in consequence of said unpaid notes; and the said directors were adjudged liable to pay the same certificates which the commissioners had declared were not obligatory; and thus the said directors, the petitioners, who, by the proceedings of said commissioners, received only about three-fourths of the stock of the company, were held liable to pay, in the first instance, the whole sum of one hundred and thirty thousand four hundred and twenty-five dollars and twelve cents, $130,425 12.

It also appears that the commissioners were not informed of the laws of Georgia, which, similar to those of Massachusetts, do not allow any lien to the vendor of land without mortgage or special security; and the surviving commissioners, Messrs. Swann and Key, are now fully satisfied that the said award was erroneous.

On the above facts the petitioners have prayed that the aforesaid sum, erroneously withheld from them by said commissioners, may be granted to them, and, if not, that they may be re-invested in their title to said nine hundred and fifty-seven thousand six hundred acres; say nine hundred and fifty-seven thousand six hundred acres of land, for which they have received no indemnification, by an act declaring that the said release, executed by them to the United States, shall be inoperative as respects said quantity of land, and that the deeds and evidence of title which, in virtue of said act, have been deposited by said commissioners in said office of the Secretary of State, may be restored to them, or attested copies granted, allowing the same to have the force of originals in courts of the United States.

The committee are satisfied that the whole of said sum of one million five hundred and fifty thousand dollars ought, in strictness, to have been awarded to said directors of the New England Mississippi Land Company by said commissioners, but they apprehend that the above prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted, for the following reasons, viz:

The prayer of the petitioners, if granted, must be satisfied out of the moneys awarded by the commissioners to the Georgia Mississippi Land Company, and to the United States as assignees of such of the Georgia Mississippi Land Company as had surrendered under the act of Georgia.

The reference to the commissioners was, as has already been stated, "to adjudge and finally determine upon all controversies arising from such claims so released as aforesaid, which may be found to conflict with, and to be adverse to each other; and, also, to adjudge and determine upon all such claims under the aforesaid act, or pretended act, as may be found to have accrued to the United States by operation of law." The contemplated compensation was to extinguish a disputed claim which was made by the United States for the sake of peace; the submission was voluntarily entered into by the parties with full knowledge of the powers of the commissioners, the circumstance of their selection, the conclusiveness of their award, and their liability to err. If the mistake had been in favor of those who claim the fund, those who hold it would have been without redress. All that the United States were responsible for, was an honest discharge of their duties by the commissioners. That such has been the case is not controverted; and that being admitted, the committee are of opinion that the petitioners have no reason to complain if the award is suffered to remain as binding upon them as it necessarily was upon their adversaries.

Secondly. Independently of these considerations the trustees of the New England Mississippi Land Company are not, in the opinion of the committee, entitled to the relief they ask. They have lost their legal rights by the error of the commissioners, under the circumstances which have been stated, and their application now is to the equity of the Government, which can only be to relieve them from injustice. What is their equity? They ask money for lands for which they have never paid; they ask it at the expense of those who have. If, through the improvidence of those, from whom they purchased, they, before the submission and award, could, on strict legal principles, entitle themselves to what they now ask, it was their good fortune; but, having lost that legal advantage without fraud, they are without cause of complaint that it is not restored to them, for they have lost nothing to which they were in conscience entitled.

Thirdly. If the loss had fallen on those of the New England Mississippi Land Company who had not paid, or their immediate assignees, it is conceded that this application would be without merit. That it has fallen on others is on account of the terms of the original association, and the manner of transacting their business authorized by the trustees and those they represent, and can furnish no ground of claim against those who had no agency in that matter, and who are at least equally innocent.

Fourthly. If the grounds relied on by the committee for refusing the direct relief prayed for are well founded, they are equally valid against the prayer for the surrender of the release.

[2d Session.]

LANDS PURCHASED FROM THE INDIANS IN GEORGIA.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, FEBRUARY 17, 1823.

To the Senate of the United States:

FEBRUARY 14, 1823.

In compliance with a resolution of the Senate, of the 11th of this month, requesting the President to cause to be communicated to the Senate an estimate of the amount of land in the State of Georgia, to which the Indian title has been extinguished by the United States, since the cession of a portion of the territory of Georgia to the United States, with a statement of the cost of such extinguishment; and, also, an estimate of the amount of land within the said State to which the Indian title still remains to be extinguished, and by what tribes claimed, I transmit a report from the Secretary of War, which contains the information desired.

JAMES MONROE.

SIR:

DEPARTMENT OF WAR, February 13, 1823.

The Secretary of War, to whom was referred the resolution of the Senate, of the 11th instant, requesting the President of the United States "to cause to be laid before the Senate, as soon as may be, an estimate of the quantity of land in the State of Georgia, to which the Indian title has been extinguished by the United States, since the cession of a portion of the territory of Georgia to the United States, together with a statement of the cost of such extinguishment; and, also, an estimate of the quantity of land within said State, and by what tribes claimed, to which the Indian title still remains to be extinguished," has the honor to lay before the President the enclosed statement, marked A, which, with the accompanying statement of the Second Auditor, marked B, furnishes the information required by the resolution of the Senate, as far as it can be obtained at this Department.

All which is respectfully submitted.

J. C. CALHOUN.

To the PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

A.

DEPARTMENT OF WAR, February 13, 1823.

Statement showing the quantity of land in the State of Georgia to which the Indian title has been extinguished by the United States at various times, as far as it can be ascertained, since the articles of agreement and cession entered into between the United States and Georgia, the 24th April, 1802; showing, also, the quantity of land within said State, and by what tribes claimed, to which the Indian title still remains to be extinguished.

LAND CLAIMS IN LOUISIANA.

COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE, FEBRUARY 18, 1823.

Mr. VAN DYKE, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the petition of Elihu Hall Bay, for himself, and on behalf of Theodore Gaillard and Charles Roberts, of the State of South Carolina, reported:

The petitioners state that they presented their petition to the Senate on the 21st of January, 1820, setting forth that they were the holders and proprietors of sundry tracts of land in Louisiana, east of the island of New Orleans, and west of Pearl river, under grants from the former province of West Florida, and conveyances from sundry grantees, all made and duly perfected in due form of law, and which were regularly exhibited to, and recorded in the Register's office, established at St. Helena, in pursuance of the directions of the land act of the 25th of April, 1812. That the commissioner on behalf of the United States, James O. Cosby, Esq., did report to the Government that said grants were good and valid against the United States, as by their report filed in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, in the city of Washington, may appear. That said petition then prayed for a confirmation of the said titles, conformably to the reports of said J. O. Cosby, but no report was made thereon; and the petitioners now pray Congress to grant them a confirmation of their said claims so reported as aforesaid, as against the United States, reserving, however, to individuals any claim (if any there be) which they may have to the said lands, or any part thereof.

The committee, on examining the grants referred to in said petition as exhibited by the petitioners, find they were made under the authority of the British Government while the Territory of Florida was in possession of the said Government, and prior to the cession thereof to Spain. That the patents contain a number and variety of conditions, the performance of which is not attempted to be proved; but it is insisted that the estate vested and became absolute in the patentees notwithstanding those conditions. In the opinion of the committee the claims are peculiarly proper for investigation and decision in a court of law; and, as a bill has already been reported, and is now depending before the Senate, which is intended to provide for the trial of land claims in the State of Louisiana, whether derived from French, British, or Spanish, grants, the committee ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the said petition.

APPLICATION OF ALABAMA TO EXTINGUISH THE INDIAN TITLE TO LANDS WITHIN THAT STATE.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, FEBRUARY 19, 1823.

Mr. McLANE, from the Committee of Ways and Means, to whom was referred the memorial of the Legislature of the State of Alabama, requesting the adoption of measures for the extinguishment of the Indian title to certain lands within the said State, reported:

That they have duly considered the subject of the said memorial, and with the best disposition to promote the object of the memorialists, as far as it could be effected consistently with the public interest.

The committee having obtained from the Department of War all the information of which it was possessed in relation to this subject, are fully persuaded that it would be impracticable at present to conclude any treaty with the Cherokee Indians for the extinguishment of the title to their lands, upon terms compatible with the public interest; and they, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is inexpedient to take any measures at present for the extinguishment of the Indian title to lands within the State of Alabama.

SIR:

DEPARTMENT OF WAR, February 15, 1823.

I have received your letter of the 14th instant, enclosing a memorial of the Legislature of Alabama relative to the extinguishment of the Indian title in that State, and requesting me to communicate any information I may possess on the subject, particularly as to "the propriety of authorizing a treaty with the Cherokee Indians for the extinguishment of their title to the lands referred to in the memorial, the probability of the Cherokees concluding a treaty upon favorable terms, for the extinguishment of their title, and the sum which would be required to conclude and carry into effect any such treaty on the part of the United States."

The Department has no information upon the subject to which the memorial of the Legislature of Alabama relates; nor are there any other views, touching the propriety of authorizing a treaty with the Cherokees, which it can present to the committee, than those contained in that memorial.

The probability of concluding a treaty is very uncertain, as the Cherokees have, of late, manifested considerable reluctance to hold any more treaties for cessions of land, as will be seen by the enclosed extract from the proceedings of a council of the Cherokee nation, and from a letter of the commissioners appointed during the late recess of Congress to hold a treaty with said nation. It is also very uncertain as to the terms upon which a treaty could be concluded; and I know of no mode of forming an estimate of the sum that would be required to conclude and carry such treaty into effect, except by referring to the disbursements for these objects under former treaties: some of the principal of which are exhibited in a report from this Department relative to the extinguishment of the Indian title in Georgia, transmitted to the Senate by the President yesterday, and to which I would respectfully refer the Committee of Ways and Means for the information desired on this point.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, sir, your most obedient servant,

J. C. CALHOUN.

P. S. The memorial of the Legislature of Alabama is herewith returned.

Hon. LOUIS McLANE, Chairman Com. Ways and Means, H. R.

Extract from the proceedings of a National Committee and Council of the Cherokee nation, held October 22, 1822.

Resolved, By the National Committee and members of Council, that the chiefs of the Cherokee nation will not meet any commissioners of the United States to hold a treaty with them on the subject of making cessions of lands, the property of the Cherokee nation, as we are determined hereafter never to make any cessions of lands, having not more than sufficient for our own nation and posterities. But on any other business, not relating to making a treaty of cession, we will at all times, during the session of the National Council at New Town, receive the United States' commissioners or agents in friendship and cordiality, and will ever keep bright the chain of peace and friendship which links the Cherokee nation with the Government of the United States.

Extract of a letter from Colonel Duncan G. Campbell and Major James Meriwether, commissioners to hold a treaty with the Cherokees, to the Secretary of War, dated 22d January, 1823.

The object of our mission has not progressed as we could have wished; but the difficulties which we have encountered had been anticipated. Whether we shall be able to surmount them we cannot now undertake to say. Of this much, however, the Department may be assured, that we shall spare no effort authorized by usage and the just expectations of the Government. This nation manifests a stronger reluctance and obstinacy at this time than on any previous occasion. The proceedings of their Council and National Committee have been thus far strictly adhered to.

APPLICATION FOR A DONATION IN LAND TO IMPROVE THE NAVIGATION OF THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER.

COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE, FEBRUARY 20, 1823.

Mr. DICKERSON, from the Committee on Commerce and Manufactures, who were instructed to inquire into the expediency of making a donation of lands lying upon the waters of Pearl river, to be appropriated under the direction of the General Assembly of the State of Mississippi, to aid in the opening and improving the navigation of said river, from the seat of Government of the State to the Gulf of Mexico, reported:

That the committee are of opinion, from statements which have been exhibited to them, that the value of the lands belonging to the United States, lying on each side of the Pearl river, would be greatly enhanced by improving the navigation of that river; and that a similar effect would result from improving the navigation of many other rivers running through the lands of the United States; that, if lands are to be appropriated for this purpose, it ought to be upon some general system, applying to all similar cases where the United States are to be benefited by the improvement. Until such a system shall be adopted, the committee are of opinion that it would not be expedient to make the donation asked for. They submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That this committee be discharged from the further consideration of this subject.

CONTINGENT EXPENSES OF THE LAND OFFICES.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, FEBRUARY 20, 1823.

SIR:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, GENERAL LAND OFFICE, February 18, 1823.

In reply to your letter of the 4th ultimo, I have the honor to transmit a statement from the Register of the Treasury, exhibiting the contingent expenses of the several Land Offices, as appears from the final adjustment of the land accounts on file in his office. As respects the article of clerk hire, I deem it necessary to state that, at the Land Office at Washington, Mississippi, there have been allowances for clerk hire not exhibited by the statement rendered, amounting to fifteen hundred dollars, being an expense incurred in bringing up the arrearages of the books of the predecessor of the present Receiver. The reason that this charge is not exhibited in the statement is, that the accounts of the Receiver, in which they are made, have not yet been filed in the Register's office, and that the charges have not been admitted to the credit of the Receiver, as he has not yet produced the requisite voucher for the payment. The charge alluded to will not, ultimately, be an expense to the Treasury, but will be recoverable from the sureties of the late incumbent.

I am, with great respect, sir, your obedient servant,

JOHN McLEAN.

[2d Session.]

OPERATIONS OF THE SEVERAL LAND OFFICES UNDER THE ACT FOR THE RELIEF OF PURCHASERS OF PUBLIC LANDS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, FEBRUARY 27, 1823.

SIR:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, February 26, 1823.

In obedience to a resolution of the House of Representatives, of the 29th December, 1822, directing the Secretary of the Treasury to report to the House the operations of the several land offices, under the provisions of the act of the 2d of March, 1821, entitled "An act for the relief of the purchasers of the public lands, prior to the 1st of July, 1820," I have the honor to submit three statements from the Commissioner of the General Land Office, marked A, B, and C; which contain the information required, as far as the returns of the land offices will admit.

I have the honor to remain, your most obedient servant,

WM. H. CRAWFORD.

Hon. P. P. BARBOUR, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

TRANSFER OF A CLAIM TO MILITARY BOUNTY LAND.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, DECEMBER 17, 1823.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, from the Committee on Private Land Claims, to whom were referred the petition and documents of Jacob Shafer, reported:

The petitioner states that, in the late war, he enlisted for five years, and served for some time after the restoration of peace; that, being very anxious to see his family, consisting of his wife and eight children, whom he had left in penury, he applied for a discharge, which was given him, on the relinquishment of his right to bounty land; that, at the time he was discharged, there was a soldier of the name of John Sharp, a German, who had completed his term of service, and was solicitous to visit his own country, without any intention of returning to this; that he was advised by Captain John P. Duvall to purchase Sharp's discharge, which he did, thinking it would, in some degree, indemnify him for the loss of his own bounty land; that he cannot obtain a patent in his own name on Sharp's discharge; wherefore he asks relief.

There is documentary evidence before the committee that the petitioner was discharged at Norfolk, in Virginia, on the 15th of April, 1815, after having served about twenty-one months; and that his discharge was upon condition that he relinquished his claim to bounty land.

Accompanying the petition, in this case, there is also a certified copy of John Sharp's discharge and endorsement.

The committee, while they feel unwilling to countenance the transfer of discharges, which, for the benefit of the soldier, was made null by law, think the facts represented by the petitioner entitle him to relief; and, for that purpose, a bill is herewith reported.

CAUSES OF THE DELAY IN ADJUSTING THE LAND CLAIMS IN THE DISTRICT OF ST. HELENA, IN LOUISIANA.

COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE, DECEMBER 22, 1823.

SIR:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, GENERAL LAND OFFICE, December 22, 1823.

In compliance with a resolution of the Senate, dated on the 17th of December, in the following words: "Resolved, That the Commissioner of the General Land Office be instructed to lay before the Senate all communications received by him from the Register of the land office and the Receiver of Public Moneys at St. Helena court-house, in the State of Louisiana, touching their official duties, not heretofore communicated, and that he communicate all the information in his possession as to the causes which have delayed the adjustment of the land claims in said district," I have the honor to transmit the accompanying letters and papers, lettered from A to F.

To form a correct opinion of the causes which have delayed the adjustment of the land claims in the district of St. Helena, it will be necessary to refer to the several acts of Congress which provide for the adjustment of those claims, and to the proceedings which have been had under them respectively.

The act bearing date the 25th of April, 1812, authorizes the appointment of a commissioner for the purpose of ascertaining the titles and claims to land in this district, derived from the French, British, and Spanish Governments, and founded on written evidence.

It requires the commissioner to transmit to the Secretary of the Treasury abstracts of all such claims, to be submitted to the Congress of the United States; and further requires him to report to Congress a list of all the actual settlers in said district who have no written evidence of their claim to lands, specifying the time at which such settlements were made. This act fixes the compensation of the commissioner at $1,500 a year, that of the clerk at $1,000, with a further compensation to each of them on making the report, and limits the period for which such compensation shall be allowed to two years.

A commissioner was appointed under this act in June, 1812, but in consequence of the war, and from other causes, he did not enter upon the duties of his office until some time afterwards, and his report was not made until June, 1815. This report embraced ten hundred and twenty-four claims derived from French, Spanish, and British authorities, and a list of twelve hundred and thirty-four actual settlers. The report and list were submitted to Congress, but not acted upon until the 3d of March, 1819, when an act passed confirming the claims derived from the French, British, and Spanish authorities, under certain modifications, and granting donations of not more than six hundred and forty acres of land to each actual settler, or his legal representatives, who had cultivated the land on or before the 15th day of April, 1813, and granting a right of pre-emption to such persons as cultivated or inhabited a tract of land in said district on or before the 12th day of April, 1814. By this act the time for filing claims to land in this district was further extended to the 1st of July, 1820; and, for the purpose of adjusting those claims, and, for disposing of the land which might remain the property of the United States, a land office was established, and a Register and Receiver of Public Moneys were authorized to be appointed and invested with the same powers, and directed to perform similar duties, as those vested in, and required of the former commissioner, and giving them the same compensation for their extra services in relation to these claims, limiting the period for which they should receive the compensation to eighteen months.

Under this act a Register and Receiver of Public Moneys were appointed and commissioned on the 15th of March, 1819. They made two reports: one dated the 17th of March, the other the 18th of November, 1820, embracing three hundred and thirty-two cases of claims under French, British, and Spanish authorities, and a list of five hundred and forty-five actual settlers. These reports and lists were submitted to Congress; the one on the 11th day of May, 1820, and the other on the 1st day of January, 1821, and an act passed on the 8th of May, 1822, confirming them under certain limitations. This act imposes on the Register and Receiver of Public Moneys the duty of directing the manner in which all the claims confirmed by the acts of the 3d of March, 1819, and the 8th of May, 1822, should be located and surveyed. For this duty of directing the manner of locating and surveying a mass of claims, amounting to nearly three thousand, spread over a great extent of country, and necessarily interfering with each other in all those parts of the district where the lands were valuable, the compensation allowed by the law is the usual salary of five hundred dollars, which the Register and Receiver is entitled to under the general provisions of the law, and an extra compensation of one dollar, to be divided between them, on each certificate issued for the claims which were confirmed by the 2d and 3d sections of this act, embracing about seven hundred cases. Soon after the passage of this act the Register died, and the Receiver resigned; the gentleman who was appointed to succeed him resigned in a short time after his appointment, and the present Receiver, who has been in office about ten months, has intimated, it is understood, an intention also of retiring, and the Register has communicated his determination to resign on the 22d instant. This simple narration of facts accounts, in a great measure, for the delays which have heretofore taken place in the final adjustment of these claims, and presents no future prospect of a speedy adjustment of them.

There are, however, intrinsic difficulties incident to the nature of the business, which produce delay and embarrassment. Although the general tenor of the laws is peculiarly favorable to the claimants of land in this district, yet there are some of the special provisions of them which have a tendency to produce dissatisfaction and discontent among a portion of the claimants. The provisions of the 2d section of the act of the 3d of March, 1819, and those of the 2d section of that of the 8th of May, 1822, give different rules of decision, as it respects a particular description of claims derived from French, British, or Spanish authorities, which claims are similarly situated, though embraced in different reports. There is also some discrepancy as to the powers of revision given to the Register and Receiver by the 12th section of the act of the 3d of March, 1819, over the claims confirmed by that act, and the powers given to them by the 6th section of the act of the 8th of May, 1822. But the great source of embarrassment to the officers, and, perhaps, of dissatisfaction to the claimants, arises from the provision of the 4th section of the act of the 8th of May, 1822, which directs that, in locating these claims, the Register and Receiver shall have regard to the laws, usages, and customs of the Spanish Government on that subject, and to the mode adopted by the Government of the United States in surveying the claims to land confirmed by virtue of the 2d and 3d sections of an act of Congress entitled "An act regulating the grants of lands, and providing for the disposal of the lands of the United States south of the State of Tennessee, approved on the 3d of March, 1803." The two modes of surveying lands, to which the Register and Receiver are referred to, in this provision of the law, are practically different, and perhaps incompatible with each other. Each claimant, therefore, assuming the most favorable construction of that particular mode referred to in the act which may best suit the peculiar locality of his claim, becomes dissatisfied if it is not located in the form which he had figured out to himself.

In addition to these, difficulties have arisen from the fact that the lands in this district have been surveyed into townships, sections, and subdivisions of sections, in conformity to the general provisions of law directing the surveying of the public lands. As the expense of surveying is not paid by the claimant, it has become the duty of the Register and Receiver, with a view to the public interest, to make the location, so far as the circumstances of each claim will permit, in conformity to the divisional lines of the public surveys already made.

From this view of the subject it is evident that the act of 8th May, 1822, has imposed duties on the Register and Receiver more arduous, and having a greater tendency to bring them into collision with their neighbors and fellow-citizens, than those required under the general provisions of the law in relation to officers of that description. It is not, therefore, to be expected that, in a section of the country where labor is high, and talent can be profitably employed, the Government can command the services of individuals qualified by their independence of character and discriminating powers of mind, to adjust these claims speedily and satisfactorily, unless a more adequate compensation for their services shall be given. It was expected that a remuneration for these services might be looked for in the future profits of the office from the sales of the public lands after the private claims should have been satisfied; but it is now believed that the profits from this source will be very limited in both the districts of St. Helena and Jackson court-house, which were established under the same acts of Congress.

Should it be deemed proper to give an extra compensation to the Receivers and Registers for the extra services required, I would recommend that the compensation be a given sum, payable on the rendition of the services, and that a pro rata compensation be allowed in case of death only.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, sir, your obedient servant,

GEO. GRAHAM.

HON. JOHN GAILLARD,

President pro tem. Senate United States.

SIR:

ST. FRANCISVILLE, LOUISIANA, November 5, 1822.

I informed you in my last of my acceptance of the appointment of "Register of the Land Office at St. Helena court-house," and of my having written to Mr. Skipwith my intention to call upon him as soon as the health of Baton Rouge would permit, for the delivery of the office. In the intermediate time I deemed it my duty to repair to St. Helena court-house, and rent a house suitable for an office.

Having ascertained that the fever had greatly abated at Baton Rouge, I yesterday visited that place, where I found Mr. Skipwith, who manifested every disposition to aid me in getting possession of the Register's office. From him I understood that, on receiving my letter, he wrote a note to Mr. Herault, late clerk, desiring him to call on the curator of the estate of the late Mr. Cosby, and receive the books and papers appertaining to the office, and hold them ready to deliver on my application. I further learned that, on Mr. Herault's application to the curator of Mr. Cosby's estate, he found that the books, &c., on Mr. Cosby's death, were taken possession of by the parish judge of the parish of East Baton Rouge, in whose possession all that remained were found by Mr. Herault.

Mr. Skipwith accompanied me to the house of Mr. Herault, where I found a mass of confusion which I am incompetent to describe. One of the registers, made out by James O. Cosby, first commissioner, has, as I understood from both Mr. Skipwith and Mr. Herault, been missing since 1814, and was in that year accidentally burnt. I found from twelve to eighteen bundles of papers, wrapped up in old newspapers, except the ends, which were exposed, without order or method; and the balance of the papers of the office carelessly thrown into two trunks, rumpled, twisted, and pressed down, as if of no value. The great mass of them appeared to be unfolded, and in such posture as to require very considerable time, care, and attention, to reduce to any thing like order.

From Mr. Herault I understood that no register has been kept of the certificates that have issued, nor is there an index to a single book in the office. This is a faint outline of the condition in which I found the Register's office yesterday. More confusion could not be exhibited.

Finding that getting immediate possession, without committing myself, to be impracticable, and deeming it yet unsafe to remain in Baton Rouge, (a few new cases of fever still occurring,) I engaged Mr. Herault to make out an inventory of the books and papers, (which he thinks cannot be done in less than thirty or forty days' close labor,) and returned home to-day. I shall revisit Baton Rouge again on Monday next, and remain to superintend the making out the inventory, which, when completed, I will receipt in duplicate, and forward a copy to the General Land Office.

To reduce the office from chaos to order, I felt bound to employ Mr. Herault; as, in justice to the Government or myself, I could not receive it in the state in which I found it. To deliver the office in good order being the duty of my predecessor, and finding his estate to be insolvent, I knew nothing could be expected from his curator. I, therefore, employed Mr. Herault, and trust to the necessity of the case for your approbation of the step I have taken, and rely on the Government for remuneration. Please inform me if Mr. Herault will be allowed a reasonable compensation for these services. I have made myself personally responsible therefor, and the value of the services are to be judged of when the work is completed.

You will readily perceive that it would have been in vain for me to have sought for your instructions to my predecessor in the chaotic state in which I found the office; and, believing it more than probable that they are lost, I have to request you to forward me such instructions as you may deem necessary for my government, and particularly on the subject of surveying. How is the surveying to begin? Are we to have it done by United States' surveyors, or are we to select such surveyors as our judgements may direct? Are we to have the patented land surveyed first? Or are we to direct our attention solely to the surveying of unpatented lands? I presume that, in all cases where the lands are patented, and the calls of the survey can be found, the survey must be governed by the calls, and where there are no calls to be found, the survey will be governed by course and distance. In all cases I apprehend the claimant is to pay surveying fees; and I am of opinion that the interest of the Government, as well as of claimants, will be promoted by having an immediate survey made of all the lands in the district.

I would be glad of your opinion, also, whether we can employ a clerk, and what compensation will be allowed him: as there is some difference of opinion how far we are governed by the law of the 3d of March, 1819, and as the last law is silent on the subject, I would also be glad to be informed if office books and stationery are to be provided at the expense of the Government, or by myself. Mr. Skipwith informed me yesterday that he has paid for two blank registers for my predecessor, about twenty dollars, for which he claims compensation. If the claim will be allowed on exhibiting the necessary vouchers, I will settle the claim with him on receiving the necessary instructions so to do. It affords me much pleasure to inform you that the Receiver, like myself, feels the importance of going into the several parishes of the district to collect evidence; and the expectations of Government, founded on the information of Mr. Johnson, will not be disappointed.

I this morning met the Receiver on his way to Baton Rouge, where he expected to meet Mr. Skipwith, and we can assure you that we will lose no time in discharging the trust confided to us.

As soon as I can get the Register's office arranged I will give you a detailed account of its deficiencies. That some exist I know, from having heard it proved in our courts that papers have been lost from the office.

It is due to Mr. Skipwith to say, that he has offered me every facility and information he is possessed of, of which I shall not fail to avail myself.

With very great respect, I am, sir, your obedient servant,

JAMES M. BRADFORD.

The COMMISSIONER of the General Land Office.

B.

BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA, November 15, 1822.

SIR:

I wrote you from St. Francisville a few days since, when I informed you of the posture in which I found the Land Office the day before, and of my intention to return here again on the eleventh, and aid in preparing the office for delivery. The weather was so tempestuous the 9th, 10th, and 11th, that I did not reach here until the 12th. I was greatly in hopes that the fever would, ere that time, have entirely abated, and that I could have remained here in perfect safety to complete the arrangement of the office. During my stay the mortality, and a number of new cases presenting themselves, admonishes me that I must again retreat, for a week or ten days, until the fever entirely disappears.

I can add nothing at present to the information I have before given. The papers are folded, and are numbering, and, unless the fever prevents my giving further attention, I have every reason to believe that I shall be able to get the office organized by the 20th proximo. I am encouraged to believe that the losses from the office are not as great as I apprehended. I hope to be enabled to make out a register of certificates granted nearly complete. I have found the law of 1819, but, as yet, no instructions to my predecessor. The law of 1819 instructs what surveyors are to be employed, but, on the other points of inquiry of my former letter, I want instructions; and I want all the laws on the subject of our land claims, except that of 1819.

I feel convinced, from the knowledge I now possess, that a longer time will be required to complete the adjustment of land claims in this district than was contemplated by Congress, and that much that has been done will have to be done again. I regret that Congress is about to meet before I can give you a perfect view of the condition of the office and of the claims. I yet flatter myself that I shall be able to accomplish this by the middle of January, to enable Congress to legislate further on the subject, should it be necessary, before the adjournment in March. I cannot but feel the embarrassment the commissioners will labor under from the loss of the register which I mentioned in my last, nor can I now perceive any remedy but to call upon claimants to reproduce their claims, and such as are lost to have recorded anew.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES M. BRADFORD.

The COMMISSIONER of the General Land Office.

C.

BATON ROUGE, June 14, 1823.

SIR:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the acts passed at the last session of Congress, much injured by having been sometime wet in the mail, but yet sufficiently intelligible for the use of the office.

After several efforts, which did not prove successful owing to the ill health of the Receiver, on the 6th instant we met at this place, and have commenced the ordering the location, and surveying of lands, and I have now the honor of communicating the course we have pursued.

We require every application for a survey to be made by petition. The petitioner briefly sets forth that he has a certificate, and, if there is likely to be a confliction of boundary, or if there is a conditional line, it is set forth as well as the name of the conflicting party. We also require of the petitioner that he shall notify the adverse party of his application, and if he does not appear on that notice, we cite him to appear before us on a particular day, when, if he does not appear, we will proceed ex parte. As yet no disposition to embarrass or evade has manifested itself, and, from my knowledge of the inhabitants, I anticipate compliance with our citations, and acquiescence generally in our decisions. When a party appears we require an exhibition of surveys, when they have been made by competent authority, and order the land to be surveyed according to the plat and certificate exhibited. Where the claim is a settlement only, and a front can be found on a water-course, we order the land to be surveyed with a front of sixteen acres, and a depth of forty acres; and where there is no front, and the interest of the Government or the spirit of the certificate does not require it otherwise, for the sake of uniformity, we shall survey the claim in a square, making the improvement the centre. In most cases, however, the surveys of settlement claims will be eccentric owing to interferences. Two orders made you will find enclosed, which will give you an idea of our mode of making orders.

Two sources of much embarrassment have presented themselves, and our course in relation to them I now communicate. The first is, the issuing certificates for persons, and inserting the wrong Christian name. One of these cases we disposed of yesterday, and is one of the enclosed orders. The second is, that certificates for the same improvement are granted to different persons. One of these cases we disposed of this morning. This we felt no difficulty in doing from the honesty of the interested parties. That decision is also enclosed.

Notwithstanding the frankness and honesty of the population in general to favor us, you will perceive that our duties are great and arduous, and I shall esteem it no small alleviation of our labor if we give satisfaction to the Government and the inhabitants on whose claims we are to decide.

Great are the complaints of neglect in my predecessor, many of which I trust are unfounded, whilst some I know to be too just. About fifty claims, which were entered in time, some are complete and some are incomplete titles, and more, on settlement claims, remain in office not acted on. I shall make out an exhibit of every claim, which may fall under my knowledge, of this description, and forward them to you before the meeting of Congress.

We expect to close the collection of testimony in this parish in about three weeks, when we shall return to St. Helena.

Please inform me whether the course we have adopted meets your approbation.

Very respectfully your obedient servant,

JAMES M. BRADFORD.

The COMMISSIONER of the General Land Office.

D.

SIR:

LAND OFFICE, ST. HELENA C. H., July 8, 1823.

Since the letter addressed to you by the Register from Baton Rouge, in June, we have progressed steadily in ordering the surveying of claims, and in granting certificates. We continued in Baton Rouge until the 29th ultimo, during which time we granted forty-nine orders of survey and sixty-five certificates. In granting orders of survey we have been guided by the principles communicated by the Register in the letter referred to, and, as we believe, by a strict regard to the law. As yet we are happy in believing that all are satisfied. An abstract of the certificates granted are enclosed.

We find nothing in the office to enable us to judge of the number of certificates granted by our predecessors, nor are we well aware of the principles which guided them in the granting. In a conversation held with Mr. Skipwith by the Register, Mr. Skipwith said that many certificates had been granted by himself and Mr. Cosby, which it was their intention to recall; but he could not furnish the names of individuals to whom these certificates had been granted; and, even if he could, we doubt very much if we possess any power to undo what has been done by our predecessors.

You were informed by the Register, immediately after his appointment, of the wretched condition of the office; and the labor and embarrassment it has produced is indescribable.

We could find nothing to guide us; we were compelled to take the office out of chaos, and point out the course for our Government. By the enclosed abstract you will perceive that we commenced the numbering of certificates at 1, and have progressed numerically. You will also perceive that we have not classed the claims, and given each class its course of numbers, but have numbered them together. Of the course we have pursued we ask your approbation.

When we commenced granting certificates we had not in our possession the letter of the late Register and Receiver accompanying their several registers and reports of claims, and we have some apprehensions that we have erred in granting two certificates and orders of survey. We allude to No. 1 and No. 6 of register E. Our certificates are for the whole amount of both these claims. This register being before us, without the letter explanatory of it, we hesitated not to believe, from the records of the caption, that every claim therein contained was confirmed in extenso, and, on comparing their letter with the several laws, and the "opinion in relation to titles dated subsequently to the 20th of December, 1803," as given by our predecessors, the conclusion is strong, (and, indeed, hardly questionable,) that they did intend to confirm these claims to the full amount. Understanding, however, from a gentleman in whose veracity we place entire confidence, that Mr. Cosby, a short time before his death, declared that such was not their intention, and having before us a letter from Mr. Skipwith addressed to a gentleman in Baton Rouge, bearing date August the 3d, 1822, in which he says: "Candor, and my respect for your observations in relation to my own and my colleague's opinions, said to have been expressed to you with regard to large grants, induce me to add that, under the provisions of the law of eighteen hundred and nineteen, I never did conceive the grant of Mr. Herault, or any other grants of the same description, entitled to more than 1,280 acres, allowed by the law," we now believe that it was not intended to confirm more than 1,280 acres to each of these claims. Believing, as we do, that we have the power of correcting any error which we have committed, or may hereafter commit, we intend to have the surveying of the claims suspended until we hear your opinion on them, which we solicit as early as possible. Mr. Gras has been notified by the Register that your opinion would be asked upon his claim, and, if you differed from us, it would not be finally confirmed beyond 1,280 acres.

Every day opens more strongly to our minds the errors which have crept into the office in entries made under the act of the 3d of March, 1819. Our predecessors received all settlement claims of a date anterior to the close of their office, and reported them indiscriminately; and, in their official letter of the date of the 18th of November, 1820, they remark: "We trust that no difficulty can grow out of this course, inasmuch as the person who applies for a certificate, under any future law which may be passed, will, of course, be required to show, by sufficient testimony, that he is entitled to it. To designate absolutely, at this time, every claim that was settled before the 15th of April, 1813, would be paving the way to the commission of many errors." The evil they intended to avoid has been produced. A claimant seeing his name on the list reported, draws the conclusion that his claim is confirmed, and, if we do not concur with him instantly, seeks testimony to establish the equity of his claim. The testimony adduced to us we are bound to believe, unless the witness labors under legal disability to testify, or is not in our estimation credible; in either case we require additional evidence, competent and credible. Here we cannot fail to feel the force of the remark that, "where the temptation is great, it is frequently dangerous to trust a man's own evidence;" but we cannot consent to reject "the evidence of his witnesses" under the apprehension that they are "instigated to perjury by the seductions of poverty." We receive such testimony as we would credit were it admissible in a court of justice. We shall guard as much as possible against imposition, and while we look to the interest of Government, we shall constantly bear in mind the liberal spirit in which the laws were enacted. We have evidence before us, to satisfy our minds that many claims were lodged with our predecessors of a character that ought to have been reported favorably of; but, owing to causes to us unknown, were neither reported nor recorded, and others recorded and not reported. We are engaged, as these claims present themselves, in making a report of them, which report we will enclose you before the meeting of Congress.

A claim was entered before our predecessors in the name of Philemon Thomas, who was purchaser of John Kennard. The claim was entered by Kennard before James O. Cosby, and rejected because of the loss of the Spanish papers. These papers have since been found and exhibited to us, and we find them to be a plat and certificate of survey, with a complete Spanish patent, for 240 acres, granted in 1799. It is desired by Thomas (who has been many years the owner of the land) to get a certificate in his own name. We are perfectly satisfied that the claim in the name of Thomas, an actual settler, is the claim he purchased of Kennard, and that his claim, from its age and character, is indisputable; yet we cannot grant the certificate desired of us under our construction of the law. Should you believe we can do so, we will be guided by your instructions.

A peculiar case has presented itself, on which we desire your opinion. A settlement was made in the parish of East Baton Rouge as early as 1804, and was kept up until 1815. About the latter period a Spanish claim, approved by James O. Cosby, was surveyed, and it covered the improvement. As soon as the survey was made the settler removed about one hundred yards on to public land. Is this settler entitled to a certificate? There cannot be a doubt but the settler believed he was on public land; he settled in good faith; the cultivation has been kept up, and his settlement was not included fifty yards in the Spanish survey. The Spanish lines were unknown until run out in 1815. As was stated to you by the Register, in his letters from Baton Rouge, we have found it impossible to pay much regard to the surveying of the country into townships and sections, in the orders we have given for surveys of settlement claims. It frequently happens that a man's improvement is in four sections, and, in more than one instance, a section corners in a man's house. Where regard can be had to township or sectional lines, they are not neglected. In two instances we have been compelled to order the surveying of two claims together, and leave it to the discretion of the surveyor to run the dividing line between them. We have been constrained to this manner of giving these orders, from the impossibility of pointing out the course a line would run between the improvements of the two claimants.

Copies of these orders are enclosed for your examination. We find, among other reasons assigned by our predecessors for removing the office from this place to Baton Rouge, was the difficulty of getting on with their duties without the services of a translator of the French and Spanish languages, and the impossibility of procuring a person qualified for translator at this place. We also find a translator of these languages important, and, indeed, we may add, indispensable to a correct discharge of our duties. We find our predecessors also writing to the Commissioner of the General Land Office in these words: "Without a clerk, agreeably to the forms and instructions which we had the honor to receive from you, no certificate can issue; his attestation being necessary." If they were correct in their construction of your instructions, a clerk is as indispensable now as he was then. Telling, as we have, the importance of a translator and clerk, and believing the law warrants the appointment, (although it is somewhat questionable whether any salary is now attached to the appointment,) and finding Mr. David Bradford qualified to discharge all the duties of translator and clerk, we gave him the appointment.

If Mr. Bradford is entitled to a salary, we will feel gratified at his being authorized to draw for it; and if, under the law, he cannot claim a salary, we hope and rely confidently on the liberality of Congress to allow a suitable compensation for necessary services faithfully rendered.

We are, sir, with great respect, your obedient servants,

JAMES M. BRADFORD, Register.
WILLIAM KINCHEN, Receiver.

JOHN McLEAN, Esq.

E.

SIR:

LAND OFFICE, ST. HELENA COURT-HOUSE, October 29, 1823.

We now have the honor of enclosing you an abstract of certificates issued by us since the last report. Before we received your letter of the 13th of August, we had issued our certificates without numbering those issued on each report or register separately. Immediately on the receipt of that letter, we considered it advisable to alter this mode, and adopt the one recommended to our predecessors. We, therefore, began at No. 1, of a new series, to each report or register. It has been our design to get in, as far as we are able, the certificates issued prior to this change in our order of numbering, and number them in their order of the respective registers.

We have progressed considerably in granting orders of survey. In the parish of Feliciana we have granted 22; in the parish of East Baton Rouge, 46; in the parish of St. Helena, 17; and, in the parish of St. Tammany, 5. The surveyors are at work, and we have well-founded hopes that the surveying will speedily progress.

In ordering the surveying of settlement claims, it has been our wish to give the claimant his quantity in a section, half section, or quarter section, as you pointed out; but, where we are bound by the laws, usages, and customs of the Spanish Government, and by conditional lines established between claimants prior to the surveying executed by the United States, those wishes could not be realized, and we have been compelled to order the surveying in forms at times very eccentric. This, however, we consider unavoidable, the law being imperative.

We have used every diligence in our power to ascertain how many claims, which were entered before our predecessors, have been neglected to be reported. As yet, we have not been enabled to arrive at any certainty, but are satisfied that there can be little short of 200, and, indeed, they may exceed that number. These claimants, in our opinion, require some relief, and we earnestly recommend that the subject may be laid before Congress, at an early day, for their consideration. Many of these neglected claims, we are persuaded, ought to be confirmed, and it would be unjust to deprive them of their claims on account of the neglect of the officers of the Government. How these neglects occurred we cannot determine, but we are certain that they exist.

We have been requested by H. H. Gurley, Esq., our Representative in Congress, to express our opinion to you of the propriety of granting pre-emption rights to all actual settlers prior to the passage of the act of 1822. It is not for us to suggest the date to which pre-emption claims should be allowed, but we are most clearly of opinion that the Government would sustain little injury in the sale of the lands in this district by granting such pre-emptions.

The law of 1819, granting pre-emption rights, has not been well understood by settlers. Not one of the many who were entitled to pre-emption rights has ever made a payment to the Receiver, as the law contemplates—not, as we believe, from unwillingness to comply with the law, but from ignorance of its meaning. Until very recently, few people knew that the Receiver was authorized to receive payment for these claims; but the general impression was, that the Receiver was a co-commissioner with the Register, and that his duties were confined to the granting certificates and orders of survey for lands. We are under the belief that, if the time of making this payment were extended, it would induce many to secure their pre-emption claims which are now lost, and Government would not be injured thereby.

We have neglected hitherto to inform you that the list of settlement claims, forwarded for confirmation by James O. Cosby, is destroyed. This information was communicated to the present Receiver by the late Charles S. Cosby. Several applications have been made to us for certificates by persons who allege that their claims were reported favorably of by Mr. James O. Cosby. These applications have been refused, because we had no evidence before us of the claims having been entered or approved. We submit to you whether it would not be proper that some provision should be made by law to enable those people to establish their respective claims.

In September last, Henry Johnson, Esq., was at the office, and requested that we would send to your office the original report of James O. Cosby of claims founded on patents, and other written evidences of title, returned to this office by Mr. Meigs, under order of the Secretary of the Treasury. Having a copy of this report, and considering that your office would be the safest, as well as the most suitable place for that report, we forward it to you by the same mail in which we send this letter.

We herewith enclose you a plat of the survey of the claim of Henry Flower, lying in the parish of Feliciana, with the field notes of the surveyor. There is not, that we are apprized of, any interference with this claim by any person. During the existence of the Spanish Government here, three persons by the name of Kavenagh, the father and two sons, applied to that Government for the land. A thousand acres were ordered to be surveyed for each, by Governor Grandpré, and the land for the three was surveyed in one body. The father died, and his children inherited. The two brothers died in 1811 or 1812, and, to satisfy a judgment obtained against their curator, the sheriff seized this land, and sold it, and Mr. Flower, the present claimant, became the purchaser. You will perceive by the field notes of the surveyor, that there is a great part of this claim of little value, except for the timber, which, although much culled, is still valuable.

We also enclose you the survey of the claim of Francis Herault, together with his written argument offered us in support of his claim. There is not, that we are apprized of, any patent land that interferes with this claim. Some settlement claims would have run into it, if we had not supposed it to be a valid claim, and ordered the settlement claims to be located adjoining. To the manner of ordering these claims to be surveyed the settlers appear to be well satisfied. We now consider there is no interference with this claim.

We also enclose you the survey made of the claim of Mr. Louis Gras. With this claim there are three others or more that interfere. The patent land which Thomas bought of Kennard, and which we, in a former letter, called to your attention, and also a settlement claim of Philemon Thomas, and another of William Thomas, are in this claim. It is highly probable you will receive a communication on the subject of this claim directly from General Philemon Thomas.

The Register having come to a determination to resign his appointment on the 22d of December next, we have thought proper to suggest it now, that the vacancy may be filled as early thereafter as may be.

The vouchers for office hire, stationary, &c. being at the residence of the Register, the account will be forwarded by him to you in a few days.

We cannot close this letter without suggesting to you the perilous condition of the office. Compelled under the law to keep it at this place, we have selected the safest house for it in the place, as we conceive. The building is of wood, and liable every hour to be destroyed by fire. The salary will not justify either of us in leaving our plantations, and making a residence here; nor can we employ a person to keep charge of the office. If we were allowed a clerk, we could require him to sleep in the office for its security. We suggest the propriety of provision being made by law for the safety of the office.

Very respectfully, your obedient servants,

JAMES M. BRADFORD, Register.
WILLIAM KINCHEN, Receiver.

The COMMISSIONER of the General Land Office.

Extract of a letter from Levin Wailes, Esq., Surveyor General south of Tennessee.

From the maps and other documents in this office it appears that, on the certificates of the commissioners for the land district west of Pearl river, in this State, granted on donation and pre-emption claims, it does not appear that the claimants were confined to section or township lines, or to any particular form for their tracts, but, on the contrary, that they had the privilege of having them surveyed in the form which suited them best, taking care to include their improvements, and avoid conflicting with claims of superior dignity, and include no greater quantity than that expressed in their certificates.

The undersigned have personal knowledge that the practice mentioned in the above extract did prevail in the district west of Pearl river.

THO. H. WILLIAMS.
H. JOHNSON.

Extract of a letter from James M. Bradford to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, dated

SIR:

ST. FRANCISVILLE, January 5, 1824.

On the 30th ultimo I forwarded to the Secretary of State, to be tendered to the President, my resignation of the appointment of Register of the Land Office at St. Helena court-house. I held the appointment longer than

I wished, that Congress should assemble and increase the salary, if they deemed it advisable, before a new appointment took place, persuaded that no man qualified to discharge the duties can be found to accept the appointment for the present salary.

In parting from it I feel at liberty to express my opinion freely of the most advantageous course the Government can pursue in relation to lands in this district.

All the business appertaining to the office can be concluded in two or three years at most by a man of capacity and industry. For that period Government, to insure capacity and industry, should give a liberal salary. At St. Helena court-house a man can pursue nothing to make a living, and must consequently depend entirely on the salary. However humble a man's talents may be, if he can discharge the mechanical part of the duty of Register, and is trust-worthy, he can make more than $500 in any of the parishes on the Mississippi in one year. To do justice, the Register must be able to read French and Spanish, or there must be a translator allowed, as more than one-half the claims will require a slight knowledge of these languages to investigate. My own opinion is, that it would be economy in the Government to limit the business of the office to three years, give the Register a salary of $1,500 or $2,000, and give the appointment to no man who cannot read and translate the French and Spanish languages. This will supersede the necessity of a translator.

Justice to the inhabitants, in my opinion, requires that the office should again be opened for the entry and proof of neglected claims. There are about two hundred claims of this description, and, as the fault has not been in the people, it will be a great hardship if their claims are rejected. I would suggest, if the office is opened again, that the Register and Receiver should give thirty days notice of the day on which the office will open, and a like notice of the day on which it will close, by advertisement inserted in one newspaper published in the city of New Orleans, and every newspaper published in the district. If, then, any claimant does not investigate his claim, the fault will be his.

CORRECTION OF AN ERROR COMMITTED AT A LAND OFFICE.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, DECEMBER 23, 1823.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, made the following report:

The Committee on Private Land Claims, to whom were referred the petition and documents of William Kendall, have had the same under consideration, and report:

The petitioner states that, in the year 1807, John Brown entered with the Register of the Land Office in Chillicothe the northeast quarter of section 14, township 4, range 19, and paid, agreeably to law, one-fourth of the purchase money in hand; that, in the spring of 1813, the five years having expired, without any other payments having been made, the land was advertised and sold by the Register to the petitioner for three hundred and twenty dollars, and was, a short time afterwards, patented to him; that, about two years subsequently, he discovered that the quarter section which he supposed he had purchased, was actually the northeast quarter of section 23, township 4, range 19; that the land covered by his patent is worth but little, as there are only about ten acres of it fit for cultivation: wherefore he asks relief.

Uriah Barber swears that, on the 12th of November, 1807, he entered with the Register of the Land Office at Chillicothe the northeast quarter of section 13, township 4, range 19; that, on the day following, John Brown entered the northeast quarter of section 14, township 4, range 19, which was afterwards patented to W. Kendall; that, in 1814 or 1815, it was discovered that a mistake had been made in entering these lands, owing to the corner having been erroneously marked by the surveyor; that, having detected the error before the emanation of a patent, he had his money applied to the payment of other land.

John Brown swears that, on the 13th November, 1807, he entered the northeast quarter of section 14, township 4, range 19, and paid one-fourth of the purchase money; that five years having expired without his having made any other payment, the land was sold to William Kendall for about $320; that, sometime afterwards, it was ascertained he had actually entered the northeast quarter of section 23, township 4, range 19, which quarter is of little or no value.

Robert Lucas swears that, sometime in the year 1807, he was in the woods with John Brown, and assisted him in examining the corner trees of a section of land on Hale's creek, in Scioto county, and that, from the number marked on the corner tree, John Brown, to secure the land he desired, entered the northeast quarter of section 14, township 4, range 19, in the Chillicothe district, and caused considerable improvements to be made on the land which he supposed he had entered; that the said Brown having failed to make payment, the land was sold to W. Kendall; that, when it was rumored an error had been committed in the entry, the affiant went with W. Kendall, and, with his compass, ran several of the lines from the corner tree already mentioned, and found the quarter intended to be entered was the northeast quarter of section 23, in township 4, range 19, and that the land covered by the patent is mountainous, and worth but little or nothing.

It has been ascertained at the General Land Office that John Brown, on the 13th of November, 1807, entered the northeast quarter of section 14, township 4, range 19, and that, on account of non-payment, it was resold to William Kendall the 12th of April, 1813, and patented to him on the 26th November, the same year,

The act now in force extends to cases of erroneous entries detected prior to the emanation of a patent. The committee think an extension of similar relief to a patentee, situated as the petitioner is comports with justice. They, therefore, report a bill.

APPLICATIONS FOR INDEMNITY FOR LOSSES SUSTAINED BY ERRORS IN SURVEYS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 7, 1824.

Mr. RANKIN, from the Committee on the Public Lands, to whom was referred the petitions of George Salady and Elisha Wade, made the following report:

The petitioners state that they purchased each a tract of land from the United States within the State of Ohio, and for which they severally paid to the Government the whole amount of the purchase money, according to the quantity estimated by the public surveys to be contained in the several tracts by them purchased. On a re-survey of the tract purchased by George Salady, it was found to contain, instead of the quantity of four hundred and thirty-four acres and one-tenth, and for which he had paid, only three hundred and seventy acres and ninety-six one-hundredths, leaving a deficiency of about sixty-four acres. The tract purchased by Elisha Wade, for five hundred and sixteen acres and seventeen one-hundredths, and for which he paid, he alleges contains, as appears from a re-survey, only four hundred and fifty-two acres and nineteen one-hundredths, leaving a deficiency of about sixty-four acres in the quantity paid for by him. The petition of Salady is accompanied by the certificate of one William Kendall, a surveyor of Scioto county, in the State of Ohio, and other testimony, fully establishing all the material allegations of the petition. The petition of Elisha Wade has no evidence in its support. In the view, however, which the committee have taken of the subject-matter submitted to them by these petitions, an examination into the nature or weight of the evidence has not been deemed at all necessary; on the contrary, they believe if every fact stated in the petitions were supported by the most unquestionable evidence, it would be inexpedient and improper to grant the relief prayed for, or any other relief to the petitioners. It is sometimes to be regretted that a rigid adherence to the general rules and principles forbids an interposition in favor of individuals who have some equity, and apparently some justice in their claims. No subject in relation to the public lands ought to be approached with more caution, and would have a more dangerous tendency, than the admission that the Government is bounded to guaranty, in all cases, the accuracy of the public surveys, and to refund the money paid where any deficiency occurred. The train of evils, frauds, and perjuries, which must ensue such an admission, are incalculable in their extent. If, in the operation of the general rule, that forbids any inquiry, either on the part of the Government or of individuals, for the purpose of demanding payment for the excess of quantity, or a restitution for the deficiency, cases of individual hardship exists, they may be regretted, but no remedy can with safety be applied. Independently of any general reasoning on this subject, Congress, apparently anticipating the difficulties which might arise from the inaccuracy of the surveys, and to prepare individuals, where they thought proper to do so, to guard against errors, or meet the consequences of that negligence, passed the law of the 11th of February, 1805, which, in the opinion of your committee, exonerates the Government from all responsibility for such errors. Your committee find that this subject has been acted on by the Committee on the Public Lands, and a report thereon made on the 19th February, 1822, on the petition of the inhabitants of the eastern section of range No. 15, and township No. 2, in Canton district, in the State of Ohio. With the conclusion of the committee in that case, founded on the act of the 11th of February, 1805, and the general impolicy of any interference on the part of the Government in such cases, this committee unhesitatingly concur. They, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioners be not granted.

APPLICATIONS FOR INDEMNITY FOR LOSSES OCCASIONED BY WATER-COURSES.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 7, 1824.

Mr. RANKIN, from the Committee on the Public Lands, to whom was referred the petition of Jehn Stealy, made the following report:

The petitioner claims by a conveyance from Francis Vigo, who had acquired his right from the original claimants, being six in number, two thousand four hundred acres of land in the State of Indiana. The right to these lands was derived from a resolution of Congress of the 29th of August, 1788, reserving four hundred acres of land to "every French or Canadian inhabitant, or other settlers," being "the head of a family," and "who, on or before the year 1783, had settled at Post St. Vincents, and who had professed themselves citizens of the United States, or any of them." The Governor of the Western Territory was, by that resolution directed to cause to be laid off, in a square form, adjacent to the improvements at Post St. Vincents, and in whatever direction the settlers should prefer, a tract of land sufficient for completing those donations; which square, when so laid off, was to be divided among the claimants entitled to the same, by lot, in the manner they might agree. An act of Congress of the 3d March, 1791, repealed so much of the resolution of August, 1798, as directed the location to be made by the claimants, and required it to be made by the Governor of the Northwestern Territory. In conformity with these provisions, the Governor caused a square to be laid off, and divided into one hundred and sixty tracts of four hundred acres each, that being the number of the claimants, and a distribution was made among the donees according to law. At what time the survey was made, and the distribution took place, does not appear by any evidence before the committee, but it must, of necessity, have preceded, in order of time, the purchase by Stealy from Vigo, which took place on the 12th of May, 1800, as must be inferred from the minute and accurate description in the conveyance to him of the numbers of the several tracts purchased. The provisions of the law required, and it is presumed they were strictly carried into effect, that the location of the whole square, the subdivision thereof into tracts of four hundred acres each, and the distribution by lot among the claimants, should severally succeed each other in their performance. In this distribution it so happened that the exterior lines of the square thus located, crossed White river, a navigable stream. This stream, the petitioner alleges, by passing through four of his tracts, numbered 160, 133, 134, and 158, has deprived him of two hundred and sixty-nine and eighty one-hundredths acres of land, for which loss he prays Congress to indemnify him, by permitting him to locate a like quantity of public lands elsewhere.

As no complaint appears, at any time, to have been made by the donee of the United States, or the vendor of the petitioner, of the injustice done them by the Government, and as the petitioner either had an opportunity of knowing the nature and situation of the tracts purchased by an ordinary share of prudence and diligence, your committee do not believe that his claim to indemnity for what he deems a loss at all well founded. An examination of the surveys, or of the lands purchased, would have secured him against imposition, had it been attempted; but even that is not alleged in his petition for relief. The donees accepted those tracts unconditionally from the Government, and the petitioner, by purchase, acquired their rights, and was necessarily bound by their acts. The act of 1804, of the operation of which he complains, and which declares the navigable streams, &c. highways, doubtless had its origin in the ordinance of 1787, and pursues, in substance, its language. This ordinance was a public act, which every one was presumed to know was a compact between the people of the Northwestern Territory and the people of the United States, and could only be changed by the common consent of the parties interested. Congress could not defeat any of its provisions, much less could the Governor of the Northwestern Territory be presumed to have vested, or even to have attempted to vest, by the location, the right of obstructing this navigable stream in individuals. We must also presume that the petitioner knew this public law, the nature and situation of his land, and the extent of the rights acquired by his purchase. He therefore consented to receive those lands, subject to this loss, if it be one to have them situated on both sides of a navigable river. The tenure of every species of property would be insecure, and crime would go unpunished, if we were to permit the alleged ignorance of law and of facts, which might and ought to have been known, to form, in all cases, an excuse for the party interested. No misrepresentations as to the nature of those tracts could have been made to him by the Government, and none are stated to have been made by the vendor.

Had the petitioner presented a case of great loss and hardship, his appeal might have been more forcible, if not to the justice, at least to the liberality of Congress. These tracts, notwithstanding this supposed loss, are, from locality, presumed to be more valuable than many which were drawn by lot in a square containing one hundred and sixty tracts of four hundred acres each. If we relieve the man who has the misfortune to have a navigable stream passing through his land, we could hardly refuse to extend relief to all those, a portion of whose land may be covered with lakes, swamps, or ponds. The mere letter of the law promised land; and, if we are to execute our promise, under all circumstances, according to the letter, in favor of the petitioner, equal justice requires a general provision. That the petitioner has not sustained great injury may also be inferred from the nature of his application, which does not propose to relinquish those tracts, and have permission to locate elsewhere, but only prays that he be permitted to locate elsewhere the quantity of acres covered by the river.

Whether the purchase was made by the petitioner for the purpose of speculation, or for residence, can only be inferred from the quantity purchased. In whatever situation he may, in that respect, stand, he is entitled to justice; but Government, while it extends favor to the man in search of a home for his family, should always administer sheer justice to the speculator, and with a firm and steady hand.

Your committee, on a full examination of this case, recommend to the House the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner be not granted.

APPLICATION FOR THE CONFIRMATION OF AN INDIAN GRANT.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 9, 1824.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, from the Committee on Private Land Claims, to whom were referred the petition and documents of Henry R. Teller, have had the same under consideration, and report:

The petitioner states that, in the year one thousand seven hundred and eighty, the chiefs and principal leaders of the Ochipue nations of Indians did, with the consent of their tribe, by a deed of gift, convey to Garret Teller a tract of land one hundred and fifty acres in front, and fifty in depth, situated on the south side of the strait connecting lakes Huron and St. Clair; that the said grantee died in possession of the same, without having applied to the British Government for a patent; that, in the year 1801, he purchased of the only heir of the said Teller the said tract of land, for a valuable consideration; that, as he is desirous of settling on it, he asks that his title thereto may be confirmed to him.

The committee think it unnecessary to recite the evidences of title derived by the petitioner from sundry Indians, called chiefs of the Ochipues. Admit the land claimed by the petitioner to have been situated within the jurisdiction of the British Government in 1780, the proclamation of 1763 forbade the purchase of lands from the Indians by private persons; hence Garret Teller's title must have been invalid. Besides, it has not been the policy of this Government to sanction such purchases. In support of this opinion the committee will refer to the case of Johnson vs. McIntosh, reported in 8 Wheaton; wherefore, they recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petitioner be not granted.

LANDS IN LOUISIANA.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 12, 1824.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, from the Committee on the Public Lands, to whom were referred, on the 9th of December last, sundry resolutions in relation to lands in the State of Louisiana, reported:

Your committee, as they have been instructed by the first of those resolutions, inquired into the expediency of extending the time limited for entering, with the Registers of the several districts in Louisiana, pre-emption rights to what are usually called back concessions, and of extending the existing provisions to other places than those mentioned in the former laws on that subject. For the proper understanding of the nature of those back or double concessions, it is necessary to refer to the usages of the Spanish Government, and the reasons for making those concessions. The Spanish dominions in America were divided into provinces, under the direction of an Intendant, and military posts or districts under the direction of a commandant of the district. All applications for permission to settle in the Spanish dominions were made to the commandant, and all grants to land were made by petition, in writing, to the Intendant, through the commandant of the district. When the conditions of settlement and cultivation were certified by the commandant to the Intendant to have been complied with, and the surveys had been regularly certified and returned, a grant was obtained by the petitioner for the tract petitioned for, which, as it conceded the thing for which the petitioner had prayed, was often termed a concession. This grant was issued by the Intendant of the province in the name of the King. In different sections of the province different modes of surveying the public lands were adopted, suited to the nature of the country. On the rivers and bayous in Louisiana, from eight to twelve arpents in front, and sometimes more, were allowed to a concession, with forty in depth, which was called a single concession. A usage appears to have existed, under the Spanish and French Governments, of granting, on application of the proprietor of the land fronting upon a river or bayou, what was called a double concession, or forty arpents in depth in rear of the original concession, and of the same width with the part fronting on the river, making, in depth, eighty arpents. Such grants were founded on certain conditions prescribed to, and to be performed by, the settler. The reasons for making such concessions, which, if generally extended, were in violation of the policy of the Spanish Government, and well calculated to prevent a compact settlement of the country, were founded on the nature of the places where made, and generally confined to such places. In almost all the country now constituting the State of Louisiana, the lands on the margin of the rivers and bayous are higher than at a distance from them, and soon descend into marshes or cypress swamps. The alluvial lands immediately on the banks of those rivers and bayous are fit for habitation and cultivation; and the swamp lands, being wholly unfit for either, are well calculated to supply the front proprietors with timber. Thus, lands which were of no value to those who could neither inhabit nor cultivate them, were of considerable value to those who owned the lands fronting on the rivers and bayous. The Government of the United States, having regard to the usage of the Spanish Government, passed the provision contained in the fifth section of the act of March 3, 1811, giving the right of preference in becoming the purchaser of forty arpents in the rear of grants recognised by the laws of the United States, when situated on any river, creek, bayou, or water-course. Three years were given to file applications under the provision of said act. This section was again revived, and continued in force for two years by the act of the 11th of May, 1820; and again for eighteen months by the act of the 28th of February, 1823, which limitation will not have expired until the 28th of February next. After such a time having been afforded for filing those claims, your committee know no good reason for its continuance beyond the period to which it is limited; nor can they discover any propriety in extending its provisions to a class of cases not embraced by former acts of Congress, which they believe were founded on, and are in accordance with, the Spanish usage.

The second resolution instructs your committee to inquire into the expediency of causing patents to issue for lands to persons within the State of Louisiana, whose titles and claims to lands have been confirmed by the several Boards of Commissioners, acting under the authority of the United States. By referring to the act of Congress of the 8th of April, 1814, it will be found that it is made the duty of the Registers of the several land districts in Louisiana to furnish the principal deputy surveyor of that district with lists of the confirmed private claims; and it is also made the duty of such principal deputy, under the direction of the surveyor south of Tennessee, to survey those claims at the expense of the United States; which surveys are required to be returned to the several Registers, whose duty it is to forward them to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, with the certificates of confirmation, whose duty it is made to make out the patents, and forward them to the Registers for the use of the claimants. From this statement it will appear that, if any unaccountable or unreasonable delay has occurred in issuing the patents to land in Louisiana, it cannot be attributed to any want of legislation on the part of Congress. Nor are the committee in the least disposed to fix censure upon any one; but, in the absence of all other evidence, except the mere want of performance of the duties required by law, feel themselves bound to presume that the delay in issuing patents has proceeded from the unsettled state of private claims to land in Louisiana, or from causes not heretofore evitable. This they feel the more inclined to do, as they find a confirmation of private claims, on an examination made but a short time previously to such confirmation, at the last session of Congress. At all events your committee are unwilling, unless the most conclusive evidence were presented to them of wilful negligence or omission of duty on the part of the President and officers of the Government to add commands to what has already been prescribed as duties by former acts of legislation.

By the third resolution your committee are required to inquire into the expediency of offering for sale, as speedily as possible, the public lands in the districts south and north of Red river. The increase and diminution in the demand for public lands must always depend on the fluctuations in the state of the market for produce, the flourishing condition or destruction of crops, with the thousand causes which impel the tide of emigration to particular points. All these require that a discretion should be vested somewhere as to the quantity of public lands which may at any time be exposed to sale, and the time when such sales are expedient. From the first sales of the public lands until the present time, that discretion has been vested in the President of the United States, and, as your committee believe, very properly. Your committee cannot, therefore, consistently with their opinion of propriety, request Congress to take away that discretion from the President and place it in Congress, necessarily bound to act by general rules, without regard to occurrences and emergencies, the effect of causes which essentially change the existing state of things in a few months, weeks, or even days.

The fourth resolution requires your committee to inquire into the expediency of creating a separate Surveyor General's district for the State of Louisiana. Your committee do not believe that any peculiar necessity exists for the establishment of such a district in Louisiana, which is not equally felt in the several States and Territories of the United States where the public lands are, and, in relation to which, no such provision has been made. By a general resolution the whole subject has been referred to your committee, and will, in due time, be acted and reported on to the House.

By the fifth resolution your committee are instructed to inquire into the expediency of reducing the price of the public lands in the prairies of Louisiana, at a certain distance from wood and timber. On this subject your committee must remark, that, from the time the first public lands were offered for sale by the United States until the present period, the minimum price has been every where the same. With this uniformity in price your committee are not disposed to recommend any interference. Reasons of a different kind, but no less cogent, have been urged for the reduction of the price of the public lands in other places than Louisiana. Whenever the period arrives when Congress shall think proper to class the lands according to their relative value, or to reduce the price of the refuse lands, it is presumed that some general provision will be made, embracing the subject of this resolution: in the mean time we are not disposed to recommend any partial reduction which might give just cause for dissatisfaction to the people where such privileges were not extended.

Your committee, on an examination of the several subjects submitted by the resolutions, request the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Public Lands be discharged from the further consideration of the several resolutions submitted to them in relation to lands in Louisiana, on the 9th of December last.

FURTHER RELIEF TO PURCHASERS OF PUBLIC LANDS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 12, 1824.

Mr. RANKIN, from the Committee on the Public Lands, to whom was referred a resolution of this House of the 18th of December last, instructing them to inquire into the expediency of reviving and continuing in force the provisions of the act of Congress entitled an act for the relief of the purchasers of public lands prior to the 1st July, 1820, reported:

By the act of the 2d of March, 1821, purchasers were allowed until the 30th of September following, to avail themselves of the law referred to in the resolution. From some delay in transmitting the necessary instructions to the several land offices, the limited time which was given to file the applications for the benefit of that law, and the remote situation of some of the claimants from the land offices where such applications were required to be filed, Congress, believing a revival of the act of 1821 expedient, passed the supplementary act of the 20th of April, 1822. That law gave all those, who had not availed themselves of the provisions of the original act, an opportunity to do so at any time prior to the 30th of September, 1822. Notwithstanding this extension of time it was discovered, from numerous petitions presented to Congress at their last session, that a large class of cases existed, and which were necessary to be provided for, where individuals intended to have availed themselves of the benefits of those acts, but, from accident or misfortune, had been prevented from filing their applications in due time. For these cases provision was made by the act of Congress of the 3d of April, 1823.

Your committee believe that these laws have afforded a sufficient opportunity to all who were attentive to their own interests to have obtained the relief provided by them; and they have no information which would, in their opinion, justify recommending to Congress the expediency or propriety of reviving and continuing in force the provisions of the act referred to in the resolution. We, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is inexpedient, at this time, to revive and continue in force the provisions of the act of Congress entitled "An act for the relief of the purchasers of the public lands prior to the 1st of July, 1820."

SALE OF LANDS IN FORTY ACRE LOTS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 12, 1824.

Mr. RANKIN, from the Committee on the Public Lands, to whom was referred the memorial of the Legislature of Alabama, praying Congress to authorize the sale of the public lands in tracts of forty acres, or sixteenth parts of a section, reported:

The existing laws require the public lands to be sold in tracts of eighty acres, or one-eighth part of a section, and requires quarter sections to be divided by lines running north and south. We believe few persons will be found whose circumstances are so limited as to preclude them from the purchase, at the minimum price, of so small a quantity as that now offered at the public, and afterwards at private sale. Every sub-division of this kind diminishes the inducement to purchase tracts of lands, the aggregate value of which would induce the purchaser to take a portion of poor land with that which is good, and would greatly increase the quantity of refuse lands, of which the Government may never be able to make any disposition. Should the Government hereafter think proper to class the public lands, and dispose of them at prices proportioned to their quality, or generally to reduce the price of the refuse lands, these tracts, if kept entire, may, in that event, be disposed of; but, if divided in the manner proposed, a quantity must be left which never can be sold at any price. These small divisions might also be used to encompass the public lands in the centre of a section, so as to render them of no value to any one except the proprietor of the exterior parts.

Your committee, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is not now expedient to divide the public lands in the manner prayed for in the memorial of the Legislature of Alabama.

APPLICATION OF THE MEMBERS OF A RELIGIOUS SOCIETY IN ALABAMA FOR THE RIGHT OF PRE-EMPTION.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 14, 1824.

Mr. SCOTT, from the Committee on the Public Lands, to whom was referred the petition "of the members of the Baptist church in Lawrence county, in the State of Alabama," reported:

That the petitioners ask for the right of pre-emption to twenty acres of the public lands, at the minimum price of one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre, to be taken from a relinquished quarter section, without respect to form, &c.

The committee are inclined to believe that the right of pre-emption has already been extended far enough, when limited to some legal division or subdivision of the public lands; nor are they willing to set the example of giving this privilege to any individual or body of men, for such a small quantity as must necessarily, in the selection, leave the residue of the section or quarter section, from which taken, so much the less valuable. The site prayed for would, in all probability, take the only well-watered building spot in the quarter section, and leave the balance, as a refuse fraction, forever unsaleable. Nor have the committee been able to find any case analogous in its character, or parallel in its principle, and they are not willing to establish a precedent that would authorize any religious society or congregation in the United States to apply for similar privileges or favors. The committee, therefore, recommend the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioners have leave to withdraw their petition and documents.

TRANSFERS OF CLAIMS TO MILITARY BOUNTY LAND.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 20, 1824.

Mr. VINTON, from the Committee on the Public Lands, to whom was referred the petition of John P. Thompson, reported:

That, from the petition and evidence offered in support of the same, it appears that, some time in the year A. D. 1819, the petitioner purchased and obtained an assignment of the claim to military bounty land of John Rodges, Stephen Jackson, and Shubal Robinson, late soldiers of the army of the United States, who were discharged in the months of May and June of that year, after having served out the full period of enlistment, each of whom, as appears by their respective discharges, were substitutes for other soldiers, who had served a part of the period of enlistment previous to substitution by the above named assignors. The petition further states that, in addition to the supposed claim of Rodges as a substitute, he also purchased of him his claim, in his own right, to military bounty land, for a term of service performed by said Rodges anterior to his thus enlisting as a substitute, as above stated. In this case it is averred that the discharge has been lost; and, in the place of it, is substituted the affidavit of Rodges of the existence of the discharge, and the transfer of his claim to bounty land to the petitioner. It further appears that, at the time of these assignments, no patent had been issued for any of the tracts of land intended to be transferred. Upon the foregoing facts the petitioner founds his claim for relief. Your committee, without stopping to inquire whether a soldier who served out in part or in whole, as a substitute, the term of another's enlistment, is entitled to military bounty land, find the legislation of the country has interposed an insuperable difficulty to the relief asked for, by prohibiting the assignment, in any manner whatever, of a claim to military bounty land, until after a patent shall have been granted, and declaring every such assignment to be null and void. The salutary operation of this law, in preventing fraud and speculation upon a class of the community peculiarly liable to become their victim, can scarcely admit of doubt. And though individuals (of whom, possibly, the petitioner is one) may have purchased fairly, without a knowledge of their legal inability to enter into such contract, yet an attempt so far to modify the law as to discriminate between the fair and unfair purchaser, would, from its impracticability, in the opinion of your committee, defeat the object and policy of the law, by opening a door for the introduction of all the evils it was intended to prevent. The committee, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the petitioner have leave to withdraw his petition, with the accompanying documents.

CLAIM TO MILITARY BOUNTY LAND.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 21, 1824.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, made the following report:

The Committee on Private Land Claims, to whom were referred the petition and documents of Robert S. Foreman, have considered the same, and report:

The petitioner states he enlisted under Captain Young, of the fifteenth regiment of United States' infantry, on the 1st day of May, 1812, for eighteen months. That, although his term of service ought to have expired on the 1st of November, 1813, yet that, owing to a mistake in his transfer from the fifteenth to the thirteenth regiment, he was designated as a soldier for five years, and was not discharged until the 24th of August, 1815. That, after the day on which he ought to have been discharged, he was in the battles of Williamsburg, La Cole, and Plattsburgh. Wherefore, he asks for such bounty, in land, as was allowed to soldiers who enlisted for five years.

The petitioner exhibits his discharge, which is an "honorable" one, dated the 24th of August, 1815, and signed by S. Churchill, adjutant general.

Walter Sheldon, who acted as a district paymaster, certifies, on the discharge, that the petitioner had been paid until the 24th of August, 1815.

From the discharge it appears the petitioner enlisted for eighteen months only, and that he served three years and three months, lacking seven days.

As the committee think the petitioner entitled to relief, a bill is herewith reported in his favor.

CLAIM TO LAND IN THE CITY OF MOBILE.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 21, 1824.

Mr. MOORE, of Alabama, made the following report:

The Committee on Private Land Claims, to which was referred the memorial of Thomas F. Townsley, in behalf of the heirs of the late Don Miguel Eslava, praying the confirmation of the claims of said heirs to sundry tracts and lots of land in the city and county of Mobile, conceded to the said Miguel Eslava by the Spanish authorities of Louisiana, report:

That they have had the said claims under consideration, and find them to consist of—

1. A concession made by Joaquin de Osorno, commandant and sub-delegate of the Intendancy of Louisiana at Mobile, to Miguel Eslava, dated 25th February, 1803, of a tract of land containing five thousand arpents, situate on Dog river, about a league from Mobile. This concession expresses to be in consideration of the public services of the grantee. The evidence shows that the land has been occupied and cultivated from about the year 1803.

2. A concession of a lot in the town of Mobile, made by the same commandant to Thomas Price, dated 25th February, 1803. Conveyed to Miguel Eslava 3d March, 1803

3. A concession of a lot in the town of Mobile, made by Cayetano Perez to Miguel Eslava, dated 5th April, 1803, to be improved at the convenience of the grantee, or when circumstances permit.

4. A concession of a tract of land south of the town of Mobile, containing four hundred and sixty feet by thirty arpents, made by the same commandant to Miguel Eslava, dated 23d June, 1802, to be improved at the convenience of the grantee, or when circumstances permit.

5. A concession of a tract of land containing six hundred and forty-eight feet front on Mobile river, by twenty-six arpents in depth, made by the same commandant to Miguel Eslava, dated 23d December, 1802, in consideration of the public services of the grantee.

6. A concession of a tract of land containing two hundred and thirty feet front on Mobile river, by three thousand two hundred feet in depth, made by the same commandant to Miguel Eslava, dated the 14th April, 1803. Proved to have been built upon and occupied about the year 1803.

7. A purchase of a lot of ground below Mobile, by Miguel Eslava at the judicial sale of the estate of J. B. de Lusser, on the 30th December, 1788; which lot has been occupied by Miguel Eslava upwards of thirty years immediately preceding his death, as his place of residence.

8. A concession of a lot in the town of Mobile, made by Cayetano Perez, commandant, &c., to Miguel Eslava, dated 21st December, 1802, to be improved at the convenience of the grantee, or when circumstances permit.

The testimony adduced before the committee shows that several of the above-mentioned claims have been actually improved by the grantee, and that they are all in the occupancy of his heirs, the present claimants, and that there is no rival or conflicting claim to any of them. The accompanying documents also prove that the grantee was, from the year 1782 to 1813, the date of the change of Government at Mobile, an officer employed in various responsible situations under the Spanish Crown, to wit: the offices of store-keeper and commissary general, collector of the customs and treasurer of the royal finances; and, in addition to the services rendered, and the legal merits of his claims, that, in consequence of his determination to remain under the American Government, he suffered heavy pecuniary losses, as is likewise shown by documents presented to the committee.

The committee are, therefore, of opinion that the claims of the heirs of Miguel Eslava for the several tracts and lots of land above mentioned, are such as in justice ought to be confirmed by the United States; and they have accordingly reported a bill providing for their confirmation.

BALANCES DUE FROM PURCHASERS OF PUBLIC LANDS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 23, 1824.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, January 23, 1824.

In obedience to a resolution of the House of Representatives, of the 30th December, 1823, the Secretary of the Treasury has the honor to transmit, herewith, a statement exhibiting, as far as returns have been received at the Treasury, the amount of money remaining to be paid by the purchasers of public lands prior to the first day of July, 1820, and designating the amount due for lands purchased in each State; accompanied by an explanatory letter from the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

SIR:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, GENERAL LAND OFFICE, January 22, 1824.

In pursuance of a resolution of the House of Representatives of the United States, passed on the 30th of December, 1823, requiring "a statement showing the amount of money remaining to be paid by the purchasers of public lands prior to the first day of July, 1820, designating the amount due for lands purchased in each State," I have the honor, herewith, to transmit a statement exhibiting the balances due by individuals on account of public lands up to the end of the quarter immediately preceding that in which the relief law of 1821 took effect; also, the balances due on the 30th December, 1821, after the liquidation, by relinquishment of land and transfer of payments; and, also, the balances due on the 30th of September, 1822, after the further liquidation of those balances, by cash, at the discount of thirty-seven and a half per cent, under the fourth section of the act of the 2d March, 1821, aforesaid; and the further liquidation, under the provisions of the act of the 20th April, 1822, supplementary to the act of the 2d March, 1821.

It is deemed proper to observe that, as all the necessary official returns have not yet been received from the Receivers of Public Money at Edwardsville, St. Louis, Cahawba, Huntsville, and St. Stephens, up to the 30th of September, 1822, it is possible that, on the final adjustment of the accounts from these offices, there will hereafter be discovered a variance from the balances stated.

With great respect, your obedient servant,

GEORGE GRAHAM.

HON. WM. H. CRAWFORD, Secretary of the Treasury.

Statement exhibiting the balances due by purchasers of public lands prior to the 1st of July, 1820, on the 31st of December, 1820, and on the 30th of September, of the years 1821 and 1822.

CLAIM TO LAND IN LOUISIANA.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, JANUARY 30, 1824.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, from the Committee on Private Land Claims, to which were referred the petition and documents of Malachi Burns, reported:

The petitioner states that Edward Metcalf received from the Spanish Government on the 11th day of August, 1806, a concession for three hundred and ten arpents of land, lying in the parish of Feliciana, in the State of Louisiana, and that the same was surveyed the year following; that, in the year 1811, he purchased the said land, and settled on it, and has inhabited and cultivated the same ever since; that, in 1820, when the land office was opened at St. Helena court-house, he entered his claim with the Register and Receiver, and was assured it was a good one, and would be approved of by Congress; and that, from some cause unknown to him, his claim has not been reported to the General Land Office: wherefore he asks relief.

The petitioner offers, in support of his petition, the concession to Metcalf, and the deed executed by Metcalf to him in 1811. He also exhibits the affidavit of Thomas and John Dortch, made on the 30th of October last. They swear that Malachi Burns settled on the place where he now lives in 1811, and that he has cultivated it ever since, and has from fifty to sixty acres cleared.

The committee think there would be an impropriety in sanctioning evidences of title granted by the Spanish Government long after the date of the cession of Louisiana to the United States. However, as the petitioner appears to have been a bona fide purchaser, and furnishes conclusive proof that he has constantly, since the year 1811, inhabited and cultivated his purchase, which is claimed by no one else, the committee recommend that he be placed on a footing with those who inhabited and cultivated a tract of land in that district of country prior to the 15th day of April, 1813; and, for that purpose, report a bill.

PRE-EMPTION RIGHTS IN ARKANSAS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, FEBRUARY 4, 1824.

Mr. VINTON made the following report:

The Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the memorial of the Legislative Senate and House of Representatives of the Territory of Arkansas, in behalf of certain citizens of said Territory entitled to pre-emption rights under an act of Congress passed April 12, 1814, entitled "An act for the final adjustment of land titles in the State of Louisiana and Territory of Missouri," have had the same under consideration, and beg leave to report:

That, by the above mentioned act of Congress, it was, among other things, enacted, that every person, and the legal representatives of every person who had actually inhabited and cultivated a tract of land lying in the Territory of Missouri, (then embracing the present Territory of Arkansas,) which tract was not rightfully claimed by any other person, and who had not removed from said Territory, should be entitled to the right of pre-emption in the purchase thereof: provided, that no more than one-quarter section of land should be sold to any one individual by virtue of that act.

Every person claiming a preference in becoming a purchaser of a tract of land under that act was required to make known his claim by delivering a notice, in writing, to the Register of the Land Office for the district in which the land might lie, therein particularly designating the quarter section claimed. Subsequent to the notice, other steps were to be taken by the claimant to perfect his right of pre-emption, not necessary to be here enumerated. Your committee are informed that, at the time of passing said act, certain persons actually inhabited and cultivated tracts of land in that part of the then Territory of Missouri, (now Arkansas,) which was afterwards ceded by the United States to the Cherokee nation of Indians by treaty of July 8, 1817; but they have not been able to obtain any certain information as to the number of such persons, some of whom are represented to have made improvements of considerable value. No survey of the lands ceded to the Cherokees was ever made; consequently, it was not in the power of those entitled, to carry their pre-emption right into effect, or even to file the notice required of them by law. They, however, continued to occupy and cultivate the lands in their possession until after the treaty, when they were obliged to surrender them to the Indians, who took possession thereof, as proprietors, by virtue of the cession of that tract of country to them. By the stipulations of that treaty, the United States were obliged to pay the Cherokees for all lands east of the Mississippi river ceded by them to the United States, upon which improvements had been made, that added real value to the land; which payment was to be made in money, or, in lieu thereof, other improvements of equal value were to be given in exchange therefor. The value of the Indian improvements was to be ascertained by a commissioner to be appointed for that purpose. Whether the Arkansas improvements were received by the Indians in exchange for those relinquished by them east of the Mississippi, is not within the knowledge of your committee. The claimants entitled under the act of 1814, are, in the opinion of the committee, entitled to relief under any aspect of the case; and, though the granting them other pre-emption rights in lieu of those to which they were heretofore entitled, may not, under existing circumstances, be a full indemnity for their losses, yet it is the only equivalent that can be given without much expense and inconvenience, and, perhaps, practice of fraud upon the public.

Your committee, therefore, recommend the giving of pre-emption rights in some other part of the Territory of Arkansas, in lieu of those which were granted by the said act of April 12, 1814, and report a bill accordingly.

CLAIM OF THE NEW ENGLAND MISSISSIPPI LAND COMPANY.

COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE, FEBRUARY 10, 1824.

Mr. VAN BUREN, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the petition of Ebenezer Oliver and others, directors of a corporation called the New England Mississippi Land Company, &c., reported as follows:

1st. That, by the articles of agreement and cession of the 24th of April, 1802, between the United States and the State of Georgia, it was agreed that the United States might (in such manner as not to interfere with the payment to be made to the State of Georgia, or with the satisfaction of certain land claims agreed to be confirmed by the United States) appropriate not exceeding five millions of acres for satisfying certain claims on the land then ceded to the United States, commonly called the Yazoo claims; provided the act of Congress making such appropriation was passed within one year.

2dly. That, by the act entitled "An act regulating the grants of land, and providing for the disposal of the lands of the United States," passed the 3d of March, 1803, so much as should be found necessary of the five millions of acres reserved, as before stated, were appropriated to the purpose for which they had been reserved. But it was provided by that act, "that no other claims shall be embraced by this appropriation but those, the evidence of which shall have, on or before the first day of January next, been exhibited by the claimants to the Secretary of State, and recorded in books to be kept in his office for that purpose," &c.

3dly. That, pursuant to the provisions of the last mentioned act, the claims to the said lands were exhibited to the Secretary of State, including those now in question, but the passage of the final act providing for their adjustment and satisfaction, was delayed until the year 1814.

4thly. That many of the claims, so exhibited, were found to conflict with each other, and also with rights which had been acquired by the United States, in consequence of surrenders made to the State of Georgia, and which, by virtue of the cession, enured to the United States.

5thly. That, to make the indemnity, and provide for the adjustment of the claims in question, the act of the 3d of March, 1814, was passed; by which,

1st. The President was authorized and required to cause to be issued from the Treasury of the United States to such claimants, respectively, as had exhibited their claims agreeable to the act of 1803, certificates of stock, payable out of moneys arising from the sale of said public land, and, among other companies, to the persons claiming in the name or under the Georgia Mississippi Company, a sum not exceeding, in the whole, one million five hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

2d. That the claimants of the lands might file, in the office of the Secretary of State, a release of all their claims to the United States, and an assignment and transfer to the United States of their claim to any money deposited or paid to the State of Georgia, such release and assignment to take effect on the indemnification of the claimants, according to the provisions of that act.

3d. Commissioners were to be, and were accordingly, appointed, "to adjudge and finally determine upon all controversies arising from such claims so released as aforesaid, which may be found to conflict with, and be adverse to, each other, and also to adjudge and determine upon all such claims, under the aforesaid act, or pretended act, of the State of Georgia, as may be found to have accrued to the United States by the State of Georgia."

6thly. That the provisions of the act of 1814 were, in all respects, pursuant to a compromise made in behalf of the United States with the claimants, including the present petitioners, and that the release required by the said act was made by them.

8thly. The petitioners object to this decision as erroneous, and they ask to have the one hundred and thirty-two thousand four hundred and twenty-five dollars paid to them by the United States, or their release to the extent of the nine hundred and fifty-seven thousand six hundred acres cancelled, so that they may assert their title to the lands in a court of law. The Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of Brown and Gilman, 4 Wheaton, 256, have decided that the grant from the Georgia Mississippi Land Company to the individuals who afterwards constituted and composed the New England Mississippi Land Company, conveyed the legal estate, notwithstanding the act of Georgia prohibiting the deeds for the same from being recorded, and that, by the terms of the contract and the law of the land, the grantors had no lien on the lands for the consideration money, and that, therefore, the decree of the commissioners, in that respect, was erroneous. For the grounds of that decision, its operation upon the interests of the petitioners, and those they represent, and for a more particular statement of the facts and circumstances connected with the whole transaction, the committee refer to the case of Brown and Gilman, to the decree of the commissioners accompanying this report, to the accompanying certificates of two of the commissioners, and to a more particular statement made by the petitioners to the Judiciary Committee, and adopted by them in their report last year on the same petition.

9thly. The committee acquiesce in the correctness of the decision of the Supreme Court, and believe that the decision of the commissioners on the point of law raised before them was erroneous; but, as their decree was agreed, and declared by the law to be final and conclusive on the rights of all the parties, and as they have not found any circumstance in the case requiring that the same should be opened, but many strong reasons against the propriety of doing so, a majority of the committee are of opinion

That the prayer of the petitioners ought not to be granted.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, MARCH 8, 1824.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, March 8, 1824.

In obedience to a resolution of the House of Representatives, of the 12th ultimo, the Secretary of the Treasury has the honor to transmit, herewith, sundry statements, marked A, B, C, D, E, and F, which statements, with the lands described in the enclosed printed reports of the Secretary of the House of Representatives on the 2d of May, 1822, and 21st of February, 1823, contain all the information in this Department relative to the several matters to which the resolution refers.

Hon. the SPEAKER of the House of Representatives.

SIR:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, FIFTH AUDITOR'S OFFICE, February 19, 1824.

In compliance with the resolution of the House of Representatives, of the 12th instant, of which you have furnished me with a copy, I have caused to be prepared, and have the honor to enclose papers, marked A and B, showing the extent and description of real property which has been assigned by insolvent debtors, or set off to the United States by appraisement, under execution, its situation, and estimated value. No agent has been specially appointed for taking charge of this property. It having been acquired chiefly by reason of debts at the custom-houses in the vicinity of which this property is situated, the care and management of it has devolved upon the collectors without additional expense to the public.

The seventh section of the act of the 1st May, 1820, in relation to the Treasury, War, and Navy Departments, having forbid the purchase of lands without a special law for the purpose, no purchases of land have been made in behalf of the United States, by virtue of sales on execution, since the duties of agent of the Treasury were confided to me in July, 1821.

I have the honor to be, with great respect, sir, your obedient servant,

STEPHEN PLEASANTON, Agent of the Treasury.

Hon. SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

Remarks of the District Attorney relating to the above cases, viz: It will be perceived how much more for the interest of the United States it would be to have the real estate of these debtors sold at auction, instead of the present mode of valuation by three men. And there does not appear to be any objection to it, as the real estate of individuals is in this State sold at auction for payment of debts due from them to the State.

Remarks of the District Attorney, viz: The title conveyed to the United States by this deed is, I believe, entirely indisputable, and, as the land is every day increasing in value with the extension of the city, I have hopes that it may be found entirely sufficient to discharge the greater part, if not the whole, of the debt due to the United States, for which it was taken as security.

Extract from the remarks of the District Attorney, viz: The claims Nos. 9 and 10 are two judgments against Sill and Noyes, on which they were not committed. I have not obtained judgment in the suit on the bond taken when they were discharged from prison last October. The district judge remains incapable of performing his official duty. I went with the marshal to Lyme; and, after two days spent in viewing the different tracts of real estate, contrary to former impressions, I became convinced it was best, and directed the two judgments satisfied by levy on the most valuable property in the centre of the village, two new and expensive dwelling-houses, two small ones, with out-houses, and thirty acres of very superior land adjoining. I could select but one of the freeholders to appraise; but the estimate was on much better terms than I had expected. The buildings alone certainly cost more than $11,000. Actions of ejectment were instituted, returnable to the circuit court in April, and continued under the common rule to plead and have issues closed for trial at the September term, if we have a court to hear, &c. If we can obtain judgments, and settle the question of Sill in favor of the United States, I am confident the estate will pay the debt and interest, and probably all extra expenses.

SCHOOL LANDS IN OHIO.

COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE ON THE 10TH DAY OF MARCH, 1824.

Resolution and memorial to Congress on the subject of school lands.

Resolved, That the following memorial be submitted to the Congress of the United States during the present session, or so soon as may be practicable.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled: The memorial of the State of Ohio, in General Assembly, respectfully represents:

That, by the act of Congress of the United States, passed the 30th day of April, in the year 1802, the following, among other propositions, were offered to the convention to be assembled for the formation of a State Government for the people of the eastern division of the territory northwest of the Ohio, including the State of Ohio, that is to say: that the section number sixteen in every township, and, where such section had been sold, other lands equivalent thereto should be granted to the inhabitants of such township for the use of schools.

Secondly. That the six miles reservation, including the salt springs, commonly called the Scioto salt springs, the salt spring near the Muskingum river, and in the military tract, with the sections of land which include the same, should be granted to the said State for the use of the people thereof: Provided, the said Legislature should never sell nor lease the same for a longer period than ten years.

That the foregoing propositions, when acted upon and considered in Convention of Ohio, and by an ordinance passed the 29th day of November, in the year 1802, the aforesaid propositions were accepted: Provided, that the following modifications should be made thereto, that is to say: that, in addition to the first propositions securing the section number sixteen in every township, within certain tracts, to the inhabitants thereof for the use of schools, a like donation, equal to the one thirty-sixth part of the amount of the lands in the United States' military tract, should be made for the support of schools within that tract; and, also, that the like provision should be made for the support of schools in the Virginia reservation, so far as the unlocated lands in that tract would supply the proportion, after the warrants issued from said State should have been satisfied; and, also, that a donation of the same kind, or such provision as Congress should deem expedient, should be made to the inhabitants of the Connecticut Reserve; and that, out of all the lands which might thereafter be purchased of the Indian tribes by the United States, and lying within the State of Ohio, that the one thirty-sixth part should be given as aforesaid for the support of public schools; and that all lands before mentioned, to be appropriated for the use of schools, should be vested in the Legislature of said State of Ohio in trust for said purpose.

That a certain proportion of the lands lying within the State of Ohio had already been disposed of by the United States; and, by patent dated on the 13th day of September, in the year 1794, certain lands therein described were granted unto John Cleves Symmes, reserving to the United States, out of each township within the same, lot numbered sixteen for the use of schools, being one thirty-sixth part of the whole tract granted as aforesaid.

That a certain tract had also been granted unto Manasseh Cutler and others, under the name of the Ohio Company, in which lot numbered sixteen, being one thirty-sixth part, was also reserved for the use of schools; in addition to which are the appropriations for the Ohio and Miami Universities, but to which last appropriations to the Ohio and Miami University your memorialists have only adverted as not being intended to be embraced in the prayer of the memorial herewith submitted.

That the ordinances of the Convention of Ohio of November, 1802, gave rise to the act of the Congress of the United States of the 3d day of March, in the year 1803, by which it was enacted more specifically—

Firstly. That certain quarter townships in the tract commonly called the United States' military tract, and in said act particularly described, amounting to the one thirty-sixth part of the estimated whole amount of lands within that tract.

Secondly. That certain other quarter townships in the same United States' military tract, and in said act particularly described, for the use of the tract of country commonly called the Connecticut Reserve, were also, by said act, granted or reserved.

Thirdly. So much of that tract within this State, commonly called the Virginia military reservation, as would amount to one thirty-sixth part of the whole tract, was also granted, to be selected by the Legislature of the State of Ohio, out of the unlocated lands in that tract, after the warrants issued from the State of Virginia should have been satisfied.

Fourthly. There was also granted and secured by the same act one thirty-sixth part of all the lands of the United States lying in the State of Ohio, to which the Indian title had not been extinguished, which might thereafter be purchased of the Indian tribes by the United States, which thirty-sixth part should consist of the section No. sixteen in each township. The specified and declared object of the aforesaid grants and reservations were for the use of common schools within the several districts of country therein specified, and were, as your memorialists conceive, granted upon full consideration arising from the increased value of the remaining lands belonging to the United States, and also from the relinquishment, on the part of the State of Ohio, of the right to tax the lands of the United States within the State of Ohio until five years after the sale thereof; and that it was by the aforesaid act expressly declared, that the several appropriations for schools, made therein, were in conformity with, and in consideration of the conditions agreed on by the State of Ohio, by the ordinance of the Convention of said State, bearing date the 29th day of November, in the year 1802, and herein before particularly referred to.

That your memorialists conceive that it was the intention of the parties to the compact aforesaid, that one thirty-sixth part of all the lands within the State of Ohio should be granted to the people thereof for the use of common schools, and should be placed under the control of the Legislature thereof; and that this construction is warranted by the spirit, and even by the letter, of the different acts of the Congress of the United States when considered in relation to the ordinance of the State of Ohio above referred to, and to which a direct reference is had by the aforesaid last recited act of the Congress of the United States.

That, when it was afterwards ascertained that the grant aforesaid in relation to the tract of country commonly called the Virginia military reservation, would be rendered wholly inoperative in consequence of the limitation and condition thereunto annexed, by reason of the great and uncertain amount of warrants which had been issued by the State of Virginia, together with the extended period for locating the same, the Congress of the United States, in pursuance of the stipulations of the compact aforesaid, by the act passed the 2d day of March, in the year 1807, appropriated eighteen quarter townships and three sections, as are in said act described, for the use of schools in that tract of land in the State of Ohio commonly called Virginia military reservation, which were, by the said act, also vested in the Legislature, in trust for the use aforesaid.

That, at the period when the act aforesaid, making an appropriation for the tract commonly called the Connecticut Reserve, was passed, the Indian title had been extinguished to that part only which lies east of the Cuyahoga river, and the appropriation was made only in relation to that part to which the Indian title had been extinguished, and consisted of a tract equal to one-thirty-sixth part of the reserve to which the Indian title had been so extinguished, since which time the Indian title to that part of the reserve lying west of the Cuyahoga river has been extinguished by the United States for, and on account of, the State of Connecticut, who made the necessary appropriations for that purpose.

That, as your memorialists conceive it was in conformity with the spirit and intention of the compact aforesaid, and formed a material item of the consideration which induced the State of Ohio to make the concession they did make under that compact, that they should receive, in return, lands equal to one-thirty-sixth part of all the lands within the State of Ohio, to be appropriated for the use of common schools within said State.

The Legislature of the State of Ohio, construing the terms and spirit of the compact in the manner above set forth, do not hesitate to represent to the United States that, when the Indian title was extinguished to the tract of country lying in the Connecticut Reserve, west of the Cuyahoga, the terms aforesaid required of the United States that a law should be passed appropriating, from their unlocated lands within the State of Ohio, a tract equal to one-thirty-sixth part of the Connecticut Reserve, lying west of the Cuyahoga river, and that they, relying on the justice and good faith of the Government of the United States, confidently anticipated the passage of such an act in aid of the exertions of the State of Ohio in establishing a system of common free schools throughout the State.

That, in relation to the lands already appropriated as above described, the Legislature of the State of Ohio, in pursuance of the trust aforesaid, and in aid of the great and important object contemplated, have resorted to various methods of rendering them productive, and, in particular, that of leasing them to such individuals as have applied therefor; that experience, however, has fully demonstrated that this fund will be wholly unavailing in their hands in its present shape.

That, in order that the beneficial and laudable objects contemplated by the grants aforesaid may be secured to the people of the State of Ohio, it will, as your memorialists conceive, be necessary that the Legislature should possess the unlimited control over the lands aforesaid, with the power of disposing of them in fee.

The objections which are urged against the present mode of administering that fund are, in the first place, that, by reason of the facilities which the State of Ohio affords of acquiring a property in real estate, a necessity exists of leasing the lands in question to persons almost wholly destitute of pecuniary means, whereby the avails of those lands are rendered at least uncertain. In consequence, also, that, as these lands are detached over the whole State of Ohio, the expense which must necessarily be incurred by creating a superintendence over them, render them much less productive than your memorialists conceive they might be rendered if the lands were sold, and the proceeds concentrated in one fund.

The fact, also, before adverted to, that these lands must necessarily be entrusted to the possession of those of the lowest class of the community, and who possess no permanent interest in the soil, has produced a waste upon these lands of their timber, and otherwise, equal, perhaps, to the whole revenue which may have been derived from them.

The fact, also, that, by holding them under the present tenure, your memorialists are compelled to offer, upon lease, so great a proportion of their soil as will invite and retain a population within her boundaries of a character not to be desired, and in amount so great as to create an evil which can only be conceived of in a country where every individual, possessing a very moderate portion of industry and economy, may, within a single year, appropriate to himself, in fee, a quantity of land sufficient to furnish the means of support for an ordinary family, is also a circumstance which your memorialists conceive is not undeserving of consideration.

While the State of Ohio, in common with her sister States, shall have her ordinary proportion of idle and unprofitable members, this great proportion of land which must be held by lease, must, of necessity, produce a corresponding feature in her population. Although many industrious and valuable citizens may be found among the lessees of school lands, yet it must be admitted that the great body of those who constitute the strength and basis of every Government, and who are to be considered as the friends of good order and public improvement, are among those who are the owners as well as occupiers of the soil.

These evils, as your memorialists conceive, arise wholly from the system of granting these lands upon leases, and are such as cannot be remedied by any course of legislation whatever, if, as some have supposed, the State have not the power, under the term of the original grant, of disposing of these lands in fee. Notwithstanding your memorialists may be of opinion that they already possess this right, yet, so long as the question shall admit of any doubt, it must, of necessity, have the effect to restrain its exercise. It is true that, if the forms of proceedings established by States as the rules of action for its members shall or can be brought to operate upon the States themselves, this question might, perhaps, be rendered still more uncertain; but your memorialists conceive that the grants aforesaid being made to the people of the State of Ohio, through the medium of the Legislature, for the use of the people, that no limitations can have any operation further than as it shall furnish an argument against diverting this fund from its original and legitimate object.

The Legislature of the State of Ohio being in all respects sovereign within the constitution, their capacity to do any and every act in relation to property which its citizens hold in common is, as they conceive, necessarily implied; nor can they acknowledge that any rule other than the constitution can operate with any obligatory effect upon the power which has created the rules itself, except upon considerations of justice and policy towards those who may be affected by their acts.

It may, it is true, be said that these grants partake of the nature of a compact between the United States and the State of Ohio, and that, therefore, they are to be limited to their particular terms in relation to the State of Ohio. It is admitted that the grant exists in consequence of a compact; but, inasmuch as the United States have received a full and valuable consideration, which formed the inducement of the grant, and inasmuch as they have not reserved to themselves any beneficial interest in the land aforesaid, or possibility of reversion, or any title whatever, it cannot be supposed that they can possess any controlling power.

It may be urged, also, that, inasmuch as there has been no method pointed out in respect of the manner in which this trust should be executed, that the Legislature of the State of Ohio have an unlimited discretion in this respect, and may avail themselves of every possible method of producing the greatest advantage to those whom they represent. This argument, they conceive, is powerfully supported by the fact that the same act grants to the State as well the school lands in question as the six miles reservation, including the Scioto salt springs; in respect of which latter the Legislature are expressly restrained from selling the same, or leasing them for a longer period than ten years; and that the inference, from this circumstance, is direct that it was the intention of the parties to that compact that no such restraint should exist in relation to the other lands which did not come within this provision.

While your memorialists have been thus particular in endeavoring to give the proper definition of the powers they possess, in order that no conclusions may hereafter be drawn unfavorable to their claim from having made this application; and have thereby, perhaps, shown that, in a particular point of view, this application is wholly unnecessary, they are of opinion that an act of the Congress of the United States declaratory of the extent of the grants aforesaid, will be productive of much benefit in case the Legislature of the State should hereafter determine to dispose of the same; that it will have the full effect of removing every doubt in the minds of the purchasers, and thereby enhance the price which will be obtained for the same.

Therefore, your memorialists represent that it would be of advantage, and conduce to the future prosperity of the State of Ohio, that a law of the United States be passed declaring the authority of the State of Ohio to dispose of the said lands granted for the use of schools within said State, in fee, and that the proceeds thereof be invested in some permanent fund, the proceeds of which shall be applied, under the directions of the Legislature, for the use of common schools within the townships or districts to which they were originally granted in said State, and for no other use or purpose whatever: Provided, that the sections numbered sixteen, granted as aforesaid for the use of schools, shall not be sold without the consent of the inhabitants of such original surveyed township; and that they may be authorized and empowered to sell and dispose of the aforesaid six miles reservation, including the Scioto salt springs, the salt springs near Muskingum river, and in the military tract, with the sections of land which include the same, and apply the proceeds thereof to such literary purposes as the Legislature of the State of Ohio may hereafter direct.

Resolved further, That the Governor be requested to forward the foregoing memorial to the Government of the United States, and take such order and disposition of the funds as shall seem to him proper.

Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Speaker of the Senate.

LAND CLAIM DERIVED FROM THE STATE OF GEORGIA.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, MARCH 11, 1824.

Mr. WHIPPLE, from the Committee on the Public Lands, to whom was referred the petition of James Steptoe and others, reported:

That the petitioners claim lands under certain resolutions and proceedings of the Legislature of the State of Georgia, and set forth, in their petition, that the Legislature of the State of Georgia did, on the 20th day of February, 1784, by resolution, appoint commissioners "to examine as to the quantity and quality of the land on the Tennessee river, in that district of country since ceded by said State to the United States, and authorized the said commissioners to grant warrants of survey, which, when executed, were to be transmitted, with the plats, to the Surveyor General's office, that said warrants might pass to grants, with a proviso that no one person should obtain a grant for more than one thousand acres of land; and that, for each warrant obtained, a bond should be given, with sureties, to pay into the Treasury of the State of Georgia one-eighth of a dollar per acre, which sum shall be paid before a grant be obtained."

The petitioners further state that, under these resolutions of the State of Georgia, warrants did actually issue; and that they became the purchasers in the years 1785 and 1786, of 28,000 acres of the lands for which warrants were thus issued. That these lands were, at the expense of the petitioners, surveyed and located in the years 1789 and 1790; and the plats and certificates of these surveys were, during said years, duly returned into the office of the Surveyor General of the State of Georgia, and the requisite bonds executed.

The petitioners further rely upon the fact that, in the articles of agreement and cession between the State of Georgia and the United States, Congress was left at liberty to appropriate a portion of the lands ceded, not exceeding five millions of acres, for the purpose of satisfying and quieting any other claims than those particularly enumerated in said articles of agreement and cession, for which the Government of the United States might think proper to provide; and that, under this clause of the articles of agreement and cession, Congress, on the 3d day of March, 1803, passed a law appropriating the said five millions of acres for the purpose of satisfying such other claims to lands south of the State of Tennessee, not recognised by the said articles of agreement, as Congress may think proper to provide for.

Notwithstanding the seeming justice of the cause of these claimants, as it appears by the facts set out in their memorial, yet they have omitted to state that the Legislature of Georgia did, on the 23d of January, 1787, by resolve, direct the commissioners to give up the bonds which they had received to the purchasers, and to suspend further proceedings; so that, if, after this period, the petitioners proceeded to survey these lands at their own expense in the years 1789 and 1790, they cannot, on that account pretend, (by their own acts done, not only without the authority of the Legislature of the State of Georgia, but in opposition to it,) to bind either the State of Georgia, or the Government of the United States, to make them compensation; nor can the committee perceive any just ground for their claim. They, therefore, submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That the prayer of the petition be not granted.

TITLE OF THE UNITED STATES TO A TOWNSHIP OF LAND IN THE PURCHASE OF JOHN CLEVES SYMMES.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, MARCH 16, 1824.

Mr. RANKIN, from the Committee on the Public Lands, who were directed by a resolution of this House, of the 31st of December, 1823, to "inquire into the title and right of the United States in and to one township of land reserved for certain purposes in the contract entered into with John C. Symmes, as mentioned in the laws passed in 1792 and 1803, relating thereto," reported:

Your committee do not intend to examine the legal right of the United States to a township of land within the tract purchased by John C. Symmes, referred to in the resolution, believing it to be their duty to mature business to be acted on by Congress, and that Congress have only the power of enacting laws, but not of expounding them, or of declaring the rights created by those laws. Each of the departments of the Government, executive, legislative, and judicial, have severally certain powers delegated, and duties assigned them, by the constitution, and which they may perform without invading the prerogatives of the other, or transcending the limits of their authority. When a committee of the House of Representatives have reported on the business referred to them by the House, they have discharged the duty required of them; and, when Congress has done an act of legislation, their power ceases, and it remains for another department of the Government to see the law executed, and to another distinct department to expound the law, and to declare the rights created thereby. When defects in existing legislation are properly presented, Congress may supply those defects, or may remedy existing evils, depending on legislative enactments. Had this case presented any thing requiring legislative interposition your committee would have sought a remedy, and have proposed it to the House; but, believing as they do, that the legislation on this subject heretofore has been ample, and intending to confine themselves to what they believe to be their legitimate powers and duties, they cannot recommend to this House any further legal provision. Of the manner in which the provisions of the law of 1803 have been carried into effect, your committee have no information. It is sufficient for them to know that every thing necessary to be done by Congress was done by passing that law. Its execution depended on another department of the Government, whose duty it was to see the laws duly executed. In the absence of all evidence to the contrary, your committee are bound to presume that what was directed to be done had been performed by those charged with the execution of the laws. At all events, unless some apparent defect in the existing laws were shown, your committee would not recommend to Congress to reiterate commands, and prescribe duties already prescribed, feeling that such a course would neither comport with propriety, nor their dignity as a legislative body. Your committee believing that this House never intended to require of them an examination of any question of mere right, and conforming their report to what they have conceived to be their powers and duties, present to the House a concise view of the reservation in the patent from the United States to John C. Symmes, and the subsequent legislation in relation thereto, by the act of the 3d of March, 1803, which they believe will show that nothing more is necessary to be done by Congress.

On the 30th of September, 1794, a patent was issued, by the authority of the United States, to John C. Symmes, for two hundred and forty-eight thousand acres of land, situated between the Ohio and Great Miami rivers, in the then Northwestern Territory, in which patent, among other things, it was declared "that one complete township or tract of land, of six miles square, should be located, with the approbation of the Governor, for the time being, of the Territory Northwest of the Ohio, and in the manner and within the term of five years, as nearly as may be in the centre of the tract of land herein (by said patent) granted, hath been and is hereby (by said patent) granted, and shall be holden in trust, to and for the exclusive intent and purpose of erecting and establishing therein an academy and other public schools and seminaries of learning, and endowing and supporting the same, and for no other use, intent, and purpose whatever." Whether the land thus reserved was located by the Governor or not, can only be inferred from the subsequent act of the 3d of March, 1803, by which it is provided, in the fourth and fifth sections thereof, "that one complete township in the State of Ohio, and district of Cincinnati, or so much of any one complete township within the same, as may then remain unsold, together with as many adjoining sections as shall have been sold in said township, so as to make, in the whole, thirty-six sections, to be located under the direction of the Legislature of the said State, on or before the 1st day of October next, (October, 1803,) with the Register of the land office of Cincinnati, be, and the same is hereby, vested in the Legislature of the State of Ohio, for the purpose of establishing an academy, in lieu of the township already granted for the same purpose, by virtue of the act entitled 'An act authorizing the grant and conveyance of certain lands to John Cleves Symmes and his associates;' provided, however, that the same shall revert to the United States, if, within five years from the passage of this act, a township shall have been secured, for the said purpose, within the boundary of the patent granted, by virtue of the above-mentioned act, to John Cleves Symmes and his associates. And that the attorney general for the time being be directed and authorized to locate and accept, from the said John Cleves Symmes and his associates, any one complete township within the boundaries of the said patent, so as to secure the same, for the purpose of establishing an academy in conformity to the provisions of said patent; and, in case of non-compliance, to take, or direct to be taken, such measures as will compel an execution of the trust: Provided, however, that John Cleves Symmes and his associates shall be released from the said trust, and the said township shall vest in them, or any of them, in fee simple, upon payment into the Treasury of the United States of fifteen thousand three hundred and sixty dollars, with interest from the date of the above-mentioned patent to the day of such payment."

Whether the act of 1803 proceeded from a refusal, on the part of Mr. Symmes, to permit the location, or the neglect of the Governor to discharge his duty in due time, your committee are not informed; nor do we know whether the township out of the limits of Symmes's patent was located for the purposes expressed in that act; nor do they know whether Mr. Symmes was applied to, and refused the location therein provided for; or if the measures contemplated to be adopted were pursued to compel an execution of the trust. We only know that the existing laws are sufficient to secure both the interests of the people within the limits of the land granted to Symmes, and those of the United States, and that it is the duty of the officers of the Government to execute those laws. We, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Public Lands be discharged from the further consideration of the resolution in relation to the township of land, reserved for certain purposes, in the patent by the United States to John C. Symmes.

SALT SPRINGS AND LEAD AND COPPER MINES.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, MARCH 30, 1824.

To the House of Representatives:

MARCH 28, 1824.

I herewith transmit a report of the Secretary of War, together with a report from the Commissioner of the Land Office, accompanied by the necessary documents, communicating the information heretofore requested by a resolution of the House in relation to the salt springs, lead, and copper mines, together with the probable value of each of them, and of the reservations attached to each, the extent to which they have been worked, the advantages and proximity of each to navigable waters, and the origin, nature, and extent of any claims made to them by individuals or companies; which reports contain all the information at present possessed on the subjects of the said resolution.

JAMES MONROE.

DEPARTMENT OF WAR, January 23, 1824.

The Secretary of War, to whom was referred the resolution of the House of Representatives, of the 8th of February last, requesting the President of the United States to communicate to the House, "at the next session of Congress, the information heretofore requested, by a resolution of this House, in relation to salt springs, lead, and copper mines, accompanied by such other information as he may be in possession of, or obtain, as to the probable value of each of them, and of the reservations attached to each; of the extent to which they have been worked, or are susceptible of being worked; the advantages and proximity of each to navigable waters; the origin, nature, and extent of any claims made to any of them, by individuals or companies; together with any other information deemed important by him, in relation to such salt springs, lead, and copper mines," I have the honor to submit, herewith, a report of the Ordnance Department upon so much of the resolution as relates to lead mines, which furnishes all the information, in relation to that subject, in this Department.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant,

J. C. CALHOUN.

The PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

SIR:

ORDNANCE DEPARTMENT, January 17, 1824.

In obedience to your directions to make a report to you upon the inquiries made in the resolution of the House of Representatives of the United States, of the 8th of February last, in "relation to salt springs, lead, and copper mines," and requiring such information respecting each as is detailed in said resolution, I beg leave respectfully to offer the following, in regard to the lead mines, those being the only part which have come within the knowledge and under the direction of this Department, since the 29th November, 1821, the time at which the charge thereof was transferred to it from that of the Treasury or the General Land Office.

In replying to this particular branch of the inquiry, this report will also necessarily be confined to the lead mines of the northern parts of the State of Illinois, where the operations of this Department have been chiefly directed. The information which it possesses in regard to those of Missouri being limited to that procured from other sources, and as is detailed in the first report from this office, of the 12th November, 1822, to which I respectfully beg leave to refer, as well as to that of the 18th January of the past year.

As to the probable "value" of the mines now alluded to, and as discovered in the vicinity of the Mississippi and Fever rivers, I have to state that, from the limited operations of four or five individuals on the same number of half sections of land, and within the period of a few months, (less than a year,) near a million pounds of mineral have been raised, and the discoveries of other mineral tracts made, which have led to the conclusion, in the minds of many persons who have visited that part of the country, that considerable profits can be made to accrue to individual enterprise, as well as gain to the United States, from the works and discoveries being prosecuted under prudent and able management. And the foregoing is the only extent, as inquired into by the resolution, to which they have yet been worked, though reported to be capable of being improved to an incalculable amount.

"The reservations" to which those now spoken of "are attached," are within the general limits prescribed in the treaty with certain tribes of Indians made on the 24th August, 1815, amounting to fifteen miles square, to be located in the vicinity of the Mississippi and Ouisconsin rivers. "Their proximity to navigable waters" is, and will necessarily be, confined within the distance of a few miles from the river Mississippi and its tributary streams.

As "to the origin, nature, and extent of any claims made to any of them by individuals or companies," there are not any claims applicable to the mine lands of Illinois now under consideration, the lands having been but recently the subject of cession and retrocession on the part of the United States and the Ottoway, Chippewa, and Pottawatamie tribes or nations of Indians.

With regard to "any other information which may be deemed important" in relation to lead mines, as is required in the concluding part of the resolution of the House, it may be sufficient to add, to what has been formerly communicated, that this Department has already had sufficient experience to ascertain that, with only the temporary expedients which it has had at command, it has been impossible to institute or to enforce such measures for the profitable working of the mines as were hoped for on its first undertaking the management thereof; and that, if it be proposed to continue that management, some legislative aid should be devised without further delay. With more particular reference to such aid, I would beg leave to repeat the suggestions contained in my report of 12th November, 1822, namely, the expediency of recommending to Congress the passage of a law providing for the appointment and compensation of one or more agents, well skilled in mineralogy, for the principal mining districts of Missouri and Illinois, who should be empowered to superintend the working of the mines; to receive and account for all rents; to see that no mines were worked without authority; to keep offices of records of all leases and surveys; to assist in making new discoveries of all the various minerals, such as zinc, copper, tin, and the precious metals, for which the same regulations should also be made by law in lands belonging to the United States, as in those containing lead. An extension of the leases from three to five years, as now authorized, to ten years, would give greater confidence and encouragement to men of moneyed capital to invest it in mining operations. It might also be deemed expedient to grant leases for three years, free from rent, to persons who should originate discoveries of tracts of land containing any of the aforesaid minerals or precious metals.

An appropriation of money has also become necessary for defraying the expenses of surveys already incurred, and for other contingent expenses which have accrued, or which may accrue, in organizing the mining concerns to greater advantage, and for which no provision whatever has yet been made by law.

Without such or somewhat similar measures, or by opening the mines by public sale of the lands to the sole private enterprise and exertions of individuals, it is not believed by this Department that they can be brought to that degree of productiveness and advantage to the United States, as it is also believed they may be rendered capable by the aids which have been suggested.

Respectfully submitted by, sir, your most obedient servant,

G. BOMFORD,

Lieutenant Colonel on Ordnance duty.

Hon. J. C. CALHOUN, Department of War.

Report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office in relation to lead mines and salt springs.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office, to whom was referred the resolution of the House of Representatives, of the 8th of February, 1823, requesting the President of the United States to communicate to that House, "at the next session of Congress, the information heretofore requested by a resolution of this House in relation to salt springs, lead, and copper mines, accompanied by such other information as he may be in possession of, or obtain, as to the probable value of each of them, and of the reservations attached to each; of the extent to which they have been worked, or are susceptible of being worked; the advantages and proximity of each to navigable waters; the origin, nature, and extent of any claims made to any of them by individuals or companies, together with any other information deemed important by him in relation to such salt springs, lead, and copper mines," has the honor to submit the accompanying report, together with the documents designated in the following schedule:

A. Map exhibiting the mine country of Missouri as reported in the official surveys, and showing the land sold; and also, the lands excluded from sale on account of mineral appearances, as far as returns are received.

B. Copies of the documents in relation to the mines in the district of Cape Girardeau, in Missouri, with plates of the reserve mineral land.

C. Copies of the reports of the late Board of Commissioners for the adjudication of land titles in Louisiana, in relation to the claims of lead mines and salt springs.

D. Copies of two letters from J. B. C. Lucas, one of the commissioners for deciding on land titles in Louisiana, stating the reasons for his official opinions in relation to the claims to lead mines, &c.

E. Documents alphabetically arranged, from A to P, inclusive, in relation to the titles of the claimants to lead mines and salt springs, which were laid before the Board of Commissioners by W. C. Carr, agent of the United States, accompanied by an abstract of the same, made out by the said agent.

F. Copy of a communication from Frederick Bates, Recorder of land titles at St. Louis, in relation to the mines of Missouri, together with an abstract of the claims of individuals to the same, and a copy of a letter from the late John Rice Jones on the subject of the value of the mines, and the mode of working them.

G. Copy of a letter from the Register of the Land Office at Shawneetown, in relation to lead mineral in Illinois, exhibiting the lands reserved on account of the same, and accompanied by a map, showing the reserved lands.

H. Copy of a letter from Moses Austin, communicating detailed information in relation to mining in Missouri.

I. Extract from a letter of the Register of the Land Office at St. Louis, dated July, 1821, stating the reasons why a list of the lands reserved on account of mineral appearances could not then be furnished, as was requested.

K. Statements from the Register of the Treasury of the proceeds of the lead mines and salt springs, as exhibited by the books of the Treasury.

L. Copies of letters from Levin Wailes, William Clarke, and J. B. C. Lucas, in relation to mines and salines, in reply to a circular letter on that subject.

SALT SPRINGS.

OHIO.

By the second proposition of the act of Congress, of the 30th April, 1802, entitled "An act to enable the people of the eastern division of the territory northwest of the river Ohio, to form a constitution and State Government, and for the admission of such State into the Union on an equal footing with the original States, and for other purposes," it is provided, that "the six miles reservation, including the salt springs commonly called the Scioto Salt Springs, the salt springs near the Muskingum river, and in the military tract, with the sections of land which include the same, shall be granted to the said State for the use of the people thereof; the same to be used under such terms, conditions, and regulations, as the Legislature of the said State shall direct: Provided, The said Legislature shall never sell nor lease the same for a longer period than ten years."

The above grant includes all the salt springs known in this State to this office, except the following, which remain the property of the General Government, viz: Boiling spring, situated in the Piqua district, in the southeast quarter of section 16, township 6, south, range 14, east.

Salt spring on Yellow creek, in the Steubenville district, on the southeast quarter of section 34, township 11, range 3. This spring has heretofore been under lease, the avails of which have been inconsiderable.

INDIANA.

By the second proposition of the act of Congress, of the 19th of April, 1816, entitled "An act to enable the people of the Indiana Territory to form a constitution and State Government, and for the admission of such State into the Union, on an equal footing with the original States," it is provided, "that all salt springs within the said Territory, and the land reserved for the use of the same, together with such other land as may, by the President of the United States, be deemed necessary and proper for working the said salt springs, not exceeding, in the whole, the quantity contained in thirty-six entire sections, shall be granted to the said State, for the use of the people of the said State; the same to be used under such terms, conditions, and regulations as the Legislature of the said State shall direct: Provided, The said Legislature shall never sell nor lease the same for a longer period than ten years at any one time."

Hence, there are no salt springs in this State owned by the General Government.

ILLINOIS.

By the second proposition of the sixth section of the act of the 18th of April, 1818, entitled "An act to enable the people of Illinois Territory to form a constitution and State Government, and for the admission of such State into the Union on an equal footing with the original States," it is provided, "that all salt springs within such State, and the lands reserved for the use of the same, shall be granted to the said State for the use of the said State; and the same to be used under such terms, conditions, and regulations as the Legislature of the said State shall direct: Provided, The Legislature shall never sell nor lease the same for a longer period than ten years at any one time."

Hence, there are no salt springs in this State owned by the General Government.

MISSOURI.

By the second proposition of the sixth section of the act of Congress, of the 6th of March, 1820, entitled "An act to authorize the people of the Missouri Territory to form a constitution and State Government, and for the admission of such State into the Union on an equal footing with the original States, and to prohibit slavery in certain Territories," it is provided, "that all salt springs, not exceeding twelve in number, with six sections of land adjoining to each, shall be granted to the said State, for the use of the said State, the same to be selected by the Legislature of the said State, on or before the 1st day of January, of the year 1825; and the same, when so selected, to be used under such terms, conditions, and regulations as the Legislature of the said State shall direct: Provided, That no salt spring, the right whereof is, or hereafter shall be, confirmed or adjudged to any individual or individuals, shall, by this section, be granted to said State: And provided, also, That the Legislature shall never sell nor lease the same for a longer period than ten years, without the consent of Congress."

FRANKLIN DISTRICT.

The following is a list of lands reserved for the future disposal of Congress in the district of lands offered for sale at Franklin, Missouri, being those tracts including and adjoining salt springs.

ST. LOUIS.

In township 55, north, range 7, west, in sections No. 26 and 35, there is a pond which is reported as being salt water.

In township 43, north, range 5, east, in sections 2 and 11, a salt spring is reported, situate near the Merri-mac river.

Agreeably to the report of the Board of Commissioners for the adjustment of claims to land in Louisiana, (documents marked C,) it will be perceived that there are eight claims, including salt springs, all of which are rejected except two, which, in the opinion of the commissioners, ought to be confirmed. On reference to the surveyor's returns, there are no private claims exhibited which include salt springs; it is, therefore, inferred that the two private claims alluded to have not yet been surveyed.

It may be that some of the salt springs, the claims to which were not confirmed, are included in the foregoing exhibit; but the commissioners' report having been made prior to the date of the public surveys, does not furnish the means of identifying their locality.

It is said that the General Assembly of Missouri have caused to be located six of the twelve salt springs granted, by law, to that State, but the official evidence of the location has not yet been received at this office.

MISSISSIPPI AND ALABAMA.

In the States above mentioned no salt springs have yet been reported by the surveyor.

LOUISIANA.

In the land districts north of Red river, in this State, the public surveys exhibit two salt springs, viz:

One in township No. 12, range No. 5, west.

The other in township No. 13, range No. 4, west.

As the exterior lines only of these townships have been surveyed, the precise locality of these springs cannot be designated.

In the county of Natchitoches, in this State, there are seven claims, including salt springs, reported on by the commissioners, only one of which has been recommended for confirmation.

The six remaining unconfirmed are as follows, viz:

Claim, reported as No. 7, in the name of John Burnet, containing six hundred and twenty and twenty one-hundredths acres.

Claim, reported as No. 24, in the names of Benjamin Goodin and Alexander Baillie, containing five hundred and eighty-five and forty one-hundredths acres, on the bayou Saline.

Claim, reported as No. 25, in the names of Benjamin Goodin and Alexander Baillie, containing six hundred and forty acres, on the bayou Saline.

Claim, reported as No. 45, in the names of the heirs of James Morrison, embracing a league square, including the salt spring, on the bayou Saline.

Claim No. 16, in favor Samuel Coburn, including two salt wells, on the right bank of the bayou Saline.

Claim No. 73, in favor of Pierre Rosseau, forty arpents front, on the Saline bayou, by forty arpents deep, also includes a salt spring. This claim is recommended for confirmation, with the exception of the salt spring.

It is believed that these claims, including salt springs, are situate in the townships above mentioned; but, as the claims to the springs have not been confirmed, and the townships have only been surveyed on the exterior lines, their precise locality cannot be ascertained.

MICHIGAN TERRITORY.

In this Territory the public surveys exhibit the following described salt springs:

One situate on the southeast quarter of section 34, township 4, north range 12, east. One situate on an island in Saline river, between sections 2 and 11, township 3, north range 14, east. One situate northeast quarter of section 12, township 4, south range 5, east. One between the northwest and southwest quarter of section 9, township 1, south range 8, east. One on the southwest quarter of section 27, township 1, south range 10, east.

ARKANSAS TERRITORY.

In the district of Arkansas county, in this Territory, there is one salt spring reported, situate in section 11, township 10, south range 29, west.

MINERALS.

Minerals in Missouri.

That district of country which is included between the following boundaries, viz: from the head waters of the St. Francis river, in a northwesterly direction, to the Merrimac river, a distance of about seventy miles in length, and from the Mississippi, in a southwesterly direction, to the Fourche à Courtois, a distance of about forty-five miles in breadth, was formerly known as the lead mine country of Louisiana, the superficial extent of which may be estimated at about three thousand square miles. It abounds with minerals of various descriptions, but is particularly characterized by the abundance of lead ore, and appearances of lead mineral, and includes such of the lead mines as are now, or have been formerly wrought, under claims said to have been derived from foreign authorities prior to the cession of Louisiana to the United States. It comprises a considerable extent of the counties of Washington, St. Genevieve, Jefferson, and Madison, in the now State of Missouri.

The most important minerals are, lead ore, iron ore, manganese, zinc, antimony, arsenic, saltpetre, salt, nitre, steatite or soapstone, plumbago, and a variety of others of minor importance.

It is said that iron ore is found in large quantities in Washington county, and on Fourche à Courtois, (where it is accompanied by manganese.)

Also on Big river, on Platten, and Joachim creeks, and on the waters of the St. Francis and Black rivers. Zinc accompanies the lead ore at several places in Washington county; antimony has been found in Bellevue, and arsenic in Cape Girardeau. Stone coal is said to have been discovered in large bodies at Florissant, and in various places on the Osage river.

Most of the principal lead mines now known in Missouri have been worked from a very early period; and, from the extent of the indications of the old diggings of lead, which are found in various parts of the country, and the discovery of ancient works, furnaces, &c., there is every reason to conclude that the lead mine country of Missouri has occupied the attention of adventurers from a very early period, and probably before the grant to Anthony Crozat, in 1712, by Louis XIV.; under which grant the property of the mines and minerals was conveyed in perpetuity to Crozat and to his heirs, on the condition that they should revert to the Crown of France whenever the working of the same was discontinued for three years together. After the retrocession of Crozat's grant to the Crown of France, which took place in 1717, a company of individuals at Paris, under the name of the Western Company, was invested, by letters patent from the French Government, with certain exclusive privileges of commerce in Louisiana, among which was the right of working the mines to the same extent that had previously been accorded to Crozat.

The first evidence of any systematic operations in working the mines appear to have existed under the authority of this company.

The Western Company surrendered their grant to the Crown between the years 1730 and 1740, and the country was ceded by France to Spain in 1762.

From privileges said to have existed under these foreign authorities, claims have been asserted by individuals to the principal lead mines of Missouri. The evidences in support of these claims have been submitted to the Board of Commissioners for adjudicating land titles in Louisiana, but no definitive decision has, however, been made by them, as will be seen from the copy of the report of the Board of Commissioners on the subject of lead mines, (which has heretofore been submitted to Congress,) together with the evidences adduced in support of these claims; all which documents are herewith transmitted, (documents marked C and E.) Pending the state of indecision in regard to these claims, which will be discovered from the report of the Board of Commissioners, the claimants, if not all, have, in numerous instances, continued their mining operations to an extent that is only very partially known to this office, and have even gone on to make new discoveries.

As to the number and locality of the lead mines of Missouri, and the extent of the reservations of the same.

As before stated, the principal mines were discovered, and are claimed by rights said to have existed prior to the cession of Louisiana to the United States. The only measures which Government has yet taken to discover the extent to which minerals may exist on the public lands, are the instructions given to the Surveyor General to note on the official returns of surveys all appearances indicative of their existence. The map herewith transmitted, exhibits all the information afforded by the returns of the Surveyor General, as to the great mine country of Missouri. (See document A.)

Agreeably to general provisions of the laws regulating the sale of the public lands, reservations have been made by the Register of the proper land office, of those lands on which mineral appearances are indicated by the returns of the Surveyor General; but, inasmuch as the observations of the surveyor must necessarily be restricted to the immediate vicinity of the lines of public survey, consequently the evidences of the existence of minerals afforded by the returns must be partial and indefinite; and, in excluding from sale the lands supposed to afford mineral, the Register of the land office, in the absence of definite information, must act according to the best of his judgment, from the means afforded him. Under such circumstances it may reasonably be expected that many tracts of productive mineral land may have been omitted to be reserved, and that many tracts of inferior mineral lands may have been reserved.

I regret my inability to state, at the present time, the precise quantity of land which has been excluded from sale on account of mineral indications.

This information was required of the Register of the Land Office at St. Louis as long since as — 1821, and the reasons assigned by him for not complying with the request, (as will be seen from a copy of his letter, herewith transmitted, document marked I,) was, that the great pressure of business in his office would not then justify the loss of time and labor which would be incurred in its preparation: since then the request has been urgently repeated, and a list of these reservations is shortly expected to be received.

The map herewith transmitted exhibits those townships in the districts of Cape Girardeau and St. Louis in which there are mineral indications exhibited by the surveys. It also exhibits the reservations on account of lead mines in the district of Cape Girardeau; and, in the absence of positive information as to the quantity of land excluded from sale in the district of St. Louis on account of appearances of mineral, I have caused the lands which have been sold in those townships up to the date of the latest returns to be designated, (by the yellow color,) in order to give an idea of the extent of the reservations, as it is presumable that a very great proportion of what remains uncolored (unsold) has been excluded from sale on account of its minerals.

The following is a list of the townships which, in the returns of the Surveyor General, are reported to contain lead ore, and in which the reservations have been made:

In the district of Cape Girardeau county.

- Township No. 34, north; range 1, east.—Appearances exhibited are “tiff, blossom, signs of mineral on the exterior lines.”
- Township No. 35, north; range 1, east.—Same.
- Township No. 36, north; range 1, east.—Same.
- Township No. 37, north; range 1, east.—Same.
- Township No. 34, north; range 2, east.—On the exterior lines north and west, appearances of mineral are stated, “tiff, blossom, iron,” &c.
- Township No. 35, north; range 2, east.—Signs of lead in the southeast corner of this township, with tiff, blossom, iron, &c.
- Township No. 36, north; range 2, east.—On the exterior, signs of lead, tiff, blossom, iron, &c.
- Township No. 37, north; range 2, east.—On the exterior lines are signs of lead ore; on section 11, in this township, is situated Mine à Burton; and on the line between sections Nos. 13 and 24, lead mine, called the New Diggings.
- Township No. 35, north; range 3, east.—On the north and west lines are signs of lead ore.
- Township No. 36, north; range 3, east.—On the exterior lines are signs of lead ore, and on section 23 is designated lead mineral.
- Township No. 37, north; range 3, east.—On the east side of sections 18 and 19, is the lead mine called the “New Diggings;” signs of lead ore on all the exterior lines. Also, in sections 32 and 33, in the northwest corner of the township, is the lead mine called “Mine à Martin.”
- Township No. 35, north; range 4, east.—Signs of lead ore on the west boundary of this township.
- Township No. 36, north; range 4, east.—On section No. 1 is the mine called “Mine au Joe;” signs of lead ore on the west side of this township.
- Township No. 37, north; range 4, east.—A lead mine on private claim No. 467; signs of lead ore and lead diggings on the west boundary of this township.
- Township No. 37, north; range 5, east.—Lead mine on section No. 26, in the district of St. Louis.
- Township No. 38, north; range 1, east.—Exterior lines exhibit lead ore, blossom, diggings of lead, &c.

Township No. 39, north; range 1, east.—East and south boundary exhibit signs of mineral, viz: tiff, blossom, iron, &c.

Township No. 41, north; range 1, east.—Lead mine in section 19.

Township No. 38, north; range 2, east.—On all the exterior lines are signs of lead ore.

Township No. 39, north; range 2, east.—Section 26, lead mines; signs of lead, &c. on all the exterior boundaries.

Township No. 38, north; range 3, east.—In section 18 are the "Old Mines;" between sections Nos. 21 and 22 is "Mine Shibboleth;" on section No. 19 is "Mine Belle Fontaine."

Township No. 39, north; range 3, east.—Appearances of lead ore on all the exterior lines.

Township No. 40, north; range 3, east.—A great quantity of mineral is indicated by the "tiff" in sections 31 and 32.

Township No. 38, north; range 4, east.—Lead in sections 3, 4, and 10.

NOTE.—In relation to the terms "tiff and mineral blossom," it is proper to remark, that it is understood they are both popular local terms, indicating the presence of lead ore. The former is a very white and heavy spar, and may be considered as the proper matrix of the lead ore, as it is found imbedded in, and often completely enveloped by it. It is the same substance called "caulk" by the English miners, and is known to chemists as the "sulphate of barytes." It is said to be extremely useful as a chemical reagent or test, and is recommended as one of the best fluxes for iron ore, in smelting in the large way. It consists of the earth "barytes," united to the sulphuric acid.

"Mineral blossom" is a term applied to a species of quartz, of a very brilliant appearance, which is always supposed to accompany lead ore.

As to the probable value of the Mines.

From the copy of the communication of Moses Austin, dated 7th October, 1816, this inquiry, it will be perceived, is answered as quoted below; and it is believed to be impracticable to acquire any adequate ideas as to the value of the mines, until the mining operations shall have been carried to a greater extent than they have hitherto been, and until, by a more judicious and better organized system than has hitherto existed, their extent and resources shall have been more fully developed. Mr. Austin states that, on the subject of the lead mines of Missouri, he speaks from the experience of twenty-five years.

"To answer this question correctly is not within the capacity of any man living; there is no data on which to make an estimate. Were I to take as a standard the common mode of estimating improved farms by a five, six, or seven years' purchase, it would not apply in this case, because the produce depends on events unknown to any man; no miner can tell the value of a mine beyond the length of his pick; were the Government to say they would take $500 per acre for mineral land, few men would be willing to give that sum, or a half of it; yet I have seen fifty feet of ground produce that amount of mineral in a month, with the labor of two or three hands; and, again, in other places, the same number of hands may labor with the same assiduity and not make even common wages.

"From this state of facts it is impossible to estimate their value; that they are immense no one will deny; nor can they be exhausted for ages, if properly managed. Nothing is wanting to make them productive to the United States but a judicious system."

From a very interesting work, published by Mr. Schoolcraft, giving a view of the lead mines and minerals, &c. of the western section of the United States, more information may be derived on every subject connected with the mineral resources of the United States in the western region, than from any other source with which I am acquainted.

Mr. Schoolcraft's statements have been made from minute personal observations, he having travelled on foot over the whole of the mine country in the years 1818 and 1819, exploring its minerals, its geological structure, its geographical positions, soil, climate, productions, towns, streams, settlements, and whatever may be supposed to interest the mind of a scientific inquirer. His views are at once intelligent and comprehensive; a variety of facts have been collated by him with persevering industry, and which he exhibits in a manner calculated to present the subject in the most interesting light.

On reference to the work of Mr. Schoolcraft, and to communications from individuals who have been engaged in mining operations, I find it is impracticable to arrive at any certain result as to the annual products of the mines, for the following reasons:

No regular accounts of the products have been kept at the mines.

The products vary in proportion to the degree of attention bestowed, which is so fluctuating that the products of no one year, if known with certainty, would furnish criteria by which to judge of the products for any given number of years.

From a combination of facts, collated by Mr. Schoolcraft, the following is an exhibit of the probable amount of the individual and comparative products of the mines for a period of three years, ending 1st June, 1819; the number of hands stated to be employed includes all persons concerned in the operations of mining, woodcutters, teamsters, blacksmiths, as well as those engaged in digging and smelting the ore.

The foregoing aggregate furnishes us with an average annual produce of 3,726,666 pounds. He moreover estimates that, since the United States acquired possession of Louisiana, in 1803, up to December, 1819, a period of fifteen years, there have been smelted fifty-five millions of pounds of lead.

Taking the above annual product at the rate of $4 50 per hundred weight, the price it would sell for on the banks of the Mississippi, and at the principal depôts of the mineral country, Herculanum and St. Genevieve, it would produce to the smelters $149,728.

It would be useful, if a just estimate could be formed of what proportion of the above sum would be nett profit, after deducting all expenses. That, however, must vary in proportion to the yield of the ore, (which varies from forty to seventy, and sometimes eighty per cent., at different mines,) the price of wages, and the economy of the management of the operations of smelting, which generally appears to have been very injudiciously conducted.

Some ideas on this point may be collected from the statements of the late John Rice Jones in his communications made to this office in 1816, a copy of which is herewith transmitted. (See document marked F.)

Assuming the yield of the ore at fifty-five per cent., and the price of lead at the mines at $4 per cwt., he shows that the nett profit would amount to fifty cents on every thousand pounds of crude mineral smelted.

Assuming the yield of the ore at fifty-seven and a half per cent., and the price of lead at the mines at $5 per cwt., his calculation exhibits a nett profit of $3 25 for every thousand pounds of crude mineral smelted.

And, assuming the yield of the ore at sixty per cent., and the price of lead at the mines at $5 per cwt., the nett profit would be $4 50 on every thousand pounds of mineral smelted.

To ascertain the value of the mines the following particulars would have to be taken into consideration, viz:

The purity of the ore.

The extent to which it exists.

The facility with which it can be obtained.

As respects the purity of the ore of the Missouri mines, it is believed not to be exceeded by any in the world. The yield of the ore, it is true, is various at different places; but this circumstance is believed to be, in a great measure, owing to the want of judicious and economical management in the operation of smelting.

As respects the extent to which it exists, sufficient experiments have not yet been made by which any positive conclusion may be arrived at. The mining operations have been pretty much confined to the surface, and have never extended to a greater depth than eighty feet; and no scientific inquiry, as to the extent of the veins of mineral, are known to have been made, if we except those of Mr. Schoolcraft, who, in his observations respecting the geology of the mine country in Missouri, appears to have discovered abundant reasons to justify the conclusion that the bowels of the earth are metaliferous to a much greater extent than has yet been penetrated; and that, very possibly, the richest veins of ore, even in those mines which are now supposed to be exhausted, may lie but a short distance below the shafts hitherto sunk. That, although no just calculations can be made of what would be the production of the mines under a well organized system of mining operations, enough is known to warrant the belief that the yield of the mines may be made sufficiently abundant for domestic consumption, and also to afford large supplies for exportation.

Minerals in Illinois.

The lead mines on the Fevre and Ouisconsin rivers, in this State, are not noticed in this report, as they are embraced by the report made by the Secretary of War.

On the waters of the Grand Pierre creek, in the district of Shawneetown, there is stated to be abundant appearances of lead. That creek is a small stream in Pope county, emptying into the Ohio, four miles above Golconda.

The reserves which have been made of the mineral lands are as follows, viz:

Sections Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, 10, 11, and 12, in township 12, south of range 7, east.

Sections Nos. 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 32, 33, 34, and 35, in township 11, south of range 7, east.

Sections Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, and 36, township 11, south of range 9, east.

Sections Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, south half of section 12, north half of section 14, and sections 15, 16, 17, 18.

The nearest of these mineral appearances to Shawneetown is within twelve miles, and from three to four miles from the Ohio river.

The appearances on the waters of the Grand Pierre are about eight miles from the Ohio river, and twenty from Shawneetown.

I would here beg leave to refer to the copy of the communication from the Register of the Land Office at Shawneetown, dated 1st November, 1816, and to the map (exhibiting the reservations) herewith transmitted. (See document marked G.)

There is no official information in this office of the existence of any copper mines either in Illinois or Missouri. It is stated, however, by Mr. Schoolcraft that a mass of native copper, weighing seven pounds, and another, weighing three pounds, have been discovered on the highlands, back of Harrisonville, (the seat of justice for Monroe county, in Illinois,) situate on the Mississippi river, opposite Herculaneum, and that partial attempts have been made to discover copper ore at that place, which, from untoward circumstances, were abandoned. He states that, after digging forty feet, a red compact oxyde of iron and copper was found, and, therefore, concludes that ores of copper will be found in that neighborhood. Native copper, it is also stated, has been found in detached masses on Big Muddy river, in this State, which rises between the waters of Kaskaskia and Little Wabash, and empties into the Mississippi, about fifty miles above the mouth of the Ohio. This stream is boatable for forty or fifty miles through a fine prairie country.

There are no mines or minerals known to exist on the public lands in the States of Ohio, Indiana, Mississippi, or Alabama; nor have any minerals in the Territory of Michigan been reported in the returns of the Surveyor General, as far as the surveys have yet extended. The statements of Mr. Schoolcraft, however, are well known, that copper exists in large quantities in the northwestern part of this Territory, on the head-waters of the Mississippi, and on the shores of lake Superior.

There is no official information of the existence of mineral in Louisiana as far as the surveys have yet extended.

Minerals in Arkansas.

In the Lawrence county district the public surveys exhibit mineral appearances as follows:

Township No. 14, north of range 8, west, in sections 1, 12, and 13, and in township 14, north of range 7, west between sections Nos. 2 and 3.

The mineral indications appear to be those of lead ore.

General remarks.—The extent of the mineral region of the western section of the United States is very imperfectly known. Reasoning from a variety of information as to the discoveries of mineral at numerous detached points far removed from each other, the conclusion presses itself that the grand mineral region of the West extends from the waters of the Red river, in the Territory of Arkansas, (and possibly from the waters of the Sabine, in Louisiana,) to lake Superior, in the Territory of Michigan, a direction nearly north and south, embracing a tract of country varying from one hundred to one hundred and fifty miles in width, abounding more or less in lead, iron, and copper ores, together with a variety of minerals of inferior importance, which usually accompany those mentioned. The following are some of the principal reasons which induce the above conclusion:

We have accounts of the existence of large masses of native copper on the head-waters of the Mississippi, and along the shores of lake Superior. We know of the lead mines on the Ouisconsin and Fevre rivers, and Dubuque's mines on the Mississippi river, four hundred and forty miles above St. Louis; the lead mine country between the waters of the river St. Francis and the Merrimac river, in Missouri; and have accounts of the existence of lead on Red river; and of masses of pure lead having been cut out of the bed of the Sabine river, at low water, at the point where that river is intersected by the road leading from Natchitoches to Nacogdoches; and, although many of these accounts may be much exaggerated, still there is reason to believe they are founded in fact.

The consideration of the probably vast extent of mineral country which will be gradually developed as the country becomes settled and discoveries progress, will, no doubt, be of much importance in determining whether it be good policy to endeavor to make mineral lands a productive source of public revenue, or whether, by throwing them into market, to leave the result to individual enterprise and competition; and it is here respectfully suggested, that, should it be desired to make the mines a productive source of revenue, that the merits of the titles which are asserted to the principal mines of Missouri be first definitively settled; that competent means be employed to make new discoveries of such minerals as may be worked to the greatest advantage; and that the most efficient and judicious system may be devised to make the mines productive, whether they be wrought by public agents, or leased to individuals for a term of years.

The statement of the money received into the Treasury, which will accompany this report, compared with the immense value of the property, shows the expediency of taking some measures on the part of the Government by which this property may be made more productive, either as a source of immediate revenue to the Government, or as a source of national wealth. The extent of country throughout which lead ore is found, and the abundance and quality of the mineral, afford the best security against individual monopoly, and will ensure an ample supply of the article for the demands of the Government on all occasions. As a source of revenue there is no reason perceived why the Government should reserve, under its own immediate management and control, the lands containing lead ore, which is not equally applicable to similar reservations of the lands containing iron ore, or even of the lands of the best quality for agricultural purposes. As a source of national wealth, it is believed that the enterprise, economy, skill, and capital of individuals, applied for their own immediate benefit, would make this property more productive than any system which could be devised for the exclusive management of it by the Government.

I would beg leave further to suggest the propriety of exposing to public sale such of the salt springs (and the reservations attached to them) as have been, or may hereafter be discovered, and which have not already been granted to the States in which they are respectively situated.

All which is most respectfully submitted.

GEORGE GRAHAM, Commissioner of the General Land Office.

To the PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Explanation of the map.

The map exhibits that tract of country formerly considered as the lead mine country of Louisiana, viz:

From the Mississippi river to the Fourche à Courtois, on the west, and from the head waters of the St. Francis river on the south, to the Merrimac river on the north.

The tract of country within the limits of the square discriminated by the green color, is what may be more properly regarded as the mineral country of Missouri, embracing an extent of 1,512 square miles.

Of this portion of country there are only certain townships in the St. Louis and Cape Girardeau districts, which have been reported by the surveyors as containing mineral, or exhibiting appearances of mineral of any kind.

The following is a list of the townships referred to.

- Township No. 34, north; range 1, east.—Appearances exhibited are, tiff, blossom. Signs of mineral on the exterior lines.
- Township No. 35, north; range 1, east.—Same.
- Township No. 36, north; range 1, east.—Same.
- Township No. 37, north; range 1, east.—Same.
- Township No. 34, north; range 2, east.—On the exterior lines, north and west, appearances of mineral are stated, tiff, blossom, iron, &c.
- Township No. 35, north; range 2, east.—Signs of lead in the southeast corner of this township, with tiff, blossom, iron, &c.
- Township No. 36, north; range 2, east.—On the exterior, signs of lead, tiff, blossom, iron, &c.
- Township No. 37, north; range 2, east.—On the exterior lines are signs of lead ore. On section No. 11, in this township, is situated "Mine à Burton;" and, on the line between sections Nos. 13 and 24, lead mine called "New Diggings." On the north and west lines are signs of lead ore.
- Township No. 36, north; range 3, east.—On the exterior lines are signs of lead ore, and on section No. 23 is designated "lead mineral."
- Township No. 37, north; range 3, east.—On the east side of sections Nos. 18 and 19, is the lead mine called the "New Diggings." Signs of lead ore on all the exterior lines; also, in sections Nos. 32 and 33, in the northwest corner of the township, is the lead mine called "Mine au Martin."
- Township No. 35, north; range 4, east.—Signs of lead ore on the west boundary of this township.
- Township No. 36, north; range 4, east.—On section No. 1, is the mine called "Mine à Joe." Signs of lead ore on the west side of this township.
- Township No. 37, north; range 4, east.—A lead mine on private claim, No. 467. Signs of lead ore, and lead diggings, on the west boundary of this township.
- Township No. 37, north; range 5, east.—Lead mine on section No. 26, in the district of St. Louis.
- Township No. 38, north; range 1, east.—Exterior lines exhibit lead ore, blossom, diggings of lead, &c.
- Township No. 39, north; range 1, east.—East and south boundary exhibit signs of mineral, viz: tiff, blossom, iron, &c.
- Township No. 41, north; range 1, east.—Lead mine in section No. 19.
- Township No. 38, north; range 2, east.—On all the exterior lines are signs of lead ore.
- Township No. 39, north; range 2, east.—Section No. 26, lead mines, signs of lead, &c. on all the exterior boundaries.
- Township No. 38, north; range 3, east.—In section No. 18 are the "Old Mines." Between sections No. 21 and 22, is "Mine Shibboleth." On section No. 19, is "Mine Belle Fontaine."
- Township No. 39, north; range 3, east.—Appearances of lead ore on all the exterior lines.
- Township No. 40, north; range 3, east.—A great quantity of mineral is indicated by the tiff, in sections Nos. 31 and 32.
- Township No. 38, north; range 4, east.—Lead in sections Nos. 3, 4, and 10.

Not having received precise information of the extent of the reserves in the St. Louis district on account of mineral appearances, from the causes mentioned in the report, those appearances are designated, as far as information has been received, by the notes in red ink; and the diggings of lead, which are designated by the circular red marks, thus, (oooo.)

From the Land Office at Jackson (Cape Girardeau district) more explicit information has been received, which will be found in document marked B, accompanying the report; but it is not such as will admit of a discrimination of the particular tracts which have been excluded from sale.

In the absence of specific information as to the particular tracts excluded from sale on account of mineral appearances, and to convey, as far as practicable, an accurate idea of what may be their extent, the map exhibits, by the yellow color, the lands sold; and, in those townships described in the foregoing list, where there are mines, or mineral appearances, it may be very reasonably inferred that at least the greater portion of what is not marked as sold, has been excluded from sale.

The lands designated by the blue color are private claims confirmed, and those designated by the red color are the reserves for schools.

Those designated by the brown color are private unconfirmed claims.

The Fourche à Courtois is described as a considerable stream, rising in the broken lands in the southern part of Washington and St. Genevieve counties, and, running a northerly course, empties into the Merrimac on the right side. Its banks abound with lead ore, which is frequently accompanied with manganese.

The Merrimac river is described as a large navigable stream, originating two hundred and fifty miles southwest of its mouth, and is only separated from the waters of the Gasconade by a dividing ridge of land. It is swelled in its course by a great number of streams, the most noted of which are, Little Merrimac, Borbeuse, Fourche à Courtois, Big river, and Mineral fork. It forms a junction with the Mississippi eighteen miles below St. Louis, where it is two hundred yards wide. It is only navigable about fifty miles, unless in high floods in the spring and fall, when most of its tributaries may be ascended in boats. This stream waters the country of the mines, and interlocks, by its tributaries, with the waters of the Gasconade on the west, and the St. Francis on the south. The mines of Missouri are situate on its southern shores, which also afford iron, zinc, manganese, and saltpetre.

The St. Francis river rises with Big river and Fourche à Courtois, in the broken lands in the south part of Washington and St. Francis counties, and joins the Mississippi five hundred miles below, about seventy-five miles above the mouth of White river. Its navigation is much obstructed by rafts. The banks are, in many places, subject to inundation. At the head of this river is the most extensive body of iron ore in the Western country. The La Motte lead mines are also on one of its tributaries.

St. Genevieve and Herculanum. The former is a post town, and the seat of justice for St. Genevieve county, and is situated on Gabourie creek, about a mile and a half above its junction with the Mississippi, in latitude 38° N., eighty-five miles southeast of St. Charles. This town contains about 1,400 inhabitants. At high water, boats of any size can ascend the Gabourie to the town.

The latter is a flourishing post town, and the seat of justice of Jefferson county. It is situate in lat. 38° 15' N., thirty miles south of St. Louis, and thirty-five miles northeast of Potosi, and contains between thirty and forty houses.

These towns are the great depôt of the lead mine country. In the vicinity of Herculanum are three shot towers, which are built on the precipices, from which the shot is dropped to the river's brink.

SIR:

JACKSON, January 31, 1824.

We enclose six plats, containing information of the lead mines, salt springs, &c. We have reserved originals, and shall keep them in the Register's office. Two reasons have prevented our not sending on this information earlier. Our attention being directed to the sale of the public lands, and wishing to make our report to embrace the proceeds of the mines closing with the last, we have been at much trouble and pains to procure the information required. With regard to the intrusions on the public lands, we would recommend the appointment of a special agent, (or the sale of these mines,) the duty of the agent compelling him to report and prevent aggressions; the distance we live from the mines making it impossible that we can prevent the repetition of trespasses, without we should keep some one in the neighborhood, whose duty would compel him, in a special manner, to attend to that matter.

We are, respectfully, your obedient servants,

GEORGE BULLITT,
T. QUARLES.

Hon. G. GRAHAM, Washington.

SIR:

LAND OFFICE AT JACKSON, January 31, 1824.

Yours of the 14th June, 1823, on the subject of the lead mines, salt springs, &c., has been received; and, agreeably to your request, beg leave to make the following report:

Mine la Motte is situated in Madison county, on the head waters of the St. Francis river, three miles from Fredericktown, the county seat for that county, and thirty miles from St. Genevieve, the nearest place of water transportation. The road from that place is good. This mine is claimed by John Bte. Valle, John Bte. Pratte, St. Germanus Boveas, and the representatives of Francis Valle, deceased, by virtue of an old Spanish grant for 24,000 arpents, which claim has not been confirmed. The mineral yields but little lead, when compared to the mines of Flat river and Mine au Breton. There appears to be three qualities of minerals; first quality is found in lumps, weighing from half a pound to ten pounds, and has an unusual quantity of sulphur mixed with it. This mineral has, generally, to pass through five furnaces, before the lead can be completely separated from the slag, and producing to the smelter thirty-eight per cent. Second quality is found in small lumps, mixed with earth, which has to be washed therefrom; the mineral has then to go through nearly the same operation as the first, and yields twenty-five per cent. Third quality is found mixed with the rock, which has all to be thrown into the furnace together, and yields seventeen per cent. This is the oldest mine in the district, having been worked at intervals for near one hundred years; but there is no data from which to form any just estimate of the quantity of mineral that has been raised since the cession of Louisiana to the United States. There has been but little done at this mine; the many new discoveries that have been made in the neighborhood of Mine au Breton, together with the quantity and richness of the mineral, having attracted the attention of the miners to that section of the country. There has, however, been made at Mine la Motte, within three years past, about 1,000,000 pounds of lead; and, at this time, there are fifty hands engaged there. The mineral at this mine extends over about half a section of land; the country is fertile, and well adapted to cultivation; the timber on the south and west is heavy, consisting of oak, hickory, gum, ash, and walnut; on the north and east, barren; but the land is fertile and timber thin, consisting of white and black oak.

Flat river mines. Under this head several mines are included; 1st, Flat Mines; 2d, Mine à Joe; 3d, Grunbo; 4th, Yankee diggings; 5th, M'Kee's mines.

1st. Flat mines, situated on Flat river, two and a half miles from its junction with Big river, a branch of the Merrimac. It is claimed by John Smith T, under Camille Suziere, by concession. They have been worked to a considerable extent, and are found to be very profitable to the proprietors. There are now about fifteen hands engaged at these mines, the mineral yielding to the smelter sixty-five per cent.

2d. Mine à Joe, claimed by Scott and Elliott, under Joseph Jarret, by concession. This mine differs from other mines in the neighborhood of Mine au Breton, by the difficulty of finding the beds of mineral, it being found in veins between the rock, which separates from five to thirty feet, and in all cases running a north and south direction. Thus, the miner has to dig a number of wells, without being able to procure one pound of mineral; but, when he is fortunate enough to strike the vein, he is sure of finding a body of mineral sufficient to reward him for all his labor. At the depth of twenty or thirty feet from the surface the miner is often forced to abandon his well, in the midst of the mineral, by the sudden rushing in of the rock water. There has been a large quantity of mineral raised at this mine within a few years past, and we think can be worked to a much greater extent. Four hands are engaged; and the mineral yields to the smelter seventy per cent.

3d. Grunbo is situated half a mile northwest of Mine à Joe. There have been some very valuable wells sunk at these works; and, in 1820-'21, were thought to be the best mines in the neighborhood. They are at this time evacuated, and considered by the miners to be exhausted. Mineral producing to the smelter sixty-five per cent.

4th. Yankee diggings, situate two miles northwest of Grunbo. This discovery has been made within a few years past, and is found to be very productive. There are now about twenty-eight intruders at work at these mines, and the improvements are better than any of the Flat river mines. But we will here remark, that the improvements at all the mines in this district are of very little value, being composed of small log huts, to answer the purpose of one or two years. Mineral producing sixty per cent.

The whole of the above-named mines are situate in the county of St. Francis, about thirty-five miles west of St. Genevieve, and about the same distance southwest from Herculaneum. Good and convenient roads may be had to either place. The country immediately in the neighborhood of the mines, and for some distance north and east is poor, and unfit for cultivation. On the south lies Murphy's settlement, a fine rich body of land, and well timbered. To the southwest, fifteen miles, is the Bellevue settlement, one of the richest bodies of land in this section of the country. The timber in the neighborhood of these mines is generally post oak, and scarce. The above mines are included in township 36 N., range 4 E., and we may safely say the whole township is mineral land; and, perhaps, in some future day, valuable discoveries may be made on each section in that same township. At the Flat river mines, and near Mine au Burton, there are a number of intruders, but not permanent; for when a new discovery is made of a valuable appearance, a large proportion of the miners, consisting of several hundred, flock to it, and exhaust it in their manner of digging.

1st. Mine au Burton, situate T. 37, N., R. 2, E., part of northeast quarter section 15; part of southwest quarter section 11, and a part of northwest quarter section 14.

2d. Claim of Moses Austin, Spanish grant, by the Baron Carondelet, in 1798, New Orleans.

3d. Rubeno, four hundred and twenty-five acres, confirmed to Peter Blott.

4th. Cantoi, near 5th prin. merid., and west of Mine au Burton.

5th. New diggings, including north part of section 19, and the south part of 18; T. 37 N., R. 3 E., 5th prin. merid. 2,000 acres claimed by John Smith T, by a part of a concession granted to Samuel Sovragin for 1,000 arpents, to be located at his pleasure, of mines, mill-seats, &c., by the Spanish Government. Timber, oak generally, and light; soil, round the mines, generally steril.

6th. Valle and Laclare purchased from the United States those diggings public, and included in T. 36 N., R. 3 E., over several sections, and a part in T. 37, and near the line dividing the townships. At this time there is very little mining going on, as the reduced price of lead is not sufficient to justify the expense of making it. Although within the last year there has been a considerable quantity of lead made, yet the prospect for this year is very dull, and it is generally presumed half, or, indeed, quarter of the quantity will not be made, unless some speedy change to augment the price. Within the last year, we may safely say that there has been made at all the mines in Washington and St. Francis counties 5,000,000 pounds, of which one-half has been made from ashes that have been collecting at sundry places for the last one, two, three, and four years.

7th. These mines are dispersed over two or three miles of country, in T. 36 N., R. 4 E., including Mine à Joe, claimed by Joe Jarrett, by concession. John Smith T, also claims by same, and sundry diggings on public land. The lead mineral of the mines above stated, generally yield to the smelter about 60 per cent. in lead, with very little variation, as the mineral is nearly of the same quality.

Probable amount of lead made at all the mines in this district since the cession of Louisiana, may be estimated at 2,500,000 annually.

Probable amount of lead made at the different mines hereafter stated, within the last year, and the probable number of hands employed.

1. Mine au Burton, public diggings, 100,000 pounds; twenty to fifty men.
2. Mine au Burton, private, 500,000 pounds; 100 to 150 men.
3. Mine Rubeno, private, 10,000 pounds mineral.
4. Mine Courtois, public, 10,000 pounds mineral.
5. Mine New diggings, private, 100,000 pounds mineral; six to twenty men.
6. Mine Valle, part private, 100,000 pounds lead; twenty to fifty men.
7. Flat river mines, 400,000 pounds lead; fifty to a hundred men.

The Mississippi saline, claimed by Dodge, Scott, and representatives of E. Hempstead, by virtue of a Spanish grant to Pryroux, is situated about eight miles below St. Genevieve. The quantity of salt made at this saline during the ten preceding years, annually, from 10,000 to 14,000 bushels; and in those years the number of kettles from one hundred to one hundred and fifty; the last year 70. The quantity of water to make a bushel of salt about two hundred gallons.

We know of no other salt springs in our land district.

We have the honor to be, sir, very respectfully, your most obedient servants,

GEO. BULLITT, Register.
T. QUARLES, Receiver.

Hon. G. GRAHAM, Com. Gen. Land Office, Washington.

Report of the titles and claims to lead mines.

The sealed packet which was delivered to the board by the clerk on the 28th September, 1811, addressed to the commissioners, and styled by a letter enclosed in the same, signed William C. Carr, agent for the United States, to be a collection of evidence respecting the claims to, and value of, the lead mines within the Territory of Louisiana, accompanied with a list of the documents submitted; the whole stated to have been made in pursuance of the sixth section of the act of Congress for ascertaining and adjusting the titles and claims to land within the Territory of Orleans, and district of Louisiana, passed the 2d March, 1805.

Document A.

Julian Dubuque and Auguste Chouteau, claiming a tract of one hundred and forty-eight thousand one hundred and seventy-six arpents of land, situate on the river Mississippi, at a place called the Spanish mines, about four hundred and forty miles from St. Louis, forming, in superficies, an extent of about twenty-one leagues. They produce, first, a petition by the said Julian Dubuque to the Baron de Carondelet, praying for the peaceable possession of an extent of land of about seven leagues on the west side of the Mississippi, beginning at the Heights of Maquaque, to the Heights of Mesquantinagues, being, in front on said river about seven leagues, by a depth of three leagues; the whole forming the said tract called the Spanish mines, together with a reference by the Baron de Carondelet to one Andrew Todd, an Indian trader, of the above demand, under date of the 22d October, 1796, with the assent of said Andrew Todd to the granting of the same, provided the said petitioner should not interfere with his trade; the same dated the 29th October of the same year. The decree of the Baron de Carondelet in the form following: "Concedido como se solicito, baxo las restricciones que el comerciante Don Andres Todd, expressa in su informe 20 Noviembre, 1796. El Baron de Carondelet." The translation of which is as follows: "Granted as it is demanded, under the restriction mentioned by the merchant Don Andrew Todd, in his information." (See document A.)

September 20, 1806. Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Donaldson, commissioners. A majority of the board, the honorable John B. C. Lucas dissenting, ascertain the above claim to be a complete Spanish title.

December 19, 1811. Present, a full board. On a question being put by John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, Clement B. Penrose and Frederick Bates, commissioners, declined giving an opinion. It is the opinion of John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

Document B, not of record.

Martin Duralde, Livre Terrien, No. 1, page 24, from which the concession is translated, is dated prior to Livre Terrien, No. 2, which contains the words stated in document marked B, No. 2.

December 20, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of the board that this title ought not to be confirmed.

Document C.

Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, retired from the board in consequence of his having become interested in this claim since the decision of the former board.

James Richardson, claiming under Gabriel Cerre four hundred arpents of land, produces a petition signed Gabriel Cerre, directed to Baron de Carondelet, Governor General, praying for a concession for four hundred arpents of land, including a mine. On information from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, 29th March, 1796, an official letter from Baron de Carondelet to Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated 28th April, 1796; a concession from Baron Carondelet, Governor General, for the same, dated 25th April, 1796; a plat of survey for the same, dated 25th January, 1800, certified 28th January, 1800; an extract of an act of partition of the estate of Gabriel Cerre, by which it appears that the said four hundred arpents of land fell to the share of Antoine Soulard in right of his wife, as heir of Catharine Geard, deceased, in her lifetime the wife of Gabriel Cerre. (See document C.)

John Smith T, assignee of Charles Robar, claiming 420 acres of land, situate as aforesaid, produces, as aforesaid, a notice to the Recorder, and same concession, wherein Charles Robar is found to be one of the thirty-one inhabitants; also, the plat aforesaid, in which plat said Robar is No. 8, a deed of transfer from said Robar to claimant, dated 24th August, 1805.

Testimony taken October 22, 1808. Peter Boyer, sworn, says that Charles Robar was settled in the village of the Old Mines five years ago, and inhabited and cultivated a part of said tract of 12,400 arpents for three years.

December 21, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, that this claim ought to be granted, being embraced by the second section of the act of the 2d March, 1805, and claims with as slight testimony have been granted. It is the opinion of John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, that this claim ought not to be granted, because the testimony of Peter Boyer, concerning the inhabitation and cultivation of Charles Robar, is indefinite, and does not apply more to the part of the connected plat, to which his claim refers, than to any other part of the 12,400 arpents represented by the connected plat. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

John Smith T, assignee of Alexander Duclos, claiming 420 acres of land, situate as aforesaid, produces notice to the Recorder, the same concession as aforesaid, wherein Alexander Duclos is found to be one of the thirty-one inhabitants; also, the plat aforesaid, in which plat said Duclos is No. 7, a deed of transfer from said Duclos to claimant, dated 24th August, 1805.

Testimony taken October 22, 1808. Peter Boyer, sworn, says Alexander Duclos was settled in the village of the Old Mines, and inhabited and cultivated a part of said tract of 12,400 arpents five years ago, and for three years.

December 21, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, that this claim ought to be granted, being embraced by the second section of the act of 2d March, 1805, and claims with as slight testimony have been granted.

It is the opinion of John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, that this claim ought not to be granted, because the testimony of Peter Boyer, concerning the inhabitation and cultivation of Alexander Duclos, is indefinite, and does not apply more to the part of the connected plat, to which his claim refers, than to any other part of the 12,400 arpents represented by the connected plat.

Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

John Smith T, assignee of Louis Boyer, claiming 840 acres of land, situate as aforesaid, produces notice to the Recorder, same concession as aforesaid, wherein Louis Boyer is found to be one of the thirty-one inhabitants; also, the plat aforesaid, in which plat Louis Boyer is No. 14, an assignment from said Louis Boyer to claimant, dated 25th August, 1805.

Testimony taken October 22, 1808. Peter Boyer, sworn, says that Louis Boyer was settled in the village of the Old Mines, and inhabited and cultivated a part of said tract of 12,400 arpents five years ago, and for two years.

December 21, 1811. It is the opinion of Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, that this claim ought to be granted, being embraced by the second section of the act of 2d March, 1805, and claims with as slight testimony have been granted.

It is the opinion of John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, that this claim ought not to be granted, because the testimony of Peter Boyer, concerning the inhabitation and cultivation of Louis Boyer, is indefinite, and does not apply more to the part of the connected plat, to which his claim refers, than to any other part of the 12,400 arpents represented by the connected plat.

Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

John Smith T, assignee of Joseph Boyer, claiming 1,190 acres of land, situate as aforesaid, produces notice to the Recorder, the same concession as aforesaid, wherein Joseph Boyer is found to be one of the thirty-one inhabitants; also, the plat aforesaid, in which plat Joseph Boyer is No. 17, an assignment from said Boyer to claimant, dated 9th January, 1808.

Testimony taken October 22, 1808. Peter Boyer, sworn, says that Joseph Boyer was settled in the village of the Old Mines, and inhabited and cultivated a part of the said tract of 12,400 arpents eight years ago, and ever since, until last year.

December 21, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, that this claim ought to be granted, being embraced by the second section of the act of the 2d March, 1805, and claims with as slight testimony have been granted.

It is the opinion of John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, that this claim ought not to be granted, because the testimony of Peter Boyer, concerning the inhabitation and cultivation of Joseph Boyer, is indefinite, and does not apply more to the part of the connected plat to which his claim refers, than to any other part of the 12,400 arpents represented by the connected plat.

Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Document F.

Amable Partinai, claiming 500 arpents of land, situate adjoining Mine au Breton, district of St Genevieve, produces a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 5th September, 1799, and a plat of survey dated February 20, 1800; certified 10th June, 1800. (See document F.)

December 21, 1811. Present, a full board. The testimony of Baptiste Valle and Jean Lemoine, stated in the report of the agent to have been taken on the 12th August, 1806, and copied by the said agent, together with the opinion of the board, from the rough minutes, which must be understood from the rough minutes of the board, is not deemed by the present board to be proper and legal evidence, inasmuch as the said testimony and opinion never were entered on the fair minutes of said board, which are the sole minutes known in law, and acknowledged by the commissioners. The board remark that no kind of testimony suggests, or makes it appear, that the land claimed includes a lead mine, and the board would have confirmed the same had it not been included in the agent's report.

It is the opinion of the board that this claim ought to be confirmed.

Charles Becquette, claiming 34 arpents of land. (See document F.)

December 23, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of the board that this claim ought to be granted. Document K.

Rufus Easton and James Bruff, assignees of Joseph Gerrard and Patrick Flemming, claiming 840 arpents of land, situate on the second fork of Grand river, district of St. Genevieve, comprehending and including the Mine à Joe, produce a certified copy of an order from Manuel Perez, Lieutenant Governor, to Peyrouse de la Condri-niere, commandant, to grant said tract, dated 7th July, 1790; a certified copy of a concession from Peyrouse de la Condriere, commandant, to Joseph Gerrard, père, Patrick Flemming, fils, Joel Macagne, and Laurent Macagne, for seven arpents, by thirty, to each of them, dated 17th July, 1790; an order of survey from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to Joseph Gerrard and Patrick Flemming, for 840 arpents, stating the aforesaid concession from Peyrouse, commandant, in consequence of the same not having been surveyed before, dated 25th September, 1799; a transfer from Patrick Flemming to claimants, dated 14th September, 1805; a transfer from Joseph Gerrard to Rufus Easton, dated 12th December, 1804; a plat of survey of 840 arpents, dated 28th September, 1799, certified 10th January, 1800; an acknowledgment signed by Rufus Easton and James Bruff, and dated 15th November, 1805, by which it appears that said claimants are equally concerned in said tract. (See document K.)

December 24, 1811. Present, a full board. The testimony of James Keith and Ezekiel Eastridge, stated in the report of the agent to have been taken on the 2d of December, 1807, and copied by the said agent from the rough minutes, which must be understood from the rough minutes of the board, is not deemed legal evidence, inasmuch as the same was ordered by the board not to be transcribed, and was not transcribed for the following reasons: That the board had established a rule not to receive evidence partially, but to receive all the testimony at one time, unless, from the peculiar situation of the parties, the testimony offered could not be produced again; in that case the same was attested, on the rough minutes, by the signature of the majority of the commissioners. The object of the rule was generally not to let the testimony open to be improved and enlarged by the parties; the board conceiving that this opportunity might have been greatly abused.

It is the opinion of a majority of the board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Document L.

Camille Delassus, claiming 2,400 arpents 34½ perches of land, situate on the waters of Big river, district of St. Genevieve, produces record of a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 12th October, 1799; a plat of survey, dated 1st November, 1799, certified 10th January, 1800. (See document L.)

December 24, 1811. Present, a full board. The board make the same remarks as in the claim of Amable Partenais, as respects the rough minutes; and same remarks as in the claim of Easton and Bruff, as respects the testimony taken on the 1st and 2d of December, 1807.

It is the opinion of a majority of the board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Document M.

Louis Lebaume and Charles Fremon Deloriare, claiming 10,000 arpents of land, situate near Prairie à Rondo, district of St. Genevieve, produce record of a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, dated 17th January, 1797; certificate of a plat of survey signed and sworn to by Antoine Soulard, and dated 15th March, 1808. (See document M.)

December 24, 1811. Present, a full board. The board remark that no kind of testimony suggests or makes it appear that the land claimed includes a lead mine. It is the opinion of the board that this claim ought not to be confirmed.

Document N.

John Smith T, assignee of Jacque St. Vrain, claiming 10,000 arpents of land. (See document N.) Original papers not produced; the record of the concession much compressed; thirty-three words are interlined with different ink; the words Louis Labaume, apparently the heading of said Labaume's notice of claims, occupies one-third of the paper in the direction which four lines of the record of said concession stands in, so that two-thirds of the said paper, in the direction of the said lines, is covered, on each side, with the said four lines, and the remaining one-third, in the middle, is occupied by the said words Louis Labaume.

It appears, from the records, that John Smith T claims under this concession as follows: 1,000 arpents at a place called the New Diggings, about two miles from the Mine à Breton, a place known by the name of Mine à Robina; 300 arpents on the branch above Renault's mine; 300 arpents, including Dogget's mines; 200 arpents on the first branch emptying into the Mine fork, on the south side, above its junction with Big river; 200 arpents, including a place called McKee's Discovery, about a mile and a quarter from the last mentioned place; 50 arpents, including a mill seat, on the second creek emptying into Big river, above the Mineral fork, on the west side.

December 27, 1811. Present a full board. It is the opinion of a majority of the board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Joseph Decelle, claiming 630 acres of land. (See document N.)

December 27, 1811. Present, a full board. In the testimony of David Shaw, copied from the minutes of the board by the agent, there is error. It is there stated "about three or four hundred yards from the field," whereas, in the original, it is "two or three hundred yards."

It is the opinion of a majority of the board that this claim ought not to be granted. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Pierre Charles Dehault Delassus Deluziere, claiming 7,056 arpents of land. (See document O.)

December 27, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of a majority of the board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Document P.

John Baptiste Pratte, St. James Beauvais, Francis Valle, and John Baptiste Valle, claiming two leagues square of land, situate at Mine à la Motte, district of St. Genevieve, produce record of a petition and recommendation for a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 22d January, 1801; record of power of attorney to James Maxwell, to obtain said concession; record of a petition of said Maxwell to the Intendant, dated 29th April, 1802; an order from Morales to Peter Derbigny, to translate the documents and petition, dated New Orleans, 30th April, 1802; record of a plat of survey of 28,224 arpents, dated 22d February, 1806, certified 26th February, 1806. (See document P.)

December 27, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of a majority of the board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

The foregoing claims, from A to P, inclusive, contain the whole of the report made to this board by the agent of the United States.

John Perry, assignee of Bazil Valle, claiming 639 arpents of land, situate at the Mine à Breton, district of St. Genevieve, produces a notice to the Recorder, dated October 3, 1807, and a deed of conveyance from said Valle to claimant, dated 18th March, 1806.

Testimony taken December 5th, 1807. Joseph Pratte, being duly sworn, says that, between the years 1792 and 1795, Bazil Valle built a cabin on the claim, cultivated a garden, and cleared six acres of land; in 1796 continued to inhabit and cultivate the same till sold to claimant, and has been inhabited and cultivated ever since—said Valle considering said tract not to be more extensive than his improvements; that there have been minerals found within two rods of the enclosure, but does not know of any being found on the land; that the house stands on the street of the village at the Mine à Breton.

December 27, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of a majority of the board that this claim ought not to be granted, because it appears Bazil Valle claims another tract of land under concession. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Thomas Alley, claiming 16 arpents of land, situate at Alley's Mine, district of Genevieve, produces record of a petition and recommendation from Francis Valle, commandant, dated 18th August, 1801; a reference from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, to the Intendant, dated 28th August, 1801.

December 27, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of a majority of the board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Abraham Armstrong and Rufus Easton, claiming 640 acres of land, situate on Big and Flat river, district of St. Genevieve, produces notice to the Recorder; record of a transfer of half this tract to Easton, dated 13th of December, 1806; said tract called, in said notice and transfer, Armstrong's Diggings.

December 27, 1811. Present, a full board. The board remark that the term diggings is generally understood in this part of the country, when applied to designate a tract of land, diggings of lead mineral. It is the opinion of a majority of the Board that this claim ought not to be granted. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

The three foregoing claims to land, containing lead mines, although not included in the report of the agent, are subjoined to the same.

Claims to land, including salt springs.

Charles Tayon, claiming 320 arpents of land, situate on river Dardennes, district of St. Charles, produces a concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, for said quantity of land, to include a salt spring; a plat of survey of 320 arpents, dated 1st of December, 1799, certified 8th of January, 1800; said concession dated 7th of March, 1796. Testimony taken, July 30, 1806. John Laflure, being duly sworn, says that the said tract of land was settled for claimant's use by one Harrington, in the year 1801; that a house was built on the same.

December 27, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of a majority of the board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Jacques Clamorgan, assignee of Thomas Tyler, assignee of John Helderbran, claiming eight by forty arpents of land, situate near Merrimac, district of St. Louis, produces a duly registered concession from Fernando de Laybee, dated November 24, 1779; a plat of survey dated 28th, and certified 29th of February, 1806; and two deeds of transfer, the one from said Helderbran to Tyler, dated November 22, 1788; and another from said Tyler to claimant, dated September 17, 1791. Charles Gratiot produces a deed of conveyance (not on record) from Jeremiah Connor, sheriff of St. Louis district, for the above land, to Edward Hempstead, dated 11th of June, 1808; but stating, in the body of the same, to have been sold by said sheriff to said Hempstead on the 7th day of July, same year; said deed afterwards acknowledged in open court on the 11th of July, 1808. Produces also an acknowledgment from Edward Hempstead and wife that said property was purchased by him for Charles Gratiot, and by said Hempstead and wife conveyed to said Gratiot, dated November 25, 1808. It is acknowledged by Charles Gratiot that there is a saline on this claim, which has been worked for many years. Testimony taken July 30, 1806, John Boli, being duly sworn, says that, about eighteen or nineteen years ago, the time at which he arrived in this country, the aforesaid Thomas Tyler lived about one mile below the fork of a run on said land, and had there about 80 arpents of the same under fence, 40 of which were then planted in tobacco and corn, and then considered the largest farm in the country; that he remained on it for about six or seven years; that, about two years after his, the witness's arrival, the settlers being obliged, on account of the Indians, to fortify themselves, they chose the middle of the settlement, in consequence of which the said Tyler moved up to the fork; that, about four or five years afterwards, he moved again, and settled himself at about two miles from the aforesaid place down the creek, towards the saline; made a field and garden, built a house; and that the said tracts have been actually cultivated to this day, either by the said Tyler for his use, or for the claimant's use by his agents; and that this tract was actually inhabited and cultivated prior to, and on the 1st day of October, 1800. November 29, 1808, Peter Chouteau, sworn, says that John Helderbran inhabited and cultivated the land claimed in 1774; and that he found him still inhabiting and cultivating the same in 1780. When deponent, by order of the Lieutenant Governor, went on the premises to warn said Helderbran to abandon the same on account of Indian depredations, this order was obeyed by Helderbran, as well as all the inhabitants of the settlement of the Merrimac.

July 30, 1806. Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Donelson, commissioners. The board confirm to the said claimant as per his concession.

December 27, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of the majority of the board that this claim ought to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Charles Gratiot, assignee of Pierre Chouteau, who was assignee of Benito Vasquez, claiming 7,056 arpents of land, situate on the river Merrimac, district of St. Louis, produces a duly registered concession from Francis Cruzat for the same, dated 8th of September, 1784, and certified by Charles D. Delassus, the 9th of March, 1803; the same granted for a vacherie, and on the conditions of establishment within a year and a day; the survey of the same, dated the 15th, and certified the 17th of February, 1806, together with a deed of transfer of said land executed by Victoire, the wife of said Benito Vasquez, dated the 26th of September, 1785, and passed before the commandant Francis Cruzat; a ratification of said transfer by said Benito Vasques, dated the 31st of January, 1805; and, also, a deed of transfer from the said Peter Chouteau to claimant, dated 4th of May, 1804. Testimony taken August 29, 1806: Louis Bonn, being duly sworn, says that he has known the said tract of land established as a farm; that it was settled under Francis Cruzat by the aforesaid Benito Vasquez, who made a park on the same; that there is on said tract a salt spring, distant from said park about three arpents; that he went through said land at two different times; that the same was then actually inhabited and cultivated; saw a great number of cattle, but could not say to whom they did belong.

Hyacinth St. Cyr, being also duly sworn, says that he was on the said tract of land about twenty-one years ago; that the same was then actually inhabited and cultivated for the use of the said Benito Vasques, who then had salt works established at the aforesaid salt spring, and, further, that it was prior to, and on the 1st day of October, 1800, actually inhabited and cultivated for the said Peter Chouteau.

October 25, 1808. Pierre Lajoy, sworn, says that claimant made an establishment on the land claimed about twelve years ago, when it was inhabited and cultivated for him; and that the same has been inhabited and cultivated for him ever since.

December 27, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, that one league square ought to be confirmed. It is the opinion of John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Pascal Cerré, claiming as devisee of Gabriel Cerré, 800 arpents of land, situate on the Merrimac, district of St. Louis, produces a duly registered concession from Francis Cruzat for eight by forty arpents, dated the 12th October, 1782; together with an order of survey for the same, with an addition of twelve by forty arpents, to be included in the same survey. Said order dated 10th January, 1798, and signed Zenon Trudeau.

Testimony taken August 30, 1806. Auguste Chouteau, being duly sworn, says that the said Cerré settled the said tract of land in the year 1782, and that the same has been actually inhabited and cultivated to this day.

August 30, 1806. Present, Lucas, Penrose, and Donaldson, commissioners. The board confirm to the said claimant the said tract of 800 arpents, as per the said concession.

December 27, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of Clement B. Penrose, commissioner, that this claim ought to be confirmed. It is the opinion of John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, that eight by forty arpents ought to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Charles Freemon Deloriare and Louis Labeaume, claiming 10,000 arpents of land, situate on Salt river, district of St. Charles, produces record of permission from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, to choose a salt spring, dated 13th May, 1799; record of a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 26th March, 1801; record of a plat of survey, signed Antoine Linlard, dated 15th November, 1807.

December 27, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of a majority of the board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Pierre Chouteau, claiming 30,000 arpents of land, situate on Saline river, district of St. Louis, produces a concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, dated 20th November, 1799; a paper purporting to be a gift from sundry Indians to claimant, dated 19th March, 1792.

December 27, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of a majority of the board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Henry Peyroux, claiming 7,760 acres of land, situate on Saline creek and Mississippi river, district of St. Genevieve, produces record of a duly registered concession from Manuel Perez, Lieutenant Governor, dated 24th December, 1787; a plat of survey dated 22d, and certified 26th February, 1806.

December 27, 1811. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of a majority of the board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

Charles Gratiot, assignee of Maturin Bouvet, claiming twenty arpents square of land, on which there is a saline, situate on the river Ha Ha, district of St. Charles, produces a concession, duly registered, from Zenon Trudeau, dated 1st June, 1795; and an act of public sale of the effects and property of said Bouvet, dated 7th December, 1800. Testimony taken July 8, 1806. Francis M. Bouvet, being duly sworn, says that he has known a saline established on said land for eleven or twelve years since; that the same was established by said Bouvet; that he died about five years ago by fire; that his house was then destroyed; and that he worked the said mine to the last moment.

July 8, 1806. Present, Penrose and Donaldson, commissioners. The board reject this claim. They observe that the aforesaid concession is duly registered; that the conditions on which said concession was granted have been complied with, but that the same was not actually inhabited and cultivated prior to, and on the 1st day of October, 1800.

January 9, 1812. Present, a full board. It is the opinion of a majority of the board that this claim ought not to be confirmed. Frederick Bates, commissioner, forbears giving an opinion.

DEAR SIR:

ST. LOUIS, December 22, 1811.

I am sorry to find myself obliged to inform you that the evil increases daily in the transaction of the business of the Board of Commissioners. Formerly, some kind of respect was paid to appearances, and ingenuity could sometimes contrive an apology for various acts which appear to me evidently wrong, but at present it matters of nothing less than an open desertion of duties.

The board has commenced, three or four days ago, to act on the report of the agent of the United States concerning the titles and claims to lead mines. Dubuque's claim stands first in the order of the report: it was accordingly taken up after a proper entry of the same had been made by the clerk on the minutes of the board. The question was put by me in order to obtain the opinion of the commissioners. Messrs. Penrose and Bates declared that they declined giving any opinion on the same. As to myself, having discovered that, by the notice of the claim as entered on record of the Recorder of land titles, the claim is not introduced as supported on a complete title, but on an incipient or imperfect title: therefore, the opinion which I delivered was, that the claim ought not to be confirmed, which was entered on the minutes accordingly.

The second claim was supported on a concession from the Baron de Carondelet to Gabriel Cerré for four hundred arpents of land, including a lead mine sixty leagues from St. Louis. Mr. Penrose declared that he had purchased the land claimed: of course Mr. Bates and myself were the sole commissioners competent to give an opinion: on the question being put, Mr. Bates declared that he declined to give an opinion. My opinion was, that the claim ought not to be confirmed, and was entered on the minutes. Mr. Bates expressed a wish to change his expression, by striking out the word decline, to introduce the word forbear in lieu thereof, which was agreed to. After this Mr. Penrose resumed his seat. The board acted upon about thirty-five claims to lead mines, in all of which Mr. Bates made the same declaration of forbearance to give any opinion. Thus far the injunction of the law made to the commissioners, to give opinions on the claims reported by the agent, is disobeyed. No reasons have been entered by Messrs. Bates or Penrose for their disobedience. Mr. Bates has merely declared that he would write to you, and explain his reasons for acting so, or, to use his own language, for his forbearance of action. He expressed a wish that I should also forbear or decline: he said it within the hearing of Messrs. Reddick and Penrose. I answered him that there should be no partnership between him and me as to the discharge of public duties; that every one must act for himself. This answer appeared to displease him, and he became more crusty than usual. I shall not scan the reasons of Mr. Bates: they cannot arise from the law, they cannot arise from sickness, for he gave a regular attendance at the board, and he says himself he will not desert his post. The case of Dubuque's cannot be perplexing and difficult. If it ever had been, your report to the President on the same, which the board is in possession of, would be more than sufficient to expel all doubts: hence the accountability, under every respect, for declining to give an opinion. But the persons concerned in Dubuque's claim have laid a great stress on the former decision of the board in that claim: one of them has evinced to me much solicitude lest that decision should be reversed. At the time Morehead and Smith went with a large crew, amounting to seventy or eighty men, well armed, to take possession of Dubuque's mine, Mr. Bates, who was then acting Governor, far from preventing this expedition from taking place, spoke in favor of it in my presence, and countenanced it so far as prudence permitted it. As to Mr. Penrose, his declining to give an opinion proves consistency: he dares not to give an opinion contrary to that expressed in your report, but he takes good care not to pull down his own work; there might be great danger in breaking through former engagements.

I have not, as yet, complied with my promise concerning certain acts of the commissioners: the matter is not wanting; I am only at a loss for time, and as to the means of giving a comprehensive account, and yet short or brief.

I defer stating any particulars about the agent, having now his report on the lead mines under consideration. I am more satisfied than ever of his nullity as agent. To say nothing more, his report is merely nominal; it cannot be acceptable but to lead claimants. No wonder, then, if he is a great favorite of theirs; no wonder if he is employed as counsel in suits by the richest of them; no wonder if a recommendation in favor of Mr. Carr has been lately signed by the most noted lead claimants in St. Louis, and sent to the President, that he may be appointed one of the judges of this Territory. But, sir, whilst Mr. Carr did keep up and float gently on the tide of territorial popularity, for not doing his duty, and the two commissioners decline, or forbear, giving opinions on the most important claims, I stand alone, exposed on all sides to the shafts of the malignants. I still hope of my country, that Mr. Carr will not have a seat with me as a judge. I am at a loss how to close the report on the lead mines, for if no more than the opinion of one commissioner is entered upon two of the most important claims, it follows that the report is not full and entire, but is deficient in substance, and of course illegal. I never have been so much perplexed in my life as I am as commissioner. I never received, that I remember of, any assistance from my colleagues in point of opinions, and if I have preserved any degree of correctness, it has been by resisting their opinions, as evinced on the minutes.

Reverting to the agent's proceedings, he has included, in his report to the commissioners of claims to lead mines, several claims wherein no kind of testimony appears; nor does it appear by any written evidence that the lands thus claimed contain lead mines. As an instance of it, I shall cite the claim of Fremont Delorriere for ten thousand arpents, near Prairie Rondeau, district of St. Genevieve. It is not, however, my private opinion that Mr. Carr would have taken notice of that claim, if he had not been informed, by some means, that it contained a lead mine, but I must believe that he has only neglected to obtain the necessary testimony. The agent has failed entirely to comply with the requisites of the law as to the collection of evidence with respect to the value of the mines: thus it is out of the power of the commissioners to give any opinion as to the value of the lead mines. I intended to go to Washington this winter, as the report of the commissioners will probably be closed in the course of a week, whether right or wrong; but I find myself prevented, having received, yesterday, a notice from the sheriff of St. Genevieve, that he has in his custody a certain man charged with having committed lately the crime of murder at one of the mines, in pursuance of which I have issued a receipt for the holding of the court of oyer and terminer in the same district, on the first Monday of February next, which I am necessitated to attend, there being no other judge of the superior court but myself.

I find a great objection to the mode and quantum of the compensation intended by law for the services of the commissioners that remain due. Messrs. Penrose and Bates have pressed upon me to draw up a memorial to Congress for the purpose of remonstrating against the propriety and sufficiency of the compensation, but I have taken so different a course from them in the discharge of my duties—there may also be so great a difference in our relative situation under other respects, that I think our respective claims to compensation require a separate statement, and justify a different result.

I have the honor to be, with great respect, your humble and obedient servant,

JOHN B. C. LUCAS.

HON. ALBERT GALLATIN.

SIR:

ST. LOUIS, January 31, 1812.

At last the commissioners have disposed, in one way or other, of all the claims entered on record, and the transcripts of the claims and evidence to be reported have been signed on the 24th instant. Towards the close of the business the views of the commissioners have been more variant even than before. At present I shall merely allude to the business transacted during the last month, which comprehends the claims to lead mines, to salt springs, and about ten ordinary claims to land. The board has ordered these last to be surveyed previously to decision. These ten claims being for certain quantity bounded east by the Mississippi, and fronting the same, and west by the road leading from St. Louis to Prairie à Catalon, without mentioning the quantity from the river to the road, a survey was absolutely necessary for the purpose of ascertaining the quantity, before a patent certificate should issue.

In the first place, to my utter astonishment, I have found that the report of the agent of the United States, concerning titles and claims to lead mines, is an injudicious and careless compilation from the record of claims to land, and from the minutes of the board. Many claims are included in the report of the agent, as claims to lead mines, which do not appear so either by written or parol evidence. Other claims have been omitted by the agent which appear to be claims to lead mines. In the greatest number of claims to lead mines, no original title papers have been produced before the board; for instance, in the claim of John Smith T, the assignee of Jacques St. Vrain, for ten thousand arpents, no original title papers have been produced. Indeed, it appears from the report of the agent that, generally, he has deemed sufficient to take copies from the record of the Recorder of land titles, without minding the originals. He has copied off irrelevant matter from the minutes, such as the decisions of the first board, and their voluntary declarations that certain commissions, not duly authenticated, did issue at the time it bears date. Although these decisions were mere nullities, under all possible respects, and, as to the valuation of the mines, he has been perfectly silent or inattentive, which is a very important omission. The conduct of Messrs. Penrose and Bates on the report of lead mines has not been less extraordinary. In the first place, in the claim of Dubuque and Chouteau for the Spanish lead mines, these two commissioners have absolutely declined to give an opinion. My own, in this case, stands alone on the minutes; it differs from that which I had given on the same claim in 1806. At this present time my opinion is, that it ought not to be confirmed, because, on reading the notice, as entered on record, it appears that they do not claim under a complete title, but merely under an incipient title: thus, in 1806, the majority of the commissioners have been so kind to Messrs. Dubuque and Chouteau as to grant them even ultra petitum. There is another claim to lead mines, in which my opinion also stands alone. It is a claim for four hundred arpents by concession from Baron Carondelet to Gabriel Cerré. Clement B. Penrose has since become purchaser of the same; of course he could not give his opinion. Mr. Bates did also decline to vote; indeed, Mr. Bates did decline voting in any claim to lead mines or salt springs. These lead mines, from the rapid fortunes that are made by their assistance, have become objects of the first importance. Had Mr. Bates given opinions on the same, he might have run the risk of losing the popularity which his liberality has enabled him to obtain, or otherwise he might have exposed himself too openly to the censure of Government. You know very well the wide difference which exists between claims to lead mines, and claims generally. In the last case a commissioner may indulge his disposition to liberality as far as a league square, without accountability. The principles on which he acts, the peculiar merits of the lands confirmed, are not brought into view before Congress; not so with the claims to lead mines. This may account for the difficulties Mr. Penrose, and particularly Mr. Bates, found himself in with respect to the report of Mr. Carr on claims and titles to lead mines, and for the manner in which Mr. Bates extricated himself from the difficulty. Various other views may also be taken of the reasons which induced these gentlemen in acting as they did. As to the last ten claims the board has acted in a manner quite novel and unknown to the law. It does not appear that they contained lead mines or salt springs, nor that they exceed a league square each; yet none of them are confirmed, nor have opinions been entered that they ought not to be confirmed. In fact, these ten claims stand as if they have not been acted on, except as to testimony, which has been given in several of them. Five or six of these claims are situated near the town of St. Louis, from half a mile to one mile distance, between the Mississippi and a road leading from St. Louis to Prairie à Catalon, or Carondelet. An order had issued from the board about two years ago to the surveyor, to ascertain the course of that road so far as said road is boundary to the claims. A tract of land claimed by Anthony Soulard, on which he lives, was included in the order. From all appearance, Mr. Soulard has extended his lines and enclosure beyond the road, which was given as western boundary to the concessions made to Gabriel Cerré, whom he represents in right of his wife. Some time since the surveyor made an application to the board for more specific directions as to the means of ascertaining the road as it stood at the time the concessions were issued, which is about thirty years ago. Instead of amending the order, the majority of the commissioners rescinded it, and confirmed instantly Mr. Soulard's claim, agreeably to a survey made by Mr. Soulard himself for his father-in-law; which, from a letter of Mr. Bent, principal deputy surveyor, here enclosed, you will be satisfied that it is fraudulent.

As early as January, 1809, the agent of the United States caused a number of witnesses to be summoned for the purpose of testifying in the case of Mr. Soulard in the same claim. On the day appointed to receive testimony, Mr. Carr was sick, and could not attend; he was well again the day following, and, a little while after, became the counsel of Mr. Soulard in his business at the general court. He was also employed as counsel of Mr. Auguste Chouteau, &c.

I am going this day to attend a court of oyer and terminer at St. Genevieve. This prevents me from entering into further details at present. Mr. Penrose has offered to the board to be carrier of the report: Mr. Bates and myself have agreed to put it in his charge.

I wish I had it in my power to go to Washington; perhaps I might be able to give you, occasionally, some satisfactory explanations. I was going to forget to observe that, in the claims to salt springs, you will find one for eight hundred arpents granted to Gabriel Cerré. Mr. Penrose is of opinion that it ought to be confirmed; my opinion is, that a certain quantity, to wit, four hundred arpents, ought to be confirmed. You will be pleased to observe that this claim is predicated upon two concessions. It appears, by testimony, that inhabitation and cultivation has taken place on one of the parts, but not on both. Two concessions ought always to form two claims, no matter if the claimant blend them into one or not. In thirty-one claims at the old mines, each for four hundred arpents, represented in a connected plat, John Smith T claims three of them. Mr. Penrose is of opinion that they ought to be confirmed. Please to attend to the reasons of my dissent. Permit me to observe that these concessions are not registered; that I strongly suspect them to be antedated, and that the inhabitation and cultivation which took place there was by poor mineral diggers who had built their cabins near each other, and had a small patch behind each; the digging of mineral was their object; their cultivation was trifling, and merely incidental; that the thirty-one concessions are large scions grafted on very small stocks; that, from all circumstances as to the ruling policy of the Spanish Government concerning lead mines, these concessions never would have issued had not the same Government disposed of the country; and, notwithstanding the ingenuity of the contrivance, it does not appear that each tract includes the inhabitation and cultivation in pursuance of which they are respectively claimed.

It appears to me that Congress cannot go safely in acting immediately on the reports, without more information, as the report contains very little. Mr. Penrose denies, in toto, the active existence of Spanish laws and regulations; Mr. Bates has acted as if the position that what is not forbidden is permitted applied to public officers. Another material defect exists; it does not appear by the report, or otherwise, how many claims have been confirmed in the name of those, or to those that have claims, as original claimants, reported to Congress. A person cannot, by law, obtain, gratuitously, but a certain quantity of land; the law might be defeated, though indirectly, by a multiplicity of grants. Cerré, Chouteau, Clamorgan, and many others, have as much land confirmed as they are entitled to by law. They style themselves negociants in their petitions; thus they are out of the purview of the Spanish regulations; for the regulations extend the gratuitous concession of land to those only who are professionally cultivators of the soil, or husbandmen.

It is easy for you to imagine how my situation must be uncomfortable in this Territory. Faithful to the best interests of the United States, I stand, I may say, alone the object of unrelenting persecution. I am even sneered at for my fidelity: they say that my services have been depreciated to less than one-third of the value which they had originally been estimated at by law. The truth of the remark adds, if possible, to the pungency of the treatment. I still hope justice from my country. If I have not been able to accomplish great yield of good, perhaps I have prevented much wrong from taking place. I hope that a compensation more proportionate to the duration of the labor will be allowed to me. I confidently hope that you will use your influence to obtain that object. Virtue is rarely so fervid as to support itself against every possible discouragement.

I am, sir, most respectfully, your humble and obedient servant,

JNO. B. C. LUCAS.

P. S. Being in want of money, I here enclose the certificate of Thomas F. Reddick, as clerk of the late board; I purpose to draw for $500 in the course of fifteen days.

Hon. ALBERT GALLATIN, Secretary of the Treasury.

Documents alphabetically arranged from A to P, inclusive, in relation to the titles of the claimants to lead mines in Louisiana, which were laid before the Board of Commissioners, by Mr. C. Carr, agent of the United States, accompanied by an abstract of the claims made out by him.

(A.)

The very humble petitioner of your excellency, named Julien Dubuque, having made a plantation on the frontier of your Government, in the middle of the Indian people, inhabitants of the country, has purchased from them a tract of land, with the mines included in it, and by his perseverance, has overcome the obstacles so expensive and dangerous; and, after several misfortunes, became to be peaceable proprietor of a tract of land situate on the western part of the river Mississippi, to which tract he has given the name of the Spanish Mine, in memory of the Government to which the said land belongs; and, as the place of his plantation is only a spot, and the several mines which he has worked at are scattered and dispersed more than three leagues of distance from one to the other, the very humble petitioner of your excellency prays you to be so good as to grant him the peaceable possession of the said mines and lands, which is to say: from the hills above the little river Maquauquitois, until the hills of Mesquabynongues, which makes about seven leagues on the western side of the Mississippi, and three leagues of depth, which the very humble petitioner dares hope that your goodness will be pleased to grant him his demand. I pray this said goodness to be so good as to allow the pure simplicity of my heart, in default of my eloquence. I do pray Heaven to conserve and lead you with all its kindness. I am, and will be all my life, of your excellency the very humble, very obedient, and very submitted servant,

J. DUBUQUE.

To His Excellency BARON DE CARONDELET.

NEW ORLEANS, October 22, 1796.

Let the merchant, Don Andrew Todd, be informed of the nature of this demand.

EL BARON DE CARONDELET.

SIR:

NEW ORLEANS, October 29, 1796.

Complying with the superior decree of your lordship, by which you order me to give you a notice on the demands made by the party interested in the preceding memorial, I must say, that, about the land petitioned for, it does not offer any thing to me by which your lordship may not grant it, if you find it proper, but under the condition that the petitioner must observe what is ordered by His Majesty concerning the trade with the Indians, and that the same should be absolutely forbidden to the said petitioner, unless he will obtain my consent in writing.

ANDREW TODD.

NEW ORLEANS, November 10, 1796.

Granted, as it is demanded, under the restriction mentioned by the merchant, Don Andrew Todd, in his information.

ANTAGNA.

JOSEPH FONTIGNY, témoin.

An additional article to a treaty, made by William H. Harrison, with the united tribes of the Sacs and Fox Indians, dated November 3, 1804, wherein "it is agreed that nothing in said treaty shall effect the claim of any individual or individuals who may have obtained grants of lands from the Spanish Government, and which are not included within the general boundary line laid down in said treaty, provided that such grants have at any time been made known to the said tribes, and recognised by them."

Certificate.

The undersigned, William Henry Harrison, Governor of the Territory of Louisiana, and commissioner plenipotentiary of the United States for treating with the Indian tribes northwest of the Ohio, hereby certify and declare, that, after the treaty which was made with the Sacs and Foxes at St. Louis, on the 3d day of November, 1804, was drawn up and prepared for signing, he was shown a grant from the Governor General of Louisiana to a certain Dubuque, for a considerable quantity of land at some distance up the Mississippi, and where the said Dubuque has for many years resided. Finding that this tract could be considered as receded by the treaty as it then stood, the additional article was written, and submitted to the Indians. They readily consented to it; and the undersigned informed them that the intention of it was to embrace particularly the claim of Dubuque, the validity of which they acknowledged.

Given under my hand and seal at Vincennes, the 1st day of January, 1806.

WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON.

OPINION OF THE BOARD.

SEPTEMBER 21, 1806.

Full Board.

A majority of the board, the Hon. John B. C. Lucas dissenting, ascertain the above claim to be a complete Spanish title.

"December 19, 1811. Present, a full board. On a question being put by John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, Clement B. Penrose and Frederick Bates, commissioners, declined giving an opinion. It is the opinion of John B. C. Lucas, commissioner, that the claim ought not to be confirmed."

[TRANSLATION.]

To Messrs. Louis Saintange de Bellerive, captain commandant of the Illinois, and Joseph Labuziere, attorney of the attorney general, judge, &c. of the royal jurisdiction of the Illinois, for the French:

SIRS:

Martin Miloney Duralde, inhabitant of St. Louis, has the honor of exposing to you that he has been informed by several traders of the discovery of a lead mine in this French country, on the borders of the Mississippi, ascending it about eighty leagues above river Moa, or one hundred and sixty leagues more or less from this village, according to their estimation; that several individuals have explored lead from the same without any previous rights or finding any obstacles; whereas, no application has ever been made for the possession of the same; your petitioner having in all times abandoned to the whims of fortune, and involved in the general misfortune which renders the livelihood so troublesome, and resources so scarce, prays you, and petitions you, very earnestly, sirs, to grant him the concession of said mine, as being the only resource he can foresee, with three arpents in front, by the ordinary depth, in order that he might explore it, make a garden, and procure himself the necessary fuel for his hands, and that without being interrupted in any operations respecting the same. As depository and disposer of the goodness of the most cherished King, your petitioner waits on your humanity for the favor which he solicits, and will give you proofs of an everlasting acknowledgment, praying the Supreme Being to prolong the days of such cherished and useful persons to the public good, and to the most respectful and faithful subject, and you will do justice.

MILONEY DURALDE.

St. Louis, July 6, 1769.

And underneath is written: Seeing what is exposed in the present memorial, and making right to the same, the lead mine in question having not been granted to nobody, several individuals having worked on the same, and afterwards abandoned it, and, in order to favor the intentions of the said Duralde, which tends to the public good, we have granted, and grant unto him, as title of property, for him, his heirs and assigns, the lead mine above demanded, in the within petition, with three arpents in width, fronting on the said mine, by three in depth or length, to facilitate him in cultivating and raising the necessary buildings for the exploration of said mine; under the condition to commence his settlement within a year and a day, or be reunited to the domain of the King. We forbid, most expressly, all persons to trouble or disturb him in the said concession under the penalty of all costs, damages, and be punished according to the ordinances. ST. LOUIS, March 29, 1796.

Gabriel Cerré, merchant of this town, has the honor of representing to your lordship, that, having often heard spoken of a lead mine situate on the right bank of the Merrimac river, about sixty leagues above its mouth, your petitioner has taken all the care in his power to procure the discovery of the same, and as an American inhabitant of said bank offered your petitioner to show him said mine for the sum of two hundred dollars, in consideration of which, he would relinquish all his pretensions of said discovery in favor of your petitioner and his heirs, which conditions your petitioner did juridically agree upon: he went to the spot to examine if there was such a mine, and, finding some appearance, your petitioner determined to satisfy said American, conformably to contract, although he is yet uncertain whether said mine can indemnify him of the expenses and works he proposes himself to cause to be made, and which may become entirely burdensome if every body was permitted to explore it. It is in that view, that your petitioner prays your excellency to grant him, as concession of said mine, the quantity of twenty arpents in front, by twenty in depth, taking the discovered mine in the centre, in order to explore and form settlements, and keep the necessary catles for its exploration; which favor he hopes to obtain from your goodness.

CERRE.

NEW ORLEANS, April 25, 1796.

I am assured that the lead mine solicited belongs to the King's domain, and that the granting of it will not prejudice any body; on the contrary, its exploration by Don Gabriel Cerré, who is industrious, and possesses a quantity of slaves and many hired men, will be very beneficial to our settlements.

ZENON TRUDEAU.

The surveyor, Don Anthony Soulard, shall establish and put the petitioner in possession of the twenty arpents of land in front by twenty in depth, which he solicits, taking for the centre the lead mine discovered, in order that he may explore it exclusively, being vacant, and not prejudicing any body, maintaining the necessary roads for the traffic and public way, under which conditions the diligence of survey shall be extended at the continuation, and remitted to me, in order to give the party interested a title in form.

NEW ORLEANS, April 25, 1796.

With the favorable decree I send back to your worship the memorial of Don Gabriel Cerré, merchant, and inhabitant of St. Louis, which is in solicitation of a concession for a lead mine lately discovered, about sixty leagues from the mouth of Merrimac, your worship remitted to me in his official, No. 246.

God preserve your worship many years.

M. P. LEDUC, T. B. C. L. T.

In the claim of James Richardson, assignee of Anthony Soulard, who was the representative of Gabriel Cerré.

Four hundred arpents of land, situate on the Merrimac river, and including a lead mine. Claimant produces, in support of said claim, a concession from Zenon Trudeau, dated April 25, 1796, and confirmed to the said Gabriel Cerré by the Baron de Carondelet, together with a certificate of survey of said four hundred arpents, dated 28th January, 1800; an act of partition of the effects and property of the said Gabriel Cerré, whereby the said four hundred arpents fell to the lot of the said Anthony Soulard, dated June 19, 1802, and a bill of sale of the same, executed by the aforesaid Anthony Soulard to the said James Richardson, dated 20th of October, 1802.

The board confirm to the said James Richardson, his said four hundred arpents of land, as per the aforesaid concession.

ANTOINE SOULARD, Arpenteur Gen. Territoire Louisiana.

(F.)

Moses Austin claiming 1,753 arpents of land. Testimony taken October 12, 1808.

Elias Bates, sworn, says that a Mr. Kendal and himself took possession of the land claimed for claimants the 5th of April, 1798, and commenced immediately after to get timber for a furnace, house, and mills, and made brick for the building of a furnace, also built cabins. Claimant arrived in the country with his family about the 1st of September same year, and came out to the land claimed in October same year; furnace-house was completed same year, and the furnace was completed in January following, and was put in blast about that time; a saw mill was completed in the summer of 1799, and went into operation; a dwelling-house was completed in June, 1799, and claimant moved in it; also, in the summer of 1799 claimant completed a blacksmith's shop, shot factory, and other out buildings. Claimant has, ever since his first establishment, continued to inhabit and cultivate the land claimed to this day; the factories and mills have also been in operation to this day. Claimant had himself in cultivation, in 1802, about forty-five acres; witness was a tenant of claimant in 1802, and had fifteen acres in cultivation on said tract; in 1805 claimant had himself in cultivation about sixty-eight acres. Witness says that, in the year 1800, he made a conditional bargain with claimant for the land cultivated by him, but the bargain has not yet been completed; in 1805 he, witness, had 30 acres in cultivation on the land claimed.

Question by agent of the United States. When did you first begin to cultivate the place alluded to?

Answer. In 1800.

Question by the same. Did you then cultivate that land for yourself or claimant?

Answer. That he then cultivated under the expectation of making an exchange for the same with claimant.

Question by the same. When was your bargain made?

Answer. It was a mere memorandum of agreement, made between the 20th and 30th March, 1801; says that his object for going on the land cultivated by him, was, that he did not think it prudent to move on a claim of his own, it being a remote situation, about six miles from the land claimed, and about the same distance from any settlement, and at that time considered dangerous on account of Indians. Says that he was to give claimant an equal quantity of land, if he obtained it, out of his own claim, or land equally valuable elsewhere. One Goforth, as a tenant of claimant, in 1803, cultivated about four acres and built a house. Claimant built a foot-bridge over a creek, always fordable, on a public road leading through the land claimed, between the years 1801 and 1803, for the accommodation of foot passengers, said bridge being about six feet wide, 10 feet high, and between 60 and 80 feet long, with railing at the sides; also, two other bridges in the streets of Mine à Breton, across ditches claimant had dug to convey water.

Question by claimant. What has been the chief object of your pursuits from 1799 to this day?

Answer. The manufacturing of lead and shot, extensively, and, since 1800, yearly to the amount of from one to two hundred thousand pounds.

William Bates, sworn, says that, in the fall or winter of 1799, claimant had also a grist-mill on the land claimed, which then went into operation, and has continued so ever since. In the year 1800 or 1801, the road leading from the Mine à Burton to the Old Mines, through claimant's land, was partly opened and improved by claimant, and that the same has ever since been used as a public road, and is the only public road in that direction. Claimant also opened another road by his mills leading to the Mine à Renault. Witness says that, from the year 1802 to the present day, claimant has had employed, at eight different diggings, and at his furnace, at various times, an average of from forty to sixty hands laboring on the land claimed, yearly.

Don John Bonaventure Morales, treasurer of armies, intendant interim of the royal finances of the provinces of Louisiana and Western Florida, superintendent, sub-delegate, judge of arrivals, of lands and King's domain.

Whereas Francis Merieult made application, in this tribunal, as attorney of Moses Austin, an inhabitant of Illinois, demanding, in behalf of said Austin, the title of 7,153 arpents 32 $\frac{3}{4}$ feet of land, in superficie, by virtue of an official letter from the Baron of Carondelet, late Governor General of this province, dated March 15, 1797, directed to Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor of St. Louis, of Illinois, in order to grant him a league square, in the place called Mine à Breton, the said Lieutenant Governor, on the 14th of January, 1799, ordered the surveyor, Don Anthony Soulard, to put him in possession of said land, on the mentioned place, Mine à Breton, which he effectually executed according to said order, proceeding to the measurement, lines, and survey of said land, of which said Austin was in possession, the corresponding plat of survey amounting, in the whole, to the above-mentioned 7,153 arpents 32 $\frac{3}{4}$ feet, in superficie, which was presented with the documents corresponding to it. I ordered the same to be presented to the Attorney General of the royal finances, in the result of which he required the notice of said Soulard; and, as it was replied, according to the pretensions of the party interested, by an instrument dated the 2d instant, disposing that a title in form of said land, mentioned in the plat presented, should be despatched, I, in consequence of which, and making use of the faculty vested in this Intendancy, in the name of our lord the King, (God may preserve,) do grant unto the said named Moses Austin complete property, use, and domain, of the aforesaid 7,153 arpents 32 $\frac{3}{4}$ feet of land, in superficie, according to the results of figures and measures contained in the plat of survey drawn by said Soulard, under the rhumbs, lines, dimensions, and contiguousness of the land of the King's domain, on the four sides marked in said plat, under No. 52, which is in a summary way for that purpose, the said land being situate fifty miles, more or less, west of St. Genevieve, adjoining, on the southeast, besides what is above mentioned, to the Mine and Village à Breton, for the purposes that he might dispose of the said land as he pleases, and as his own property, giving him power to continue in the possession of which he was, and is now, or claim it of this tribunal if he is troubled by any one else in its possession, and in which I do now place him, and protect him, without any prejudice of a third that might have a better right, under the quality and condition, that as much the said Austin as his heirs, on the land granted, without any interest or contribution whatever in favor of the royal finances, have to comply with what is included in the 3d, 4th, 6th, 7th, and 9th articles of the instruction for land made and published by this Intendancy on the 17th of July, 1799, of which they have to take cognizance, in order not to allege ignorance. In conformity of which I have ordered the present to be delivered: signed with my hand, sealed with my seal of arms, and countersigned by the undersigned secretary of the royal finances, who, with the treasurer, principal, is to take cognizance of what is disposed of. Given at New Orleans, July the 5th, 1802.

A Don Char. Deh't Delassus, lieut. colonel agregé du regiment fixe de la Louisiane, et Lieut. Gouv. de la partie haute de la même province: Auguste Chouteau, fils, a l'honneur de vous représenter que considérant les dangers auxquels expose le commerce, et étant d'âge à s'établir, il a cru devoir donné la préférence à l'agriculture, en conséquence il espère qu'il vous plaira accueillir ses vœux et lui donner des preuves de la bienveillance que vous accordés à l'industrie, c'est pourquoi il à l'honneur de vous supplie d'avoir la bonté de lui accorder la concession d'une terre de 800 arpents de superficie située à environ 60 milles du village de St. Genevieve, entre la Mine à Breton et la vielle mine, de maniere à ce que la fontaine qu'il a choisie pour former son etablissement soit comprise dans l'étendue de la dite terre. Le suppliant a l'honneur de vous observer, qu'il avoit obtenu la parole de votre prédécesseur pour la concession de cette même quantité de terre pour l'exploration de la quelle il a tous les moyens qui correspondent à l'etablissement projeté, ce qui lui fait espérer qu'il vous plaira faire droit à sa demande d'une maniere qui comble ses vues. ST. LOUIS DE ILLINOIS, 5 de Enero de 1800.

Como estamos aseguados que el sup'nte tiene los medios suficientes para hacer valer las tierras que solicita en el termino del regimiento del Senor Gob. General de esta provincia, el agrimensor, Don Antonio Soulard, pondra el interesado en posesion de los 800 a's planos de tierra en el mismo sitio indicado en este memorial, lo que evacuado formara plano entregando à la parte este y certificacion para que le sirva à obtener la consecion y titulo en forma del Senor Intendente de estas provincias à quien por real orden es privativo el repartir y conceder toda clase de tierras realengas.

CARLOS DEHAULT DELASSUS.

ST. LOUIS, October 27, 1806.

Auguste Chouteau, Jun. claiming 800 arpents. Testimony taken the 5th of May, 1806.

Auguste Chouteau, being duly sworn, says that, about five or six years ago, he was informed by claimant's father that, in consequence of recommendations from Gayoso de Lemos, he had obtained a number of concessions for him and his children; and, further, that the above claimant was, about the time of obtaining said concession, of the age of eighteen years.

Nicholas Boilvin, being also duly sworn, says that, about five or six years ago, claimant's father having obtained the said concession for said claimant, applied to witness, and agreed with him for the establishing of the aforesaid tract of land; that the same is mine land; that, accordingly, witness moved on it for claimant, built a house and out houses; that he then began to work said land for mineral, and that the same has been actually worked and inhabited to this day; that the claimant was born in the country, and claims no other land, in his own name, in the Territory.

Decision of the board, May 5, 1806. Present, Clement B. Penrose and James L. Donaldson, Esqs.
The board reject this claim.

ST. LOUIS, January 25, 1798.

Nicolas Boilvin, Canadian, inhabiting this province since twenty-four years, and having never obtained any favor of the Government, which he has had the honor to serve in the painful voyage he made from this place to Boston, in the course of the year 1797, in order to deliver to the Spanish plenipotentiary several important letters, trusted to him by the Lieutenant Colonel Don Carlos Howard, then military commandant of Upper Louisiana, which, to your knowledge, he has performed; as, also, the contrariety and losses he has suffered in the said voyage. Your petitioner, never having obtained any concession from the Government, hopes that you will be pleased to grant him one of 800 arpents of land in superficie, situate in the district of St. Genevieve, about three miles from the Grand river, on a small fork that empties in the said Grand river, which tract of land belongs to the King's domain. Your petitioner, confident in the generosity of a Government who never left services without reward, hopes to obtain of your justice the favor which he solicits.

To FREDERICK BATES, Esq.,

Recorder of land claims in and for the Territory of Louisiana.

ST. GENEVIEVE, 25 le Mai, 1803.

Don Charles Dehault Delassus, lieutenant colonel, agrégé au regiment fixe de la Louisiane, et lieutenant général de la partie haute de la même province, les habitans soussignés dont la majeure partie Créoles du pais, et l'autre Canadiens et François, établis depuis plusieurs années au lieu connu sous le nom de Vieille mine, située sur une des fourches de la rivière à Renaut, à la distance de 60 milles du village de St. Genevieve, et à environ 9 milles de la Mine à Breton, ont l'honneur de vous représenter que leurs confiance dans les promesses réitérées de leurs chefs, et dans la generosité du Gouvernement, les a tenus dans une telle securité qu'ils ont tardés jusqu'à ce jour a faire les démarches necessaires pour obtenir les titres des terres qu'ils cultivent et exploient depuis des années, la publication de votre office, en date du 18 Mai, de cette année a Mons. le commandant du poste de St. Genevieve, par laquelle nous avons appris la rétrocession de cette colonie à la France, nouvelle qui nous a fait connoître combien la position de nos propriétés étoit précaire, et que nous a porté a la demande que nous faisons aujourd'hui auprès de vs. espérant de sa justice qu'elle ne dementira en rien la longue suite de beinfaits dont nous avons été comblés par le Gouvernement Espagnol, et qu'elle nous rendra dans les derniers moments une marque eclatante de sa justice en daignant faire droit a nos respectueuses représentations. En conséquence les trente et un chefs de famille soussignés ont l'honneur de vous supplier d'avoir la bonté de leur accorder au même lieu qu'ils reclament une quantité de terre correspondante à leur population sur le pied du dernier reglement fait a cet egard par feu sa Sr. le Gouverneur Général de ces provinces, Don Manuel Gayoso de Lemos, pour la dite quantité correspondante au nombre des individus qui composent les dites familles être divisées par portion egale a chacune d'elle et leur être assignées par le sort suivant les dispositions qu'ils prendront entre eux avec l'approbation de Don François Valle leur commandant respectif de même qu'avec M. l'arpenteur de cette haute Louisiane s'engageant à l'avance les dits soussignés à vous assurer qu'aucun contestations ne troubleront la bonne harmonie qui regne entre eux dans le dit partage, pour y parvenir plus surement ils esperent que si vous daignez accorder à leurs demandes, il vous plaira ordonner l'arpentage total de la quantité de terre qui leur correspondra, d'après le quel un certificat d'arpentage sera expédié pour servir aux dits habitans a reclamer leur titre en forme de qui de droit. Le dit plan d'arpentage devra être divisé selon la convention ci-dessus par autant de portions egales qui seront toutes numérotées et chacun des dits habitans devra en outre être nanti du plan figuratif de la partie de terre qui lui sera echue par le sort, avec l'attestation de l'arpenteur pour servir a chacun d'eux a constater, precautions qu'ils croient devoir prendre pour pourvoir éviter les difficultés qui pourroient s'élever à l'avenir entre eux. Les dits habitans soussignés ont l'honneur de vous réiterer leurs supplications et de vous représenter que cette même concession leur fut promise par vos prédécesseurs depuis des années, et que leur grande confiance dans ces mêmes promesses sont les seuls tords dont ils soient coupables; verité qui peut vous être attestée par notre digne commandant respectif Don François Valle, à l'information duquel nous recommandons avec la même confiance qui nous porte a croire qu'il vous plaira nous accorder la concession de la quantité de terre correspondante à la totalité de la population des familles des soussignés au même lieu qu'ils reclament pour jouir en toute propriété de la partie qui leur echoira par le sort et y exercer leur industrie tant pour l'agriculture que pour l'exploration du mineral de plomb qui pourroit se trouver sur les dites terres.

Les soussignés n'ayant d'autres vues que celles de vivre en cultivateurs paisibles et soumis osent tout attendre de votre justice avec confiance.

TO DON CHARLES D. DELASSUS, lieutenant colonel of the regiment of Louisiana, and Lieutenant Governor of the upper part of the same province:

SIR:

John Baptiste Pratte, merchant of St. Genevieve, inhabiting this country from about fifty years, father of a numerous family, supporter of several orphans, and proprietor of a large quantity of slaves, has the honor of observing to you that, until this present moment, he has never obtained any concession from the generosity of the Government, as a free gift. Considering that the neighboring lands of the place where he dwells are daily granted to foreigners; the succor of the commerce diminishing visibly; and, lastly, those offered by the agriculture being this day the most certain, and on which one can hope to live happy in future; and considering, besides, that the incursions of the Indians are less now, one can at present, with more confidence, inhabit the remote places; your petitioner has already begun to settle (with the verbal permission of your predecessor) a tract of land, situate on the Grand river, on which place your petitioner prays you to be so good as to grant him a concession for one thousand arpents of land of superficie. Confident in your justice, he hopes to obtain the favor which he solicits.

PRATTE.

ST. LOUIS, this 4th day of September, 1799.

Considering that the petitioner is an old settler of this country, and that his family is sufficiently numerous for obtaining the quantity of land which he solicits, the surveyor of this Upper Louisiana, Don Anthony Soulard, shall put the petitioner in possession of the one thousand arpents of land which he solicits, in order that he may enjoy of the same in the same terms he requires; and, the survey being made, he shall draw his certificate accordingly, with which the party interested shall have his recourse to the Intendant General of this province, to whom, by royal order, appertains the right of granting lands of the King's domain.

Testimony taken.

AUGUST 12, 1806.

Full board: Amable Partnay, being duly sworn, says, that the said tract of land was settled in the year '98 by claimant, who built two or three cabins on the same, fenced in a field of about twenty-five or thirty acres, and has, at this day, about one hundred arpents of the same under cultivation, and about twelve houses or out-houses, and that the same was, prior to, and on the 1st day of October, 1800, actually inhabited and cultivated for claimant's use; that he had then a wife, nine children, and forty-five slaves, and claims no other lands in his own name.

Decision of the board.—The board, from the testimony of a number of witnesses produced on the part of the United States, by their agent, reject this claim, and require further proofs.

Testimony taken from the rough minutes.

UNITED STATES, }
ads. } August 12, 1806.
 J. B. PRATTE. }

Witnesses sworn on the part of the United States.

Thomas Alley, William Alley, John Baker, Abraham Baker, Henry Pagget, John Andrews, Abraham Eads.

On behalf of Pratte.

Pierre Chabotte, Francis Tibeault, Louis La Croix, Antoine Govreau, Jean Gagnon, Charles Boyer, Amable Patenaude, John Portais, Peter D. Deluziere; deposition taken before Bte. Vallé and St. James Beauvais, two of the judges of the Court of Common Pleas of the district of St. Genevieve.

Henry Pagget has been in this country about nine years, and lived near the tract of land claimed by J. B. Pratte, about one and a half miles; knows the mine, as worked by him, began to work about seven years ago, when it was first discovered; was first worked by William Alley and others, in the fall of 1800; saw some old diggings, (witness supposed made by Renaud;) believes no digging had been done for three or four years before; no house built on said land when mine was discovered; claimant built three houses in 1800, but cannot tell when; was on the spot about two months before; saw no buildings.

Cross-examined.

Is certain it was first cultivated in 1802, and, if before, would have known it; showed the mine to one Manitto, in claimant's employ, who showed the same to claimant about seven years ago; does not know whether it was cultivated in 1800; remembers of claimant having put up at his house about eight years ago; that he (the witness) informed him that the above tract would make a good farm; that Manitto observed to him, when informed of the mine, that he would improve on said land; knew Gagnon and Chabot in claimant's employ in 1801.

Thomas Alley lived nine years about four miles from said tract; heard William Alley, Pagget, and others, say, in 1800, they had discovered a mine on said tract; never had been on before W. worked said mine, the beginning of the summer of 1800; saw no marks of cultivation; was an entire wilderness; that claimant's plantation stands on the same spot; worked mines in the fall of 1800, and has worked since claimant has settled; cabins built late in the fall of that year; Manitto and one Connor raised said houses for claimant, as he (W.) understood; understood Manitto and Connor were to be in partnership with claimant, both in title and work; it was then reported that claimant had a concession for said land; never heard of a crop until 1802; is positive that there was no crop raised before, where the establishment now stands; knows that there was no other improvement on any other place; never knew the boundaries of the same; witness worked the mine until about October, 1800.

William Alley has lived nine years two and a half miles from said land; discovered the mine in 1800; worked the same that year; saw no digging, building, or fencing, in same year; was on the spot now settled in September; saw no buildings; late in the fall of that year, heard of half-camps being raised on the same; saw the same in 1801; corn raised in 1802; cannot tell what quantity; some of claimant's hands lived there on that year; that Manitto came to work, and informed that claimant had a concession for said land; better than forty arpents cleared; never heard of claimant's having digged in 1799 for mineral; saw some old diggings; was grown up with bushes.

John Andrews arrived in 1796, settled on his plantation in February, 1797; followed hunting for maintenance of his family; was almost daily on said land; that, in the beginning of the summer, 1800, report circulated of a mine having been discovered on said land; the witness and some neighbors went on said land in June, 1800, to see what kind of a mineral it was; picked up some mineral some time afterwards; in same season heard that claimant and Mr. Vallé were sending hands to dig for mineral, supposes about the middle of August; witness saw then that they had began working, and had their slaves on the same; remained thereon until next spring, when one O'Connor lost his life; that they put up camps; understood they were five partners in said land; that Mr. Pratte and Vallé were to obtain a concession for said land; that, in December, same year, the same men notched up a cabin, remained thereon; no corn raised thereon until 1802; received orders from claimant, in the fall of 1800, not to work on said land, as a concession was got for said concession; believes it was after October, and that he is certain that he had none until the spring of 1801; believes it was 1st April, 1801; that Manitto informed them that claimant was to obtain a concession, and that he (Manitto) and others were to be in partnership; never heard from claimant of a partnership; was over the whole tract; never saw corn raised until 1802; said land was surveyed in 1802.

Abraham Eads settled on Big river, in December, 1799; is about one mile from claimant's settlement; that, when claimant surveyed his tract, he took in witness's improvement, his concession being three days older than witness's; had lived thereon about one year before surveying said land; the last aforesaid settlement is about one mile from the mines. Said land was surveyed in June, 1802; witness's land was surveyed same day. First crop raised in 1802, to his certain knowledge; lives about a mile and a quarter from said improvement. Pagget and others informed him, in June, 1800, of a mine on said land; witness and others went to dig; informed one Manitto of the same some time afterwards, and proceeded to the working of the same.

John Baker, one of the first settlers, about nine years; one of those who first discovered mineral in 1800; never heard of any claim to the same at that time; never worked said mine; believes first crop was raised in 1800; cabins or camps built on the same in the fall of 1800; saw Manitto, La Broche, and O'Connor working on the same, was informed for Pratte; does not know when they left off; went on in August, 1800, and to this day.

Abraham Baker, latter end of June, began the working of said mine; first crop raised in 1802; camps put up in 1800; first cabin put up late in the fall of 1800. Claimant's hands came on in August, 1800, and have been there to this day; was informed by Manitto, late in the fall of 1800, that a concession was to be got, and they were to be in partnership: claimant had some of his negroes.

On the part of claimant.

Pierre Chabotte has worked for claimant's mine; about seven years ago digged for mineral, and cut timber for building a house; begun in July, and stayed three months; begun the house, split rails for fencing, but did not remain until the same was completed; that, in 1800, he raised corn on the same; was inhabited, and crops have been raised every year on the same to this day; saw corn growing, and ate some of it; wheat has been raised, but cannot tell when; about six or seven arpents in cultivation. Never saw concession; heard of claimant's having one, but does not know when. Three cabins in 1800; is thirty-one years of age; lived at St. Genevieve before he went to said land; that one Manitto and Labreche, with claimant's negroes, were on and remained there all the time he was on; is a laborer, and has worked at several other places for his living; no crop raised in 1799; does not remember when survey took place; did not live there in October, but has passed by repeatedly; that this is the same place he worked upon; saw a number of holes which had been worked in for mineral; knows Abraham Eads, who was present at said survey; believes it had been cultivated prior to said survey; never saw Alley and others working at the mine; Eads lived a little below Abraham Baker when survey was taken. Manitto and Labreche worked with him, and had been there before, but does not know how long, but believes they had been there but a short time, from the appearance of the works. Eads, Paggot, and witness believes A. Baker, were neighbors.

Francis Tibeault worked said mine for claimant about six years ago in April; cut rails, &c.; had two houses on the same; saw nothing but the houses and the rails; remained thereon about six days; no appearance of cultivation then; that it was the first year they raised a crop; about two months after went there, and saw corn growing on the same; that Chabotte was then working with Chabotte and some slaves of claimant; has seen the same often; was not there in October that year, and does not know who lived thereon; that Chabotte did not work at the farm, but was engaged for three days at the mine; does not know if he was there afterwards; Manitto and Labreche were working there also; they were there six years ago; lived at St. Genevieve before; had been at Mine à Breton before he went with Pratte, and returned there again after he had done.

Louis La Croix worked claimant's mine seven years ago; melted a furnace of mineral; does not know the time of the year; had no house on the same; built houses on the same; witness cannot tell how long; saw corn growing about three or four years; never worked there afterwards; worked there six days; was on it six years ago in the fall; saw houses; does not recollect of corn being then growing; made use of wooden furnaces for melting of lead; it took him three days to build it; Manitto, Labreche, and negroes worked with him; did not see any mark of old digging that Pratte and Vallé had digged before; Manitto and Labreche were then working; went from mine to village for claimant same year.

Antoine Govreau: that, about six years next fall, latter end of October, he went to said land; that claimant was then there with his hands; had three houses on the same; he carried flour to claimant; saw no crop; that he cut one of his fingers in crossing the river Establishment; several plantations on that road then; never was there since until very lately.

Amable Patenaud worked the mine about five years ago; had three houses; three fields under enclosure; assisted in gathering a crop of corn, wheat; appearance of having been cultivated for about three years before; from about sixty to eighty arpents in cultivation; remained there six months; slaves remained there all the while; claimant was there occasionally; has been cultivated to this day; witness is now in claimant's employ; no one else worked on said land but claimant and his hands; never worked at mine; saw holes where mineral had been digged out; knew Manitto and Labreche, who worked on said place some years before he went on, as he is informed; went by repeatedly about seven or eight years ago, when they were at work at the mine.

Jean Gagnon worked for claimant about six years ago, 17th April; three houses; lived there five months; raised corn, but does not know what quantity; negroes were there then; Manitto and Labreche worked also; heard claimant say then that he had a concession for land, but did not hear the quantity; has been cultivated to this day; Baker, Eads, and Pagget were then the nearest neighbors.

John Portais never worked at the mine; saw, about six years ago, about October or November, when passing by, that claimant's slaves were there; saw two or three cabins; does not remember of a crop, nor of any enclosure.

Charles Boyer never worked at the mine, nor at the farm; that six years ago he saw a cabin on said land; saw Manitto and Labreche were working on the same; that he advised claimant, prior to 1800, to wit, in 1797, to settle on said land; that the same would form a fine settlement, as there was a spring on the same; that claimant then informed him he was about applying for a concession for the same; does not know when claimant got a concession for the same; claimant was not there; went into the house; saw no fences; said house was for the use of slaves; house close by mines.

ANTONIO SOULARD.

SAN LUIS DE ILLINOIS, a 10 Enero de 1800.

Rufus Easton and James Bruff, claiming 840 arpents of land, as assignees of Joseph Gerrard and Patrick Flemming, said tract situate on the second fork of the Grand river, comprehending and including the Mine à Joe, produce, in support of said claim, a certified copy.

Testimony taken. (From the rough minutes.)

December 2, 1807. James Keith being duly sworn, says that, in the fall of 1803, he saw a crop of corn on the land claimed, which he supposes belonged to Joseph Gerrard; that there were three or four cabins on said tract, and three or four acres in cultivation; and that said Gerrard resided on the tract ever since, until about one year ago.

Ezekiel Eastridge being duly sworn, says that, in 1803, he saw corn growing on the tract claimed; and Gerrard living there at the time; and said Gerrard has inhabited and cultivated said tract ever since, and resided on it in 1803; had about four acres in cultivation; said Gerrard had a wife and one child.

Don To Francis Vallé, captain commandant, civil and military, of the post of St. Genevieve, of the Illinois.

Joseph Gerrard has the honor of exposing to you, that, having obtained, in the year 1790, a concession for a tract of land, situate on the Merrimac, otherwise called Grand river, above Shallow river, and about one league distant of said river, having lost the copy of said concession, he has the honor of praying you to be so good as to make the search of said concession in the archives of this post, and to deliver him a copy of the same.

JOSEPH GERRARD.

ST. GENEVIEVE, September 7, 1799.

ST. GENEVIEVE, September 8, 1799.

In virtue of the demand of the petitioner, we do here adjoin a copy of the original instruments deposited in the archives of this post.

FRANCIS VALLE.

SIR:

ST. GENEVIEVE, June 27, 1790.

The petitioners have the honor of exposing to you that they would be flattered to clear and cultivate a tract of land, situate on the second fork of the Grand river Merrimac, containing one league square, distant one league and a half below Shallow river, and about twelve leagues from this village; so considering, be pleased, sir, to grant unto them the said concession, in order that they and their heirs may enjoy it, and you will do justice.

JOSEPH GERRARD.

And one cross for LORRAN MACAGNE.

ST. GENEVIEVE, June 27, 1790.

Be the present petition presented to Don Manuel Perez, Lieutenant Governor of this said part of the Illinois, in order to obtain what he pleases.

PEYROUX DE LA COUDRONIERE.

ST. LOUIS, OF ILLINOIS, July 7, 1790.

Don Henry Peyroux, captain commandant of St. Genevieve, may grant to the petitioner five arpents of land in front, by forty in depth, to each of them, in the place they solicit, belonging to the domain of the King, in order that they may establish themselves as they may wish it, and be subject to the Spanish laws, as vassals of His Catholic Majesty, whom may God preserve.

MANUEL PEREZ.

We, Don Henry Peyroux, captain of infantry, commandant, civil and military, of the post of St. Genevieve, of the Illinois, in consequence of the orders of the Lieutenant Governor of this part of Illinois, do grant, as a title of property, unto Laurent Macagné, Joel Macagné, brothers, Joseph Gerrard, father, and Patrick Flemming, Jun., aged about eighteen years, the quantity of seven arpents in front to each of them, by thirty arpents of depth, in the place mentioned in the petition of the other part; which tracts of land shall be taken jointly, without being separated from one to the other, and be subject to the maintenance of public roads, and be established within a year from the date of this day; in default of which the said land shall be re-united to the domain of the King. Given at St. Genevieve, July 17, 1790.

M. P. LEDUC,

Clerk Board of Commissioners, Dist. Louisiana.

L.

NEW BOURBON, October 3, 1799.

To Charles Dehault Delassus, colonel of the armies of his Catholic Majesty, and Lieutenant Governor of Upper Louisiana.

HUMBLY PETITION:

Camille Delassus, Jun., son of Peter Charles Dehault Delassus Deluzieres, commandant, civil and military, of the post of New Bourbon, in the Illinois, and has the honor of exposing to you that, in the year 1792, when his father came and settled in this country, his intentions were always to settle near him. Having then made his said intentions known to his lordship the Baron de Carondelet, the Governor General then promised and assured him a tract of land at his own choice in this country, as it appears by a copy of an official letter from said Governor to his father, dated 8th May, 1793; and said Governor did, at the same time, send his orders to Don Zenon Trudeau, your predecessor, ordering him to grant a concession to your petitioner, who deferred to demand and choose it till now, on account of his youth, and the desire he had to learn the works of agriculture and exploration of lead mines under the direction of his said father. Finding himself at present of age, and in a situation of conducting a plantation and exploring a mine with the hired men, slaves, and animals he possesses, he prays your worship to grant him a concession of 2,500 arpents of land in superficie, situate about the Grand river, and the river called river Platte, (shallow,) bounded on every side by the King's domain. Your petitioner prefers that place to any other on account of its being more handy to oversee the exploration, and attend at his father's mines, which are situated on a branch or fork of the river St. Francis, otherwise Gaboury, to the end that, by the lead he may discover and explore on the concession he solicits, he may defray the considerable and great expenses already made by his father on his said mine.

Your petitioner being second lieutenant of militia, and his knowledge of the English language, in which he has been employed very often under the command of his father, with the greatest zeal for the King's service, and without any reward, flatters himself to obtain of your worship the favor which he solicits. To that end your petitioner applies to your worship, in order that you would be pleased, according to the orders and manifest intentions of Government, to grant him the said concession of two thousand five hundred arpents above mentioned, and accordingly give your orders to Anthony Soulard, surveyor of Upper Louisiana, to survey said concession, drawing the plat, and make a verbal-procès of survey. So doing, your petitioner will pray for the preservation of your days.

CAMILLE DELASSUS.

ST. LOUIS, OF THE ILLINOIS, October 12, 1799.

By virtue of the above memorial, and instrument added thereto, and also by what appears in the two officials from the Governor of this province, the Baron de Carondelet, bearing date the 7th and 8th of May, 1793, filed in this archives:

The surveyor, Anthony Soulard, shall survey 2,500 arpents of land in superficie, demanded by the petitioner, according to the orders of said Governor; and, after the execution of the survey, the party interested shall have recourse to the Intendant General of this province, (in order to obtain the title in form,) to whom, by royal order, appertains the right of granting all classes of lands belonging to the King's domain.

CARLOS DEHAULT DELASSUS.

APRIL 17, 1802.

I do hereby certify, that I relinquish all the right and claim to the cabin and labor that I have done on the Platte river, as I find that Mr. Camille Delassus has a right for it, before these presents.

Sn. Louis de Illinois, 10 de Enero de 1800.

ANTONIO SOULARD.

Testimony taken from the rough minutes.

Camille Delassus claims 2,500 arpents of land, situate on the waters of the river Platte, district of St. Genevieve, and produces a concession from Charles Dehault Delassus for the same, 12th October, 1799; and a plat and certificate of survey, dated 12th January, 1800. Surveyed November same year.

J. B. Vallé, sworn, was told by claimant about 1799, or 1800, having had a concession for said land, and was about having the same surveyed; that the said land had been established by one Doggett, who built a house on the same in 1801. A letter from the Baron de Carondelet to P. D. Deluzieres, dated 8th May, 1793; that a Mr. Aubuchon told witness he had discovered a mine on said land in 1792.

William Montgomery, sworn, says that the first mineral was discovered in 1801; moved on Big river in 1800, about two miles from said land; never heard of a mine having been discovered before, nor a concession granted before 1802.

Thomas Alley, sworn, says that the said tract was surveyed the latter end of 1802. Said land lies about one and a half miles from claimant. Heard of a mine having been discovered on the same in 1801.

DECEMBER 1, 1807.

Susanna Doggett, widow of Jacob Doggett, claiming 1,047 arpents and 28 poles.

William Montgomery, duly sworn, says one Samuel Pierceall first marked the place, and then gave up the place, or authorized Jacob Doggett to take possession of it, and build on it; he also saw a house built on it in the year of 1802; he was not present when it was built.

Abraham Parke, duly sworn, says Jacob Doggett employed him to haul the house logs in the year 1801, which he accordingly did, and that the above claim of land was taken up by said Doggett, as he, said Doggett, told the witness, as his head-right, in 1802, and that said Doggett had permission to settle on the vacant land in the King's domain, and he was present when he obtained said permission to settle. He also says said Doggett came into the country in 1800, and has since died in the country, he thinks in the year of 1803.

James Keith, duly sworn, deposes that, in 1801, he assisted the deceased Doggett to build a house on the premises about eighteen feet square; soon after the raising of said house a man of the name of Armstrong came to said Doggett at Montgomery's mill, with a paper in his hand, which he, Armstrong, called a requête, containing, as deponent understood, an order to take said Doggett to the calabouse if he should refuse to leave the premises and give up his claim. Deponent says that Doggett appeared much alarmed, left the premises in obedience to said order, and died in the year 1802, about Christmas. Claimant purchased afterwards a tract of land, on which he resided until his death.

Abraham Baker, being sworn, says that sometime after the deceased had left the premises, and after his death, his widow, the present claimant, desired him, the deponent, to inquire of Camille Delassus whether he would not make her a compensation for the expenses incurred by her late husband on the land which he had been obliged to abandon. That deponent did make the inquiry, and was informed by Mr. Delassus that he should not.

Deponent says, that the claimant, Susanna, is the widow and relict of the late Jacob Doggett, and that she had, previously to and at the death of her said husband, four children, who were all living on the 20th December, 1803.

DECEMBER 2, 1807.

Camille Delassus claiming the same lands as Susanna Doggett, of yesterday, against which claim there was a caveat by said Delassus.

Abraham Armstrong also enters a caveat to the claim of said Camille Delassus, which said caveat is now on file, dated December 15, 1807.

Testimony taken on the part of the United States.

Susanna widow Doggett, duly sworn, says that she was informed that Jacob Doggett, her husband, had built a house on said land, but cannot tell when.

Abraham Baker, duly sworn, says that Doggett raised a house on said land in the fall of 1801; he, the witness, assisted him in so doing; believes claimant never paid Doggett any thing for said improvement; that a mine was discovered on it by Pierceall.

Samuel Pierceall, duly sworn, says that he, witness, discovered mineral on said land in 1801; that he worked on the same in the summer of that year. That one Doggett, that ——— in the fall of 1801, he, the witness, and one Armstrong, having discovered mineral on said land, went to St. Genevieve for the object of obtaining a concession for him, said Armstrong, and the witness; that when at St. Genevieve, he that ——— when Doggett was building said cabin in 1801, he was forbid going on any further with said building, as he owned said tract. That Doggett, when building on said land, did not contemplate to take in any of the mines on said land, but merely to have a plantation.

M.

ST. LOUIS, January 15, 1797.

Charles Fremon Delauriere has the honor of exposing to you that, having been sent to this country for services respecting this Government, that he has been employed in the service of His Catholic Majesty as a volunteer in a party of militia which he has had the honor to command on an expedition on the Mississippi in the year 1795; now desirous to settle in this province, and get a property that might fix him in the same, in making, as soon as his means will permit, the useful and advantageous settlement for his livelihood and fortune, of which he has been partly deprived by the events of the French revolution; in consequence he applies to your justice, and to the generosity of this Government, in order to take what is above stated into consideration, and grant him, if you please, sir, in full property, a concession of ten thousand arpents of land, in superficie, to be located near Prairie Rondo, district of St. Genevieve, and to give the necessary orders to the Surveyor General of Upper Louisiana to put him in possession, as soon as he will be required so to do by your petitioner, who will not cease to pray for your preservation.

FREMON DELAURIERE.

To DON ZENON TRUDEAU, Lieutenant Governor of the Western part of the Illinois, and chief commandant at St. Louis, &c.

ST. LOUIS, January 15, 1797.

DON ZENON TRUDEAU, Lieutenant Governor of Upper Louisiana, &c.

The surveyor, Don Anthony Soulard, will put the interested in possession of the ten thousand arpents of land, in superficie, which he solicits, on the place mentioned, provided they are vacant and belong to the domain of the King. After having made the survey he will deliver it to him, together with this decree, that it may serve him as title of property, until he obtains a title in form from the General Government, to whom he will apply in convenient time.

ZENON TRUDEAU.

St. Louis, February 7, 1809.

I do hereby certify the above to be truly translated from the original remaining in the office of the Recorder of land claims.

M. P. LEDUC, Translator, &c.

Surveyed for F. D. Ch. Delauriere 10,000 acres of land in the Richwood, about fifty miles in a southwest direction from St. Louis, on the head waters of Upper Big creek, a branch of Renow's fork of the Merrimac, and bounded as followeth: Beginning at an ash and black oak in a line with Horine's survey, and running with the same north, 85 west, 60 acres, to a white oak; thence, north, 55 east, 100 acres, to a stake and white oak; thence, south, 35 east, 100 acres, to a stake and white oak; thence, south, 55 west, to an ash; thence, north, 35 west, 40 acres, to the place of the beginning, passing a corner of said Horine's survey, and with his line.

Territory of Louisiana, district of St. Genevieve, platted by a scale of 100 poles to the inch.

[Diagram descriptive of the plat.]

This plat represents 630 acres of land, platted at the request of Joseph Decelle, who claims the same by virtue of improvement and cultivation, beginning at two black walnuts on the southeast side of a branch or fork of the Preiza spring creek, below the Double spring, running, south, 315 poles to a stake; thence, west, 320 poles to a stake; thence, north, 315 poles to a post oak; thence, east, 320 poles to the beginning; including his field, supposed to contain six or seven acres.

To the Recorder of land titles in and for the Territory of Louisiana.

SIR:

Please to take notice that I claim, in virtue of an actual inhabitation and cultivation before and on the 20th December, 1803, the above tract of land of six hundred and thirty acres, situate in the district of St. Genevieve, as designated in the above-mentioned plat thereof, dated the 8th May, 1807.

JOSEPH DECELLE,

By his agent, E. HEMPSTEAD.

MINE A BURTON, May 2, 1807.

Know all men by these presents, that I, Manuel Blanco, of the Mine à Breton, and district of St. Genevieve, have sold unto Joseph Decelle, of said district, an improvement made by myself in the year 1800, within one mile and a half of Mine à Burton, proper, for the consideration of fifty dollars in hand paid by the said Joseph Decelle, as a consideration for said improvement, in consideration of which I do, by these presents, make over and convey all my right and title to said improvement, together with all advantages that may arise in consequence of said improvement, by the virtue of any law of the United States that has been made, or that may be made, securing to settlers their improvements; to have and to hold the said improvements, with all and singular the rents, emoluments, mines, streams, and minerals, thereunto belonging, or in any way appertaining, for the proper use of him, the said Joseph Decelle, his heirs and assigns, forever; and, at the same time, to ask for and demand a title for said lands and improvements, the same as if demanded in my own name, without let or hindrance. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal.

MANUEL BLANCO.

In presence of ELIAS A. ELLIOT.

N. B. Be it also known, that the sale and possession of said improvement was made, and possession given to the said Decelle in the year 1802. I received my pay at the time possession was given.

MANUEL BLANCO.

Test: ELIAS A. ELLIOT,
JAMES AUSTIN.

Testimony taken.

DECEMBER 5, 1807.

Alexander Duclos, being duly sworn, says that he knows the tract claimed is situate at the new mine, and it is the mine called the New Diggings; that, about six years ago, there was about two arpents fenced in, and a crop raised for Decelle.

John Strickland, being also sworn, says that, in 1803, he helped Mr. Decelle to plant corn, and that there was no appearance of cultivation before that time; that there was no fence, but logs laid round where the fence ought to be. He does not know whether the crop of corn was ever gathered in, and that this took place next May will be four years.

David Strickland, being also sworn, says that the year he moved at the Mine à Breton, which was in 1803, his son, John Strickland, the above witness, helped Mr. Decelle to plant corn.

Charles McDurmett, being also sworn, says, in 1803, he helped to plough ground on said tract, and that the ground did not look as if it had been worked before; there was a sort of French fence around it; does not know whether the corn was gathered that year.

David Shaw, being also sworn, says that he was on the land claimed in 1804, and that a crop of corn was raised on the same that year by Decelle, and in the fall of the same year, or the year after, the fence around the enclosure was burnt; there was also no mineral discovered on the same at that time; that, about a year ago, or perhaps a little more, mineral was discovered on the land, and it has been reputed the richest mine in the country, and that Mr. Decelle, previous to the discovery of mineral on the land, cut timber for fencing the field, but, being sick and weakly, he did not complete it; that place where the mineral has been found is situate about three or four hundred yards from the field.

AUGUST 16, 1808.

In this case, on motion made and affidavit filed, that the evidence of Amable Partenais, dit Mason, is material to the claim, and that his testimony was not taken when the board was last at St. Genevieve, on account of the indisposition and absence of Major Penrose, one of the members, and of Mr. Christy, the clerk; and praying that the same be now admitted to be taken before the board, although this claim has, as it appears, been laid over for decision. The honorable Frederick Bates, one of the commissioners, recollects that, during the session of the board at St. Genevieve, last winter, Henry Elliot, who appeared to be acting in behalf of the claim of Joseph Decelle, appeared to be anxious to obtain the testimony of certain witnesses residing at the lead mines, and who were not then at the village; that said Elliot rode to the Mine à Breton, as is believed, with a summons for said witnesses, but did not return in time, as the board had unexpectedly adjourned, owing to the sudden return to St. Louis of the honorable C. B. Penrose, and William Christy, the clerk of the board; recollects that he conversed with Mr. Elliot on his return, and remarked that he was greatly disappointed that his testimony could not be received. The board are thereupon of opinion that this case be opened and further testimony given.

Amable Partenais, dit Mason, sworn, says that Don François Vallé, commandant of St. Genevieve district, being at the Mine à Breton in April or May, 1800, Manuel Blanco applied to him for a concession for the land claimed; said commandant replied to him that he could not grant him a concession; that he must apply to the Lieutenant Governor of St. Louis, but that said Blanco might settle on the same and cultivate it, and that nobody should disturb him; that, in 1801, said Blanco fenced in three sides of a field, but did not finish it; in 1802, joined with claimant, finished their fence, and raised a crop of corn; in 1803 and 1804, also, raised a crop; in 1805 the fence was burnt; says that Joseph Decelle, claimant, was, in 1802 and 1803, a syndic of the settlement of Mine à Breton, and resided in the village, and was also a syndic under the American Government in 1804; that Manuel Blanco is a Spaniard, and was for a long time a Spanish soldier.

On the 29th December, 1807, John Smith T entered for record, in my office, the following tracts of land, located and claimed by him by virtue of a concession, as is said, to Jacques St. Vrain, for 10,000 arpents, dated the 9th February, 1796, to wit:

New Diggings, two miles from Mine à Breton,	-	-	-	-	1,000
Mine à Robena,	-	-	-	-	300
A tract on the branch above Renaut's mine,	-	-	-	-	300
A tract to include Doggett's mines,	-	-	-	-	300
A tract on the first branch emptying into the Mine fork, above its junction with Big river, on the south side,	-	-	-	-	200
McKee's Discovery and adjacent lands, 1¼ miles from the foregoing tracts,	-	-	-	-	200
A tract including a mill seat, on the said creek, emptying into Big river, above the junction of the Mineral fork, on the west side,	-	-	-	-	50
Amount of locations under St. Vrain's grant,	-	-	-	-	2,350

Claims of John Smith T derived in another manner:

A tract on waters of St. Francis, Murphy's settlement,	-	-	-	-	800
A tract on waters of St. Francis, by concession, as is said, to Joseph Fenwick, 18th August, 1796,	-	-	-	-	20,000

To his lordship the BARON DE CARONDELET, knight of Malta, brigadier of the royal armies, governor general, vice lord of Louisiana and Western Florida, and inspector of its troops, &c.

My LORD:

James Ceran de St. Vrain Delassus, officer of the royal French marine, with all the respect due to you, hath the honor to expose, and saith that, being obliged to emigrate in the United States by some too well known circumstances, and having lost his fortune and his military appointment, hath followed his family to associate himself to its fate, and which your generous goodness has taken care to better.

During that interval the petitioner has had the happiness of rendering himself useful to the Government who has received him, endeavoring to show his zeal, activity, and consecration, against a party of the French, who dare to threaten the Spanish possessions.

The knowledge of mineralogy which your petitioner possesses, has engaged his father to yield him the contract he had made with the Government for the supply of a certain quantity of lead, and in the view to fulfil more easily the conditions which his father entered into with the Intendant, in satisfying the Government, and to procure him a convenient livelihood, such to secure him in future an honorable support, the petitioner prays you, sir, to grant him, in all, property for him and his heirs, 10,000 arpents of land superficie, with the particular permission to take them in several separated tracts, on mines of what nature they may be, salt springs, mill-seats, or any other places that will appear convenient to his interests, without being obliged to make any improvements, which he could not perform at present with success, on account of the great expenses that those improvements and explorations would require, and that the seats cannot be had but in very remote places from the population, and be exposed to the insults of the Indians.

These are the favors which your petitioner dare expect of your generous goodness and of your justice.

JACQUES DE ST. VRAIN.

NEW ORLEANS, May 8, 1793.

I send you back the primitive title of the concession granted to Francis Vallé, of St. Genevieve, who made the same over to Mr. Dodge, and of which said Dodge made over one-half to Mr. Tardiveau, who made you a gift of it, with the revision and approbation you desired.

By this opportunity I write to Mr. Zenon Trudeau to grant you the land where you will have discovered the lead mines, with some adjacent, of a sufficient extent for their exploration; provided, however, they should not be already granted to some other.

Your son-in-law and your sons shall also have, as you wish it, a plantation in any place of the Illinois they will choose, and of an extent proportioned to the culture and settlements they propose themselves to arise, which is the answer to your No. 3. God preserve you many years.

EL BARON DE CARONDELET.

ST. LOUIS, February 3, A. D. 1807.

I do hereby certify the above to be truly translated from the original.

M. P. LEDUC, T. B. C. L. D.

To Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor of the western part of the Illinois, &c.

Very humbly petition Peter Charles Dehault, knight and lord of Lassus, Luzieres, and knight of the grand cross of the royal order of St. Michel, residing at New Bourbon, dependency of the Illinois, near St. Genevieve, and has the honor of exposing to you that, when he was in New Orleans, in May, 1793, he resolved to settle in the Illinois country, on account of the assurances given to him by his lordship the Baron de Carondelet, Governor General of Louisiana, that he, the said Governor, would send his orders, and authorize you to grant him a tract of land to explore, exclusively, lead mines of a convenient and sufficient extent for the said exploration, provided it should not be already granted to some others, which promises and assurances of Government were expressly mentioned in an original letter, herein enclosed, directed to the petitioner by his lordship the Baron de Carondelet, and dated May 8, 1793, and which you have been pleased to inform me that it was exactly conformable to another official letter by you received on that subject by the same authority.

The lengthy and cruel disease which your petitioner experienced on his arrival at the Illinois, in August, 1793; the hostile threats of invasions made a short time after by the French against this upper colony; your orders to the inhabitants not to leave the posts, and the troubles and cares (which to your knowledge) I have taken in that time, in helping you in the wise and efficacious measures you have employed, with success, in putting the several places of this country in a state of defence in cases of an attack, and Government having been informed of my zeal, cares, and endeavors, I received from his lordship Louis De Las Casas, then captain general of Havana, the honorable testimony of his satisfaction, as appears by his letter to me directed, dated May 20, 1794, and of which a copy is here joined.

All these circumstances having impeded the petitioner to begin sooner his searches of a tract of land and mines, and by the assistance of my children, son-in-law, and the knowledge of several persons, I have found one tract of land, situate on a branch of the river St. François, otherwise Gaboury, in the district of St. Genevieve, and about thirty-six miles from said St. Genevieve, which said tract has not yet been granted, and on which it is assured that there is a lead mine, which, by the principles of mineralogy, is sufficiently authenticated by the exterior appearances.

Your petitioner having determined to venture a regular exploration of lead mines on that place, he expects, every day, on, his eldest son, who is now in Holland, and well acquainted with that branch; for, having studied it, and having been interested with your petitioner in the exploration of such mines in Europe, he will be very useful in conducting the works with great advantage.

Your petitioner flatters himself that you will not decline in giving to said concession one league square, inasmuch as to secure the necessary timber for the melting of the mineral, the wants of the hands, and the sustenance of the last one. To this end your petitioner requests you, sir, that, in conformity of the intentions of Government mentioned in the aforesaid letter, and in the letter to you directed by the said Governor General, you will be pleased to grant him, for him, his heirs, and assigns, a concession of a league square of land, situate on the said branch of the river St. François, otherwise Gaboury, in the district of St. Genevieve, with the exclusive right to explore the lead mines which might be found on the same, and cultivate and raise stocks, if necessary.

In so doing, your petitioner will forever pray for the preservation of your days.

DELASSUS DELUZIERES.

NEW BOURBON, *March 3, 1795.*ST. GENEVIEVE, OF THE ILLINOIS, March 10, 1795.

I, commandant of the post aforesaid, do inform the Lieutenant Governor that the land petitioned for by the above petition makes a part of the King's domain; that it is not granted to anybody, and that the extent for a league square, as solicited, is absolutely required for securing the necessary timber for the melting of mineral, and the wants of workmen.

Copy of a letter written by his lordship Luis De Las Casas, captain general of Havana, &c., to the knight Dehault Delassus, of New Bourbon.

The Baron De Carondelet, in his letter of the 27th of February last, has informed me of the zeal and activity which your worship has manifested in exciting your settlers and Indians in the common defence of those settlements, and also of what your worship had done in the settlement where you live. I hope that you will continue the same with the same influence, and give me opportunity to reward and serve your worship.

God preserve your worship many years. Havana, 20th May, 1794.

LOUIS VALLE.

ST. GENEVIEVE, OF THE ILLINOIS, April 15, 1795.

Seeing the present petition, the letter of the Baron de Carondelet, directed to the petitioner, and herein enclosed, dated May, 1793; also the official, directed to us by the same Governor General, authorizing and giving us order to grant the petitioner a concession of a sufficient extent, in the place by him chosen, to explore, exclusively, the lead mines he will find; having also seen the information above stated of the commandant of St. Genevieve, by which it appears that the land petitioned for belongs to the King's domain, and that it is convenient that its extent should have one league square: I, the Lieutenant Governor, in conformity of said orders and intentions of Government, do give and grant to the petitioner, for him, his heirs and assigns, in all property, the concession which he demands, situate on a branch of the river St. François, otherwise Gaboury, on the spot by him chosen, to the extent of one league square, in order to explore, exclusively, to any others, the lead mines on the same, and, if necessary, to cultivate and raise stocks, giving order, by these presents, to Francis Vallé, commandant of St. Genevieve, in the district of which the said land is situated, to put the petitioner in possession of the same; to the regular survey of which it shall be hereafter proceeded by the surveyor, who is to be incessantly appointed for the Upper Louisiana.

ZENON TRUDEAU.

We, Don Francis Vallé, captain commandant, civil and military, of the post of St. Genevieve, in conformity to the within decree of Don Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor of this western part of the Illinois, dated the first of this present month of April, we have, this day, the 15th of said month, put the knight, Peter Charles Delassus Deluzieres, in possession of the league square of land, situated on the river St. François, otherwise Gaboury, as granted to him by the aforesaid within decree, in conformity of the orders, and with the approbation of his lordship the Governor General of this province, the said concession to be in future regularly surveyed by the King's surveyor, which is to be incessantly appointed and established in the upper part of this colony, of which the present is an act.

FRANCIS VALLE.

NEW ORLEANS, May 8, 1793.

I do hereby enclose to you the primitive titles of the concession granted to Mr. Francis Vallé, of St. Genevieve, who did give up the same to Mr. Dodge, and which said Dodge did give up the one-half to Mr. Tardiveau, who afterwards made you the free gift of the same, together with the viso and approbation you desired.

By this opportunity I write to Mr. Zenon Trudeau to grant you the tract of land on which you might have discovered the lead mines, with an adjacent tract of a sufficient extent for their explorations; provided, however, it is not formerly granted to any body.

Your son-in-law and your children shall also, agreeable to your desire, have a concession in any place they will choose in the Illinois, and of an extent proportioned to the settlements they intend to make. This is the answer to your letter No. 3. God preserve you.

The knight Don Peter Dehault Delassus has made a contract with this Intendancy, for the delivery of thirty thousand pounds of lead yearly, either in ball or plates, during five years.

In order that he may comply with said contract, your worship will put him in possession of a sufficient quantity of land for the exploration and privilege of the mine, in consequence of which he will present a memorial directed to me, which your worship will forward to me, in order that I might give the necessary decree of concession; but be it understood that, until then, your worship will put him in possession.

God preserve you many years.

The undersigned have the honor of exposing to you that, having purchased at public sale a part of the property of John Datcherut, deceased, on the lead mine called à La Motte, together with what did belong to some of the subscribers; that, since that time, they have explored the said mine with considerable expenses, for the re-establishment of the same, which had, for a considerable length of time, remained without explorations; and that, by their industry and constant works they have been at, it would now begin to answer their views in becoming profitable; and, as wood is the most essential for the melting of the minerals, and at present at remote distance from the said mine, on account of the consummation which had been made of it heretofore, by the ancient explorer of the said mine, of which your petitioners, on account of the great length of time which has elapsed since that period, have no other knowledge than that derived of their friends who have worked the same, without being able to give them the fixed time at which they did work it. The said petitioners pray you, sir, to grant them the quantity of two leagues square, adjoining the said mine, to enjoy the forests, timber, materials, and other convenient commodities for the exploration of said mine, without which they would suffer a considerable injury, and ruin all their present and future works. Your petitioners do obligate themselves to conform to the laws, customs, and constitution of the kingdom: in so doing they never will cease to offer their prayers for your conservation.

It not being in our power to grant a concession to such an extent, we refer the petitioners to the Intendant, whom we have the honor to inform that the use they propose to make of these two leagues square is absolutely indispensable and necessary to explore the mine, and to dig the lead; besides, that the four persons who demand it have for this long time employed all their means and strength in digging the mineral so useful to the Government and to the public, and are of the most ancient and respectable inhabitants of the country, and faithful subjects of His Catholic Majesty; and that, in every instance, have always been employed by the Government, and have always showed the greatest zeal, whenever occasion has offered; in consideration of which, and in order that their works should not suffer by any delay, we do provisionally permit them to cut the necessary timber on the King's domain, on the place demanded, hoping of the goodness of his lordship, the Intendant, that he will be as good as to grant them this concession; favor of which they are worthy in every respect.

M. P. LEDUC, Trans. B. Com. Dist. Lou.

To the honorable Board of Commissioners for ascertaining and adjusting the titles and claims to land in the Territory of Louisiana.

I herewith submit to you that collection of evidence respecting the claims to, and value of, the lead mines within the Territory of Louisiana, which I have made in pursuance to the 6th section of the act of Congress, "for ascertaining and adjusting the titles and claims to land within the Territory of Orleans, and district of Louisiana," passed the 2d of March, 1805.

On examination it will be found that a great part of this collection has been compiled, not only from the Recorder's office, but also from the proceedings of the board; and in those cases where decisions have been heretofore made by the commissioners, I have also submitted copies thereof. Several other discoveries of lead mineral have also been made in the neighborhood of Mine au Breton and the Old mines, most of which are on public land; particularly Mine Shibboleth, near the Old mine claim. This is held under a lease from the United States, and is considered very valuable.

As to the second branch of the inquiry, viz: the value of the different mines, no certain evidence has fallen within my reach; of course I can have little else to submit on this head than general report. Many of the mines here noticed have been abandoned or not wrought for the last two or three years. But amongst those at present occupied or worked, Dubuque's mines, Mine au Breton, Lebeaume's mines, those situated on the Old mine tract, the new diggings and late discovery of Mine Shibboleth, are generally reputed much the most valuable.

The whole of which is respectfully submitted by,

WILL. C. CARR, Agent for the United States.

A statement of the different documents submitted to the Board of Commissioners relative to the title of the lead mines in the Territory of Louisiana.

A. Dubuque's mines.—Copies of the petition to, and grant from, the Baron de Carondelet; counsel and cession of the Sacs and Foxes to J. Dubuque; additional article of a treaty made by Governor Harrison with said Indians; testimony and decision of the former board.

B. Martin Duralde.—Concession from St. Ange and Labuxiere.

C. Wilkinson's mines.—Copies of the grant to Gabriel Cerré, the original claimant; and plat of survey, and extract from the minutes.

D. Mine Renault.—Copies of four concessions made by Bois Briant and Desursins to Mr. Renault, of which one is at Mine la Motte, as will be seen by reference to said copies, certified by the county Recorder at Kaskaskia. A grant of four arpents square by Frs. Cruzat to Azor, alias Breton, and the transfer to Fenwick and Henry, the present claimants.

E. Old mines.—Copy of the concession from Lassus to thirty-one inhabitants, and of the plat of survey. Also of the claim of P. Boyer, who has laid in a separate title to the land whereon he lived and cultivated, being included in the general plat of the thirty-one persons.

F. Mine au Breton, Moses Austin's claim.—Copy of his patent from Morales, and testimony given before the board. The heirs and representatives of Frs. Moro—copy of a concession from Frs. Cruzat to Frs. Azor, alias Breton, for four arpents; a petition to François Vallé by F. Moro, and decree of C. D. Delassus thereon, plat of survey, testimony, and decision of the board. The claim of St. Germ. Beauvais; concession from Manuel Perez for 60 feet square, and testimony; the claim of François Vallé; concession from Manuel Perez for 60 feet square, and testimony; the claim of the heirs and representatives of Frs. Lalumendiere; copy of the statement of the claim; testimony given, and decision of the board. [Note. The concession in this case could not be found.] Amable Partenais's concession from Lassus for 500 arpents; plat of survey, testimony, and opinion of the board. Charles Bequette, notice of claim; two plats of survey, testimony, and decision of the board.

Louis Millehomme, the same.

Louis Grinya, the same.

Peter Martin, two plats and same, but no decision.

Jacob Wise, one plat of survey, notice of claim and testimony.

Thomas Russ, one plat of survey, testimony, and decision of the board.

The heirs and representatives of Frs. Moro, assignee of Jno. B. Lebreche, 500 arpents; concession from Lassus to Lebreche; plat of survey, testimony, and decision of the board.

G. Auguste Chouteau, Jun., concession from Lassus for 800 arpents; plat of survey, testimony, and decision.

H. Nicholas Boilvin, original claimant; concession from Zenon Trudeau, and plat.

I. Mine à Menetto.—John B. Pratte, Sen., concession from Lassus for 1,000 arpents, plat of survey, testimony, and decision.

K. Mine à Joe.—Concession from Peyroux by the order of Manuel Perez; petition to C. D. Delassus, and his decree thereon; plat of survey and testimony.

L. Mine La Platte.—Camelle de Lassus 2,500 arpents; concession from C. D. Delassus's plat; Jacob Dogget's relinquishment to claimant, and testimony.

M. Labaume's mines.—Concession from Zenon Trudeau to Fremon Delauriere and plat of survey.

N. New Diggings.—1,000 arpents located by John Smith T, by virtue of a grant to Jacques St. Vrain, from Baron Carondelet, for 10,000 arpents, and other locations made by virtue of said grant, as per copy thereof, and his list of claims, herewith submitted.

The claim of Joseph Decelle for 630 acres; notice of claim, plat of survey, and testimony.

O. Mine a Gerboree. P. C. D. D. De Luzierre 7,056 arpents; grant from Zenon Trudeau; copies of three letters from the Baron de Carondelet, and one from Las Casas, Governor at Havana, and plat of survey.

P. Mine La Motte. Petition to Chs. Dehault Delassus, by J. B. Vallé, and others, together with his decree thereon; application to the Intendant, and an order by him for the same to be translated.

The foregoing statement contains an account of all the documents that I have been able to procure relating to the title of the lead mines.

SIR:

MINE A BURTON, 6th November, 1816.

When I was last at St. Louis, about three weeks ago, you were pleased to request my ideas in answer to a number of queries transmitted to you, if I mistake not, by the Commissioner General of the United States' Land Office. My private affairs not permitting my return home until the 2d instant, prevented my complying with your wishes at an earlier date; but I shall now proceed to do so, not only to the best of my judgment, but from the information of some of the most respectable inhabitants of the country; and, for the purpose of making myself understood as explicitly as possible, I shall answer the queries in the order they were proposed:

1st. The situation of the lead mines; their extension; their product; the general character of the ore; their value.

Answer. The mines of Mine à Burton are situated about 46 miles west of St. Genevieve, and about 36 miles southwest of Herculanum, both of them on the Mississippi, in about $37^{\circ} 40'$ of north latitude, and 16° of west longitude from Philadelphia.

The extent of the mines round this place, now worked, is about eight or ten miles. Indices of lead ore (and frequently the ore itself) are, however, found at a much greater distance; and, in my opinion, the country from this, southwardly, to Mine la Motte, about forty miles southwestwardly of St. Genevieve, northwestwardly towards, and perhaps on the waters of the Missouri, and northeastwardly to Dubuque's mines, on the Mississippi, may be considered as partially interspersed with mineral of various descriptions, particularly iron.

Yet, notwithstanding these general indices, no bodies of lead ore, worthy of attention, have, to my knowledge, been found, but in and about the following parts, viz: Mine la Motte, this place, Dubuque's mines, and on the waters of the Ouiskonsin and Roche rivers, (the two latter on the east side of the Mississippi.) The extent of the La Motte mines is not, from the best information, considerable; but I believe those on the Ouiskonsin and Roche rivers, as well as Dubuque's, are very much so.

The lead ores of this neighborhood are of the Galena kind, sometimes in small but generally in large lamines. They are often found in hard rocks, from which they are not detached but with great labor and expense; but, for the most part, either in red clay, mixed with gravel, forming together a hard compact body, or else attached to or combined with a vitreous spar, (called by the old French inhabitants, and adopted by the American, tiff.) The substance appears to be the matrix of the ore, seldom being found without its presence, and is generally found in large bodies, often without any mineral near it, and sometimes with only a speck in the centre, not larger than a pea. There is but little silver in the ores either of this place or Mine à la Motte; for, from very careful assays made by Mr. Renault, an able chemist in his employ near seventy years ago, it was ascertained that 25 lbs. weight of the La Motte mineral contained but one grain of silver, and that the same quantity of the mineral of this neighborhood contained only half of a grain.

The product of the ore is various. The best (after having undergone two different processes) will yield about 60 lbs. per cent. of lead, while others, after having passed through the same process, will not yield more than from 40 to 50 per cent. It often happens that the ore found in one hole will be of the first, while that taken from another one, only a short distance from it, will be of a very inferior quality; nay, sometimes the ore from the same hole will be very different in its quality. On the whole, however, the general product may be estimated at from 55 to 60 per cent.

I am at a loss to determine whether (from the words made use of, "their value," in the queries) it was intended to inquire into the value of the mines themselves, or into that of the mineral when raised.

Should it have been to inquire into the value of the mines themselves, I would observe that it would be difficult for me, or I believe for any other person, to give such an opinion on that head as would be satisfactory either to the Government or myself, because, 1st, the present mode of mining, which is nothing more than simply digging holes or pits in the ground, is by no means calculated to ascertain whether there may be any or what quantities of mineral at a considerable depth in the earth, and, if so, whether it is more or less abundant than near the surface; 2d, because, as some of these mines have as yet (unless perhaps in Renault's time) been either properly opened or explored, and as no shafts have been sunk or drifts cut, but to a very inconsiderable extent, it is impossible to judge whether there are any regular veins, and if so, of their length, breadth, or thickness. In fact no such regular veins have as yet been found, the ore hitherto got having been found in detached bodies or pieces of a greater or less magnitude; and, 3dly, because, as each hole is various in its value, that value must necessarily depend on the quantity and quality of the ore, the depth in which it is found, and the facility or difficulty of detaching it from the surrounding strata.

Should it have been intended to inquire into the value of the mineral dug up, I then answer that this depends entirely on the price of the lead at New Orleans, and other seaport towns of the United States. To elucidate this the more clearly it will be necessary to mention that those employed in the mining business are either miners or smelters.

The latter, who are few in number, and generally lessees under the United States, give the miners 400 lbs. of smelted lead, equal to 40 per cent., for every 1,000 lbs. of mineral they raise. The smelter, for his part, calculates on making 45 per cent. from the first smelting or process, and 15 per cent. on the second, making, in all, 60 per cent. In this, however, he is often disappointed. From the 20 per cent. remaining, after paying the miner, he pays the United States their rent, (at this time I believe 350 cents on every 1,000 lbs. of mineral,) the balance he retains for his trouble and expense of smelting the whole. The United States and the miner must, at all events, be paid, and the smelter runs all the risk. If lead bears a tolerable price he may make a small profit, if not, he will be a loser. With the view of explaining myself more fully, I beg leave to submit the following statement, by way of account; first premising that lead, at this time, is at 4 cents per pound, equal to $4 per hundred at the mines, and that the common charge of a furnace is about 3,000 lbs. mineral.

DR.	The Smelter.	CR.
To 1,650 lbs. lead, net produce of 3,000 lbs. mineral smelting, at 4 cents, - - -	$66 00	By paid miner 1,200 lbs., - - - $48 00
Deduct per contra, - - -	- 64 50	United States' rent, - - - 10 50
		Expenses out of pocket in both processes, - 6 00
	$1 50	$64 50

Leaving him for his trouble, skill, and care, (at the rate of 55 per cent. on the mineral,) 150 cents, equal to 50 cents on the 1,000 lbs. of mineral smelted: but should he obtain 60 per cent. from the mineral, there will then be a balance in his favor of $7 50. This sum, in my opinion, considering that he can smelt but once in two days, should even wind and weather permit, and that the furnace, when in blast, must be carefully watched and attended to for twenty-four consecutive hours, is not much more than sufficient to compensate him for his risk and labor in making the first, to say nothing of the second smelting.

When lead is five cents, as it was until lately, and to bring the medium between 55 and 60, viz: 57½ per cent. as the product of the mineral, the above account, in that case, will stand as follows, viz:

Dr.			The Smelter.			Cr.
To 1,725 lbs. lead, at 5 cents,	-	-	$86 25	By paid miner 1,200 lbs.,	-	-	$60 00
Deduct as per contra,	-	-	76 50	United States' rent,	-	-	10 50
				Expenses, -	-	-	6 00
			$9 75				$76 50

Leaving a balance of $9 75 in his favor. But, admitting that the mineral should produce 60 per cent., it would then leave a balance in his favor of $13 50, about $8 50 more than the sum he ought, in my opinion, to be entitled to.

From the foregoing statement it is evident that the rents to be received ought to be in proportion to the price of lead; and that, from the present low price at the mines, the rent now reserved is more than any one can afford to pay; were, however, the price advanced to any thing above five cents, then the rent to be reserved ought to be advanced in proportion. Hence it appears to be the interest, not only of the community at large, but of the Government in particular, that such protecting duties should be laid as would prevent the importation of foreign lead. Such a measure would give encouragement to national industry and enterprise, induce capitalists (much to be desired) to enter into the mining business, and, in all probability, would be the means of bringing into general use those treasures which now, and for ages to come, may otherwise remain buried in the bowels of the earth; and (considering the vast extent of mineral ground owned by the United States) insure a much greater revenue than is now received by way of duty on the importation of foreign lead.

I can see no substantial reason for the manufacturers receiving any greater encouragement than the miner and smelter. The skill employed by them all may be equal, but the risk and labor of the latter are much greater than the former; yet foreign lead only pays a duty of one cent per pound on importation, while in a manufactured state it pays three. Some may suppose that a quantity sufficient for the national consumption cannot be procured from the United States mines: of this there is no danger, as proper encouragement only is wanting to insure a superabundance.

I will now make a statement of the prime cost and charges of exporting one thousand pounds of lead from this place to Philadelphia, New York, or Baltimore.

Prime cost of 1,000 pounds of lead, at four cents,	-	-	-	-	-	$40 00
Carriage to St. Genevieve, $8; warehouse rent there, 75 cents,	-	-	-	-	-	8 75
Freight to New Orleans,	-	-	-	-	-	40 00
Commission and warehouse there,	-	-	-	-	-	3 75
Sea freight, from one-half to one cent per pound, averaged at three-fourths,	-	-	-	-	-	7 50
River and sea insurance,	-	-	-	-	-	4 00
Cartage, brokerage, wharfage, &c. at the different places,	-	-	-	-	-	3 00
Commission and wharfage at the port of delivery,	-	-	-	-	-	3 25
Difference between foreign and American weight, being as 108 to 112,	-	-	-	-	-	1 70
Interest on $80, three months at least before remittance received,	-	-	-	-	-	1 20
						$83 15

Lead is now said to be from seven and a half to eight dollars per hundred weight at Philadelphia. Allowing it to be the latter, the exporter will lose three hundred and fifteen cents at least on every one thousand pounds weight exported. A continuation of such a state of things must consequently prevent the exportation of any lead from these parts, and, in all probability, put a stop to the mining business.

I will conclude my observations in answer to the first set of queries, by stating, 1st. That, during the time this country was a colony of Spain, the smelter, as at present, only gave the miner forty per cent. of lead for his materials; but then neither of them paid any rent to the Government, every subject having full liberty to dig for and smelt lead when and where he pleased on the King's domains; and, 2d. That, as it requires a good deal of time and experience to become perfect smelters, as well as much risk, care, and attention in carrying on the business, such a calculation of the rent to be reserved ought to be made as to leave him a profit of about ten dollars on every six thousand pounds of mineral smelted. This sum will not, in my opinion, be too much, especially when it is considered that, in the winter season, and in all rainy and windy days, a furnace cannot be put in blast without running the (almost certain) risk of having the greatest part of the mineral burnt; and that, at all events, in the most favorable weather, only one charge, three thousand pounds, can be smelted in forty-eight hours; equal to three charges per week.

Question 2. The nature of the adjacent country; the proximity of towns and settlements; the facility of land and water carriage.

Answer. The country around Mine à Burton is broken; parts of it may be called second rate land, there being but little, if any, of the first rate; the remaining parts are either rocky or barren; the general growth of the timber, pine, white, black, and post oak. It is well watered with never failing springs and streams; very healthy, being several hundred feet higher than the level of the Mississippi, and neither swamps nor pond within thirty miles of the mines.

The nearest towns (excepting Potosi, the seat of justice of Washington county, in which these mines are situated) are St. Genevieve and Herculaneum. St. Louis is about sixty-five miles to the northeastward, and St. Charles is much about the same distance, in nearly the same point of the compass.

The settlements adjacent are in general but thin and scattering, but fully sufficient to supply the wants of their inhabitants. There are no towns, and but few settlements to the northwest and southwest: on the southwest are the pretty extensive and flourishing settlements of Bellevieu, St. Michael, and Cape Girardeau. The first about twelve, the second about forty, and the latter about seventy miles distant. The now extensive and fast populating settlement of Boon's Lick is about one hundred and fifty miles a little to the southwest.

Land carriage is easily procured to St. Genevieve at eight dollars, and to Herculaneum at seven dollars per thousand pounds French weight. Both of these places are on the Mississippi, which admits of a constant navigation when not impeded by ice, which is seldom for more than two months in the year; but I have been informed, and believe, that the Negroes fork of the Merrimac, at the distance of about twelve miles from this, is navigable for boats many months in the year. The distance down it to the river Merrimac will be about forty miles, from whence there is a good navigation of about forty miles to the latter's junction with the Mississippi, at about eighteen miles to the southward of St. Louis, and twelve miles to the northward of Herculaneum.

Question 3. The state of the titles generally; the intrusions, either permanent or transitory; the improvements.

Answer. There are but four who have complete titles, either from the Spanish Government or America, for the lands they possess. The most, if not the whole, of those who claim lands have laid their claims before the United States commissioners for deciding on them, and but few of them, as far as I can learn, have been finally decided on.

Many of them will, no doubt, be eventually confirmed. But, as it would be indecorous for an individual, even were he both competent to the task and possessed of the necessary information, to attempt to enter into a particular investigation of any land titles, I shall forbear making any other remark than barely to observe, that the officers of the Government must, from the report of the commissioners made to them, and the evidence adduced, be much more fully informed on the subject than I possibly can be.

Unless the General Government will please to consider those persons whose claims are not decided on as intruders, I know of no permanent intrusions; of transitory ones there may be some, but of no great extent, and not worth taking notice of.

The improvements are small. The reason is obvious, for those who are both willing and desirous of making valuable and lasting ones will not venture to do so in the present uncertain state of their titles.

Question 4. The terms on which grants or leases may be made; the reservations that should be made; the extent to be leased; the limitation of the demise; the improvements to be made in buildings, works, &c.; the timber to be preserved.

Answer. The terms on which leases or grants of mineral lands may be made ought, in my opinion, as is before stated, to depend on the price of lead in the United States; and, as that price either rises or falls, so ought the rents to be reserved.

When lead is at eight cents in Philadelphia, it will not, cannot, be more than four cents here; in which case, three hundred and fifty cents rent per thousand pounds of mineral is more than the smelters can give or afford to pay. But, should he do so, he must diminish the quantity allowed to the miner, who (as he does not, on an average, gain more than reasonable daily wages for his labor) will, on such an event taking place, be effectually deterred from following a business which will not compensate him. When lead is above ten cents at Philadelphia the present rent may be advanced. From these maximum and minimum prices the rents to be reserved can be easily apportioned.

The extent to be leased ought not to exceed fifty acres to any one person. This quantity is fully sufficient for the purpose of mining, and is as much as he can properly attend and do justice to; less would not answer, as otherwise he might be encroached upon when drifting under ground: a much larger quantity would have the effect of a monopoly, with all its usual concomitant evils.

The present method of granting leases for a year only I by no means approve of; it is much too short to induce a lessee to enter into the necessary and great expenses attendant on mining in a regular and proper manner. The great object of the lessee for a year being to procure the largest quantity of mineral without taking the necessary but expensive precaution to secure his under-ground works in such a manner as to render them valuable and lasting, lest he might be turned out at the expiration of his term.

I, therefore, think leases ought to be made for five years at least; in which, however, clauses should be inserted declaring them determined if the lessee should cease his mining operations for a given length of time, say six consecutive months.

I know of no improvements that ought to be made on the premises demised for the purpose of mining, excepting that the lessee, when a sufficient quantity of mineral is obtained to justify his entering into the expense of erecting furnaces, should be bound to keep them in repair (which his own interest ought to induce him to do) during his lease, and deliver them up in such repair at the expiration of it, wear and tear excepted; and, should he have built any cabins or houses, to leave them in tenantable order. He should also be bound to secure his shafts and drifts in a proper manner, and leave them so secured.

As the mining and smelting business requires a great deal of timber, no clause (excepting for wilful waste) can, with propriety, be inserted for its preservation, there being but little probability that, in this country, especially in the neighborhood of mines, any one tract demised will have a sufficiency of timber on it for the purpose of carrying on the mining and smelting business. On the contrary, when the necessary timber is not to be found on the tract demised, a lessee ought to have the liberty of taking such timber or stone as he may stand in need of, from any of the adjacent lands belonging to the United States, not demised to another.

Having answered all the queries to the best of my judgment, I shall take the liberty of making a few observations, which will not, I hope, be deemed intrusive.

All, or at least most of the mines now known, were discovered by private individuals at a great expense and fatigue, in nearly the following manner: A man (and sometimes a company of men in partnership) went into the woods, and having fixed on a spot which, in his opinion, might contain mineral, dug a number of pits and holes of greater or lesser depths, according to circumstances. Sometimes, but seldom on the first trial, he succeeded; if not, he tried other spots again and again, with no better success, until at last he abandoned the project in despair, or for the want of funds; and numbers of instances have occurred when a whole summer's work has been employed without being able to make a discovery of mineral. In fact not one in fifty has succeeded. When fortunate enough to do so, it was the invariable practice of the Spanish Government to compensate him by the grant of part (four arpents) of the land, including his discovery, (all around being left for any that pleased to dig on.) As such compensation may not accord with the views of our Government, I would respectfully submit the justice and propriety of compensating a new discoverer, by giving him the preference of obtaining a lease from the United States, and that on more moderate terms than those made to lessees of mines already discovered.

Such a compensation will be trivial to the Government, but it will have the effect of inducing many, who would not otherwise do so, to spend their money and time in search of discoveries; and each discovery will be a certain benefit not only to the United States in particular, but to the country in general.

Leases of known mines should be publicly made at stated rents fixed on by the Government, but not more than fifty acres to any one individual. The granting of leases in this manner would give public satisfaction, and be a sure means of preventing the Government's being imposed upon. In fixing the rents to be reserved, due regard ought, as is before mentioned, to be had to the price of lead.

A report having for some time prevailed, that the United States Government contemplated the appointment of agents to superintend their different mines, I would suggest the propriety, nay, necessity, of each agent being of the most unblemished character, active and industrious, and, withal, possessed of much prudence, combined with energy, so as to make himself respected and attended to. He should be a resident of the mines committed to his charge, and well acquainted, as well with them as with the mining business in general; but he ought not, (for very obvious reasons) while in commission, to be directly or indirectly, in any manner, either on his account or on the account of others, concerned in the mining or smelting of lead, or owner of any mineral land.

One agent will be sufficient for all the mines in this county.

Any further information that either the commissioner general or yourself may think me capable of giving on the above, or any other subject, will, on receiving your commands, be cheerfully communicated by,

Sir, your most obedient and very humble servant,

JOHN RICE JONES.

P. S. When writing the above the probability of the appointment of agents never occurred to my mind. Should such an event take place I think the difficulty of fixing on the proper rents to be reserved might be obviated without the regard to the price of lead in the United States.

From the foregoing observations it appears (at least in my opinion) that, when lead is at five cents at the mines, (as it was when the present and former leases were made) the lessees can afford to pay $3 50 (the present rent) per 1,000 pounds of mineral raised from the public mines. This sum would, at the given rate, purchase 70 pounds of lead. The plan I would therefore suggest is, that the mines should be leased, reserving a rent of $3 50, or 70 pounds of lead, at the option of the lessee, for every 1,000 pounds mineral; and as it is to be presumed the agents will be authorized to receive the rents, they may as well do so in one as the other. In case, however, of payment in lead, the lessee should be bound to deliver it at the public warehouse, to be established at the mines, clear of expense, which would save the agent much trouble as well as considerable charges to the United States. The agent, according to such instructions as might from time to time be given him, might either sell the lead here, or send it to New Orleans, or elsewhere, to be disposed of for public use, or otherwise, as the Government might think proper; and, as the United States must yearly want considerable quantities of lead, it can therefore make no great difference whether those wants are furnished by way of rent from their mines or by purchase. If any, the former, I should suppose, would be preferred.

In my opinion it will be much more to the interest of the United States to receive their rents in smelted lead rather than in mineral; for, should they receive it in mineral, and undertake to smelt it, either through the intervention of agents, or any other persons on their account, I will confidently vouch for it they will lose considerable.

By way of additional statement I will make an account of the expense of smelting 540,000 pounds of mineral. The charge for a single furnace is 3,000 pounds, of a double one, 6,000 pounds, charged three times a week will smelt 18,000 pounds weekly; and, admitting it could be in blast thirty weeks in the year, it would smelt 540,000 pounds in the whole.

Wages two log furnace-men for seven months, at $22 each,	-	-	-	-	$280 00
Wages one chopper for three months, at $15,	-	-	-	-	45 00
Provisions for furnace-men and chopper, at $6 per month,	-	-	-	-	102 00
Paid for making log furnace, all materials included,	-	-	-	-	60 00
Paid for making ash furnace, complete,	-	-	-	-	100 00
Paid for split wood for ash furnace, at the rate of sixteen cords for every 100,000 pounds of mineral, in all eighty-six cords, at $1 50,	-	-	-	-	129 00
Wages of six hands three weeks, at ash furnace, at $25 per month,	-	-	-	-	112 00
Hire paid oxen, cart, and driver, for at least four months of the time, about both furnaces, at $1 50,	-	-	-	-	168 00
Also, wear and tear of tools, $13; liquor for all hands, at least $23,	-	-	-	-	36 00
Total expense out of pocket,	-	-	-	-	$1,080 00

Which is at the rate of two dollars for every thousand weight of mineral smelted.

Sir:

MISSOURI, ST. LOUIS, November 20, 1816.

While I was preparing to transmit to you my own opinions in answer to your inquiries of 3d of July last, I received a letter from John Rice Jones, Esq., which I take the liberty to enclose. Mr. Jones was lately a member of the Legislative Council of this Territory; he is a man of extensive and accurate observation; joint claimant with Mr. Austin in the Mine à Burton tract, and conversant, as I am told, with all the economy of mineral operations.

After so minute and comprehensive a statement as he has given, nothing remains for me, except a more special reply to your third inquiry.

The state of the title generally; the grants and leases of the mines and neighboring lands; the intrusions, either permanent or transitory; the improvements.

I enclose a list of private claims to lead mines and salt springs, collected from the books of the Recorder's office, not one of which has been heretofore recognised as a complete title; and the laws have forbidden the confirmation of any incomplete pretensions to land, including either lead or salt. Persons, however, who were thus in possession on the 10th March, 1804, have not heretofore been considered as intruders; because the Government has not yet adopted, and made final, the adverse decision of the commissioners. Locations since that day, though made under authority of grants, real or pretended, of the Spanish Government, I consider as falling obviously under the penalties of the intrusion act. With unexampled lenity, however, Government has not only forbore to inflict those penalties, but even left persons, thus offending, in the undisturbed possession of the most valuable mines in the county of St. Genevieve. Even if their titles had been good, surely they should have been previously recognised by the competent authority; but they have adopted a more summary course, because, as they have abundantly found it, the profits were certain and immediate, when the regular decision in their favor would require time, and, perhaps, even in their own partial views of the subject, would be attended with considerable doubt.

From hence it has arisen that your agents have possession of but a small proportion of those lead mines and salt springs, to which you have unquestionable titles; I know of none except those leased to Partenay, of which you are already sufficiently informed, and a recent discovery, of which I have put his son in possession, near Mine à Breton. A settler in the neighborhood, who has no survey, and who expects from your bounty 500 arpents on account of his improvement, has instituted a suit for that trespass. Such is the situation of your agents here: I should not be surprised if, in a little while, we should be fined and imprisoned by those for whose punishment the intrusion acts were intended.

Speculative mischiefs should be suppressed in their origin; they acquire accession and strength every day that they are tolerated; the confederacy extends itself; the interest becomes diffused and ramified; and he, who at first thought of no more than a momentary advantage, begins to plead principles in support of his own violations of law.

For the most part the improvements at the different mines and salines are inconsiderable, and calculated merely for temporary operations, cabins, furnaces, &c. Mr. Austin, indeed, at Mine à Breton, and Messrs. Scott, Dodge, and Hempstead, at Peyroux's saline, near St. Genevieve, have costly establishments.

The salines at Salt river, in the county of St. Charles, claimed by Delorane and La Gotorie, have been occasionally wrought for many years. And those of Boon's Lick, now county of Howard, are, I understand, becoming profitable to those who manage them. This latter settlement abounds with salt, insomuch that Government reservations at each spring would engross the greater part of the county. When wells are dug, however, it is probable that the principal works may be concentrated within the compass of a few miles.

These will all, I presume, be the property of the United States, as the claim of James Mackay, mentioned in the accompanying list, has been considered of no validity. Mr. Jones has spoken of the transportation of lead. I will yet observe that the salines are much more conveniently situated, being on, or in the neighborhood of, the great rivers.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, sir, your most obedient servant,

FREDERICK BATES.

Hon. JOSIAH MEIGS, Commissioner General Land Office.

Claims to lead mines in the Territory of Missouri, as specially reported to the Secretary of the Treasury by the late Board of Commissioners, or to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, by the Recorder of land titles.

Julian Dubuque and Auguste Chouteau, 148,176 arpents, Spanish mines on the Mississippi, about 440 miles above St. Louis. See Mr. Gallatin's remarks on this claim, Digest of Land Laws; Appendix, page 81. Not confirmed.

Martin Duralde. Not of record. See commissioners' report. Not confirmed.

James Richardson, under Gabriel Cerré. 400 arpents on the Merrimac. Note. I know nothing, with certainty, as to the precise situation of this claim, more than that it is on the Merrimac, and is founded on a concession of Baron de Carondelet, in 1796. It has not, probably, been thoroughly explored, and its extent and richness cannot, consequently, be known. Not confirmed.

Renault and heirs. One and a half leagues in front, by six leagues deep, on the little Merrimac, in the old county of St. Genevieve. Also, two leagues at Mine La Motte, or La Mothe, in old county of St. Genevieve. See appendix to Digest of Land Laws, and Mr. Gallatin's remarks, pages 79 and 80. Not confirmed.

Walter Fenwick and Andrew Henry, under Francis Azor, alias Breton. Four arpents square at Mine à Breton, founded on concession from Cruzat, Lieutenant Governor, in 1782. Not confirmed.

Thirty-one claimants of what has been called the Old mines. 12,400 arpents, situated in the old county of St. Genevieve, now county of Washington, a few miles from Mine à Breton, and about sixty miles southwest from St. Louis; these claims are founded on a concession from Charles D. Delassus, late Lieutenant Governor, dated 4th June, 1803, on connected plat of survey, dated February 3, 1804. See Commissioners' and the Recorder's reports. Not confirmed.

Moses Austin. 7,153 arpents, 32½ feet of land at Mine à Breton, old county of St. Genevieve, now county of Washington, founded on grant of Juan Ventura Morales, Intendant of Louisiana, dated 5th July, 1802, and on other official papers. See commissioners' report. Not confirmed.

Francis Moreair's representatives, under Francis Azor. Four arpents square; Mine à Breton; concession from Zenon Trudeau, late Lieutenant Governor, in 1797. Not confirmed.

James Beauvais and Francis Vallé's representatives claim each sixty feet in circumference round every hole where they may find mineral; concession from Perez, in 1788. Not confirmed.

Widow Moreau, under John B. Labreche. 500 arpents on the waters of Grand river, in the old county of St. Genevieve; concession from Charles D. Delassus, late Lieutenant Governor, in September, 1799. Not confirmed.

Auguste Chouteau, Jun. 800 arpents, old county of St. Genevieve; concession from Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, in January, 1800. Not confirmed.

John B. Pratte. 1,000 arpents; Grand river, in the old county of St. Genevieve; concession from same, in 1799. Not confirmed.

Easton and Bruff, under Gerrard and Fleming. 840 arpents, Mine à Joe; second fork of Grand river, in the county of St. Genevieve, founded on various official papers. See special report of the Recorder. Not confirmed.

Camille Delassus. 2,400 arpents, 34½ ps. — of, by river, county of St. Genevieve; concession from Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, in October, 1799. Not confirmed.

Labeaume and Delaurier. 10,000 arpents, Prairie a Rondo, old county of St. Genevieve, now county of Washington; concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, in January, 1797. Not confirmed.

Joseph Decelle. 630 acres, near Mine à Breton, in the old county of St. Genevieve, now county of Washington, claimed under the settlement provisions of the act of Congress, called New Diggings. See also John Smith T. Not confirmed.

P. C. D. Delassus Duluziere. 7,056 arpents; waters of St. Francis, county St. Genevieve; concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, in 1795. Not confirmed.

John B. Pratte, St. James Beauvais, Francis Vallé, and John B. Vallé. Two leagues square at Mine à la Motte, county of St. Genevieve; concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, in January 1801, together with other official papers. See special report of late Board of Commissioners. Not confirmed.

John Perry, under Basil Vallé. 639 acres, Mine à Breton; by settlement. Not confirmed.

Thomas Alley. 16 arpents; Alley's mine, county of St. Genevieve; reference by the late Lieutenant Governor Delassus to the Intendant, in August, 1801. Not confirmed.

Abraham Armstrong and Rufus Eaton. 640 acres; Armstrong's diggings, county of St. Genevieve; settlement. Not confirmed.

John Smith, assignee of Jacques de St. Vrain. 10,000 arpents of land; original papers not produced. See appendix to Digest of Land Laws, page 80; see also special report of Recorder of land titles. An alleged grant of Baron de Carondelet, which has been made the basis of this claim, was not located when the American Government actually received the possession of this upper country. Since the 10th of March, 1804, John Smith T has made the following locations, to wit:

359 arpents 52 ps. Mine à Liberty, county St. Genevieve.

2,500 arpents, Shibboleth and Belle Fontaine, six miles N. Breton.

36 arpents waters White river, county New Madrid.

64 arpents on waters of White river.

64 arpents to include the Grand Lead mines of White river.

13½ arpents on the waters of Arkansas river, at the first large rock (and above the same) above the village.
 1,000 arpents, New diggings, near Mine à Breton. Note. Claimed also by Joseph Decelle, by settlement.
 300 arpents, including Doggett's mines, county of St. Genevieve.
 300 arpents on the branch above Renault's diggings.
 250 arpents on McKee's branch, county St. Genevieve.
 200 arpents on 1st branch, emptying into Mineral fork, on south side above its junction with Big river.
 300 arpents, including Mine Robina, county St. Genevieve.
 294 arpents, including McKee's discovery, county St. Genevieve.

The following claims have been classed with lead mines, but have not been proved to contain mineral.

Amable Partenay. 500 arpents adjoining Mine à Breton; concession from Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, in September, 1799.

Charles Becquette. 34 arpents near Mine à Breton; claimed by settlement.

Louis Millhomme. 20 arpents near Mine à Breton; claimed by settlement.

Louis Gringa and Francis Thubeault, under Louis Lacroix. 701 arpents near Mine à Breton; claimed by settlement.

Peter Martin. 26 arpents at Mine à Breton. John Wise. 37½ arpents same situation; both by settlement.

Thomas Russ. 1,146 arpents near Mine à Breton, by settlement; and lastly, Reuben Smith, under Nicholas Boilvin, 800 arpents, waters of Grand river, county of St. Genevieve. Order of survey by Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, in January, 1798.

Claims to salt springs, heretofore specially reported by the Commissioners, or by the Recorder.

Charles Tayon. 320 arpents, Dardenne, county of St. Charles; concession from Z. Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, for four arpents, 19th March, 176.

Jacques Clamorgan, under John Helderbran. 320 arpents near Merrimac; founded on registered concession.

Charles Gratiot, under Beneto Vasquez. 7,056 arpents near Merrimac; concession from Cruzat, in 1784, registered.

Pascal Cerré, assignee of Gabriel Cerré. 800 arpents, Merrimac; concession from Cruzat, registered for eight by forty arpents, and an augmentation by Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, in 1798.

Charles F. Deloraine and Louis Labaume. 10,000 arpents, Salt river, in county of St. Charles; concession from C. D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, in March, 1801. See Recorder's special report.

Peter Chouteau. 30,000 arpents, Saline river, county of St. Louis; concession from C. D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, in 1799; also, a paper purporting to be a gift from sundry Indians.

Henry Peyroux, now claimed by John Scott, Henry Dodge, and Edward Hempstead, 7,760 arpents of land near town of St. Genevieve, on Saline creek and Mississippi river. See special report of the late Board of Commissioners, also the Recorder of land titles. See latter reports for claims of heirs of Francis Vallé and others.

Charles Gratiot, under Maturin Rouvet. 400 arpents, river Ohaha, county of St. Charles; concession from Zenon Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, duly registered, dated June, 1795.

James Makay. 400 arpents at Bonne Femme, (Boon's lick,) county of St. Charles; concession from Z. Trudeau, Lieutenant Governor, May, 1797. The concession of this claim has been supposed antedated, and otherwise fraudulent.

Victor la Gotoire. 800 arpents, Salt river, county of St. Charles; concession from Charles D. Delassus, Lieutenant Governor, in February, 1800.

NOTE.—There are two surveys under this concession, one of which would have been confirmed but for the uncertainty of the situation of the salt spring.

John Smith T. Locations of salt springs under the concessions of Jacques de St. Vrain, 64 arpents, six or seven miles north of Missouri, near the dividing ridge, between Bonne Femme and Salt creeks, in old county of St. Charles, occupied formerly, as is said, by Joseph Burkhart.

64 arpents near Grand Minotaur, and said to be occupied by John G. Heth, county of St. Charles.

70 arpents, three miles north of Missouri, nearly opposite mouth of Lemoin, county of St. Charles.

25 arpents, on the waters of White river, in the county of New Madrid.

FREDERICK BATES.

OFFICE OF THE RECORDER OF LAND TITLES, ST. LOUIS, November 20, 1816.

G.

SIR:

REGISTER'S OFFICE AT SHAWNEETOWN, November 21, 1816.

In pursuance of your instructions, bearing date 19th of June, 1815, I proceeded, as early as the season would permit, to carry the instructions of the Secretary of the Treasury into effect, and have explored the whole of the Shawnee district.

I proceeded to the meridian line, and commenced on the waters of Cash river. Near the mouth of said river, in township 14 south, range 1 east, section 20, is a flattering appearance of salt. The timber, for about one-half mile around this lick, is all young growth, and has the appearance of having been cut off nearly at the same time, which to me is an evidence of the lick having been worked at an early period. For a considerable distance around this lick is fine farming land, of a first and second quality, somewhat rolling, except the Cash river bottoms.

I have reserved for this lick, sections 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, and 33, in the above described township. Should the Government deem it advisable to extend the reserve, it ought, in my opinion, to be taken out of the Kaskaskia district. In township 11 south, range 1 east, sections 35 and 36, is a saline appearance; some of the oldest hunters of the country informed me that formerly the Indians made salt at this place. I have reserved for this lick, sections 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, and 27, in township 11 south, range 1 east, (a part of sections 33 and 34 were purchased by individuals before the reserve was made,) sections 1, 2, 3, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, in township No. 12 south, of range 1 east; sections 19, 20, 29, 30, 32, in township 11 south, range 2 east; and sections 5, 6, 7, 8, 17, 18, in township No. 12 south, of range 2 east; the southwest quarter of section 5, in township 12 south, of range 2 east, was entered before the reserve was made. The lands for ten miles around this lick are generally of a first and second quality. This lick is situated on the head waters of Cash, and about four miles from Johnson court-house. I do not consider this saline appearance flattering. Should it not prove good, on making an experiment, the President at any time can take off the reserve and have the land exposed to sale.

In township No. 13, of range No. 5 east, sections 26 and 27, on the waters of Big bay creek, there is a large saline appearance, known by the name of the Flat and Root licks; the former in section 26, the latter in section 27. A fine tract of land for a considerable distance around these licks. I have reserved sections 13, 14, 15, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 33, 34, 35, and 36, in township No. 13 south, of range No. 5 east; and sections 1, 2, 3, 4, 9, 10, 11, 12, in township 14 south, of range No. 5 east; sections 17, 18, 19, 20, 29, 30, 31, 32, in township No. 13 south, range No. 6 east; and sections 5, 6, 7, 8, in township No. 14 south, range No. 6 east.

In township No 7 south, of range No. —, section 22 or 28, there is a very considerable saline appearance. The corner trees around this lick were so decayed and defaced, that I could not, without a surveyor, designate the precise situation of the lick. I have reserved the south half of section No. 13, (the northwest quarter of that section was entered before I made the reserve,) and the whole of sections 14, 15, 16, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, and 28.

In township No. 8 south, of range No. 8 east, section No. 16, there is a lick, immediately on the bank of the north fork of the Saline creek, and adjoining the old Saline boundary. Also one in section 3, in the same township, about two and a half miles northeast of the first mentioned lick. I have reserved for the two, sections 32, 33, 34, and 35, in township No. 7 south, of range No. 8 east; and sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, 10, 11, 14, 15, 16, and 17, in township No. 8 south, of range No. 8 east; the four last mentioned sections lie immediately adjoining the line of the old Saline reserve, that, should those licks prove good, there is an abundance of timber within the old boundary, and so remote from the old United States' saline, that it cannot be conveyed thither, and may be made use of at those establishments. The northwest quarter of section No. 14, in township No. 12 south, of range No. 8 east, contains a saline appearance; it is supposed there can be salt water procured at this place: I think the case a doubtful one. The southeast quarter of the same section was sold by Government, as a pre-emption right, in 1814. The lands between the lick and the river, immediately on the margin of the river, were entered shortly after the office was opened, and long before the Register knew that there were any saline appearances in that quarter. Under the impression that this saline will not be very valuable, I have reserved only sections 10, 11, 12, and 13, three-quarters in 14, the whole of 22, and the west half of 23. North and east of this lick the lands will not be entered, being rocky and hilly, but covered with good timber.

On the waters of the Little Wabash, in sections Nos. 2 and 3, township No. 4 south, range No. 9 east, are two considerable saline appearances, within one-quarter of a mile of each other. The prospect for salt at those places appears good; on the west and south the lands are fine; on the east and northeast they are swampy and wet, but heavily timbered. I have reserved sections 25, 26, 27, 28, 33, 34, 35, and 36, in township No. 3 south, range No. 9 east; and sections Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, in township No. 4 south, range No. 9 east.

There is scarcely a prairie but you find more or less saline appearances, and some of them appear promising. I have not noticed any of them in this report, owing to their being remote from wood.

The lands, from the third principal meridian line to the Big Wabash are generally of a first and second quality for seven ranges of townships south of the base line. The four first ranges east of the meridian are generally good land, from the base line until within a few miles of the Ohio river, and parallel with it, when you fall in with a swamp that crosses nearly four townships from three to six miles from the Ohio. The lands between these swamps and the river (with exceptions of the river and creek bottoms) are generally high and rolling, and a considerable portion of it barren.

Between the fourth and ninth ranges, the land from the river is generally hilly, and, in many places, rocky; the soil thin, until you reach the seventh range of townships south of the base line.

The ninth, tenth, and eleventh ranges, are generally good lands, of first and second quality, with the exception of a considerable tract of wet lands contained within the old saline boundary. A part of the same swamp embraced in that boundary extends north and east to the Wabash river.

About five miles north of Shawneetown, you come into the low grounds, which are interspersed with a number of fine tracts of good land. At twelve miles from the town the land becomes more rolling, and generally of a good quality, a great deal of it frstrate, until you reach the base line.

THOMAS SLOO.

Hon. JOSIAH MEIGS, Commissioner of the General Land Office.

MINERAL APPEARANCES.

SIR:

REGISTER'S OFFICE, SHAWNEETOWN, November 1, 1816.

In pursuance of your instructions of the 19th of June, 1815, I proceeded to examine all the mineral appearances that I could hear of in this district. I found on the waters of Grand Pierre, in sections 27 and 34, in township No. 11 south, of range 7 east, a promising appearance of lead. The blossom or tiff, as it is termed by miners, appears in many places on the small branches of Grand Pierre in abundance. The external appearances at this place, and in different parts of this neighborhood, are said to be flattering by those who are acquainted with mineral appearances. No experiment has been made more than a few feet below the surface. I have no doubt but this mine, when fairly opened, will prove a profitable one. I have reserved for the use of an establishment at this place, sections 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, 10, 11, and 12, in township No. 12 south, of range No. 7, east; and sections 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, in township No. 11 south, of range 7 east. There are a number of improvements within the limits of this reserve. The lands in township 11 south, range 9 east, are broken and rocky, the greater part unfit for cultivation. There are mineral appearances in a number of places in this township, particularly in sections 33 and 34. A part of this township lies within the saline boundary; there are several entries made near the boundary, but no appearance of mineral near them. I have reserved, in this township, sections 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, and 36.

In fractional township No. 12, range No. 9 east, section 4, a shaft has been sunk about twenty feet, and I am informed that about 2,000 pounds of mineral was raised by some men employed by Taylor, Wilkins, and Co., who, I understand, had obtained a lease for this mine from Government. I am induced to believe, from the information of settlers being in the neighborhood, and the experiments made by those gentlemen, that the prospect for lead is promising. Mr. Taylor and his friends were extremely anxious to procure those lands, and actually entered several quarter sections before the Register knew that they covered a valuable and promising prospect of mineral. All the entries are withdrawn, except one held by Jonathan Taylor, as assignee of Benjamin Rodgers, who entered under the act of the 5th of February, 1813, granting the right of pre-emption to settlers. I have reserved in this fractional township, sections 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, the south half section No. 12, and north half section 14, and the entire sections 15, 16, 17, and 18. There are about ten families settled in the latter township.

With regard to the inquiries stated in your circular—the situation of the mines I have stated in the body of this report. Their extent and product could not be ascertained by me, as they never have been fairly opened. The character of the ore is good; that which I have seen is rich and fine. The country around, for a considerable distance, is hilly and rocky. The nearest of those mineral appearances is within twelve miles of Shawneetown, and from three to four of the Ohio river. Those mineral appearances on the waters of Grand Pierre are about eight miles from the Ohio, and twenty from Shawneetown.

You also inquire the terms upon which leases may be made most advantageously to the public. On that subject I presume the Government will obtain more correct information from the Missouri Territory than I possess. I should advise the leasing them in small lots, and obligate the lessee to work them immediately, or forfeit his lease. The Government might take their rent in lead or cash, as they might deem most advisable. I could not risk an opinion on the per centage to be required per cwt.; that, I presume, must be governed, in some good degree, by the labor it takes to procure it.

THOMAS SLOO.

Hon. JOSIAH MEIGS, Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Extract from a letter of Mr. Sloo, dated

JANUARY 1, 1824.

I herewith transmit you a copy of my report on mineral appearances within this district, made to the Commissioner of the General Land Office on the 1st of November, 1816. In addition to which I will barely observe, that, from information since received, I have been induced to change my opinion in regard to those reserves, and now think them entirely unnecessary, and believe it would be to the interest of the Government to offer the lands contained in them, as well as the reserves of Fort Massac, for sale.

THOMAS SLOO.

H.

SIR:

MINE A BURTON, October 7, 1816.

I have enclosed to you my observation on lead mines. They are confined to the mines situated in the counties of St. Genevieve, Washington, and St. Louis. The mines in upper Mississippi do not come within my knowledge. I have, therefore, omitted to say any thing respecting them. Salt springs and salt works have not come within any of the pursuits of my life. I am, therefore, not sufficiently informed to hazard any thing on that subject. If you find matter worthy of consideration in the communication I have made, I shall be gratified, and fully paid for my trouble.

I am, dear sir, with much respect, yours,

MOSES AUSTIN.

JOSIAH MEIGS, Esq. Commissioner of General Land Office, City of Washington.

SIR:

In compliance with your request relative to the lead mines, I submit to your consideration the subjoined observations on the following questions:

First. Situation, extent, produce, and general character of the lead ore, and value of the mines.

Second. The nature of the adjacent country, the proximity of towns and settlements, fertility of land, and water transportation.

Third. The state of titles generally, the grants and leases for the mines, and neighboring lands; the intrusions, either permanent or transitory; the improvements, &c.

Fourth. The terms on which grants or leases may be made most advantageous to the public; the reservations that should be made; the extent to be leased, and the limitations of the demise; the improvements to be made in building and furnaces; the timber to be preserved.

Fifth. Similar information relative to salt works and salt springs.

Specification 1st. To answer your first specification I shall divide it into five parts:

1. Situation of the lead mines.
2. Their extent.
3. Produce.
4. General character of mineral.
5. Value.

Most of the lead mines now worked are situated in Washington county, about thirty-five miles south of the Missouri, on the head waters of the south and southwest branches of the river Maramig, which form a junction with the Mississippi about twelve miles above Herculaneum, and eighteen below St. Louis. These branches are known by the names of Grand river and Renault, or, as it is now called, Mineral fork of the Maramig. Grand river rises west of the Mine à Burton, about fourteen miles, running south and east, passing through a fine country of land both for cultivation and mineral, forming a horse-shoe around the Mine à Burton of sixty or seventy miles in circumference, and unites, twelve miles north, with the mineral fork, forming what is now called the Negro fork of Maramig, but in Renault's time, Renault's Grand fork of the Maramig; and after running in a serpentine manner about thirty miles through extensive bottoms of fine land, unites with the Maramig twenty-five miles above its junction with the Mississippi.

2. The extent of the lead mines, as they are now worked, in Washington county, embrace a country of about fifty miles in circumference, within the horse-shoe of Grand river, the Mine à Burton being nearly the centre, and are known under the following names, viz:

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. Mine à Burton, extensive old diggings, including Moses Austin's concession and mines. | 6. Andrews's Diggings, do. do. do. - 18 miles. |
| 2. Bellevue Diggings, south of Mine à Burton, 10 miles. | 7. Pratte's Mines, within the horse-shoe, do. |
| 3. Mine à Joe, east of Grand river, out of the horse-shoe, southeast, - - - 18 do. | east, - - - 16 do. |
| 4. Mine de Luziers, east of Grand river, out of the horse-shoe, southeast of Mine à Burton, - - - 19 do. | 8. Henry's Diggings, southeast do. - 1½ do. |
| 5. Mine de Laroy's, do. do. do. - 17 do. | 9. New Diggings, - - - 2 do. |
| | 10. Misho's Diggings, do. do. - 1½ do. |
| | 11. Brinker's Diggings, east southeast, - 1½ do. |
| | 12. James Austin's Diggings, east, - 1½ do. |
| | 13. Vallé's Diggings, do. do. - 3½ do. |
| | 14. Mine à Robina, old diggings, extensive, east, 3 do. |

15. Martin's Diggings, northeast, -	- 4½ miles.	24. Beckett's Mines, extensive, north,	- 13 miles.
16. Wheeler's and Rosebury's Digging, north-east, -	- 3 do.	25. Rich Wood Mines, northwest,	- 14 do.
17. Partenay's and Scott's Diggings, do. -	4 do.	26. Mine Renault, old diggings, extensive, northwest, -	- 12 do.
18. Wilkinson's Diggings, northeast of Mine à Burton, -	- 4½ do.	27. Mine à Straddle, -	- 10 do.
19. Shibboleth Mines, extensive, do. -	6 do.	28. Mine à Liberty, -	- 9 do.
20. Belle Fontaine, -	- 8 do.	29. Silver's Diggings, west, -	- 8 do.
21. Old Mines, old diggings, extensive, north, 8	do.	30. Lambert's Diggings, do. -	- 6 do.
22. Cannon's Mines, -	- 10 do.	31. Scott's Diggings, do. -	- 8 do.
23. Elliot's Mines, -	- 12 do.	32. Perry's Diggings, do. -	- 6 do.
		33. Mine à Coustoin, do. -	- 12 do.

The intervening land between the diggings herein named will undoubtedly produce mineral in great abundance; and, I have no doubt, with proper inducements, lead ore, within the same circumference, will be found equal in goodness and extent to any of the mines or diggings now opened and worked.

There are other mines situated in the county of St. Genevieve, of which Mine à la Motte is the most extensive. It is situated on the waters of the river St. François, about thirty miles south southwest of the village of St. Genevieve, and about thirty-five south of the Mine à Burton. Bryan's mines are situated on the east side of Grand river, east of Mine à Burton eighteen miles. In the county of St. Louis, and north of the Mine à Burton, about twenty miles, are diggings called Gray's mines, but not extensive: they are situated on the Grand river, eighteen or twenty miles west of Herculaneum.

Produce.

3. It is difficult to give any correct account of the produce of the different mines and diggings for any given time, there being no data by which such a statement can be given; so that all that can be said on this subject is merely opinion, arising from observation, and information derived from sources subject to misrepresentation; inasmuch as some of the mines were opened and worked by Mons. Renault seventy or eighty years past, and the account of their produce extremely problematical. But, if I were to judge from the extent of Renault's old workings, great quantities of mineral must have been produced; and, from the number of old furnaces, large quantities of lead must have been made. The only mines of which I can speak with any tolerable correctness, are such as have been opened or worked since I have become acquainted with them, which is now nineteen years. The Mine à Burton has produced abundantly from the time I became acquainted with it to the present; and, while the workings were confined to the Mine à Burton, I think the average produce may be calculated at about three hundred and sixty thousand pounds per annum, from the year 1798 to 1804, or until this country passed into the hands of the United States, since which the increased population has greatly increased the produce of the mines, which, from 1804 to 1808, may be estimated at about eight hundred thousand pounds per annum. From 1807 to 1812, the number of miners at Mine à Burton were greatly reduced, in consequence of new discoveries, and especially the diggings, which drew off two-thirds of the miners, since which, many other discoveries have continued to be made; that, from 1808 to 1816, I do not think the lead made at Mine à Burton will exceed four or five hundred thousand pounds per annum. The New Diggings were discovered in the close of the year 1806, and for four years produced most astonishingly; nor was it uncommon for a mine to raise from twenty to sixty dollars value of mineral in a day. I believe I am within bounds in saying that this mine produced from one and a half to two millions of pounds of mineral per annum for several years; but, for some time past, it has been neglected, and is not worked at present. The mineral is neither so readily obtained, nor in such quantities as heretofore. Shibboleth mines were discovered in the spring of 1811, and have been the most productive mines that ever came within my knowledge. The first and second years this mine produced about three and a half millions of pounds of mineral per annum, since which the produce has been much reduced, in consequence of other discoveries. This mine is now worked, and very productive. Under judicious arrangement it would have yielded the Government ten thousand dollars per annum for the two first years, and five or six thousand since. They have been much injured in consequence of the irregular and ruinous manner of working them. They are now worked, and are valuable, and are worthy the attention of the Government.

Mine à Martin was opened in the year 1814, and for twelve months produced great quantities of mineral, and ought to have yielded the Government some thousands of dollars. This mine has been but superficially worked, and is now abandoned for new discoveries. I believe it yet valuable. All the other mines spoken of have produced, some in a greater, others in a less degree; all of which would have, under proper leases, yielded a valuable revenue to the Government. Taking into view the mines now opened, and such as undoubtedly will be opened under a regular system, the revenue, in my opinion, may be raised to forty or fifty thousand dollars per annum; and, as the population increases, so would the number of miners, and, consequently, the revenue. But you are to understand that every thing depends on a new order of things. Lessees must be supported in a quiet possession of their leases. Intruders must be removed. New discoveries secured to the discoverer, by his fulfilling the requisition of the law.

General character of the mineral.

4. All the lead ore I have seen in this country is of a bluish lead gray, generally in masses of from one to five hundred pounds. To this mineral is attached a hard sparry lead ore. It is found, however, in some of the mines in red ochre earth, dry and hard, in lumps of indeterminate figure and size, unconnected with any spar, and, when broken, exhibits a brilliant metallic lustre, and of a rhomboidal figure. At Bryan's and Pratte's mines, the mineral is in plats of from three or four inches thick, and from twelve to twenty inches large. This kind of mineral is mostly found in a kind of iron earth, and sometimes you pass bodies of iron ore before you obtain the lead ore. No spar of any kind is attached to this mineral.

Shibboleth mineral is much of it sparry mineral; but, in some of the diggings of that mine the ore is connected with an iron earth firmly attached to the mineral, and, when exposed to the weather, becomes covered with an iron rust. At Martin's mines the mineral is found in a hard iron-gray spar and earth, and is not unlike iron ore in appearance unbroken; but, when broken, is as brilliant as any lead mineral whatever.

The above description of mineral will apply to all yet found in this country, which is nearly of the same quality, except the Mine à la Motte, which is a steel grain, connected with limestone. The mineral of this mine differs from the mineral of all others both in appearance and quality as well as produce. The sparry mineral, when cleanly smelted, may be estimated at sixty-five per cent.; but the mineral found in clay, unconnected with spar, and covered with iron rust, may be made to produce seventy per cent. smelted in a well-constructed reverberatory furnace. The silver contained in the lead ore of this country is not in quantity sufficient to justify a refining furnace.

Value of lead mines.

5. To answer this question correctly is not within the capacity of any man living. There is no data on which to make an estimate. Were I to take, as a standard, the common mode of estimating improved farms by a five, six, or seven years' purchase, it would not apply in this case, because the produce depends on events unknown to any man. No miner can tell the value of a mine beyond the length of his pick. Were the Government to say they would take $500 per acre for mineral land, few men would be willing to give that sum, or a half of it; yet I have seen fifty feet of ground produce that amount in mineral in a month, with the labor of two or three miners; and again, in other places, the same number of hands may labor with the same assiduity, and not make over common wages. From this State of facts it is impossible to estimate their value. That they are immense, no one will deny; nor can they be exhausted for ages if properly managed. Nothing is wanting to make them productive to the United States but a judicious system.

SPECIFICATION SECOND.

The nature of the adjacent country; the proximity of towns and settlements; fertility of land; and water transportation.

Washington county is divided into four townships, viz: Breton, Bellevue, Concord, and Rich Woods, and may be called a hilly, but not a mountainous country. The township of Breton is divided into moderate ridges and valley, supplied with living streams. These valleys are not broad, but generally sufficient for farms of moderate extent on each side of the streams. The land is good for either tobacco, Indian corn, wheat, oats, rye, peas, beans, &c. The ridges are gravel, intermixed with small pieces of spar of variegated colors, and most commonly contain lead mineral. The rich bottoms sometimes produce mineral, but it is most commonly found on the sides of ridges, post-oak flats, and prairies. The township of Breton is generally badly timbered. Bellevue township is a plat of good land of about twelve by fifteen miles, watered and timbered equal to any land on the west bank of the Mississippi. It is situated ten miles south of Potosi; but, as yet, has produced but little lead ore, but abounds in iron ore of the first quality, and sites for water works equal to any in the Western country.

The township of Concord is situated immediately on Grand river, east of Potosi fifteen miles. It contains a quantity of rich upland river bottoms, sufficient to accommodate a large settlement. It is, however, a hilly township. Four lead mines have been opened, and yielded much lead; but are not now worked. This township is also well timbered and watered. Rich Woods township, so called on account of a plat of rich land of about ten thousand acres, is situated fourteen miles north of Potosi, near the centre of which is the Rich Woods mines, which have produced a large quantity of lead. The greater part of this township consists of high gravel ridges, covered with white flint and spar, and badly timbered; lead mineral has also been found, and some openings have produced some thousands of pounds of lead. To the west southwest of Potosi about a mile, runs a ridge of pine from two to six miles over, which commences on the Mississippi, south of Potosi seventy miles, and continues to the Maramig, northwest, twenty-eight miles. Lead ore has been found in several places on this ridge, but not in quantities. There are a number of fine springs that arise in this pinery, on which saw-mills are erected. The whole extent of this pine land is covered with gravel and diamond spars of various shapes and shades. No country is better furnished with mill sites than the township of Burton; at the village of Burton, and contiguous thereunto, there are four grist-mills, and three saw-mills, and convenient situations for as many more.

Towns and settlements.

The only towns and villages of consequence near the mines, are the old village of Burton, and Potosi, the county town of Washington. The village of Burton was settled under the authority of the Spanish Government in the year 1799. But no regular allotment was ever made by that Government; each citizen built his cabin, and enclosed a few acres of land, by common consent; and, when Mr. Austin's concession was located and surveyed in 1800, this village was reserved for the use of the French settlers, together with one hundred and five arpents of the old diggings of the Mine à Burton, as a public common; and was used as such, together with about the same quantity adjoining, which comprised all the old Mine à Burton. This privilege continued until the change of Government in 1804, since which it has been claimed, in part, as private, and the balance leased by the agent of the Government; so that, as it now stands, the object of the Spanish Government has been lost to the people of this village and country. Washington county was established in the year 1814; since which the village of Burton has become a place of considerable business, and contains about one hundred houses, some of which are valuable buildings. Potosi is contiguous to, and united with, the village of Burton, and contains fourteen houses; and, from its situation, will become a large town. All the wealth and business of the mines will centre at this place. The settlement at the Old mines forms a small village of about twenty houses, and settled with French families. It is situated eight miles north of Potosi, and is built of logs. The country is generally settled in its vicinity. The county of Washington is thinly peopled, except near the mines, and the township of Bellevue, which is well established in farms. Concord township is also more of a farming than a mining township; although the township of Burton has settlements scattered over the whole township, yet mining is the general dependence of the people.

Water carriage.

Grand river may be used for boat navigation within fourteen miles of the Mine à Burton during the spring season; yet it can never be useful for the transportation of lead. The river Maramig may be navigated within twenty-five miles of the Mine à Burton part of the year. It has not any falls, but innumerable shoals, which renders the navigation unsafe only in high water, with the exception of a few miles from its mouth.

Herculaneum, situated on the Mississippi, in the county of St. Louis, thirty miles northeast from Mine à Burton, and twenty-two from Shibboleth, is now the great dépôt for most of the lead made at the mines in Washington county. Some part, however, still goes to St. Genevieve, which is forty-five miles southeast of Mine à Burton. This place was the general dépôt for lead until the establishment of Herculaneum in 1810; since which Herculaneum receives most of the lead. It is situated immediately on the banks of the Mississippi, and advantageous for shipping.

SPECIFICATION THIRD.

The state of titles generally; the grants and leases for the mines and neighboring land; the intrusions, either permanent or transitory; the improvements.

The claims and grants for lands, I trust, in this Territory, have long since been submitted to the proper agents of the Government for their consideration, together with all the documents relating thereunto: it would, therefore, be highly presuming in me to say any thing on this subject. The leases that now exist for the lead mines, and the sums of money they have produced, I also supposed to have been submitted to the Government by the proper officer. As to the face of the country and land I have answered that part of the third specification in the second. Intrusions, permanent or transitory, I do not think come within my province to point out. That there are intruders on public lead mines is true; that the public have suffered some thousands of dollars annually is an unquestionable fact; but these facts may be drawn from the officer charged with the care of the domain. The improvements of the country have also been treated of, except mills. From the number of living streams this country affords, mills, in number sufficient, have been erected, to furnish a much larger population in flour and meal, as also saw-mills for plank. The proximity of pine timber enables saw-millers to sell pine boards at a moderate price.

SPECIFICATION FOURTH.

The terms on which grants or leases may be made most advantageous to the public; the reservations that should be made; the extent to be leased, and the limitations of the demise; the improvements to be made in buildings, works, and furnaces; the timber, how to be preserved.

I shall divide this specification into four parts, viz:

First. Terms on which leases may be made.

Second. Reservations.

Third. The extent to be leased, and the limitations of the demise.

Fourth. The improvements in works, buildings, and the preservation of timber.

I consider this specification to contain much matter for the consideration of Government. I shall speak somewhat fully on the subject therein contained.

FIRST.—Terms on which leases may be made.

It is necessary to say something on the internal situation of the mines to substantiate the system I am now recommending. The stratas of earth, and other substances in this country, are in no wise the same as in England, in regular beds, which gives the miner a tolerable knowledge how many stratas he has to pass before he may expect the mineral. Nothing can be more confused than the substances of clay, spar, gravel, sand, limestone, mineral, and flint, which are found in every place where mining has been attempted in this country; nothing regular. Nature appears to have undergone one grand convulsion, and left all her works in sixes and sevens. It is, therefore, impossible to fix on any given rule when you are to expect mineral, or when spar, gravel, sand or limestone; for, in many places, you find valuable beds of mineral immediately after passing the soil; and, at other places, immense masses of gravel, spar, sand, and limestone before any mineral is obtained; and all these variations within fifty yards square. It is not uncommon, within the same acre of ground, to find mineral within two feet of the surface, and, in other places, to sink twenty feet before a pound of mineral is obtained. You may then strike on a bed or vein of mineral of great extent; after passing which, spar or sand rock in very irregular shapes and situations will continue some four or six feet, when you again find the mineral. In this way I have sunk shafts seventy feet without any regular stratas of earth, but intermixed as if they had been thrown together by some general commotion. Mines thus situated require a regular system, or they will soon become useless both to Government and miner. All shafts should be secured with timber, properly placed to prevent ground from breaking from the sides of the shaft. When thus secured, they may work to a great depth with safety, and all the different veins of mineral may be worked to great extent by drilling. And when new shafts are sunk, the old answer for air shafts; but, if suffered to cave, or partially fill with earth, they serve as reservoirs for top water, and the drifts soon become charged with destructive vapor, that, in a little time, renders it impossible to work the mines at all. Not only so, should it be found necessary to sink a greater depth to search for deeper veins, it cannot be done without great expense, and then not safely. It therefore results that the mines worked without care, attention, or system to secure the shafts or sinks that are made, become abandoned so soon as the mineral is taken out near the surface of the ground, and new discoveries are sought for. This mode of mining will, in a few years, produce ruin to the public property; for no man will work an old mine, thus destroyed, so long as he can find new ones; but, on the contrary, if the miner secure his shaft or diggings as he makes them, the mine may be worked for ages to advantage, both to public and private; and the more mines that are opened under such regulations the better, inasmuch as the public revenue will thereby be greatly increased.

The terms of leases should, therefore, be so fashioned as to give to the lessee proper encouragement to secure his diggings. The object of the Government is to produce a revenue, and, at the same time, to have the mines so worked as to secure them from waste. It is, therefore, expedient to extend the time so as to make it an object worthy the attention of men of some capital to take leases, and also to justify a proper establishment in houses, and to leave them entire for the next lessee.

The rents should be paid in mineral. The per cent. must be regulated, in some measure, by the agent on the spot, confined within the proper limits, say not under one hundred and fifty pounds of mineral to the thousand, nor over three hundred pounds; which mineral ought to be cleaned and ready for smelting. The rents in this way could be collected every month or quarterly, and sold at public sale, on three or six months credit, properly secured; by which means the Government will always obtain the best price for mineral. Some discretion is necessary, because some of the mines are much richer in mineral than others, and the rents regulated accordingly.

By receiving clean mineral in payment, the Government may obtain an advance price for the mineral, nearly equal to the expense of an agent. I have understood that all the leases that have been heretofore granted, have been predicated on the belief that mineral was only worth twenty dollars per thousand. This, however, is not correct. Mineral is always worth twenty; and years past, has been purchased up, cash in hand, at twenty-four, twenty-five, and twenty-six dollars per thousand. This advance price is now lost to the Government; whereas, if the rents are paid in mineral, and sold on a credit of three or six months, the Government would always receive the highest price. That is not all: the lessees have it always in their power to pay the mineral, if demanded, monthly or quarterly; but when paid in cash, at the end of each year, difficulties will many times arise in the collections; but the purchasers of mineral will be smelters, and men that have a great command of money; and, by taking a negotiable note, payable at the bank of St. Louis, will render the payment prompt and secure, with proper precaution on the part of the agent.

SECOND.—Reservations.

It would be good policy in the Government to reserve to themselves the right of calling in, or making null and void any lease, whenever the lessee should neglect to work the mine six months, and remove him from the land, because the revenue of the Government is not only stopped, but persons that would work the mine, was it at liberty to be re-leased, are prevented. And that is not the only evil: the timber would be destroyed without producing any advantage to the Government; and, in fine, the property would be greatly reduced in value; for, without timber, mining cannot be prosecuted to advantage, nor, in fact, at all in this country. The works, such as houses and furnaces, should be delivered up in good order by the lessee. The number of miners employed on each lease ought not to be under ten, and sometimes twenty. Of this the agent must judge, as some mines will better justify thirty than others will ten.

THIRD.—The extent to be leased, and the limitations of the demise.

I take it to be the intention of the Government to make the lead mines a source of revenue. With this impression I shall treat the subject, and give my idea of the best system to produce the desired object. Mining is a business that requires laborious manual exertions, attended with considerable dead expense and frequent delays. Mining should be systematic; every shaft should be sunk to the depth the mineral is supposed to extend, and first secured against water and the giving of the earth in wet seasons, before any drifting is attempted. This takes time and expense; and, while doing, most likely produces little to the miners, except what mineral may be obtained in the size of his shaft, about six by six feet.

It is also necessary to sink a second shaft near the first one, and drive a drift from one to the other to obtain a communication for air; which drift, together with all others driven, must be securely timbered both for the duration of the works as well as the security of the mine. Mines thus opened and secured may be worked many years within the compass of ten acres. If the mine is good fifteen acres of common mining land would last twenty hands for an age; but, to work them after the present practice they would be ruined and exhausted in six months. It is seldom that any man can command means sufficient to occupy twenty-five acres of mining land, in addition to which sufficient allotment should be made for timber, and the cultivation of the garden and pasturage. I think one hundred acres to each lease is fully sufficient, unless it should prove that the mine is situated in open land, and destitute of wood and water. In that case it would be well for the agent to have some discretionary power. I, therefore, advise a hundred acres to each lessee, as fully sufficient for all the objects of mining.

From what has been said, it is evident that leases should be extended to a sufficient length of years to justify the expense that each lessee must incur in opening and securing the mine. To the Government it can make no difference whether A, B, or C, has the mine in possession so that they are properly worked, the revenue secured, and the public domain preserved. I, therefore, recommend leases for seven, ten, or fifteen years, as may meet the views of the lessee, under judicious reservations.

Improvements in works and buildings.

The improvements requisite for a mining establishment depend much on the mode adopted in smelting the mineral, and whether each lessee smelts his own mineral. A moderate sized log or frame house, with common out houses, together with an enclosure for a garden, and a few acres for corn and pasturage, is as much as a miner wants, inasmuch as farming is not his object. It would not, therefore, be advisable to require any extensive building and enclosure, but such as the lessee should think proper to make, and such as ought to be preserved and delivered in good tenable repair at the expiration of the lease. The furnaces now generally in use are of little expense, except what is called ash furnaces: they are commonly made of limestone, which burn down at each blast of twenty or thirty days. If the body of the furnaces were made of brick they would stand for years with small repairs. It may also happen that a lease may not include any land worthy of cultivation, even for a garden. When this is the case it would be lost expense to enclose land, or erect any other buildings but such as the nature of the lead works required. I should, however, advise a stipulation to be entered into by each lessee, to preserve, undestroyed, old improvements, whatever they may be.

Timber—how to be preserved.

I cannot conceive a better regulation than to confine each lessee to the ground he has leased for timber. If some regulation of this kind is not established, innumerable disputes will arise, and petty altercations the consequence, and some mines left without timber. Another fact worthy of notice is, that hundreds of acres of mining land is badly timbered at best, and of such a quality as not to be re-timbered for ages by a new growth.

Salt works and salt springs.

This is a subject on which I am not sufficiently informed to make a useful communication; I have never been conversant with salt making. I must, therefore, decline saying any thing on this head.

General observations.

What has been said on the subject of mines and mining is the result of an experience of twenty-five years. A more detailed account might have been delineated; such as the general appearance of the surface of mineral ground in and about the mines, the various kinds of fossils, the position of the mineral, whether in beds or veins, horizontal or perpendicular, the different stratas of earth, the general physical properties of various substances, which are found in mining, all of which would have been gratifying to the practical and speculative chemist, but not material in establishing a general system of mining, best calculated to produce a permanent revenue, and save the public mines from unnecessary waste. The produce of leases heretofore falls so far short to what I have stated the revenue may be raised, that an explanation may be expected. In the first place, you are to understand that lessees under the Government have not been properly supported in their leases. It has invariably been the case, that they have been involved in law suits and personal vexation, and in some cases the leases have been abandoned altogether.

The case of Shibboleth may be instanced as extremely oppressive to those who have confided in the Government. Few discoveries of mineral have been made free from claims conjured up as a pretext to seize on the mine.

Second. The leases have been very injudiciously granted; but, let me here say, that it is not my intention to call in question the good intentions of the public agent entrusted with the granting leases. There is no man acting under the authority of the Government for whom I have a greater respect, and to whom I think the Government is more indebted for faithful services; yet, I am compelled to say that, in the business of the mines, he has greatly misjudged in leasing all the public mines contained in this report to a man whose ability doth not extend to the working more than one with energy. It therefore results that every miner in the county of Washington must become tributary to this farmer general, or abandon mining. The consequence of this arrangement is, that the revenue from all the mines is not greater than would be from each of them divided into thirty or forty leases. So long as such a state of things exists no valuable revenue can be expected; and, sir, you may be assured that the time is rapidly progressing when the mines will become useless to public and private, unless the present ruinous system is abolished. These observations will apply to all mines wherever they are situated. Had the Government entered on a regular system of leasing and working the mines in 1804, the revenue might have been benefited to this time not less than four or five hundred thousand dollars. There were, at that time, no intruders, and any system the Government had deemed expedient would have been acceptable, provided it held out reasonable advantages, but will now be attended with some difficulty, inasmuch as the practice of trespasses have been so long continued with impunity that the most reasonable restrictions, I am apprehensive, will give the Government some trouble: but once established all opposition will vanish. Whatever system the United States may think proper to adopt must be carried into execution by an agent at the mines. He will then be always present to hear all complaints, and give prompt redress, and, at the same time, act as guardiam of the public domain.

All which is respectfully submitted by your most obedient servant,

MOSES AUSTIN.

Copy of a letter from the Register of the Land Office at St. Louis to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, in reply to a circular letter dated 10th July, 1821, requiring registers of land offices to furnish lists of forfeited and reserved lands.

SIR:

REGISTER'S OFFICE, ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI, August 17, 1821.

Your circular of the 10th July has been received. No lands sold in this district have ever been forfeited to the United States. The deposit of the 20th part of the purchase money has, in some instances, been forfeited. Your circular does not, I believe, intend to embrace such cases. If it does, the monthly returns from this office will show what is required.

There are no lands in this district reserved by Congress for future disposal, unless it is mineral land and salt springs; to designate which would be so laborious an undertaking, that it cannot be made until the present press of business under the law of Congress of 2d March is over.

Respectfully, sir, your obedient servant,

WM. CHRISTY, Register.

JOSIAH MEIGS, Esq., Commissioner of the General Land Office, Washington.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, REGISTER'S OFFICE, February 4, 1824.

SIR:

SURVEYOR'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, MISS., October 23, 1823.

Your circular dated the 5th of August past, to which is subjoined two resolutions of the House of Representatives of the United States, of the 6th of January and 8th of February last, requesting information from the President of the United States in relation to salt springs and lead and copper mines, has been duly received.

I was confined to a sick bed when your letter came to hand, and consequently have not had it in my power to extend my inquiries on the above subjects.

I believe, however, I may say with confidence that no lead or copper mines has been discovered either in the State of Louisiana or Mississippi.

I know it has been said that lead has been found on the rapids of Red river, about a mile above Alexandria, and I have heard very extravagant accounts of the Indians having cut massive pieces of very pure lead out of the bed of the Sabine, at low stages of the water, a few miles below where that river is intersected by the road leading from Natchitoches to Nacogdoches. I give these, however, as mere rumors, very little to be relied upon.

There is a salt spring in the State of Louisiana, from fifteen to twenty miles in a north or northeasterly direction from the town of Natchitoches—I am not certain whether in the parish of Natchitoches or of Rapides. It is not far from the dividing limits of those two parishes. My information of this spring is derived from Mr. Drury Brazile, now a practising attorney in this State, whom I happened to travel in company with in the year 1816; and, as far as my recollection now serves me, is to this amount:

That this spring is one of the sources of a bayou called Saline bayou, which falls into Rigolet du Bon Dieu, one of the channels of Red river; that there is a canoe navigation within a few miles of the spring; that the soil in the immediate vicinity of the spring is steril, the country hilly, and the growth principally pine; that he, Mr. Brazile, had once established works for making salt at this spring, but had abandoned the enterprise from finding that the merchants of Alexandria and Natchitoches could sell imported salt at a more reduced price than that at which he could afford it.

I do not recollect whether Mr. Brazile stated that he had carried on the works with sufficient regularity or extensiveness to determine the quantity of salt which the spring is capable of producing in any given time.

Several other persons, however, to whom this spring is known, and with whom I have conversed on the subject, agree in stating that, in favorable seasons, it may be made very productive.

For the title to the land comprising this spring, I beg leave to refer you to the reports of the Board of Commissioners for the western district of the Territory of Orleans, (now State of Louisiana,) on claims to lands within either the county of Natchitoches or Rapides, I do not now recollect which. I have no documents at hand to which I can refer, but recollect, from having been a member of that board, that there were several conflicting claimants. Bailey and Goodwin, the heirs of James Morrison and Burnett, are names impressed on my mind as claimants. The reports, to the best of my recollection, are alphabetically arranged. You will, therefore, sir, find no difficulty in referring to them.

I have the honor to be, with great respect, your obedient servant,

LEVIN WAILES.

GEORGE GRAHAM, Esq.

Commissioner of the General Land Office, Washington City.

DEAR SIR:

St. Louis, November 10, 1823.

I have delayed answering your letter of the 14th of June, under an expectation of procuring information in relation to the salt springs and lead and copper mines, &c., in this district of country, with a view of giving you information in a form calculated to be useful; but I find it impossible, and must beg leave to observe that lead ore and salt water are so abundant in this section of country, that there will be difficulty in pointing out their number, extent, or value, as new discoveries are made very frequently of both lead and salt.

Indeed, from the best information which I have been enabled to collect from individuals since I have been in this country, of the mineral and salt discovered in its different sections, added to my own observation, it would appear that there is a range of country abounding in mineral, such as lead, iron, and other ores, reaching from Red river to lake Superior, passing west of this place, in a direction nearly north and south, and from 100 to 150 miles in width. In this range there has been found a number of springs of very salt water. West of this range is found salt water in great abundance, which gains in strength as it approaches the south. In many places, particularly on the waters of Kansas and river Pratte, salt is found in a powdered and pulverized state; and still further to the south, on the waters of Arkansas, it is found incrusting on the surface of the earth, and in small streams, and at the Great saline it is found in solid masses.

In and about the claim of Dubuque, which is on the west side of the Mississippi, below Prairie du Chien, there are several lead mines; one, a quarter of a mile back from the river from Dubuque's old house; a second, three miles above; a third, is nine miles above, on Ma-qu-a-ke-to creek; and a fourth is fifteen miles below, and two miles from the Mississippi. On the Osage river there are five or six mines; one about seventy-five miles up Grand river, one on Grand Glaize, and three on Potato creek. Neither of those mines are worked at present.

Accept the very high respect with which I remain your obedient servant,

WILLIAM CLARK.

GEORGE GRAHAM, Esq.

Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Extract of a letter from John B. C. Lucas, dated St. Louis, November 14, 1823.

There remains an impression on my mind, from all the information I have received, officially or otherwise, that the lead mines and salt springs are so numerous, and occupy so great an extent, that they cannot be leased by the public to any advantage, nor can the manufacturing of salt or lead be an object of monopoly. I believe there are hundreds of salt licks through the State in a natural state. You may then imagine that, with the process of boring, which is now so well understood and improved, salt water could be got in a hundred of other places, particularly up the Missouri.

As to the lead mines, it is well known that the lead region extends from the head waters of St. François to near Prairie du Chien, and from the Mississippi into the Michigan and the Illinois States. New discoveries are daily made, and notwithstanding the provisions of the law not to sell lead mines or lands containing mineral, the provision proves nugatory; and, indeed, there would or should not be any land sold in the counties of Washington, of La Mine, &c. Mineral is found on the best farming land, and where it is sometimes the least expected. I, therefore, think that all the public lands ought to be offered for sale without reserve; with this difference, perhaps, that where the land is known to contain mineral, or very valuable salt licks, the minimum price ought to be higher than for common land; and that one or two sections of land ought to be annexed to each salt lick in order to secure fuel.

In turning to the special report of the commissioners concerning lead mines and salt springs, you will perceive that none of the claims for that description of land were confirmed; not because they were all destitute of legal merits, but because the commissioners had only power to report opinions on the same; and, as Congress has not as yet acted upon these claims, the holders thereof are kept in suspense and uncertainty ever since, which prevents enterprise, and checks industry and population. A great many of those claims are for small quantities of land; they are held by actual settlers, who had these lands conceded by the Spanish Government for the purpose of cultivation. Mineral was found upon them since by accident. The caution of Congress not to trust the commissioners with the power of deciding those claims, and reserving it to itself, without having exercised it until now, is a real oppression.

I have no kind of doubt but Congress would immediately act upon them, provided it was sufficiently informed of the true state of things.

No. 407.

[1st SESSION.]

LANDS RECONVEYED TO THE UNITED STATES BY THE UNITED BRETHREN, FOR PROPAGATING THE GOSPEL AMONG THE HEATHEN.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, APRIL 2, 1824.

Mr. WRIGHT, from the select committee, to whom was referred the message of the President, of the 25th March, 1824, with the accompanying documents, relating to the re-cession to the United States of the title of the United Brethren, for propagating the Gospel among the Heathen, to certain lands on the Muskingum river, in Ohio, reported:

That they have attentively considered the message, documents, and evidence, submitted to them, and find that, in pursuance of the authority of the act of the last session of Congress, entitled "An act making further appropriation for the military services of the United States for the year 1823, and for other purposes," a contract was entered into on the 4th of August, 1823, at Gnadenhutzen, in the county of Tuscarawas, in the State of Ohio, between Lewis Cass, on the part of the United States, and Lewis D. de Schweinitz, on the part of the United Brethren, which has since been ratified and approved by the President, and by the Society of United Brethren.

By this agreement the said society stipulate to retrocede to the United States the three several tracts of land on the Tuscarawas branch of the Muskingum river, in the aforesaid county and State, which had been patented to the society by the United States, the 24th of February, 1798, in trust, for certain purposes therein expressed, under the act of Congress of the 1st of June, 1796. To transfer to the United States the leases outstanding of part of said lands, granted by the society to certain individuals who reside thereon; to procure a surrender to the United States of an outstanding lease of a part of said land, granted to one Joseph Rhodes, for thirty-three years from the 1st of April, 1821, and to save the United States harmless on account of any stipulations therein. By this agreement the United States stipulate to pay to the said society, out of the first proceeds of the sales of the said lands, in full consideration for the retrocession, and all the expense the said society has incurred in executing the said trust, the sum of $6,654 25; to convey to the society, free from condition or limitation, ten acres of ground, including the church Bersheba, and the graveyard on the Gnadenhutzen tract; also, the church lot, parsonage house, and graveyard in the town of Gnadenhutzen; also, the house and lot occupied by one John G. Demuth, and the house and lot occupied by one David Peter, each about five rods in front, and sixteen rods in depth; also, the house and lot occupied by one Frederick Dell, not exceeding two acres; and, also, the missionary house and graveyard at Goshen, all on said tracts; to determine upon the manner, and to allow a pre-emption right to John Andreas, John Neigaman, Jacob Winsh, and Catharine Tschudy, of certain lots in the town of Gnadenhutzen, of five by fifteen rods, on which they had erected houses under leases from the society; and to pay, out of the proceeds of said land, to Isaac Simmers, Jesse Walton, Bazillai Walton, and Boaz Walton, lessees of parts of the Gnadenhutzen tract, and one Jesse Hill, a lessee of part of the Salem tract, such sums as may be awarded to each of them under clauses in their leases, not exceeding $1,800 in the whole.

That, by other articles of agreement entered into on the 8th of November, 1823, by the said Cass, on the part of the United States, and Kootalees and others, the descendants and representatives of the Christian Indians, for whose use the said trust was created, the said Christian Indians declare their full assent to the retrocession by the society to the United States as aforesaid, and cede, for themselves, to the United States, all their right to the said trust estate.

The United States, on their part, agree to pay to the said Christian Indians an annuity of $400, to commence so soon as a sum is received from the sale of said lands, (after having first paid the several sums stipulated to be paid by the United States in the aforesaid agreement with the Society of United Brethren,) sufficient, as a principal stock, to produce $400, at an interest of six per centum per annum, and to continue as long as said Indians shall occupy their present residence; but, should the said Indians be desirous of removing from their present residence, the United States agree to secure to them a reservation of not less than 24,000 acres of land, to be held by said Indians on the usual condition of Indian reservations, so long as they shall live thereon; and, when the said Indians shall remove to said reservation, the said annuity to cease.

It appears by the schedule and surveys returned with the contract entered into with the United Brethren, that, in the said three tracts of land, (amounting together to 12,000 acres,) 3,759 $\frac{9}{10}$ acres have been surveyed and leased; that, on the lands leased, there have been 1,077 acres cleared and improved, including forty-three dwelling houses, varying in dimensions from fourteen by fourteen feet, to twenty-four by forty-two feet, and twenty-two barns, varying, also, from twenty by twenty, to twenty-five by fifty-four feet. These leases expire at different periods, from the year 1825 to 1854, and vary much in the amount and kind of rent reserved; some cases providing for the payment of the rent in cash, and others in improvements. The surveys exhibit lots of different sizes, from twenty-nine to one hundred and seventy-six acres. Besides these surveys and improvements, there appear to be, on said tracts, town or village plats of building lots, some of which are leased and improved. Most, if not all of the leases, contain provisions restraining their assignment and the commission of waste, &c., for the violation of which, as well as for the non-payment of rent, &c., the leases become forfeit.

The committee have not thought it necessary, or within the scope of their inquiries, to go into a detailed exposition of the promises made to these Christian Indians, by the Congress prior to the declaration of independence, and since the close of the revolutionary war, to recount their meritorious services during that war, nor to set forth the benevolent and indefatigable exertions of the United Brethren in the faithful discharge of the trust confided to them, but give, to gentlemen desirous of examining into these matters, the following references to facilitate their inquiries: The ordinances of Congress, Laws U. S. vol. 1, pp. 668-9 and 579; the fifth section of the act of 1st June, 1796, vol. 2, p. 567; and the message of the President of the United States, of December 10, 1822, vol. 1, Senate Papers, No. 3.

The committee are of opinion, on the evidence submitted to them, that measures ought to be taken, on the part of the United States, for carrying the said agreement into execution; to survey and allot the said lands; to ascertain their value, improvement, the situation of the leases, the terms on which their surrender or commutation can be secured, the minimum cash value of each lot, and the amount to be awarded for improvements. That pre-emption rights should be allowed to the persons named in the contract, to such of the lessees as have complied with their leases, and will surrender them, and to the Society of United Brethren, for such portions of lots and lands as will pay them, at the minimum cash price, the sum stipulated to be paid them as the consideration of their surrender of said lands. That patents should be granted for such of said lands as the United States are bound to convey as soon as their boundaries are ascertained; and that the remainder of said lands, deducting the usual allowance for schools, should be offered for sale at public vendue, and, if not so sold, be liable to entry and purchase at the land office at Zanesville, in the same manner other United States' lands are entered and sold.

The committee, therefore, beg leave to report a bill.

Extract from the articles of agreement made and concluded at Gnadenhutzen, in the county of Tuscarawas, and State of Ohio, between Lewis Cass, on the part of the United States, being thereto specially authorized by the President of the United States, and Lewis D. de Schweinitz, on the part of the Society of United Brethren for Propagating the Gospel among the Heathen, being thereto specially authorized by the said society.

I. The said society agree to retrocede to the United States the three tracts of land lying on the Muskingum river, in the county of Tuscarawas, and State of Ohio, containing each four thousand acres, which said tracts of land were granted to the said society, by patent from the United States, on the 24th day of February, 1798, for certain purposes therein expressed, which will more fully appear by reference to the said patent, and to the act of Congress of June 1, 1796, entitled "An act regulating the grants of land appropriated for military services, and for the Society of United Brethren for Propagating the Gospel among the Heathen," by the authority of which act the said patent issued.

The conveyance required by this article shall be made by a good and sufficient deed, at the expense of the said society, as soon after the ratification of this agreement as possible; which deed shall convey to the United States all the right and title vested in the said society, by the patent and act of Congress aforesaid.

II. The schedule hereunto annexed contains a descriptive list of all the leases which have been granted by the said society, together with the number of the lots, and the quantity of acres granted to each person, the commencement and expiration of the lease, and the rent which each tenant is bound to pay. These leases, as soon as this agreement is ratified, shall, by a sufficient conveyance in law, be assigned by the said society to the United States, after which the right and duties created by the said leases shall be vested in, and performed by, the United States.

III. Whereas, by the documents which accompanied the President's message to the Senate, of December 9, 1822, it appears that the sum of \$43,356 was actually expended by the said society upon the objects connected with the trust created by the acceptance of the said patent to the 21st August, 1822, and that the whole receipts from the said land were \$9,998 58 $\frac{1}{2}$, leaving a balance due to the said society, of \$32,587 50 $\frac{3}{4}$; of which sum, \$15,840 10 $\frac{1}{4}$ were actually expended in procuring the title of the said land, and in surveying the same; the repayment of which, amounting now, with the interest, to \$2,596 18, was guaranteed by the ordinance of Congress of September 3, 1788; in the settlement, at an early period, of these remote tracts, being more than seventy miles distant from the nearest white settlement; in cutting roads, building temporary mills, and making other improvements, which have greatly added to the value of the said lands, all which will more fully appear by a reference to the said documents; and whereas the committee of the Senate, to whom the said documents were referred, state "that it appears satisfactorily to the committee that the society, ever since they assumed the trust, have, under circumstances of great difficulty and embarrassment, exerted their best endeavors to effect the great and benevolent purposes of civilizing, improving, and protecting the Indians thus placed under their charge, and have, with persevering industry, care, and fidelity, performed the duty and trust reposed in them by Congress;" and whereas, by an account this day exhibited by the treasurer of the said society, it appears that the said three tracts of land are actually holden for the payment of a debt of \$6,654 25, being part of the said sum of \$15,840 10 $\frac{1}{4}$ expended as aforesaid: Now, therefore, it is reasonable, and it is hereby agreed, that the sum of \$6,654 25 shall be paid by the United States to the said society, out of the first proceeds of the sales of the said land, in full consideration of the retrocession hereby made, and of all the expenses which the said society have incurred, in the execution of the trust aforesaid, in relation to the said land.

IV. It is also agreed that ten acres of land, including the church called Bersheba, and the graveyard on the Gnadenhutzen tract, and also, the church lot, parsonage house, and graveyard, in the town of Gnadenhutzen, the house and lot occupied by John G. Demuth, the house and lot occupied by David Peter, both which lots are about five rods in front, by sixteen rods in depth, and the house and lot occupied by Frederick Dell, which lot does not exceed two acres; and, also, the missionary house and graveyard at Goshen, shall be conveyed by the United States, in perpetuity, to the said society, free from any condition or limitation whatever.

V. Whereas, John Andreas, John Neigaman, Jacob Winsh, and Catharine Tschudy, have erected houses in the town of Gnadenhutzen, upon lots of five by fifteen rods, under leases from the said society, conditioned for the payment, the two former of the annual rent of $1 65, and the two latter of $3 60, each, with an understanding that the said lessees should hold the said lots as long as they complied with the conditions of the lease, and should also be allowed the privilege of selling the same, at their option: it is, therefore, agreed that the said John Andreas, John Neigaman, Jacob Winsh, and Catharine Tschudy, shall be allowed a pre-emption right to the said lots, to be exercised in such manner as may be determined by the United States.

VI. Five of the leases yet unexpired, to wit: those to Isaac Simmers, Jesse Walton, Barzillai Walton, and Boaz Walton, on the Gnadenhutzen tract, and to Jesse Hill, on the Salem tract, contain clauses for the payment of such sums as may be awarded to them, in the mode pointed out by the said leases, for certain improvements upon the tracts leased to them. It is, therefore, agreed that a sum not exceeding one thousand eight hundred dollars shall be paid by the United States out of the proceeds of the said land, should that amount be awarded to the said persons; but, should the amount awarded to them fall short of that sum, then the United States shall be held to pay only the amount actually awarded. Joseph Rhodes having leased a lot for the term of thirty-three years from the 1st of April, 1821, and having advanced to the said society the consideration therefor, amounting to $215.25, under an agreement that the same, at the expiration of the lease, shall be refunded to the said Rhodes, without interest, the said society agree to procure a surrender to the United States of the said lease, within the term of four years, and to save the United States harmless from the effect of any stipulation in the said lease.

Extract from the articles of agreement made this eighth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty-three, between Lewis Cass, commissioner on the part of the United States, and Zacharias, or Kootalees, John Henry, or Killbuck, Charles Henry, or Killbuck, Francis Henry Killbuck, John Peter, Tobias, John Jacob, and Matthias, or Koolotshatshees, being the descendants and representatives of the Christian Indians, who were formerly settled upon three tracts of land lying on both sides of the Muskingum river, in the State of Ohio, containing four thousand acres each, which were granted by patent from the United States, dated February twenty-fourth, seventeen hundred and ninety-eight, in pursuance of the act of Congress of June first, seventeen hundred and ninety-six, entitled "An act regulating the grants of land appropriated for military services, and for the Society of the United Brethren for Propagating the Gospel among the Heathen," to the said society, for the use of the said Christian Indians, or the remains of that society, including Killbuck and his descendants, and the nephew and descendants of the late Captain White Eyes, Delaware chiefs.

ART. I. The descendants and representatives aforesaid, for themselves, and for the society of Christian Indians aforesaid, do hereby declare their full assent to the agreement concluded at Gnadenhutzen, in the State of Ohio, on the fourth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-three, between Lewis Cass, commissioner on the part of the United States, and Lewis de Schweinitz, agent for the Society of United Brethren aforesaid.

ART. II. The said descendants and representatives do, for themselves, and for the Christian Society of Indians aforesaid, forever cede to the United States all right and interest in and to the tracts of land before described, the use of which was granted to them by the patent and act of Congress aforesaid.

ART. III. The United States agree to pay to the said Christian Society of Indians an annuity of four hundred dollars, which annuity shall commence as soon as a sum is received from the sale of the said land sufficient, as a principal stock, to produce the amount of four hundred dollars, at an interest of six per centum per annum. But the proceeds of the sales of the lands are to be applied to the sums secured to be paid to the Society of United Brethren, and to the lessees described in the sixth article of the agreement executed at Gnadenhutzen aforesaid, before the creation of the principal stock provided for in this agreement; and the annuity of four hundred dollars shall continue so long as the said Society of Christian Indians shall occupy their present residence.

ART. IV. It is further agreed that, should the said Society of Christian Indians be desirous of removing from their present residence, the United States will secure to them a reservation containing not less than twenty-four thousand acres of land, to be held by them upon the usual condition of Indian reservations, so long as they shall live thereon; and when the said Christian Society shall remove to the said reservation, then the annuity herein granted shall cease.

STATE OF THE FUNDS RESERVED TO CERTAIN STATES FROM THE SALES OF THE PUBLIC LANDS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, APRIL 13, 1824.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, April 12, 1824.

In obedience to a resolution of the House of Representatives, directing the Secretary of the Treasury to lay before the House "a statement of the sums of money that have been received in the Treasury from the two per cent. funds, payable on the sales of public lands in the States of Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Alabama, designating the yearly and total amount paid in from each of the said States; and how much money has been advanced by the General Government, for the repayment of which these funds or any of them, are pledged; also, the yearly and total amount in each of the above named States arising from the three per cent. funds payable on the sale of public lands, and what sums, if any, have been advanced to each of said States of the three per cent. fund," the Secretary has the honor to transmit the accompanying statements, marked A, B, and C, from the Register of the Treasury and the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

The Hon. the SPEAKER of the House of Representatives.

A.—Statement, in obedience to a resolution of the House of Representatives of the 17th December, 1823, requiring a "statement of the sums of money that have been received in the Treasury from the two per cent. funds, payable on the sales of public lands in the States of Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Alabama, designating the yearly and total amount paid in from each of said States, and how much money has been advanced by the General Government, for the repayment of which these funds, or any of them, are pledged; also, the yearly and total amount in each of the above named States, arising from the three per cent. funds, payable on the sale of public lands; and what sums, if any, have been advanced to each of said States of the three per cent. fund."

The first statements for Mississippi and Alabama have been made collectively, instead of yearly, as required by the resolution, on account of the lands sold at St. Stephens, in Alabama, which are lying in Mississippi. In each State the proper discrimination has been made. In Louisiana the irregular situation of the office at Opelousas has necessitated an aggregate statement also.

[1st SESSION.]

PRE-EMPTION RIGHTS.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, APRIL 23, 1824.

Mr. WHIPPLE, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom were referred several resolutions and petitions relative to pre-emptions, reported:

Before advertng to the particular cases embraced by the resolutions and petitions referred, the committee deem it proper to make some general observations on the subject of pre-emption grants, as connected with the general policy of the Government in relation to the public lands.

By reference to the various laws on the subject of pre-emptions, it will be perceived that, where the United States have acquired territory where settlements existed at the time of the acquisition, the persons having made such settlements have been permitted by the Government to retain their lands by paying therefor the minimum price, subject to a reasonable limitation as to the quantity to be retained.

In cases where territory has been acquired from foreign Powers by treaty, this privilege has been extended to the period in which the United States took the actual possession of the ceded territory. Some modifications of these principles have, at times, and, under particular circumstances, existed, but the main principle has been generally adhered to.

The committee are of opinion that an extension of these principles would be injurious to the Government, as well as to those who may hereafter become the purchasers of the public lands, and probably to those also who may venture to settle upon Government lands without authority hereafter.

It cannot be perceived by what principle persons having no color of title, should, after lands on which they have settled were known to belong to the United States at the time of making such settlement, claim the pre-emption right to such lands.

Should the Government sanction applications of this nature, an inducement would be offered to persons of an enterprising disposition, to anticipate, in every quarter, the Government in its sales of public lands, and to settle upon and improve the most valuable tracts of land, which they would claim at the minimum price whenever such lands were brought into market by authority of the United States.

Purchasers of land finding themselves prevented from acquiring good lands would abstain from purchases, and resort to illegal settlements in the hope of obtaining that at the minimum value which they could not obtain at fair and opensale.

Thus a competition would be excited among a certain description of our population to locate themselves upon the public lands without much regard to lines or boundaries, and with very little respect for the rights either of the Government or their Indian neighbors.

When it might become necessary for the Government to offer for sale the tracts on which these settlements had been made, the person interested would find arguments at hand, in their poverty and distress, and the situation of their families, to show why they should be permitted to retain their homes and their improvements.

Abuses like these would necessarily attract the attention of the Government, and induce Congress to adopt rigorous measures to repress them, by which many who had thus precipitately made unauthorized settlements would be deprived of their labor, and again be compelled to begin anew, thus losing the labor of years.

A system of indulgence to those who trespass by making unauthorized settlements upon the lands of the United States, after those lands are known to be the property of the Government, would, in the opinion of the committee, be productive of much perplexity to the Government as well as of injury to those concerned in the purchase and settlement of the national domain.

The committee will now proceed to consider the several resolutions and petitions referred to them, which relate either to pre-emption rights or to indulgences prayed for by those who have made unauthorized settlements upon the public lands.

By the resolution of December 31, 1823, the committee are "instructed to inquire into the justice and expediency of granting to actual settlers in that part of the State of Louisiana, lying east of the Mississippi, and island of New Orleans, a right of pre-emption to public lands in the same manner, and for the same period of time, after possession thereof by the Government of the United States, as was granted to such settlers in the late Territory of Orleans after possession thereof as aforesaid."

It will be perceived, by reference to the act of Congress of April 12, 1814, that pre-emption rights were granted to actual settlers in that part of the State of Louisiana, west of the river Mississippi, up to the date of said act, that is, to the 12th April, 1814.

The United States took possession of this portion of the State of Louisiana on the 10th of December, 1803; consequently, settlers for a period of eleven years after the possession of the Territory of Orleans by the United States, had the right of pre-emption of the lands on which they had settled secured to them.

In that portion of the State of Louisiana which lies east of the river Mississippi, and island of New Orleans, a different rule was adopted.

The Government did not get possession of this portion of the ceded territory until the autumn of 1810, prior to which time it was under the Government of Spain; consequently, settlers in this portion of the Territory had the right of pre-emption secured to them by the act of 1814, only for a period of four years after the possession by the United States.

The resolution, therefore, contemplates extending to all who had made settlements on the public lands of the United States in the portion of the State of Louisiana, east of the river Mississippi, up to the year 1821, the right of pre-emption to the land on which they have settled.

The committee deem it inexpedient to extend the right of pre-emption in this manner.

The act of the 12th April, 1814, extended equally to all portions of the State of Louisiana; and, if any inequality existed in the situation of the people of different sections of the State, this circumstance ought not of itself to be made ground of claim upon the Government. Those who reside east of the river Mississippi, and island of New Orleans had, by that law, the right of retaining their lands at the minimum value, although they had settled on them without leave of the Government four years after the lands were, by solemn transfer and formal possession, known to be the property of the United States. The Government has, therefore, treated these settlers with great lenity and indulgence; and if some of their neighbors have, by the peculiarity of their situations, derived greater benefits from the act of April 12, 1814, the committee cannot, on this account, be induced to deem it proper to sanction the principle that persons ought to be encouraged to settle upon the public lands for ten or eleven years after they are known to be the property of the United States. It may, however, be doubted whether the act of 1814 has not operated nearly equally upon the settlers on the public lands within the State of Louisiana. It was well known by the people that the whole territory acquired by the treaty ceding Louisiana to the United States, would ultimately fall under their Government; and there can be little doubt that many settlements were made within the territory in anticipation of this event. Hence, the time of taking the possession of different portions of that tract of country could produce very little inequality with respect to those who had pre-emption rights granted them by the act of the 12th April, 1814.

By the resolution of January 2, 1824, the committee are instructed "to inquire into the expediency of granting the right of pre-emption to all persons to mill seats on public lands, where the same have been actually improved as such by them."

It will be readily perceived that, if the Government should sanction a principle of this kind, these valuable appendages to the public lands would be universally taken up and occupied to the great injury of the Government, and with no advantage to those who may wish to purchase public lands, except to the favored individual.

The committee are, therefore, of opinion that it would be injudicious, and that it is inexpedient, to adopt such a provision.

By a resolution of the same date, the committee are instructed "to inquire into the expediency of granting to actual settlers prior to the 1st of July, 1820, in the State of Alabama, the right of purchasing, by pre-emption, of at least one-quarter section of land, embracing their family residences."

The committee refer to the general observations in the commencement of this report, and again repeat that they can see no sound reason for permitting persons who have knowingly made unauthorized settlements on the public lands to have and enjoy peculiar privileges and indulgences. They are, therefore, of opinion that the adoption of such a measure would be impolitic and inexpedient.

By a resolution of January 23, 1824, the committee are instructed "to inquire into the expediency of reviving the law of the 25th March, 1816, relating to the settlers on the lands of the United States."

This act, as will be seen by reference to it, provides that persons settled on the public lands of the United States may, upon application to a Register, Recorder, or marshal, or to such person as either of them may appoint, be permitted to remain on such lands, provided the applicant shall sign a declaration, purporting that he or she has no claim to the lands on which he or she may be located. Books are to be kept, and a registry of these applications and permissions is to be made, and such forms prescribed as the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approbation of the President of the United States, may direct. The persons availing themselves of the provisions of this act are to be considered as tenants at will, and to obligate themselves not to commit waste, and to yield quiet possession when the lands shall be sold by the Government.

The committee can see no good reason for renewing this law, which has been continued in force until the 3d March, 1819, a period of three years.

Those who had located themselves on the public lands prior to, and until the 3d of March, 1819, have had opportunity to avail themselves of the benefits of this act, and those who have, since that time, made unauthorized settlements on the vacant lands of the United States can have no just ground of complaint, if left to the ordinary operation of the laws relating to such persons.

To revive the law of 1816 would be to hold out inducements to settle on the public lands under the expectation that, until such lands were sold, the persons making settlements would be permitted to cultivate and improve them for their own profit and benefit. Were the Government to grant these facilities, it is easy to perceive that no regard whatever would be paid to the regulations of the laws forbidding unauthorized settlements upon the public lands.

The experience of the Government would lead us to conclude that the final request of these settlers would be for pre-emption rights, or at least to be permitted to retain their crops. But the committee trust that enough has been said to show the indefensible nature of this proposition. They will, therefore, dismiss it.

The petition of Lewis C. Davis was referred to the committee on the 26th January, 1824. He states that he purchased a quarter section of land in the State of Alabama, for which he gave $14 per acre; that he is unable to pay for it, and was compelled to relinquish it, and prays to be permitted to re-enter the land at the pre-emption price. There appears to be nothing in this case to entitle the petitioner to particular favor, and the committee see no cause why he should not be subjected to the operation of the laws and regulations of the Government relative to such cases.

The petition of Hardy Doyal and George Caperton, of Alabama, referred to the committee on the 27th January, 1824, states that the petitioners have erected a grist-mill on the public lands, and cleared a farm adjoining it; that they have expended their whole property in the enterprise. They, therefore, pray to be permitted to take a certain quantity of land, including their mill, at the pre-emption value, and that the Government should grant them a credit of six months from the issuing of the patent.

The committee deem it unnecessary to enter into detailed reasoning to show the inadmissibility of this proposition. It is sufficient to remark, that it is in direct contravention of the policy which it is believed the Government ought to pursue for the purpose of putting a stop to unauthorized settlements on the public lands.

No. 410.

[1st SESSION.]

CLAIMS TO LAND BETWEEN THE LINES OF LUDLOW AND ROBERTS, IN OHIO.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, MAY 4, 1824.

Mr. VANCE made the following report:

The committee, to which was referred a resolution inquiring into the expediency of granting relief to certain purchasers of the public lands lying between Ludlow's and Roberts's lines, in the State of Ohio, have had the same under consideration, and submit the following report:

From a decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Doddridge's lessee against Thompson and Wright, it appears both parties claim under title derived from the United States; the plaintiff, under a warrant granted to one of the soldiers of the Virginia line on continental establishment; and the defendants under purchase directly from the Government, and under the laws regulating their general land system. In this case the court has decided in favor of the plaintiff, who derives his title under the Virginia warrant for military services; the recovery about 700 acres; the defendants liable to eviction, and entirely at the mercy of the successful party; and there yet remains 14,000 acres dependant on the same principle, and must be decided in the same way. This land is divided into small farms, generally in a high state of cultivation and improvement; owned by individuals in moderate circumstances, who are unacquainted with litigation, fearful of being dragged into a court of justice, at much expense, where no doubt can be entertained of their ultimate failure and defeat.

Your committee regret that the omission of the parties in not establishing the western line of the Virginia reservation prior to the sale of the public lands, should have rendered it necessary to legislate specially on this subject; but of such necessity there is no doubt, as every principle of justice and good faith requires an exertion on the part of the Government to quiet in their possessions persons who have expended their all in purchasing and improving lands for which they hold the warrant of the United States. Your committee are aware that all attempts on the part of the United States to quiet in their possessions the persons above alluded to, must fail, unless, in the spirit of mutual forbearance and good feeling, the persons claiming under Virginia military land warrants should have a disposition to compromise and settle this business on such terms as may be considered fair and equitable; and this, it is to be hoped, will be the fact, and may be effected so as to give mutual satisfaction to both parties.

Your committee can properly appreciate the local partialities of persons who have underwent every privation incident to the settlement of a new country, and the high estimate they must necessarily put on homes secured by an economy and industry unparalleled in the history of any country, and for which no remuneration could be as acceptable as that of being continued unmolested in the enjoyment of property long considered by them as their own, and for which they have paid the Government a valuable consideration.

Your committee will not undertake to say what measure of damages would be proper to allow the occupants, provided no adjustment can be made between the Government and the claimants under Virginia military warrants, as the decisions throughout the United States are various; some States regulating by statutory provisions, and others adopting the common law principle of refunding the purchase money with interest; but they have no doubt, from previous legislation on this subject, that the most liberal allowances would be extended towards its citizens thus situated.

Your committee know of but one case where relief has been granted under similar circumstances, and that is an act in favor of the legal representatives of Philip Barbour, passed January, 1820. There the Government has acted with that liberality which has marked her policy throughout, by awarding damages agreeably to valuation.

Your committee think the case presented for their consideration equally strong, and, in their opinion, no good reason can be assigned why equal liberality should not be extended.

Your committee know of no public lands sold under the conditions of refunding the purchase money, with interest, in case of eviction, with the exception of those conflicting with the Yazoo claims; and there the purchaser was made acquainted with the nature and extent of the Government's guarantee at the time of sale.

Your committee are aware of the importance of the subject to them referred, and the different views that might be presented; but, as their object is brevity, they will content themselves with the submission of the before recited facts and deductions; and, for a more comprehensive view of the subject, they will call the attention of the House to the opinion of the Supreme Court, which they adopt as part of their report. All of which is respectfully submitted, together with a bill for the relief of the said purchasers.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

DODDRIDGE'S LESSEE vs. THOMPSON AND WRIGHT.—Opinion of the Court.

Both parties in this case claim under grants made by the United States in that tract of country which was reserved by Virginia, out of her cession to Congress, for the purpose of satisfying the claims of her officers and soldiers on continental establishment. The reserve was at first dependant on a deficiency of good land to satisfy these claims in a territory reserved for the same objects in Kentucky, which was then a part of Virginia. But the necessity of making this fact appear was afterward dispensed with, and the deficiency was admitted to exist. The plaintiff having the oldest patent has of course the better title, if his patent be valid.

A case was argued in the circuit court in which a pro forma judgment was rendered for the defendant, which is now before this court on a writ of error.

The plaintiff claims under a military warrant issued to one of the officers of the Virginia line on continental establishment, and the defendant under a purchase made from the United States subsequent to the emanation of the plaintiff's grant. The first question made in the cause is, whether the land in controversy be within the Virginia reserve. The words are, that if the quantity of land reserved on the southeast side of the Ohio, "for the Virginia troops on continental establishment, should prove insufficient for their legal bounties, the deficiency should be made up to the said troops in good lands between the Scioto and Little Miami."

In 1790 Congress passed an act,* in which, after reciting that the agents for the troops of the State of Virginia had reported to the executive of that State that there was a deficiency of good lands in the territory reserved on the southeast of the Ohio, and after directing the Secretary of War to make a return to the executive of that State of the number of officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, who served in the Virginia line on continental establishment, it is enacted, "that it shall be and may be lawful for the said agents to locate land for the use of said troops, between the rivers Scioto and Little Miami, such a number of acres of good land as shall, together with the number already located between the said two rivers, and the number already located on the southeasterly side of the river Ohio, be equal to the aggregate amount so to be returned as aforesaid by the Secretary of the Department of War."

In June, 1794, Congress passed another act† on this subject, that every officer and soldier of the Virginia line on continental establishment entitled to bounty lands between the Scioto and Little Miami rivers, "shall, on producing the warrant, or a certified copy thereof, and a certificate, under the seal of the office where the said warrants are legally kept, that the same, or a part thereof, remains unsatisfied, and, on producing the survey, agreeably to the laws of Virginia, for the tract or tracts to which he or they may be entitled as aforesaid, to the Secretary of the Department of War, such officer and soldier, his or their heirs or assigns, shall be entitled to, and receive, a patent for the same from the President of the United States."

Under these acts the plaintiff's patent was issued. It is not, we think, to be questioned, that, under the reserve contained in the cession act of Virginia, and under the acts of Congress which have been recited, the whole country lying between the Scioto and Little Miami was subjected to the military warrants, to satisfy which the reserve was made, and any part of it might be surveyed for any person holding such warrant. What is the extent of this country? The plaintiff contends that it is the territory between the Ohio into which both rivers empty, and a line to be drawn from the source of the main branch of one river to the source of the main branch of the other, and the rivers themselves from their sources to their mouths.

The Scioto is a much longer river than the Little Miami, and the defendant has suggested that the country reserved may be limited by the Ohio on one side, and a line drawn from the source of the Miami to the Scioto, which shall be parallel with the Ohio on the opposite side. But this suggestion has not been pressed, and the idea it conveys is directly opposed to the words of the reserve, and the construction which has been uniformly given to the deed of cession by both the contracting parties. The territory lying between two rivers is the whole country from their sources to their mouths; and, if no fork of either of them has acquired the name in exclusion of another, the main branch to its source must be considered as the true river. Any other rule would be arbitrary, depending on caprice, not on principle; and the whole legislation of Congress upon the subject shows, we think, a disposition to be guided by this reasonable rule.

We are relieved from inquiry respecting the main branches of these rivers by the case agreed, which finds a map certified by the Commissioner of the Land Office, dated the 26th of February, 1820, and that a line on the said map marked and thereon described as Roberts's line, represents a line extending from the source of the Little Miami to the source of the Scioto, and that the sources of both rivers are truly shown thereon.

Admitting this line to constitute the true boundary of the military reserve, the land in controversy lies within it; and the plaintiff's patent would, consequently, be valid, if it depended entirely on the original deed of cession, and the acts of Congress which have been recited. But the defendants' counsel contends that, as the plaintiff's title was to be derived from the Government of the Union, it must have been obtained conformably to the laws of the United States, or is invalid.

It has been very truly observed that, while the Government of the Union is to be considered as holding the territory ceded by Virginia in trust for the officers and soldiers of the Virginia line, so far as the reservation for their benefit extends, it is also to be considered as holding the lands not reserved in trust for the nation, and as being bound, by its high duties, to execute that trust. Congress, therefore, found it necessary to provide for the sale of the territory not included within the reserve; and its laws, made for this purpose, may control, and have controlled, the original rights of the military claimants, and have established a line between the sources of the Scioto and Little Miami different from that for which the plaintiff contends.

Without questioning the power of the Government the court will proceed to inquire, whether Congress has passed any law contracting the military reserve within narrower limits than are prescribed by the deed of cession as here construed, or has made any provision which, in any manner, affects the plaintiff's grant.

In May, 1785, Congress passed "an ordinance for ascertaining the mode of granting lands in the western territory," in which, for the purpose of securing to the officers and soldiers of the Virginia line on continental establishment the bounties granted them by that State, it is ordained, that no part of the land between the rivers called Little Miami and Scioto, on the northwest side of the river Ohio, be sold, or in any manner alienated, until there shall first have been laid off and appropriated for the said officers and soldiers, and persons claiming under them, the lands they are entitled to, agreeably to the said deed of cession, and act of Congress accepting the same.

In May, 1796, Congress passed an act* for the survey and sale of these lands; directing the appointment of a Surveyor General, whose duty it should be "to survey and mark the unascertained outlines of the lands lying northwest of the river Ohio, and above the mouth of the river Kentucky, in which the titles of the Indian tribes have been extinguished, and to divide the same in the manner hereinafter directed."

The second section enacts, "that the part of the said land which shall not have been already conveyed," &c., or "which has not been heretofore, and during the present session of Congress may not be appropriated for satisfying military land bounties, and for other purposes, shall be divided," &c.

This law, then, which gives to the Surveyor General his authority to survey the country generally, and to lay off the lands as prescribed in the said act, excludes, from this general authority, all lands previously appropriated for military land bounties, and for other purposes, and, consequently, excludes the lands between the Scioto and the Little Miami.

In May, 1800, Congress passed an act† providing further for the sale of these lands, and establishing, for that purpose, four land offices. The places at which these offices shall be fixed are designated in the act, and the district of country attached to each is described. Neither of these districts comprehends any lands between the Scioto and the Little Miami. The Surveyor General was not authorized to survey any lands within the military reserve, nor was the sale of such land authorized at any of the land offices. In the execution of this act the Surveyor General caused a line to be run from the source of the Little Miami towards what he supposed to be the source of the Scioto, which is denominated Ludlow's line, and surveyed the lands west of that line in sections, and parts of sections, as prescribed in the act of Congress.

In March, 1804,‡ Congress passed a law for ascertaining the boundary of the land reserved by the State of Virginia for military bounties, which enacts, "that the line run, under the direction of the Surveyor General of the United States, from the source of the Little Miami towards the source of the Scioto, and which binds on the east the surveys of the lands of the United States, shall, together with its course continued to the Scioto river, be considered and held as the western boundary line, north of the source of the Little Miami, of the territory reserved by the State of Virginia, between the Little Miami and the Scioto rivers, for the use of the officers and soldiers of the continental line of that State: Provided, That the State of Virginia shall, within two years after the passing of this act, recognise such line as the boundary of the said territory." The line mentioned in this act is called Ludlow's line.

This act shows, we think, very clearly, that Congress did not mean to assert a power to fix the western boundary of the military reserve. The deed of cession, and the act of acceptance, were considered as forming a contract respecting a territory, the western line of which could not, at the time, be fixed with precision, and which was unavoidably described in terms requiring subsequent explanation and adjustment. This adjustment was to be made, not by one of the parties, but by both; and this act is an essay towards it. Congress makes a proposition to Virginia by which the United States are to be bound, provided Virginia accepts it within two years. If it be not accepted within that time, the parties stand on their original rights, as if it had never been made. This is a very fair and equitable proceeding on the part of the Government, and is founded on the idea that the rights of the parties are equal. Had Virginia accepted this proposition, it would have become a contract, and Ludlow's line would have been established as the western boundary of the military reserve. The land in controversy lying west of that line, it would not have been liable to be surveyed to satisfy the plaintiff's warrant. But Virginia did not accept the proposition, and the rights of the parties remained as if it had never been made.

In 1812§ Congress made another effort to establish this line. The President was authorized to appoint three commissioners, to meet commissioners to be appointed by Virginia, who were to agree on the western line of the military reserve, and to cause the same to be surveyed and marked out. Should commissioners from Virginia fail to meet them, they were to proceed alone, and to make their report to the Executive. In the mean time, and until the line should be established by consent, Ludlow's line was to be considered as constituting the western boundary of the Virginia reserve.

The commissioners of the United States were met by those of Virginia, and they proceeded to ascertain the sources of the two rivers, and employed a Mr. Charles Roberts to survey and mark a line from the source of one to that of the other. This line is called Roberts's line; is reported by the commissioners to the Executive, and is found, in the case agreed, to represent truly a line drawn from the source of the Little Miami to the source of the Scioto. The Virginia commissioners, however, refused to accede to this line, and claimed to run from the source of the Scioto a straight line to the mouth of the Little Miami, which would pass south of that river, and include a considerable tract of country not lying between that river and the Scioto. This demand prevented an agreement establishing Roberts's line; and, as the act of June, 1812, provisionally designated Ludlow's line as the western boundary of the reserve, until one should be finally established with the consent of Virginia, it remains the boundary for the present.

Had the plaintiff's title been acquired subsequent to the passage of this act, there would be much force in the objection to it; but it was acquired before this act passed, and cannot, we think, be affected by it. Congress cannot have intended to annul, by a legislative act, a title which was valid at the time; and a law which does not express that intention, ought not to have that effect given to it by construction.

If the words of the act of 1804 were doubtful, which they are not, the act of 1812 would expound them, and show that not even a temporary boundary had been previously fixed. The appointment of commissioners to meet others to be appointed by Virginia, who were to agree upon and mark the true line, and the establishment of a temporary line till such agreement should be made, prove, incontestably, that Congress did not suppose the line to be established. Had the commissioners from Virginia assented to the equitable proposition made by those of the United States, the plaintiff's patent, founded on a survey made before the time, would be admitted to be unassailable; and yet the land was, in fact, within the territory actually reserved at the time the survey was made, and no law had then passed substituting any other line for the true one. The act of 1812 does not look back and annul existing titles; it is entirely prospective, and leaves prior titles as it found them. If, then, there is no other act of Congress which impairs this patent, it must be considered as valid.

The defendant contends, that there are previous acts by which the land between Ludlow's and Roberts's line was withdrawn from the territory liable to be surveyed for military warrants. The act of 1804, already mentioned, enacts, "that all officers and soldiers, or their legal representatives, entitled to bounty lands within the above mentioned reserved territory, shall complete their locations within three years after the passing of this act, and that the locations made within that part of the territory to which the Indian title has been extinguished, shall be surveyed, and the surveys returned to the Department of War within five years." The third section provides, that such parts of the territory as shall not have been located, and such part as shall not have been surveyed, and the surveys returned to the Department of War within the times prescribed by the act, shall be released from any claim for such bounty lands, and shall be disposed of in conformity with the laws passed for that purpose.

In March, 1807, the act passed giving three years further time for making locations, and five years further time for making and returning surveys: "provided, that no location, as aforesaid, within the abovementioned tract shall, after the passing of this act, be made on tracts of land for which patents had previously been issued, or which had been previously surveyed; and every patent which may, nevertheless, be obtained for land located contrary to the provisions of this section, shall be considered as null and void."

The time for making locations and surveys was further extended by subsequent acts, containing the same proviso.

The defendant contends that this proviso comprehends the land previously surveyed by the Surveyor General of the United States. We do not concur in this opinion for several reasons: The words refer to the whole military reserve, and seem intended to apply to surveys which might be made throughout that entire tract of country, not to the land surveyed in townships, sections, and parts of sections, by the United States, west of Ludlow's line. There were such surveys. The records of this court show that many controversies were produced in that country by the mode of locating and surveying military lands, which had been adopted under the laws of Virginia, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that Congress, when giving further time to make locations and surveys, might be disposed to cure the defects already acquired, and to prevent second locations on lands already located. The words of the proviso, too, are adapted to the saving of private rights.

It has great influence, we think, on this question, that, if the proviso be construed to comprehend the surveys made by the United States, it would amount to the establishment of Ludlow's line; for those surveys were made to that line, and would indirectly curtail the Virginia military reserve. This was obviously not at that time the intention of Government. Subsequent to this period, in 1812, commissioners were appointed for the purpose of agreeing with those of Virginia on the true line, and marking it, who were directed "to note the intersection, if any, of said line, with any surveys heretofore authorized by the United States." Congress was induced to give further time for making these locations and surveys by a just sense of the real difficulties attending the completion of titles in that country, and an equitable regard for the rights of the claimants. There can be no reason to suppose that it was intended to withdraw one part of the country from these claims more than another.

If this intention had existed it would have been manifested in more intelligible and direct words. Instead of the ambiguous language used in this proviso, all locations would have been restrained beyond Ludlow's line. Congress would have avowed its intention in plain terms, and would have effected its object by direct means. But the course of legislation which has been pursued on this subject; the scrupulous regard which the Government has shown to the conditions on which the cession of Virginia was made; the liberal and fair offers of the United States for adjusting the real extent of the reserve, forbid a construction which would indirectly abridge that reserve.

But, were it to be admitted that the proviso does comprehend the lands between the lines surveyed by Roberts and Ludlow, that admission could not affect this cause. The words of the proviso are, "that no location shall be made on tracts of land for which patents had been previously issued, or which had been previously surveyed." The prohibition respects future locations, not future surveys; and the case does not show when this location was made. It might have been made previous to the passage of the act of 1807, and the presumption of law is that it was made before that time, since the patent is presumed to be valid until the contrary is shown.

On both points the court is of opinion that the law upon this case is for the plaintiff, and that the judgment of the circuit court, in favor of the defendant, must be reversed, and judgment entered for the plaintiff.

SALE OF SALT SPRINGS IN OHIO.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, MAY 14, 1824.

Mr. VINTON made the following report:

The Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the resolution and the memorial of the Legislature of the State of Ohio to Congress, of the 26th of February last, have had so much thereof under consideration as relates to the prayer of the Legislature of said State, that they may be authorized and empowered to sell and dispose of the six miles reservation, commonly called the Scioto salt springs, the salt springs near the Muskingum river, and in the military tract, with the sections of land which include the same, and apply the proceeds thereof to such literary purposes as the said Legislature may hereafter direct: and beg leave to report, in part:

That, by the act of Congress for the admission of the State of Ohio into the Union, approved April 30, 1802, the abovementioned tracts of land were granted to the said State, for the use of the people thereof, to be used under such terms, and conditions, and regulations, as the Legislature of said State should direct: provided, the said Legislature should never sell nor lease the same for a longer period than ten years. At the time of the admission of Ohio into the Union, the abundant resources of that section of the country in salt were comparatively unknown, and the abovementioned tracts of land were supposed to possess a permanent and peculiar value, in consequence of the saline water that had been discovered upon them. It was believed the manufacture of salt at those places would yield a lasting and valuable annuity to the State, to secure the certain enjoyment of which is presumed to have been the reason for this limitation upon the power of the State over the title of those lands. Since that period salt water has been found, and manufactories of salt have arisen in various parts of the Western country in situations possessing decidedly superior advantages of location and value of water, so that the anticipated benefits have been almost wholly disappointed. The proceeds of the rent of those lands are payable into, and form a part of the revenue of the State.

The manufacture of salt on the Muskingum river and in the military tract, has been entirely abandoned; and, as no one in a country so abundant in land can find an inducement in taking up a leasehold estate for so short a term as ten years, those tracts not only yield no revenue to the State, but remain, and ever must remain, uncultivated, or, if cultivated at all, in the worst possible manner. It is believed the State realizes a rent of about one hundred dollars a year from the Scioto reservations, which has been generally expended in making unsuccessful and discouraging experiments to improve the quantity and quality of the water. Every fact in relation to these lands, which are of considerable value, justifies a belief that, so long as the present limitation upon the title to them shall exist, the object for which the limitation was imposed will be defeated. The lands themselves, if sold, would, in all probability, contain a much greater and better population than can inhabit them under the present restriction. Your committee are, therefore, satisfied of the policy of permitting those lands to be sold, and entirely approve of the appropriation of the proceeds proposed by the Legislature of Ohio, and beg leave to report a bill to carry the same into effect.

LAND CLAIMS IN FLORIDA.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, MAY 20, 1824.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, May 20, 1824.

The Secretary of the Treasury, by direction of the President, has the honor to transmit, herewith, for the information of the Committee on Public Lands, copies of the following documents, viz:

- No. 1. Report from Messrs. Floyd and Blair, commissioners for ascertaining land claims in East Florida, including the evidence taken in the case of John H. McIntosh, taken 21st February, 1824.
2. Decrees of the commissioners.
 3. A joint letter from the above commissioners, dated 29th December, 1823.
 4. A letter from W. W. Blair, dated 24th September, 1823, enclosing a memorial from the inhabitants of St. Augustine.
 5. A letter from the Hon. R. M. Johnson, enclosing one from W. W. Blair, dated 21st February, 1824.
 6. A letter from W. W. Blair, dated 7th August, 1823.
 7. A letter from Alexander Hamilton, dated 14th July, 1823.
 8. A letter from Alexander Hamilton, dated 12th January, 1824.
 9. A letter from Alexander Hamilton, dated 22d January, 1824.
 10. A letter from Alexander Hamilton, dated 23d January, 1824.
 11. A letter from Alexander Hamilton, dated 31st March, 1824.
 12. A letter from Alexander Hamilton, dated 1st May, 1824.

The minutes of the Board of Commissioners, and the evidence taken in the other cases acted upon by them, are too voluminous to be transcribed in season to be submitted to the committee during the present session of Congress.

Hon. CHRISTOPHER RANKIN, Chairman Committee on Public Lands.

No. 1.

Report of Davis Floyd and W. W. Blair, Land Commissioners in East Florida.

JOHN H. MCINTOSH AND OTHERS, vs. UNITED STATES.

In conformity to the provision of an act of Congress, passed on the 8th of May, 1822, constituting a Board of Land Commissioners for Florida, and requiring of them, in certain cases, to report the testimony, with their opinions, to the Secretary of the Treasury, to be laid before Congress for their determination," we respectfully submit the following report:

"The laws and ordinances, heretofore existing, of the Governments making the grants, respectively," have, of necessity, been the first subject of inquiry with the commissioners, not only because they were pointed out by the statute as our peculiar guides, but because it was obviously impossible to do justice with exactitude without them; but we are not able to say that we have arrived at all the information that might have been possessed on that subject, owing to the careless manner in which the Spanish records have ever been kept; to the removal of all the British records upon the retrocession of the territory, and the subordination of the authorities here, subsequently to those at Havana. The rules by which we have been governed in our adjudications are drawn—

- 1st. From the code of Spanish law, entitled the Laws of the Indies.
- 2d. From royal orders made with particular reference to this Territory.
- 3d. The decrees and regulations appointed and published by the local Governors.
- 4th. The customs and usages which prevailed in the various offices in the Territorial Government.

As the general or local enactments and customs of the British Government are not drawn in question, by any of the claims now submitted and reported for the revision of Congress, that part of the subject will more properly constitute the matter of another report, when claims of that description shall be regularly before us.

The authority first referred to contains the following general provision, which, as far as we are able to understand it, applies to all the ultra-marine provinces of the Spanish empire:

*Of the sale, adjustment, and distribution of lands, lots, and waters.

In order that our subjects be encouraged to the discovery and settlement of the Indies, and may live with the comfort and convenience which we desire, it is our will that houses, lots, lands, knights' shares, and peasants' shares of land, may and shall be distributed to all those who go to settle new lands in townships and villages, which, by the Governor of the new settlement, shall be assigned them, making a distinction between gentlemen and peasants, and those of an inferior degree and merit, and increase and give them of better quality, according to the importance of their services; and that they may devote themselves to the culture and improvement of them, and, having made on them their residence and place of labor, and resided in those townships four years, we grant them the right, from thenceforward, to sell and dispose of them, at their will, freely, as of a thing their property.

Continuation of the same ordinance.

And, as it may happen that, in distributing the lands, there may be a doubt as to the measurements, we declare that a peasant's portion is a lot of fifty feet in breadth, and one hundred in depth, arable land, capable of producing one hundred fanegas of wheat and ten of Indian corn; as much land as two oxen can plough in a day, for the raising of esculent roots, and eight of woodland; pasture land for eight breeding sows, twenty cows, and five mares, one hundred sheep, and twenty goats. A gentleman's portion (caballeria) is a lot of one hundred feet in breadth and two hundred in depth, and all the remainder five times the peasant's portion, (peonia,) to wit: arable land capable of producing five hundred fanegas of wheat or barley, fifty of Indian corn, as much land as ten oxen can plough in a day for raising esculent roots, and eight of woodland; pasture land for fifty breeding sows, one hundred cows, twenty mares, five hundred sheep, and one hundred goats; and we direct that the distribution be made in such form as that all may participate in the good or middling, and of that kind of which there may not be any in that part which shall be pointed out to each.

This seems to have been the rule for the distribution of the public lands during the first administration of the Spanish Government within these provinces, and after the retrocession, up to the date of the 2d September, in the year 1790, when Governor Quesada published the following regulations, referring, for his authority, to a royal order, investing him with plenary powers, but which we have not been able to procure.

Internal regulations of police.

Don Juan Nepomuceno de Quesada, Colonel in the royal armies, Governor of this city of St. Augustine and province of East Florida, for His Majesty, &c.

Whereas I am commanded, by royal orders, agreeable to the public wants, to apply the most seasonable and quick remedies thereto: for the purpose, therefore, of accomplishing this in the edict commonly called "Internal regulations of police," I have taken the most conducive steps, notwithstanding much to my sorrow. There has been so much to amend and establish, that a voluminous code would scarcely be sufficient for me to comprise all, in proportion to the ardent desire which animates me for the prosperity of the province and the service of the sovereign; wherefore, merely for the present, and reserving, hereafter, when permitted by my other duties, the right of attending particularly to this important subject, I, therefore, make known and order the following:

1. I grant to all the inhabitants, permanently settled, and subjects of His Majesty, in his royal name, for their use, the quantity of land they may require, in proportion to their force, in any part of this desert province, without any exception. To this end, those desirous of obtaining the same will present themselves to me within twenty days, stating their circumstances by memorial; what lands they have obtained to the present period, and what quantity, and in what place they are desirous of locating them now, under the precise condition that it will be without injury to a third person. I will attend to their solicitude according to the examination I may make thereof; and, although the laws of the Indies authorize me to make an absolute distribution of the same, and being in the case of the first of title 12th, book 4th, I abstain therefrom from powerful motives. But, for the greater security of those interested, I will forward my ideas and representations on the subject to the King, persuaded that, in consequence thereof, those obtaining grants from me now will be confirmed in the possession of the same.
2. Relates to free blacks.
3. Relates to the raising of horned cattle near the city.
4. The King, our master, by a royal order of the 5th April, 1786, granted to all the foreigners, inhabitants of this province, during the British dominion, the liberty of remaining protected in the possession of their lands and property, under the following indispensable conditions: that they take the oath of allegiance; that they will not add to said lands, or transfer the same from one to another. Therefore, all those who are discontented, or will not conform with said conditions within thirty days, must remove from the above-mentioned province, presenting themselves in person, or by letter, manifesting their resolution on the subject, that I may proceed thereon as may be most expedient.
5. Relates to the rules to be observed by new subjects, as regards foreign commerce.
6. Declaring the port of St. Augustine open by the laws of the Indies.
7. Relates to bakers and the assize of bread.
8. Relates to the regulation of the market, the quality and weight of beef, &c.
9. Relates to the cleansing of chimneys.
10. Relates to the appointment of police officers for the city and country.
11. Not permitting persons to come into the province without knowing their object for so doing.
12. Prohibiting all women, under the age of forty, (whether widows or single,) from living otherwise than under the immediate protection of their parents or relations.
13. Prohibiting women from leading a dissolute life.
14. Recommending to the inhabitants to present their ideas as to the best method of repairing the roads, and making easy the water conveyance in the province.
15. Granting to persons vacant lands under article the first, that they may build houses at the distance of six miles apart for the accommodation of passengers going or returning from St. Johns.

* Book 4th, law 1st. chap. 12th, of the collection of the Laws of the Indies.

16. Appointing a patrol of six men, and a commander, for the purpose of going through the country to prevent disorders, robberies, &c.
17. Recommending the clearing of the woods through which the public roads pass.
18. Relative to the license on taverns.
19. Relates to the cleanliness of the streets.
20. Ordering that all filth and dirt collected in the yards and houses to be thrown in the marsh at the back of the town.
21. Ordering all owners of stone or wooden houses (should said houses be in a ruinous state) to have them repaired within six months.
22. Not permitting persons to build houses without the knowledge of the commandant of engineers.
23. Forbidding masters or supercargoes of vessels from selling their cargoes by wholesale, without first exposing the same for sale by retail, eight days previously, to the public.
24. Prohibiting that hogs and dogs should be allowed at large, except hounds and pointers.
25. Prohibiting persons from galloping horses through the streets.
26. Prohibiting horses from going at large.
27. Prohibiting persons from walking the streets after 9 o'clock at night, without a lantern with a light therein.
28. Prohibiting, at the same time, the use of fire-arms, sword canes, knives, dirks, &c.
29. Persons, with lawful arms, are not permitted to walk at night in groups of more than two persons; and, in no wise, with noisy and suspicious women.
30. Not permitting the sale of gunpowder by shop-keepers or tavern-keepers, to the boys, or other persons, except those known.
31. Prohibiting artificial fire-works, rockets, &c.
32. Prohibiting silversmiths, storekeepers, or other persons from purchasing any article whatsoever from soldiers, slaves, house servants, or children.
33. Relative to billiard tables, and prohibiting games of hazard.
34. Prohibiting gaming in private houses.
35. Expressly forbidding all games in hotels, taverns, wine stores, &c.
36. The owners of billiard tables expressly forbid from admitting tradesmen, laborers, domestics, and boys on working days.

37. As relates to the duties of the Catholics in the observance of their religion.

A certificate of Domingo Rodriguez de Leon, Government notary, as to the publication of the foregoing regulations; as also a note of the said notary, attesting that a copy of the said regulations was posted in the usual place pointed out.

ST. AUGUSTINE, September 2, 1790.

A true and correct translation from a document in the Spanish language.

F. J. FATIO, S. B. L. C.

Although the authority vested in the Governor of this province by the Code of the Indies, is specifically disclaimed in practice by Governor Quesada, it is apparent that it did not cease to be the law: 1st, because the Governor was incompetent to repeal a law of the empire; and, 2d, because he professes only to abstain from its execution for the present, and until he could know the royal will in relation to that subject.

The precise extent to which these regulations interfered with the provisions of the general law, and the privileges of the emigrant or inhabitant, cannot be clearly understood, from its equivocal phraseology; nor is it eminently important to know if it be proper to construe the following letter and extract from a royal order in connexion with it, as, in that case, it will be seen that the following powers reserved to himself by the decree of the Governor are over-ruled, or regulated and restrained, by the order of the captain general of the Havana. The Governor seems to have written to the captain general of Cuba touching various subjects in connexion with the situation and police of this territory, but among them no notice is taken of the anterior act of distribution. An appeal seems to have been made in favor of admitting Irish emigrants upon a peculiarly favorable footing, and some allusion was evidently made to the custom which was supposed to have existed at some anterior period, of paying from the royal treasury for the transportation and temporary maintenance of emigrants. These subjects are put to rest, and a rule prescribed to the Governor for the disposition, in future, of the public domain to voluntary emigrants.

HAVANA, October 29, 1790.

I acknowledge the information given me by your lordship, under date of the 16th of September last, relative to Don Thomas Wooster, whose conduct and transactions gave cause for his leaving that province by order of the Government, of which I will inform His Majesty.

Relative to the introduction of families from Ireland, which your lordship proposes, I cannot accede on other terms than strictly adhering to what the King has advised me on the subject, and herewith transcribe the same for your lordship's government.

"No settlers shall be admitted in Louisiana or Florida, should they pretend to have their transportation to those provinces, and maintenance there for some time, paid by the royal treasury. That those foreigners alone will be received who may, of their own free will, present themselves, and swear allegiance to His Majesty, to whom there shall be granted and measured lands gratis, in proportion to the working hands each family may have. That they shall not be molested in matters of religion, although there shall be no other public worship than the Catholic. That there shall be given them no other assistance or aid than lands, protection, and good treatment; each family having the right of taking with them their property, of any description, all free from duties; but in case of exporting the same to any other place, they shall pay the six per cent. as established, and obliging them only to take up arms in defence of the province, should an enemy invade the same."

To which rules your lordship must adhere in any solicitude that may occur under similar circumstances. God preserve your lordship many years.

It is evident that the rule prescribed by the above order relates exclusively to emigrants, leaving the law as it stood before in relation to those who had already, or should have thereafter, the character of inhabitants or subjects.

It is worthy of notice, also, that, although it provides for giving lands in proportion to the laboring hands introduced, it has entirely failed to designate the quantity each laborer should receive, either leaving that part of the subject to the government of existing custom, or to the sound discretion of the Governor.

The provisions of this ordinance may be considered as having defined and rendered certain the bounty upon emigration, which seems to have been uncertain, or but little understood before.

The following order, issued by Governor Quesada, to carry into effect the preceding, must be construed to relate to emigrants in general, although it is evident that it was made to apply to those cases of residents who had not received their titles in consequence of the prevailing uncertainty as to the quantity they should receive. It assigns 100 acres to each father of a family, and 50 to each other person, white or black, composing it; and an additional quantity of 1,000 acres when it was probable it would be cultivated.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, November 20, 1790.

Don Juan Nepomuceno de Quesada, colonel of the royal armies, and commander-in-chief of this city and province of St. Augustine, Florida, by His Majesty:

Whereas, by the last packet which arrived at this port, his excellency, the captain general of this province, encloses me, under date of the 29th of November, of the last year, the following royal order:

In virtue of which I order the same to be published for the present, that it may be made known to all, being understood that only those shall be admitted as resident settlers, who, besides their good conduct and honorable proceedings, are good farmers and mechanics, who are beneficial to the settlement and advancement of the province, for which purpose there shall be granted them the gifts set forth in the inserted royal order.

It is also made known to those who have obtained lands, in the mean time, from this Government, that they present themselves to the same within the space of two months, for the purpose of asking and obtaining the requisite title of property from the office of the Government Secretary, from whence the necessary orders will be issued after having registered the same in the notary's office.

And, that it may serve as an incitement to all, I order, according to the powers I am vested with, and make known for the present, that the grants be of 100 acres to each father of a family, and 50 to each white person, or of color, of which said family is composed; also, that if persons are desirous of obtaining a greater quantity of land, and there being a probability of their cultivating the same, they shall obtain an additional number of 1,000 acres; it being understood that, in all the concessions, the utility and not the quality of the lands shall be attended to, so that each person shall acquire a proportionate quantity of each; as, also, that the width of each of said concessions must be only the third part the length, and said length must not extend on the banks of the rivers and creeks, but towards the interior of the lands, resting always with the Government the care of rewarding or punishing with additional expenses or absolute privation, as time shall discover, the merit, application, and advantages of the agriculturists, or the contrary vices.

A copy from the original, I attest:

DOMINGO RODRIGUEZ DE LEON,
Notary of Government.

In conformity to the spirit of the above orders, the Governor appointed one Pedro Marrott to the office of the Surveyor General, in October, 1791; and, along with his commission, gave him sundry instructions as to the manner in which he should proceed in distributing to emigrants their respective portions of public territory, which are as follows:

[TRANSLATION.]

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, October 24, 1791.

Instructions which are given to the Captain Don Pedro Marrott, of the third battalion of the infantry regiment of Cuba, which garrison the city of St. Augustine, Florida, appointed by the Government, with the assent of the council of ministers, to proceed to the survey and laying off of the lands, which is to be executed by order of His Majesty, for the benefit of the new settlers.

1st. He will take with him the public surveyor, and will take care that the measurements be made, adhering to the title, and to that ordered in the edict of which I transmit a copy, in the document No. 1, which will more fully instruct on the subject.

2d. He will likewise take with him a canoe, with two tents, two tarpaulings, four sailors, and two laborers, who will assist in the necessary work, with a pay of $4 the first, and $2 the latter; and in case of the sickness or abandonment, they can be replaced, informing the Government thereof, that those may be noted in a book formed for the purpose, of what may be owing them.

3d. There will also be formed another large book, in which will be placed the distribution which may be made of the lands, with the name of the whites of each family, and the number of slaves, with a distinction of the ages and sexes of each white or colored person.

4th. He will not consent that they pass off as fit persons to obtain lands, those who belong to other places, and, in general, to those who have not been admitted by the Government under the oath of allegiance, and therefore declared to be proper.

For the purpose of obviating frauds in this part, he will receive the oath from those wishing lands, according to the number of persons of their families, and they shall be informed that if, for the future, any fraud is committed, they will remain liable to any deduction of lands the Government may think proper to make.

5th. The married sons of families can obtain the part belonging to them, acting conjointly with their fathers, but they shall be notified that it must be forever; and that in the book will be written the number of acres appertaining to each.

6th. He will inform, particularly all those obtaining these gifts, that certain conditions must be performed before they can consider themselves owners in absolute right, and lawful for them to dispose of what is now granted them.

7th. He must send them to the Government Secretary's office for their respective titles, where they will be informed of what is necessary.

8th. Those who obtain lands cannot change or alienate them without informing the Government, that it may take just measures to prevent confusion.

9th. When lands are to be surveyed, bounding those of individuals having them of their own, they will be cited to appear for the purpose of exhibiting their titles, permitting them to remain in possession, running the lines without injuring them, and the Government reserving the right of examining, at a proper time, the validity of their titles, and defects of their petitions.

10th. On the sides of rivers, creeks, and roads, there must not be left small vacant spaces between the lands which are distributed, and, for the purpose of avoiding it, cutting off a part of the depth, and adding the same quantity to the front, and by this method the line of division of one tract may serve for that of the adjoining. The front of all tracts must be, if possible, not more than a third part.

The 11th and 12th articles are obliterated, and treat of the buildings appertaining to the royal domain.

NOTE.—It will be made known to all those who are to obtain lands, that 100 English varas are equal to 3 Spanish caballerias, on which footing the measurement will be made.

The foregoing is a true and correct translation from a document in the Spanish language.

F. J. FATIO, S. B. L. C.

How far these regulations were observed in practice by Captain Marrott and his successors in office, will appear by the testimony of witnesses, whose examination makes a part of this report.

The next governmental act, in order of time, relates to the houses and lots in the city of St. Augustine.

Although time was allowed by the treaty of cession between Great Britain and Spain for the subjects of the former to sell their property in this province and remove, it was found impossible, in a great many cases, to get purchasers at any thing like fair prices; and the owners preferred, in all such cases, abandoning their property, which, immediately, by the laws of Spain, re-attached to the royal domain.

The following order from the King will show the manner in which that property was disposed of, and has become the property of individuals:

[TRANSLATION.]

The King to the Governor and Commander-in-chief of the province of St. Augustine, Florida.

In a letter dated November 20, 1791, your predecessor gave an account, with accompanying documents, of the steps he had taken; and, according to which, the sale of the lots and houses relinquished by the English, and becoming part of my royal domain, agreeably to the third article of the preliminary treaty of peace concluded with that Power; as also in regard to what had taken place relative to the estates owned by the widow Donna Isabel Perpall, purchased from the English in a suspicious manner; but she not only being a widow, but poor, a Spaniard, and very possibly having acted with the most honest intentions, which makes her deserving of my royal clemency; and a number of other inhabitants being nearly in the same case, suspected of having purchased houses, some after the time allowed the English to sell, and others without his consent and intervention; and although it was necessary to make a minute examination, he neglected doing the same, thinking it would be for the good of the service; and observing that said buildings were falling to decay, he ordered their sale at public auction, a valuation being first made by skilful persons, with the proviso that those taking said property should give security for the payment of the materials and lots when he thought it convenient, and repair said houses in the course of one year, paying, in the meantime, five per cent. annually, which was accordingly so done. After the purchasers had consented to pay him the principal amount, and having verified the sale, the total thereof amounted to 157,974 reals and a quartilla,* including the value of the houses said to appertain to the above named Donna Isabel Perpall, to Mateo Martinez Fernandez, and to Manuel de Herrera, which were declared as belonging to my royal domain on account of their sale being false. And, lastly, in your letter of the 20th October, 1798, you stated, with proof, that some refused the payment of five per cent., founding their objections on the grants of lands made to the foreigners establishing themselves in that colony, and that the houses and lots in that city were not comprehended in those grants; and seeing the continued increase therein of taverns and shops, without any improvement whatever in agriculture and other staples of commerce, you gave an account, for my royal resolution, not only of this incident, but likewise of the other, pending from the time of your predecessor.

Having observed, in my council of the Indies, the opinion of my fiscal, with the information on that subject given by the accountant general's office, and consulting on the same the 17th April last, I have resolved to remit, in favor of those indebted to the finance, the payments of the capital and interests on the houses and lots they acquired, and approve the sale and other steps as taken by your said predecessor, giving to each a title of possession and property, that they may be secured hereafter in the possession of said estate, it being thus my will; and let an account of the present be taken in said accountant general's office.

Done at Aranjuez, the 17th June, 1801.

By order of the King, our master:

I, THE KING.
ANTONIO PORCELL.

The following decree of Governor White seems to have had no other object than to carry into execution the will of his King, in relation to the debts due him for the sale of property in this city.

Having seen ———; let what His Majesty orders in his royal letter patent of the 17th June last be kept, complied with, and executed, posting the same by handbills in the customary places, and inserting particularly as relates to the royal donation and grant of the houses and lots, which, by appertaining to his royal domain, were sold here in the year 1791, with the yearly interest of five per cent., on the value of the property, to which the purchasers bound themselves. Let the royal approbation of said sale be likewise published; and, in consequence of the same royal gift, let the mortgages given them by the purchasers on said property be cancelled, and those which progressively have been made over to other proprietors, to whom said property was transferred by the original owners; at the same time, for the security of these last, let the conveyances of the royal donation be drawn out, to which, for the security and possession of the legitimate possessors, let the royal favor be also extended. And, in respect to the doubts which took place as to the legitimate ownership of the property in the possession of Donna Isabel Perpall, Mateo Martin Hernandez, and Don Manuel de Herrera, in the proceedings relative to the sale of said lots and houses, which were, notwithstanding, sold as the others, as belonging to the royal domain, inform them in particular, or their legitimate agents, of the royal patent, that it is also extended to the aforesaid property, that they may make use of all their rights; upon which, and in all incidents relative thereto, and which, in this general provision, cannot be taken into consideration, other provision will progressively be made, and as the cases and circumstances may require; of all which the fiscal representation shall be informed with respect to what concerns his duty.

The following order of Governor White brings us back to the subject of the public lands, and the terms on which they should thereafter be granted to individuals.

[TRANSLATION.]

ST. AUGUSTINE, October 12, 1803.

DON ENRIQUE WHITE, colonel of the royal armies, civil and military Governor and chief of the royal finance of the city and province of St. Augustine, Florida, by His Majesty, &c.

Whereas, it being necessary to vary and modify, in part, the rules and conditions which the Government had established for the concessions and divisions of lands to the new settlers, in consideration of the actual circumstances, on account of the great number of persons coming to enjoy the favors and privileges which His Majesty has granted to those who may come to establish themselves in this province, many abuses have arisen, on the part of those grantees, under the system and object which influenced the Government at that time in the prosecution of that plan; those, as well as other inconveniences, which experience has demonstrated, have plainly shown that they may tend to the hindrance of the advancement and prosperity of the province; for which reason, and to remedy the same, I have thought proper and ordered that the rules prescribed in the following articles be observed for the future:

1. That, whenever the new settlers shall take the customary oath of allegiance, they shall declare exactly the number of their children, their sexes and ages, and, in consideration of which, lands will be allotted them, excepting those under eight years of age.
2. That, to each head of a family there shall be granted fifty acres of land, and an equal quantity to a single person, widow or widower, and to the children or slaves of sixteen years, twenty-five acres each; but, from the age of eight to sixteen years, they shall be granted fifteen acres each.
3. That, to those employed in the town, of whatever class they may be, if lands be granted them, or to their slaves, it shall be with the express condition of their cultivating the same within one month of the concession; being understood that, if they fail in so doing, it shall be granted to whomsoever shall denounce and lawfully prove the same.
4. That all concessions, in which no time is specified, shall become extinct, and shall be considered as null, if the persons to whom they are made do not take possession and cultivate the same within the space of six months.
5. That, to none of those who cede or convey their lands to others, under pretence of selling the improvements, there shall be granted them more lands in future; nor shall these transfers or conveyances be admitted, if done without the consent of Government.
6. Notwithstanding what is stated in the foregoing article, if it should suit any settler to change his situation, if he desires it, granting him lands in the place he may choose, but, on consideration of giving up the improvements of the land he left, for the benefit of the royal revenue; which will prevent the abuse of the transfers and sales, which are prohibited under any pretext whatever, until the proper time pointed out in the former plan or rules.

7. That, on the lands not fit for cultivation, but have timber, or that are only proper for pastures, for which purpose alone they have been solicited, the owner cannot prevent any person from cutting and appropriating the timber to his own use, who may present themselves with an order from the Government; but it is understood that it shall not injure the owner thereof.

8. That all those who shall, for the future, ask for lands, must indicate a fixed spot from whence the measurement must commence; which will be the cause of avoiding the mistakes and disputes which by that fault have been experienced, particularly a short time back.

9. That all persons who shall have abandoned or discontinued the cultivation, nor actually cultivates the lands, which at any period shall have been measured to them by the Surveyor General, although they have obtained the corresponding title of property from the notary's office, they shall lose their right to the same, and shall be given to any person not having lands for cultivation, who shall legally prove that said lands have been uncultivated at least two years following.

And for the punctual observance of what has been set forth, and that no person may plead ignorance, I order that copies be posted up in the public places of this city, as is customary, and that one be transmitted to the brevet captain of militia, commandant of the same, and commissioned judge of the rivers St. John's and St. Mary's, Don John McQueen, that he may cause it to be made known to those inhabitants.

ENRIQUE WHITE.

By order of His Excellency,

JOSE DE ZUBIZARETTA, Notary of Government.

It is worthy of remark, that this order refers to the abuses under the former regulations, and undertakes to correct them. It ought, therefore, to be confined to the same subject-matter; and as we have already construed those to relate exclusively to emigrants, this must receive the same interpretation. The use of the terms "new settlers," in the preamble and first section, the only parts descriptive of the persons to whom it should be applied, confirms the interpretation. The quantity of land to be given to each head of a family is reduced from one hundred to fifty; but the same quantity is allowed to each single person, widow, or widower; to each child or slave, of sixteen years, twenty-five acres; and to those over eight years, fifteen acres. The third, fourth, and ninth sections prescribe the manner in which lands shall be forfeited to the Crown for non-performance of conditions. The third and ninth require that legal proof shall be made, in the one case, of non-possession, within one month; in the other of abandonment for two years; and, in both, the estate is given to the prosecutor. The fourth declares that the grant or concession shall be null if the grantee fails to take possession within the space of six months, without requiring a legal investigation. Under the two former sections, it seems to the board that nothing could work a forfeiture but a decree of a competent tribunal, and a subsequent grant or concession to another individual; under the latter, it seems to be uncertain whether a subsequent grant alone would not be sufficient.

The following letter to the Captain General of the Island of Cuba, purports to have enclosed the preceding order of Governor White, and communicates the reasons upon which it was founded, for his intelligence and approbation.

It is worthy of being noticed, that the regulations are said to be for "the purpose of avoiding the abuses which have been experienced in the granting of lands to the new settlers." The former rule is recognised as a bounty upon emigration, and justified, at the time when "there were few strangers who came in solicitude of lands;" but subsequently changed because there were "many who came."

[TRANSLATION.]

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, October 15, 1803.

For the purpose of avoiding the abuses which have been experienced in the granting of lands to new settlers, without certain restrictions that will oblige them to cultivate the same, I have thought it convenient to establish the rules in the accompanying document, which I forward your lordship for your intelligence and approval.

My predecessor has assigned one hundred acres of land to the fathers of families, and fifty to each child and slave, whether full grown or small; a quantity really excessive, and could only have taken place at that time, in which there were a few strangers who came in solicitude of lands; but at present there are many who come, and, consequently, there would result the greatest injury in the improvement of the province, unless said number of acres be diminished, on account of its being more than one individual can cultivate in a year, even divided in three parts, for the purpose of giving rest to the lands; which circumstance I have also had present, for the deduction which has been made. God preserve your lordship many years.

THE MARQUIS DE SOMERUELOS.

To the CAPTAIN GENERAL.

I certify the foregoing to be a true and correct translation from a document in the Spanish language.

F. J. FATIO, S. B. L. C.

The next order is dated April, 1805, and seems to have had no other object than to alter the provision of the 9th section of the previous, so as to appropriate the value of all forfeited buildings, in favor of the royal finance, instead of to the prosecutor.

It can be taken to relate only to such cases as fall within the meaning of the section referred to, and which it purports to alter. These, we have already seen, are cases of emigrants who have abandoned their possessions for two years.

[TRANSLATION.]

Don ENRIQUE WHITE, Colonel of the royal armies, Civil and Military Governor of this city and province, and Superior Chief of the Royal Finance.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, April 2, 1805.

Whereas, on the 12th of October, 1803, I thought proper to have published an edict in which were prescribed various rules to remedy the many abuses and disorders, as committed on the part of those obtaining lands; and ordering, in the ninth article of said edict, that all persons having abandoned, or that may not have continued cultivating, or do not actually cultivate the lands which may have been measured for them at any time by a surveyor, although the necessary title of possession should have been given them from the notary's office, they would lose their right to them, and would be given to any person who, not having lands to cultivate, would lawfully prove, in a summary manner, that the said lands were without cultivation for at least two years in succession; it is now made known that the improvements, or buildings, remaining on the lands thus abandoned or uncultivated, in the specified time, their value shall be appropriated in favor of the royal finance, as a deposit, until a new determination; and thus it may be made known to all persons, I order copies to be posted in the customary places, and that another be transmitted to the brevet captain of militia, and commandant of the same, and commissioned judge of the rivers St. John's and St. Mary's, Don Juan McQueen, that he may make the same known to the inhabitants thereof.

I certify that the foregoing is a true and correct translation from a document in the Spanish language.

Although Governor White was continued in office until the year 1811, we have not been able to obtain any subsequent official publication of his, relating to the disposal of public lands.

[See White's edict of May 31, 1805, page 749.]

Governor Estrada, who succeeded White in the administration, immediately upon his coming into office, issued the following commission, and, shortly afterwards, the following instructions to George J. F. Clarke, as Surveyor General of this province. The duties and responsibilities of that office can only be made to appear by parol evidence, as it was neither created nor regulated by any law of the empire, but depended alone upon the will of the acting Governor. The following commission demonstrates the existence of such an office, and the following instructions explain the manner in which the Governor was desirous its duties should be performed at that time; but parol evidence alone can explain what alterations were compelled by necessity, or permitted by the unwritten authorization of the Governor himself. These will appear by the annexed examinations.

Whereas, the appointment of public surveyor being vacant, on account of the absence of Don John Porcel, who exercised the same, and, wherefore, being in want of one for the measurement by the Government in the laying off of lands gratis to the new settlers, and those of each private individual, to fill up said appointment without prejudice to the person whom his Majesty may think proper to appoint; and there not being at the present period any person to practise the same, and having seen the memorial made by Don George Clarke, soliciting it, and having, at the same time, the qualities of capacity and aptness, according to the information given by the Commandant of Engineers, to whose examination he was made liable, as will be seen by the proceedings on that subject; using, therefore, the powers appertaining to me, I have thought proper to appoint the said Don George Clarke public surveyor in this province and its jurisdiction, receiving the emoluments per tariff, which, for that purpose, will be made by the said Commandant of Engineers, with the advice of the said Government, and under the terms and instructions they may think proper to make in the present circumstances, and other occurrences which may hereafter take place. And, that the above-mentioned Don George Clarke may be appointed and known as said public surveyor, and, that all rights appertaining to him may be observed, I have ordered that, he previously taking the accustomed oath, there be given him the present commission, signed by me, and countersigned by the undersigned secretary, in St. Augustine, &c. [TRANSLATION.]

ST. AUGUSTINE OF FLORIDA, June 10, 1811.

Instructions to be observed by the acting surveyor, Don George Clarke, in partitioning land, and the fees to be paid by those who call on him for this purpose.

ART. 1. The possessors of lands in this province shall be considered under three classes: First, as proprietors; second, as grantees; and third, as grantees and proprietors. The first are those who hold lands by titles not obtained by grants from the Government; the second are they who, on compliance of certain conditions of time and labor, will get titles of property; and the third are those who have acquired those titles.

ART. 2. The surveyor having been called on by any person to measure and bound lands to him, he will require his title of property or grant from Government, that, on sight thereof, he may proceed to its measurement and demarcation.

ART. 3. For this purpose he will cite to appear those persons having lands adjoining, that, in the presence of them and their titles, all matters may be regulated in justice. This has reference to possessors of the second and third classes, and those who purchased under the following article:

ART. 4. On the side of rivers, creeks, and roads, spaces of little "consideration are not to be left vacant between lands distributed. In order to avoid this, he will endeavor to reduce the depth and augment the front, so as that the boundary line of one tract may serve for that of another. In the front of all lands he will endeavor not to exceed one-third part." This article, extracted from the instructions that, for the same purpose, were given by Government on the 24th October, 1791, will be considered as now in its full force and vigor. That part should be regarded as the front of the land which faces to the best side, namely, first, on rivers, second, on navigable creeks, and third, on roads; and the depth will be the longitudinal extension back. All lands that depend, or have depended, on the grant of Government, should have been, and must be, bounded in rectangular parallelograms, whose front line will be one-third of that of the depth, or as nearly so as possible, for the purpose of not leaving empty spaces of less than ten chains in front.

ART. 5. To each person whose lands have been measured a plat will be given, constructed in running lines of ink, marking, in the perimeter, the corners, by a small circle of a line in diameter; and, on the longitude of each line, note its magnetic direction and length in chains and links. When the perimeter should not have some of its lines straight, on account of its being bounded by a river, creek, or swamp, he will bound on them, and note the surface he considers sufficient to augment or diminish a rectilineal surface. In the centre of the plat he will place, in numbers, the acres of land which he has measured. The scale of these plats will invariably be of one inch to four chains. The plat being made, he will deliver it, with the following inscription:

Plat of the number of acres of land of A B, in such a place, measured and bounded by the public surveyor of this province, Don George Clarke, East Florida, the day of the year and month, on the same tract.

GEORGE CLARKE.

ART. 6. The surveyor will keep a book of large paper, and copy therein the plats he gives out, according to the foregoing article. These plats will be numbered. At the beginning of the book there will be an index, showing the page of each plat, its number, and the person to whom the land appertains. At the end of the book he will have a sheet of a sufficient size for a general plan, containing the surveys for individuals, with the number of each. This plan will be on a scale of eighty chains to one inch.

ART. 7. The book mentioned in the foregoing article will serve to show Government what lands are vacant, or not measured; he should form, in legal surveys, a journal of his operations, to satisfy the persons having lands adjoining.

ART. 8. That the boundaries should be permanent, he will cause to be drove down, at the corners, stakes of three feet long, and three inches thick at their heads, leaving them three inches above ground, informing the owners thereof, that they should encircle them with a deposite of oyster-shells, of two feet in diameter, and as much in depth, as a durable mark, that their boundaries may be known.

ART. 9. Those who employ the surveyor will pay him four dollars per day for his personal services, calculating from his departure from the mansion where he is found until he concludes the work performed for them.

ART. 10. For the measurement of lumber; which is likewise placed in charge of the surveyor, he will be paid by those who employ him at the rate of two and a half reals the thousand feet, superficial, of one inch thick, when the measurement is made on logs; and, when on sawed lumber, at four reals. It must be considered that this payment is to be made as well by the purchaser as by the seller.

The following letter, from Governor Estrada to the Captain General of Cuba, is designed, principally, to obtain permission to sell, instead of giving away, the public lands; but it introduces to the notice of the Government a condition annexed by Governor White to his concessions of lands, to wit: the condition of ten years' occupancy, before the claimant should be entitled to a royal grant, or the privilege of disposing of his estate. We have not been able to find such an order in writing, but it is proved to have been practised during the greater part of White's administration.

[TRANSLATION.]

MOST EXCELLENT SIR:

The miserable situation, at present, of this city and province, and seeing that, of the one hundred and forty-one thousand thirty-one dollars and four reals, which are allowed annually for salaries, there are owing, to the end of April last, nine hundred and twenty-five thousand one hundred and thirty-three dollars one and a half reals, obliges me to seek for some adequate measure to relieve myself from the difficulties under which I labor for the want of funds: for most urgent wants, such as the purchase of provisions, the allowance and pay of the third battalion of Cuba, the annual presents of the Indians, and the payment of the large balance of accounts due the persons employed in the royal finance, invalids, Florida pensioners, and to the heads of families, settlers who receive a daily pension and charity, whose outcries are so continual that the most obdurate heart would melt at them with compassion.

The greatest part of the commerce of this province consists, at present, of British vessels, arriving at the port of Fernandina, in Amelia Island, for the purpose of loading with timber, to convey to their arsenals in England, leaving the small duty of seven and a half per cent., under moderate valuations, these inhabitants cutting the same on the most convenient places, without any restriction whatever; our neighbors, the Americans, also availing themselves of cutting the wood, clandestinely, without paying us any duty, adding the inconveniency of its not being in my power to put a stop thereto on account of the uninhabited situation of the places where the same takes place.

That the King may receive the benefit therefrom, I am of opinion that a very advantageous step may be taken for the advancement of this province, which is, that, for the purpose of aiding the royal treasury of West Florida, (which may not be in so deplorable a situation as this,) a determination was taken to sell to the natives and foreigners, without distinction, the public lands, according to their quality, the said system be established here, transferring to the new settlers admitted, or to be admitted, conformably to what His Majesty sets forth by royal orders.

The lands are granted, gratis, to those who, with the necessary requisites, come to settle; but, by the administrative arrangement, the title of ownership cannot be issued them until after ten years' possession and uninterrupted cultivation, which practice is injudicious, on account of its being too long a period for them to dispose of the land granted them according to the number of their families and slaves; and, should there occur in that time any diplomatic change, they could not prove their legitimate possession, being liable to lose all their improvements thereon.

The public lands being purchased by those, and, also, by the inhabitants already established here, which I do not doubt they would do if the prescribed time of ten years were not necessary, then this great difficulty would be obviated, and a greater number of new settlers would come, and receiving, of course, their title of possession, they would prize it, having cost them their money, and they would improve the land to procure some utility; the results would be the greatest advancement and prosperity of the country, income to the royal treasury, and would prevent, in some measure, the Americans from being benefited by what belongs to us; as each settler would take very good care that their property should not be taken away.

The measure which I propose to your excellency is not only for the utility of the country, or in regard to the unfortunate state of this royal treasury, but, likewise, the situation in which the nation is placed at present; as it is necessary to put into operation the most effectual ways and means to support and alleviate, in some manner, the immense burden and expense it is at, without opposing, in any wise, the will of the sovereign, who wishes the prosperity and increase of his royal interests by all possible means; and I therefore believe that his royal intentions would be fully realized by the settlement of this province, and alleviation of his royal finance. In virtue of which, should your excellency conceive that this measure will meet the approbation of His Majesty, I await that of your excellency to put it in execution.

God preserve your excellency many years. St. Augustine, Florida, June 19, 1811.

I have seen your letters, Nos. 26 and 37, setting forth, in the present circumstances, the ability of alienating public lands to the new settlers of that province, on the terms expressed therein; and, in answer, inform you that the said alienation cannot take place, as the admission of citizens of the United States in the Floridas is expressly prohibited by a royal order of the 14th November, 1804, and by another of the 31st March, 1806, forbidding, on no pretext whatever, the sale of lands to foreigners coming into East Florida.

The reply of the captain general alludes to two royal orders, dated in 1804 and 1806, which we have not been able to obtain, nor do they seem to be important to the general objects of the commission.

HAVANA.

Royal order communicated officially to his excellency the political chief and captain general of this city, superior chief of the province of the island of Cuba and the two Floridas, by the ultra marine department in the peninsula; that, for a compliance thereof, it be inserted in this gazette.

The Secretary of State, and of the office of Governor of the Peninsula, has communicated to me the following decree:

Don Fernando the Seventh, by the grace of God, and by the constitution of the Spanish monarchy, King of the Spains, and, in his absence and captivity, the regency of the kingdom, appointed by the General and Extraordinary Cortes, to all to whom these presents may come, greeting: Know ye that the Cortes have decreed the following:

The General and Extraordinary Cortes, considering that the conversion of public lands into private property is one of the measures which the welfare of the people, as well as the advancement of agriculture and industry, most imperiously demands, and desiring, at the same time, that this class of lands should serve as an aid to the public necessities, a reward to the deserving defenders of the country, and a support to the citizens who are not proprietors, do decree—

ART. 1. All the uncultivated or public lands, and those of the corporation of cities, with the timber thereon, or without it, both in the peninsula and adjacent islands, as well as in the ultra-marine provinces, except the commons necessary for the towns, shall be made private property, taking care that those of the corporations of cities give an annual rent by the most convenient means, which, at the proposal of the respective provincial deputations, shall be approved of by the Cortes.

ART. 2. In whatever manner these lands be distributed, it shall be in full property, and in the class of enclosures, that the owners thereof may fence them without injury to the pathways, roads, water-courses, and passage, and use them freely and exclusively, and apply them to the use or culture which best suits them; but they can never entail nor pass them at any time, or anywise, to a mortmain.

ART. 3. In the alienation of said lands, a preference shall be given to the inhabitants of the town within the limits of which they are, and to the proprietors who use the said uncultivated lands.

ART. 4. The provincial deputations shall propose to the Cortes, through the medium of the regency, the time and the terms when it will be most convenient to carry this disposition into effect in their respective provinces, according to the circumstances of the country, and the lands which it may be indispensable to preserve for the townships, in order that the Cortes determine upon what may be most convenient to each territory.

ART. 5. This business is recommended to the zeal of the regency of the kingdom, and to the two Secretaries of State, in order that they may bring forward and inform the Cortes, at all times, of the representations which the provincial deputations direct to them.

ART. 6. Without injury to what has been provided, half of the uncultivated and public lands of the monarchy, excepting the commons of towns, is reserved, that the entire, or any part which is deemed necessary, may serve as a pledge for the payment of the national debt; and with the preference for the credits which the inhabitants of the towns to which the lands appertain may have against the nation, the first place amongst those credits to be given to such as arise from supplies for the national armies, or loans which the said inhabitants may have made for the war since the 1st of May, 1808.

ART. 7. In the alienation for the public debt of this half of the uncultivated and public lands, or the part which is deemed necessary to pledge, the inhabitants of the respective towns, and the occupiers who use the said lands, shall be preferred as purchasers; and the credits competently adjusted which either the one or the other may have on account of the said supplies and loans, shall be admitted in payment for the full value; and, in defect thereof, any other lawful national credit which they may have.

ART. 8. In the said half of the uncultivated and public lands there shall be comprehended and computed the part which may be justly and lawfully alienated, in some provinces, for the expense of the present war.

ART. 9. Of the remaining uncultivated and public lands, or of the arable lands belonging to corporations of towns, there shall be given, gratuitously, a quantity of those fittest for culture, to each captain, lieutenant, or sub-lieutenant, who, from advanced age, or being disabled in the military service, with due leave, without censure, and with a lawful document accrediting his good behaviour; and the same to each sergeant, corporal, soldier, trumpeter, and drummer, who, for the same causes, or having completed the time, obtain a final discharge, without censure, whether either the one or the other be natives or foreigners, wherever, in the districts in which they may fix their residence, there may be this class of lands.

ART. 10. The quantity which in each town is granted to officers or soldiers, shall be in equal proportion of value to the space and quality of the same, and more or less in some places than in others, according to their circumstances, and the greater or less extent of the lands, managing, if possible, that, at the least, each quantity shall be such as to be sufficient, regularly cultivated, for the maintenance of an individual.

ART. 11. The assignment of these quantities shall be made by the constitutional councils of the towns to which lands appertain, as soon as the interested present to them the documents which accredit their good services and resignation, the syndic being heard, as respects the whole, in a concise and lawful manner, and without exacting any costs or dues whatever. After which, the proceedings shall be sent to the provincial deputation, that they may approve it, and remedy any grievance.

ART. 12. The concession of these quantities of land, which shall be called patriotic bounty, shall not extend, at present, to other individuals but those who served, or have served in the present war, or in the pacification of the actual disturbances of any of the ultra-marine provinces; but includes the captains, lieutenants, sub-lieutenants, and troops, who, having served in one or the other, have retired without censure, and with lawful leave, from having been wounded and incapacitated to serve in action, and not in any other manner.

ART. 13. It also includes those individuals, not military, who, having served as partisans, or contributed in any other manner to the national defence in this war, or in the disturbances of America, have remained, or remain, wounded or disabled by the result of battle.

ART. 14. These favors shall be granted to the said individuals, although they should enjoy other rewards for their services and distinguished actions.

ART. 15. Out of the same remaining uncultivated and public lands, those fittest for culture shall be marked out and given gratuitously, by lot, to every inhabitant of the respective towns who asks for it, and has no other land of his own, and in a quantity proportioned to the extent of the land, so as that the whole of those divided, in any case, do not exceed the fourth part of the said uncultivated and public lands; and, if these should not be sufficient, the quantity shall be given in the arable land of the corporations of the town, directing, in such case, a redeemable fee, equivalent to the income of the same in the five years, up to the end of 1807, in order that the municipal funds should not decay.

ART. 16. If any of the grantees in the preceding article should, for two successive years, fail to pay the fee, the quantity of land belonging to the corporation, or to keep it employed usefully, it shall be granted to a more laborious inhabitant who has no land of his own.

ART. 17. The writings for these concessions shall be made also, without any expense, by the councils, and shall be approved by the provincial deputations.

ART. 18. All the quantities of land which are conceded conformably to articles 9, 10, 12, 13, and 15, shall be also in full property for the grantees and their successors, on the terms and with the privileges which the 2d article expresses; but the owners of these quantities cannot alienate them before four years from the time they were granted, nor ever subject them to entail, or pass them, at any time, or by any title to mortmain.

ART. 19. Whoever of the said grantees, or his successors, establishes his permanent residence on the same quantity of land, shall be exempt, for eight years, from every contribution or impost upon that land or its products.

ART. 20. This decree shall be circulated, not only in all the towns of the monarchy, but also in all the national armies, publishing it in them, so as that it may come to be known by all the individuals composing them.

The regency of the kingdom will take notice of the above, and will do what is necessary for its accomplishment, causing it to be printed, published, and circulated.

FRANCISCO CISCAR, President.

The deputy FLORENCIO CASTILLO, Secretary.

The deputy JUAN MARIA HERRERA, Secretary.

Given at Cadiz, the 4th of January, 1813.

To the Regency of the Kingdom:

Wherefore, we command all tribunals, judges, chiefs, Governors, and other authorities, as well civil as military and ecclesiastical, of whatever class or degree, that they keep and cause to be kept, comply with and execute, the present decree in all its parts: You will take notice of the same for its completion, and you will order that it be printed, published, and circulated.

CADIZ, January 22, 1813.

By order of the regency of the kingdom, I communicate this to your excellency, in order that, transmitting it to the provincial deputation as soon as it be installed, you keep, and comply punctually with, the part which respects you, exciting the zeal of your excellency, to the end that agriculture and industry, aided by this powerful auxiliary, should be elevated to the point of grandeur of which it is susceptible; and that the beneficent views of the august national congress, and of their highnesses, in their incessant toils, may produce the happy results anticipated for the Spaniards of both hemispheres. Their highnesses also desire that the same provincial deputations give an account, through the medium of the ultra-marine department, provisionally in my charge, of the circulation of this decree, as soon as your excellency has communicated it, without preventing your excellency from doing so separately; and also from making the observations which, from the knowledge you have of the country, you judge proper, and conducive to the elucidation of the matter. God preserve your excellency many years.

JOSEPH DE LIMOTA.

To the CAPTAIN GENERAL of the Island of Cuba, Political Chief of the Havana.

The object of the preceding order of the Cortes seems to have been to encourage agriculture, to reward those who had served their country, and to support the poor. To this end it declares:

1st. That all public lands shall be made private; which was, in fact, an instruction to the Governors of provinces to use liberally, and without delay, the powers vested in them in relation to the disposal of public lands, and with a view to the purposes declared in the preamble.

2d. That they should be granted in fee simple.

3d. To those who resided in the adjacent towns.

4th. That the provincial deputations propose the best manner of carrying into execution.

5th. That the regency and two secretaries of state inform what the provincial deputations report on this subject.

6th. One-half of the public lands are reserved from the above decree, as a pledge for the public debt, and to pay the claims which the inhabitants of the nearest towns may have against the nation: first, for supplies furnished, during the war, to the army; second, for loans made to the Government, for that purpose, since 1808.

7th. In addition to the above, any other national credit shall be allowed which is lawful, and lands granted therefor.

8th. In the reserved half shall be computed those lands that shall be justly sold, in some of the provinces, to support the war.

9th. Of the lands remaining undisposed of, as above, there shall be given to each captain, lieutenant, or sub-lieutenant, who shall quit the service from advanced age, or wounds, without censure, an undefined quantity; and the same to each soldier or private who shall retire for the same causes, or who shall complete his times without censure.

10th. The quantity given to each shall, if possible, be sufficient to support a family.

11th. The assignment of quantities shall be made by the constitutional councils of the town.

12th. This provision includes the officers and soldiers, both of the Spanish army and troops employed in the provinces.

13th. It includes those who, though not in commission, acted in the national defence, and remained wounded or disabled.

14th. Having received other rewards shall not exclude them from these gifts.

15th. The public lands that remain uncultivated shall be divided off among the inhabitants who have no other lands.

16th. If the proprietors fail to cultivate for two years, it shall be given to a more industrious inhabitant.

17th. The grants or concessions shall be made without expense.

18th. These lands shall not be alienated in less than four years.

19th. Those who live upon their lands shall be exempt from impost or contribution for eight years.

20th. Directs the publication of this decree.

The following letter is the basis of the royal order of 1815. It sets out the merit of the militia of this province and asks for compensation for them for their services and sacrifices during the rebellion.

No. 203.

[TRANSLATION.]

MOST EXCELLENT SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, June 4, 1813.

The first of this month I discharged from the military service in which they were employed, the three companies of white militia of this city, not only for want of provisions here, but for the urgent necessity there was that the inhabitants should be allowed to turn, once more, their attention to the care of their respective families and occupations, with the object of making as light as possible the injuries suffered by them in the insurrection of the province.

With this motive, I cannot but recommend to your excellency the fidelity manifested by the militia and third battalion of Cuba in the performance of their duty, from the first moment in which the rebellion broke out, and for which I consider them worthy the gifts to which the Supreme Government may think them entitled, taking the liberty of recommending the granting of some, which may be as follows: to each officer who has been in actual service in said militia, a royal commission for each grade he may obtain as provincial, and to the soldiers a certain quantity of land, as established by regulation in this province, agreeably to the number of persons composing each family, and which gift can also be made exclusively to the married officers and soldiers of the said third battalion of Cuba.

Men in general require to be excited by some stimulus, and it is not easy to find any who are indifferent to public approbation of their services. What I propose, without giving them in reality any thing, will be the means of contenting them, and produce henceforward the best effects; it being understood that this gift will be for those who occupy themselves in the defence. And for this end, and in case that these, my ideas, merit the approbation of your excellency, I enclose, as regards the officers of both corps, lists of those who ought, in that case, to be comprehended. God preserve your excellency many years.

His Excellency DON JUAN RUIZ DE APODACA.

The Governor of the city of St. Augustine, East Florida, gives notice of his having discharged from the military service the companies of white militia of said city; and recommends their merits, as well as the third battalion of Cuba, which they obtained on account of the insurrection of this province.

The following is an explanation, by the King, of the edict published by the Cortes, January 4, 1813.

MADRID, June 8, 1814.

The King, wishing to prevent the doubts which have begun to arise on account of the decree of the 4th of January of the year last past, relative to the distribution of lands, and that there disappear whatever competition that may have taken place by the forgetfulness, or little observance of the provisions of the laws of the Indians and ordinances of Intendants, with great injury to the royal exchequer, and of the owners, who, regulating themselves accordingly, had obtained the legal acquisition; he has, therefore, been pleased to order that the Intendants comply strictly with what has been ordered in the said ordinances relative to the distribution of lands; the proceeds of which, together with the rest appertaining to the royal finance, serve to support the expenses of the same; and, in the proceedings thereof, they adhere to what is prescribed in the laws of the Indies, and particularly in the royal instruction of the 15th of October, 1754; not admitting, in any wise, the least appeal of a corporation or town whatever, against those lands that are laid off or measured for the use of their owners, in virtue of a title of gift, agreement, or purchase; as His Majesty wishes, in no wise, that interpretations be given contrary to what has been ordered, to the prejudice of his royal interests or those of his royal subjects in those dominions: which I communicate to your lordship, by royal order, for your information, and that you may order the punctual compliance thereof. God preserve your lordship many years.

GONGORA.

The GOVERNOR of St. Augustine, Florida.

The following is an answer of the King to a letter of Governor Kindelan to the Captain General of Cuba, in June, 1813, approving the gifts and rewards proposed for the disbanded militia of this province.

HAVANA, July 7, 1815.

Under the date of the 29th of March last, his excellency the minister of Indies writes me the following:

I have informed the King of what your excellency sets forth in your letter, No. 236, of the year 1813, relative to the rewards which the Governor of East Florida considers the individuals of the companies of white militia, and married officers and soldiers of the third battalion of the regiment of Cuba entitled to for their meritorious conduct during the insurrection of the province; and at the same time that His Majesty approves said gifts he desires that your excellency will inform him as to the reward which the commandant of the third battalion of Cuba, Don Juan José de Estrada, who acted as Governor pro tem. at the commencement of the rebellion; the officers of artillery, Don Ygnacio Salens, and Don Manuel Poulin; and of dragoons, Don Juan Pucheman, are entitled to, as mentioned by the Governor in his official letter. By royal order, I communicate the same to his excellency for your information and compliance therewith, enclosing the royal commissions of local militia, according to the note forwarded by your excellency."

I forward you a copy of the same, enclosing also the documents above mentioned, that you may give them their correspondent direction, with the intencion, by the first opportunity, of informing His Majesty of what I consider just, as to the remuneration before mentioned. God preserve you many years.

APODACA,
Governor pro tem. of East Florida.

The following royal order invests the superintendent of the island of Cuba with the superintendency of the two Floridas, and makes it his especial duty to advance the population and settlements of those provinces by all the means in their power.

Among them he has exercised the power of making grants of land, upon the condition of bringing an actual population upon them.

HAVANA, October 10, 1823.

Don Juan Nepomuceno de Arocha, honorary comptroller of the army, and secretary of the intendency of the army, superintendency of the public finance of this island and that of Puerto Rico.

I do hereby certify that, in compliance with the decree of the 7th of this month, of the superintendent Don Francisco Javier de Ambari, made at the petition of Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, of the 4th instant, and filed in the Secretary's office under my charge, exists the royal order of the following tenor: "His Majesty, understanding by the letters of your lordship of the 14th and 18th of August and 21st of October, of the year last past, No. 18, 28, and 107, of the resolutions concluded with the captain general of that island, to regulate all that appertains to the branch of the royal finance, and to attend to the protection and advancement of the two Floridas, and having conformed himself with the advice given by the supreme council of the Indies, in their deliberations held on the 11th of August last, His Majesty has been pleased to approve, for the present, all which has been done with respect to the regulations of said branch, as also the supplies administered by the board of royal finance for the payment of the regiment of Louisiana, and other indispensable expenditures for the fortifications and defence of the cities of St. Augustine and Pensacola, authorizing your lordship, in case of necessity, to aid or supply them. His Majesty likewise has determined, for the present, the superintendency of the two Floridas in favor of your lordship, as superintendent of the island of Cuba; and, lastly, His Majesty has been pleased to command me to inform your lordship, as I now do, that you facilitate the increase of the population of those provinces by all the means which your prudence or zeal can dictate; informing, as soon as possible, the motives for the absence of Don Juan Miguel de Losadas and Don Manuel Gonzalez Almirez from their offices.

All which I communicate to your lordship by royal order, for your intelligence and compliance thereof.

God preserve your lordship many years.

To the Intendant of Havana, JUAN NEPOMUCENO DE AROCHA.

The concession to John H. McIntosh being the first case before us for final adjudication, we have deemed it proper to make a general inquest into the customs and usages of the different departments of the Spanish provincial Government in connexion with it, that we might be able to ascertain with more certainty how far the written rules prescribed by the Governors, from time to time, were carried into execution; and, further, that we might be able to fix upon certain principles, as corollaries from the whole, to serve as a general basis for future decisions. It was found necessary to mingle the testimony peculiar to Mr. McIntosh's case with our general examination. It, however, forms but an inconsiderable part of the following evidence, which is now reported precisely as written by the secretary of the board, who was instructed to give, as near as possible, the language of the witnesses.

We are conscious that some errors have crept into it, but we have not thought ourselves authorized to make any material alterations after the disappearance of the witnesses, and, therefore, report it as substantially the testimony of the most intelligent and respectable inhabitants within our reach, touching the customs and usages of the Spanish provincial Governments.

Evidence in the case of John H. McIntosh vs. the United States.

JOHN H. MCINTOSH vs. THE UNITED STATES.

George Morrison, sworn and examined December 8, 1823, deposeth that Mr. McIntosh sent, in July, 1804, under his charge, two old negro men, and capable of working, and built one negro house. Recollects that Mr. McIntosh sent in his negroes, about two hundred, in the early part of the spring of 1804, time enough to make a crop, and settled them on Fort George, Pablo, and McGirt's creek, in February, on property belonging to Mr. McIntosh, and there made crops, one crop at Pablo, and planted at Fort George and McGirt's until 1812. That the lands at Fort George, Pablo, and McGirt's, are distinct from the lands claimed. That the two negroes remained on the lands at Indian river three years; the two last years they supported themselves. He went to the tract in May following, the year he took the negroes there. That the two negroes were left under the control of the neighbors. Mr. McIntosh never undertook to cultivate. Mr. McIntosh sent a vessel, in 1803, from Cumberland, loaded with lumber for building, which was lost in consequence of the vessel's stranding on the bar of Indian river. He never saw Mr. McIntosh or any of his family upon the land. Witness has never been on the land since, but says he knows the island called Marrott's, and has been on it; has also been on the tract called Stewart's swamp. Found out the tracts claimed by information from a Mr. Merritt. Visited these tracts by request of Mr. McIntosh. Says he does not know if Mr. McIntosh took possession of Marrott's island, Stewart's swamp, or Cabbage swamp. The negroes abandoned the 6,000 acre tract. Does not know whether Mr. McIntosh gave any security as required by the grant. Supposes that the negroes abandoned the 6,000 acre tract on account of the white people leaving that part of the country. The negroes had no stock. Mr. McIntosh never received any confirmatory title; the concession from Governor White required that the conditions should be performed within twelve months.

James Hall, being duly sworn and examined, says that he saw two negroes belonging to Mr. McIntosh, on the tract claimed at the head of Indian river, in 1805. The negroes remained there in 1806, and had about one acre cultivated. Says that Mr. McIntosh came into the province in 1804.

Where grants were made of several tracts, in order to make out the quantity he had a right to claim, was it necessary to occupy each tract?

Witness says he did not think it necessary, and the contrary was the custom; says that, in 1804, Governor White required that the grantee should take possession of his lands, and continue to occupy them; always understood that Mr. McIntosh had a large number of negroes. Witness resided about thirty miles from Mr. McIntosh's settlement at Fort George.

Testimony of George J. F. Clarke.

Witness has no recollection what year Mr. McIntosh came into the province; thinks that he came about 1801, or after; understands that Mr. McIntosh moved into the country, and brought a large number of negroes, and settled them in the northern part of the province. When a person takes up a quantity of land he could divide it in a number of parcels, and, by settling on a part, retain the whole. Subsequent to 1803, it was the rule, in memorializing for lands, that a concession was first given, but a royal title was never given until ten years' occupancy was proved. Should any person purchase a tract, and one was given him, and he should put his force upon the tract purchased, and but two negroes on the tract granted, he complies with the condition of the grant. The claimant was always obliged to prove to the Governor his having complied with the conditions of the grant before obtaining royal titles. Mr. McIntosh was excepted in the general pardon by the King, although the fact was not generally known. Mr. McIntosh sailed from St. Mary's, in 1818 or 1819, for St. Augustine. He was pardoned by special order in 1816 or 1817.

Testimony of Gabriel W. Perpall.

Witness states that, when lands were granted to any person for head-rights, under the royal order of 1790, although in several tracts, by his taking possession of one of said tracts he made good the whole, and that he could not dispose of said lands until the ten years were expired, except the improvements thereon, and that others could take possession of said lands by his abandoning them. A person (memorialist) petitioning for lands, should he bring into the country any number of head-rights, although he establish himself in any part of the province, and not on the lands granted him, he was bona fide entitled to them as having complied with the conditions. It was necessary that the person or persons having lands granted him or them, should come forward, and prove his locating the lands granted before the ten years had expired, when he got his fee simple thereof; and that, by placing on the property one or two head-rights, the land was considered as being taken possession of by the party. He does not know of any claim being approved of by the Governor knowing that the conditions were partly complied with. If a person comes into the province with a certain number of head-rights, by placing one or two on the lands granted, the Governor would confirm the title. When a party comes forward to prove the confirmation of his title to lands, it was necessary to do so by witnesses. The Governor told witness that Mr. McIntosh had applied for leave to come on shore, and that the Governor returned for answer that he could only be responsible for his safety as long as he, the said McIntosh, remained in his sight. Witness was here when Mr. McIntosh came into the then province, but does not recollect at what time. Does not know how many negroes he brought into the province, and does not know at what time; was never on any of the tracts alluded to.

Antonio Alvarez, sworn and examined. Witness says that possession was considered a survey, being on the land, or making improvements thereon. Witness was never on the tract on Indian river. Witness says that, when a person obtained a concession or grant of land on conditions, that he was obliged to prove the said conditions to have been fulfilled to the Governor, before he could obtain the royal title for the same. Witness says, in cases where lands were granted on conditions, and the lands abandoned previous to the performance of said conditions, the Governor would, nevertheless, consider himself authorized to exercise his discretion to grant confirmatory or royal titles. Does not recollect when Mr. McIntosh came to this country. Witness does not feel himself able to say as to the custom, whether the conditions would be considered as performed, should the claimant, instead of settling on the lands granted, settle elsewhere. Witness says he was a clerk in the escrivano's office in the year 1807, and continued such under the administrations of Governors White, Estrada, Kindelan, Estrada, and Coppinger. Witness, being cross-examined, states that it was also necessary that the party should prove his having complied with the conditions of the grant, before royal orders were given. Does not know if, in case of any persons bringing head-rights into the country, and locating them on other lands, and not on those granted, whether the concession would be confirmed or not. Witness says that Governor White was very particular as to the parties complying with the conditions of their grants. Witness states that he was in the Governor's office, which had nothing to do with the judiciary, but merely with the military and police.

Testimony of Joseph M. Hernandez.

Witness says it was necessary to represent in the memorial the number of head-rights, in order to ascertain the quantity of acres: it was necessary to settle the head-rights upon the lands conceded. In applying for royal titles it was necessary to prove that the conditions were performed. The Governors were generally reasonably rigid in requiring conditions to be performed. That placing one or two negroes on the lands granted, the grantee would have the right of possession as against third persons. The Government did not require that all the head-rights should be placed thereon immediately, and that a person was obliged to take bona fide possession of the land in the time specified in the memorial. Witness says, that where a person abandoned the land conceded to him, upon condition of occupying it a certain number of years, it was discretionary with Governor White, upon an application after two years' abandonment, to conform or reject his title. The other Governors required that the grantees should prove the cultivation, and uninterrupted possession, for ten years, of said lands. The Government considered it an abandonment when the party left the Territory, but not where the party removed from one tract to another. Witness says, that if several tracts of land were granted for head-rights, and mentioned in a concession, if the person take possession of one tract, and holds it for ten years, it gave him a right to the other tracts. Witness claims a tract of land formerly conceded to a person who left this Territory, and has returned for the purpose of claiming the same. Government, for the encouragement of emigration, required that grantees should settle on the lands granted them. Witness says, that if a person settled on a different tract of land with his head-rights, and not upon the one granted to him, the grantee, by placing a few persons on the tract so granted him, would be in possession thereof. Witness does not know that lands were granted to individuals for head-rights, without the conditions being complied with; he believes that one grant was made to a Mr. Huertas, by Governor Kindelan, without conditions. The Governors have uniformly re-granted land where the party has abandoned the same on any circumstance whatever. The consideration for giving lands in this Territory, was the removal of emigrants here; they received lands in proportion to the number of their families; they need not settle on more than one tract.

When the grant is for several, or many, and the sending any force, however small, upon one was considered as occupying the whole. Where the emigrant left the Territory with an intention to abandon his settlement, after two years absence, the Governors felt themselves at liberty to forfeit his right by granting to others. There was no other legal mode practised of declaring a forfeiture but by a subsequent grant to others.

George Morrison re-examined.

The witness did not see any object or mark to attract notice on the three hundred acre tract, Stewart's Swamp; was never round the tract, but had been on it; saw no lines; saw a small ancient improvement. Has been on the Cabbage swamp tract; does not know how many acres; never was round the tract; had been through it in one or two places; did not see any marked trees or lines; saw no improvement; saw nothing to attract notice. Has been on the six thousand acre tract at the head of Indian river; has been through it in several directions; passed on it three or four days; saw no marked lines or corners; did not see the beginning corner marked on the survey; supposed the two negroes were settled, and that the building was made for their accommodation; was about the middle of the tract, near the east line, called by the witness an improvement. The three hundred acre tract lies between the Indian river and the Musquito lagoon, about ten miles above the Haul Over. The Cabbage swamp lies between the river and the sea, near a place called the Narrows; made a small hole on the Cabbage swamp tract, about three or four feet deep, to procure water near the river; the river was salt; the witness was, at the time, a subject of the King of Spain; was born in Virginia, and was in the employ of claimant. Witness says he came for the first time into Florida, with Mr. McIntosh, in the spring of 1804, when Mr. McIntosh brought his negroes, in the month of February. Witness took the oath of allegiance in June or July; the claimant settled his negroes at Fort George, Pablo, and McGirt's creek. Witness repeats that the claimant sent a vessel loaded with lumber from Cumberland, for the purpose of making a settlement on Indian river, in the year 1803; says that the last time he, the witness, was upon the tract, was in May, 1805; continued in the employment of claimant until 1823, and still continues in his employ, but for the last year receives no wages; is paid by claimant when specially employed; does not know the particular time the two negroes returned to Fort George from the tract on Indian river; thinks the negroes did not return until the beginning of the year 1807; understood at the time, from the negroes, that they returned in consequence of the white population leaving that part of the country.

George J. F. Clarke, being re-examined, says that the survey signed by himself, as having surveyed a tract of six thousand acres, was not surveyed by him in person, but by his deputies, Robert McHardy and Charles Clarke. Says Charles Clarke told him that he had surveyed a part, and that Robert McHardy was employed by him to survey, who gave to witness a general description of the land. Witness believes that his deputies made, each, partial surveys. The deputies were competent to survey the land in question. Witness gave directions, in 1817, to Robert McHardy to survey the tract in question; and, in the latter part of 1818 or beginning of 1819, he instructed Charles Clark to survey. The witness does not recollect when he made the plat.

Question. Do you think the plat bearing your name was made at the time it bears date?

Answer. I do not know. I believe it was made before the winter of 1818 or 1819, but do not know whether it was made in 1817 or 1818.

Witness doubts whether he has the notes of the survey made by his deputies. Kept no regular book of surveys since June or July, 1817, but kept copies of surveys. Gave the plat to claimant in 1820 or 1821, in the town of St. Mary's. The claimant, witness thinks, called for it. Claimant did not call for the plat until the time it was handed to him; but he frequently informed claimant that the plat was ready. Witness had, generally, authority to survey lands as Surveyor General, and no special order was necessary for him. It was not customary for the Governor to issue an order of survey to witness; yet, when applications were ignorantly made to the Governor, orders were sometimes issued to him. In the case of the claimant there was no other survey. Claimant requested witness to survey his lands in 1817. Does not know whether he saw Robert McHardy in 1817 or 1818. McHardy was not a regular surveyor. He sent to witness his notes of survey in the summer of 1817. Witness was, for many years, surveyor; and, upon receiving field notes from his deputies, it was customary for him to make out his plats, which he dated with the date of the notes. This practice was not objected to by the Government. Does not think it was customary to apply to the Government for the appointment of a special surveyor, upon the ground of his being otherwise employed. While witness resided at St. Mary's he was acting as surveyor and Lieutenant Governor, that is, captain of a division over that part lying north and west of St. John's; also, Spanish consul residing at St. Mary's. When the land was not specially designated, the witness would locate wherever claimant pointed out, provided the place was vacant; and in cases where the land was specially located by the grant, he would, nevertheless, at the request of the grantee, locate in any other place.

Was such custom objected to by the Spanish Government?

Knows that several grants have, under similar circumstances, been confirmed, and without their having made any petition for the transfer; does not recollect any cases in particular, but where the claimant resided in one part of the country, he required of the claimant to procure an order to change the survey. In many instances he changed the location after actual possession, without special authority from the Governor; where the claimant lived on his survey the witness was not bound to respect the metes or bounds, but might give others. The plat and concession do not agree; witness does not know whether the survey includes the improvements made by Mr. McIntosh; says that he did not give any instructions to McHardy having reference to the metes and bounds mentioned in the concession. Did not consider himself under the necessity to conform to the order of Government contained in the grant or concession. Did not consider the metes and bounds contained in the concession as an order of Government. Might have surveyed the lands on St. John's river, or elsewhere, although by the concession directed to be located at Musquito. Does not think the Government required the petitioners to designate their lands. The Government, in the opinion of the witness, are not acquainted with the character of the lands in the different parts of the country. He was, from the commencement of his appointment, in the habit of changing the location. Has done it frequently, in large tracts as well as small. Has also divided entire tracts. Always was customary with him, and antecedent to the royal order of 1815. Had done so for Mr. Seton, Bethune, and Argotes. These grants were made under the royal order of 1790. The original practice pursued by foreigners to procure land under the order of 1790, was, first, the oath of allegiance; second, applied for the quantity of lands to the Surveyor General, who determined the quantity to be given, who had it surveyed and platted. The plat was then given to the claimant when called for. Claimant then presented his plat to the secretary for royal titles. This practice was continued until between the years 1801 and 1804, when Governor White changed the system into a direct application to himself. The grants under the first practice were absolute. The witness does not know whether Governor White had any royal authority for the change. The general impression was, at the time, that he had no authority. The former practice was not established by royal orders. Believes if there had been any royal order changing the mode of granting lands, it would have been published. Witness states the latter practice as changing the royal order of 1790. Witness has seen the royal order of 1790.

If any approbation had been made by royal order would it have been published?

The witness answers that he thinks it would.

George J. F. Clarke appeared before the board the 11th of December, and presented duplicates of surveys made by him as late Surveyor General. These plats were taken and kept for the purpose of satisfying Government what lands were vacant, and that they exhibit an account of all lands located and surveyed by witness under the Spanish Government. These acts were done in a country where we did not always do as we would, but as we could; that the situation of the country rendered the data very precarious in consequence of the Indian disturbance, and the various rebellions of the country; and witness considered it sufficient information to the inquiries of Government, and conceived himself answerable only to God Almighty and Governor Coppinger.

Question. Were you interrupted by the Indians in making your survey?

Answer. In no other way than the fear of losing my life by them.

Question. In what section of the country did this fear extend?

Answer. In the southern and western parts of the province.

Question. What do you mean by the southern?

Answer. All south of St. Augustine. Witness understood from his deputies that the Indians frequently destroyed the marks and trees pointing out the surveys.

Question. Did an apprehension of Indians, southerly, at all times, render it unsafe to survey in that direction?

Answer. The deputies reported that they did not go into particulars, as much as they wished, on account of the dread of Indians, but made such marks as would identify the land.

Question. Do you know of any instance where the survey was interrupted by the Indians?

Answer. I do not.

Question. During your surveyorship did the white population reside south of this place?

Answer. Very little—as much as at present. Witness was interrupted in his surveys in the rebellion of 1812, and the invasion of McGregor in 1817. The rebellion of 1812 lasted until 1816.

Question. Would you make plats of surveys without regular field notes?

Answer. I would for the purpose of identifying lands, to answer the inquiries of Government; for the purpose of knowing where a particular piece of land was located. Witness generally made out two surveys and plats, one for Government, the other for the grantee.

Question. Did Government entirely rely upon you for information respecting the location of lands?

Answer. Principally so; but there were instances where persons surveyed by special permission from the Government.

Question. Did Government keep any memorandum of the lands that were located?

Answer. No regular record. The surveys were generally handed into the Government office.

Question. How could you answer the questions of Government when other persons were employed to survey?

Answer. Only as far as the other surveys came to my knowledge; for they were not reported to me.

Question. As Surveyor General did you not consider the permission to others to survey irregular?

Answer. I did. I know of Government refusing to give permissions to persons to survey.

Question. How did you know this?

Answer. From the decrees sent me; a copy of a request was once sent to me, when an individual applied for a special survey, and the Governor stated that, if the Surveyor General could not survey, his deputies could.

Question. Did you ever remonstrate against the custom of granting special permission to survey?

Answer. Not officially; I mentioned it once or twice to Governor Coppinger.

Question. Upon what principle did you make this communication?

Answer. Anterior to my appointment there had been several permissions of this kind granted, and I was desirous of regulating things so as to prevent confusion, for which purpose I made a sketch of the rivers and streams.

Question. When this practice was stopped, did those persons specially appointed to survey report to you?

Answer. They did.

Question. How do you know that permission to survey was refused?

Answer. I was told that the Governor would give no further permission.

Question. What has become of your sketches?

Answer. They were generally lost when McGregor sacked Fernandina. I believe I have some few.

Question. Was there ever a regular field book kept of the surveys in this country?

Answer. There was not.

Question. When lands were granted for so many acres, upon a certain river, what rule was adopted in laying them off as to dimensions and figure?

Answer. I followed no rule, but governed myself by the localities.

Question. Do you know of any general rules?

Answer. I am not certain, but believe that, in the general instructions given me, there are rules.

Question. Were those general rules given you? Answer. They were not.

Question. When you were appointed surveyor did you know where the lands were located?

Answer. I did not.

Question. Did Mr. Marrott pursue any rules as to the survey, as far as conformable to the particular form of the grant?

Answer. None but the most general rules, and the survey was made in the manner the grantee pointed out.

Question. Have you any knowledge that Marrott kept a field book?

Answer. Does not know. Witness says Purcell had particular and rigid instructions as to survey.

Question. Was Mr. Purcell limited to any particular section to survey?

Answer. He generally surveyed on Halifax river; but he also surveyed in other parts of the country.

Question. How do you know that he was confined to Halifax river?

Answer. From conjecture and hearsay about the year 1801.

Question. Do you know that the lands surveyed then were according to particular form? Answer. I do not.

Question. Do you know the hand-writing of Purcell? Answer. I do.

Question. Did you ever see Governor White's instructions of the 12th of October, 1803, relative to the confiscation and granting of land, consisting of nine articles? Answer. I never did.

Question. Did you not consider it your duty to become acquainted with the rules and regulations relative to lands?

Answer. All those relative to lands I considered necessary.

Question. What regulations did you become acquainted with?

Answer. I know of no other than the quantity governing the grant, and without injury to a third person. I have never seen any other instructions than those contained in my commission.

Question. Have you those instructions?

Answer. I believe I have, and have not read them more than two or three times, as other instructions were given me afterwards, which were verbal.

Question. Did your verbal instructions differ essentially from those which were written?

Answer. The Government allowed me to pursue such a course as I thought proper.

Question. Were your first instructions limited?

Answer. I do not recollect whether they were limited or not; they referred to some general rules on surveying.

Question. Have you your instructions?

Answer. I am not certain, but think I have. I changed the location of the lands of Argote, and, in part, that of Seton and Bethune. Mr. Seton's was changed anterior to 1817, and the others after.

Question. Did these persons comply with the conditions upon which their lands were granted?

Answer. Mr. Seton did comply; Mr. Bethune did not.

Question. Were you well acquainted with Governor White? Answer. Intimately.

Question. Was he not a very strict and a very honest man? Answer. He bore that character.

Question. When a grant was made on conditions, and those conditions not complied with, was the land not confiscated by Governor White?

Answer. He would exercise his pleasure.

Question. Did he not require that persons applying for land should locate these lands?

Answer. He does not think that it was a requisition.

Question. If the location of lands was made known by the parties to Governor White, would he allow them to change the location?

Answer. Always, as I have been told.

Question. If the party did not apply to Governor White to change this location, would he allow them to do so?

Answer. I think not, unless he received an order from some one.

Question. When Captain Marrott made a survey, was it optional with him afterwards to change the location, without applying to Governor White?

Answer. It was not.

Question. Would Governor White allow any one to change their location without his permission?

Answer. He would not.

Question. Would you have changed the location of lands during the life of Governor White?

Answer. I was not in office during that period.

Question. Do you imagine that any other surveyor would have done it? Answer. I imagine not.

Question. Would you have done it under Estrada?

Answer. I would; I received my first instructions from him.

Question. Do you know of no particular reason that induced Estrada to pursue a different course from White?

Answer. I do not.

Question. How long did Estrada remain Governor?

Answer. From 1811 to 1812, when he was superseded by Kindelan.

Question. Who preceded you as surveyor?

Answer. Between Purcell and myself there was a considerable interval of time.

Question. How long? Answer. Two or three years.

Question. Was Purcell surveyor in Governor White's time? Answer. No; he was not in the country.

Question. Do you know if Purcell was an intelligent man? Answer. He was rather too much the contrary.

Question. Who appointed him? Answer. I believe Governor White appointed him.

Question. When did Marrott cease to be surveyor? Answer. In about 1800.

Question. Who superseded him? Answer. A young man by the name of John Travers.

Testimony of Mr. Turnbull.

Question. When grants were made upon condition, and the condition not complied with, were the lands not forfeited?

Answer. Certainly, according to the regulations of Governor White, which I got out of the office for my guide; and, finding them so very hard to comply with, that I did not return to this country after leaving it.

Question. When, in the petition of the grantee, he located his lands, was it optional for him to change his location?

Answer. It was not, without petitioning the Governor.

Question. Could the surveyor change the location of the lands granted?

Answer. I was informed by Mr. Purcell and Mr. Tate that he could not.

Question. Was Tate an intelligent man? Answer. He was: the office he held was that of practical surveyor.

Question. Was Purcell an intelligent man? Answer. He was not.

Question. Did you ever hear Purcell say that he was governed by any particular rules?

Answer. He told me he was; and the parties were generally given one-third in front and two-thirds in depth.

Question. When a particular description or outline was given in the grant, could the surveyors change the same?

Answer. I do not know whether the surveyor was bound to do so.

Question. Was Mr. Purcell considered as a general surveyor at that time? Answer. I believe he was.

Question. Did you understand that his powers were confined to a particular section of the country?

Answer. I did not.

Question. Do you know that, when Government granted lands upon conditions, she required the same to be fulfilled?

Answer. Yes.

Question. If lands were granted you would you conceive it a performance of the conditions by settling on any other land?

Answer. No.

Question. If you had settled your negroes on lands not granted, and cultivated the same, and had placed a few negroes on lands granted, would you consider it complying with the conditions?

Answer. No; I think I ought to place all my force on the lands granted.

Question. When you applied for lands, did you not take pains to find out what rules were to govern you, and did you do so?

Answer. Yes; and received the same from Mr. Tate, who obtained them from the record.

Question. Did you get any memorandum of lands that had been granted?

Answer. I did, from Mr. Tate; but I do not know whether they were taken from the record, as they had no signature.

Question. Was it necessary to present to the Government, when you applied for lands, a list of your property?

Answer. I did, and presented a schedule of all my property.

Question. Why did you not take possession of the lands granted you?

Answer. I employed a person to make camps, which cost me sixty dollars.

Question. Why did you not go on with the settlement?

Answer. Because I considered the conditions so difficult that I abandoned it. I have a British claim to Marrott's island, in the case now before the board.

Question. What was the general custom of the Governors as to the granting of lands?

Answer. I only know the practice at the time of the regulations.

Question. Do you know, of your own particular knowledge, what was the general custom of surveyors in laying off lands?

Answer. I know of no other custom than that of one-third front and two-thirds in depth.

Question. How long have you been in the province?

Answer. About four months in 1803, and one month in 1804.

Question. Where have you lived since that time? Answer. In Georgia.

Question. Have you been in this country since? Answer. Not under the Spanish Government.

Question. Who got you those regulations?

Answer. Mr. Tate, and translated by Bernardino Sanchez, as public interpreter.

Question. Was it the general opinion here, in 1803, that the regulations of Governor White were in force?

Answer. I presume so.

Question. Did you ascertain from Mr. Purcell that there were general regulations governing his survey?

Answer. He told me there were.

Mr. Clarke re-examined, the 12th of December, 1823, by Mr. Lancaster.

Question. Were you not authorized by the Government to appoint deputies under you to survey?

Answer. I was.

Question. As far as you know, was your work always received and approved by the Government?

Answer. It was.

Question. In all the plats which you have made out, did you not endeavor to date them as nearly as possible at the time when the survey was actually made?

Answer. Yes; before I was authorized to distribute lands, I frequently surveyed for individuals before they petitioned and had a concession; I then dated the survey so as to correspond with the concession, or an order I had to distribute lands.

Question. Was a survey actually necessary to a settler to enable him to obtain a royal title?

Answer. No; royal titles were made sometimes without a survey.

Examined by the United States' attorney.

Question. What was the taking possession, in the eye of the Spanish law?

Answer. Any work done by the parties on the premises.

Question. Was the digging of a well, or planting of a tree, taking possession?

Answer. Yes; the digging of a well, planting a post, or surveying, or any work costing him labor or money.

Question. Did it matter how trivial the labor or expense was? Answer. There was no rule to go by.

Question. When a person obtained a concession of land on condition of improvement, as in the case of a mill-seat, what was necessary to be done?

Answer. I conceived there were two conditions; that of settling the land without injury to a third person, and building a mill.

Question. In such a condition as a mill-seat was it not necessary that the conditions be substantially complied with?

Answer. Yes.

Examined by Mr. Hamilton.

Question. Was your authority to appoint deputy surveyors in writing?

Answer. It was not. It was merely verbal.

Question. Were you ever authorized to appoint deputy surveyors to survey lands during your absence?

Answer. I was.

Question. In what manner were you authorized to make these appointments?

Answer. By the Governor; directing me to do, in all cases, for the best.

Question. Have you not made out many plats long subsequent to the 24th of January, 1818?

Answer. Yes, many.

Question. Can you tell to whom you have made these plats? Answer. I do not recollect.

Question. Do you recollect making the plats of Mr. McIntosh's survey of Indian river tract after January 24, 1818? Answer. I do not recollect.

Question. You mentioned that Mr. McHardy had run the river line, and one of the back lines, but that that survey was not sufficient, and that you sent Mr. Charles Clarke to complete the survey?

Answer. I said that I had received from Mr. McHardy data sufficient to satisfy the Government; and that the Government respected the survey made.

Question. Was McHardy an active and intelligent surveyor? Answer. He was.

Question. When did you employ Mr. McHardy? Answer. I think it was as early as 1815.

Question. Were his notes proofs of his capacity? Answer. They were.

Question. Were they accurate? Answer. I cannot say, as I never re-surveyed any of his surveys.

Question. Had not the field notes of McHardy an appearance of accuracy?

Answer. Sometimes his plats were handsomely and well made out, and his field notes had the appearance of accuracy.

Question. Do you not suppose, when he acted from your orders, he done so strictly? Answer. He did so.

Question. In what manner did you give your orders?

Answer. Sometimes in writing, sometimes verbally; when he was not present, always in writing.

Question. Was he a permanent deputy of yours? Answer. At times he was, and at others he was not.

Question. When was he a permanent deputy?

Answer. I cannot say as to date; he was so occasionally between the years 1815 and 1821. By a permanent deputy, I mean he could survey grants with my permission.

Question. Was he your deputy at the commencement of his employment? Answer. No, not until 1817.

Question. Where did you see him in the year 1817? Answer. I cannot recollect.

Question. Did you give him any verbal instructions in 1817? Answer. I do not recollect.

Question. Did you give him any written instructions in 1817?

Answer. We corresponded, but I do not recollect whether I gave him instructions or not.

Question. In what manner did you give him his appointment as deputy surveyor? Answer. I cannot say.

Question. When a grant was given him containing the metes and bounds, would he not go strictly by them?

Answer. Not always.

Question. In the case of McIntosh, did you give him written or verbal instructions?

Answer. I do not recollect.

Question. Do you recollect of giving him any instructions?

Answer. I do not, but I recollect of calling on him for several surveys. I requested him to make various surveys for various persons, and at various times.

Question. Look at the grant of 6,000 acres, and the survey, and tell me if they agree in metes and bounds?

Answer. They do not.

Question. Are they essentially different? Answer. They are.

Question. If McHardy was given that grant, would he not consider it his duty to go by the metes and bounds?

Answer. He would not. Mr. McIntosh, soon after his return to the province, requested me to survey the lands he had, unsurveyed, in the province, and placed in my hands the papers relative to the lands he got from Government.

Question. Did you retain possession of the papers?

Answer. I do not know that they were all in my possession.

Question. Are you the agent of Mr. McIntosh?

Answer. I was, and in one instance with power to make a conveyance of one tract of land which he had sold to Mr. Kingsley; which tract was Fort George.

Question. Had you authority to sell his lands?

Answer. I had a power to attend generally to his business, and a special power to sell said tract of Fort George.

Question. Did you leave with Mr. McHardy the papers of Mr. McIntosh relative to the Indian river tract?

Answer. I did not.

Question. Who did? Answer. I believe that no one did.

Question. Who directed McHardy to make survey? Answer. I did.

Question. Are you sure that you gave the order to McHardy to survey McIntosh's lands? Answer. I did.

Question. How are you sure?

Answer. As he had not the papers, it was necessary he should have something from me to go by.

Question. Did Mr. McIntosh direct you where he wished the survey made?

Answer. When he showed me his papers, I saw that the land could not be surveyed to Mr. McIntosh's advantage, if it was surveyed as the grant directed: I, therefore, advised him to make the change.

Question. Did you advise him as surveyor or as agent?

Answer. I advised him as surveyor and not as agent; and I directed McHardy to make the survey, as appears by the plat.

Question. Did you give McHardy any reasons for the change from the grant? Answer. I did not.

Question. When did you give him these instructions? Answer. About the year 1817.

Question. Did you advise McHardy to make out the survey, and give McIntosh as much good land as possible?

Answer. I did. I do not recollect whether I told McHardy to survey for McIntosh or not.

Question. Do you believe that he made a memorandum at the time you gave him the directions?

Answer. I do not; the probability is that I gave him directions to survey a certain quantity of land, without telling him for whom.

Question. Did the field notes you received from McHardy designate the land as belonging to McIntosh?

Answer. I think not.

Question. At the time you gave him directions to survey, did you give him any other?

Answer. I cannot recollect.

Question. You are perfectly sure you gave directions to McHardy to survey Mr. McIntosh's land?

Answer. I am perfectly sure I gave McHardy directions to survey these lands.

Question. What is the reason you are sure you gave these directions?

Answer. Because I received field notes from him of the survey, and must, therefore, have given him directions.

Question. Did you make that plat of Marrott's island? Answer. I did.

Question. Who surveyed that?

Answer. I do not think it has been regularly surveyed, that is, regularly chained. McHardy gave me the field notes.

Question. Did you give McHardy orders to survey Marrott's island at the same time with the other tracts?

Answer. I did; though I cannot recollect the time.

Question. From whom did you receive the field notes of Marrott's island? Answer. From McHardy.

Question. What did you direct him to do in respect to these tracts?

Answer. I directed Charles Clarke to ascertain the front line of 6,000 acres, for the purpose of locating some other tracts. I also directed him to pass on the other tracts to see where they lay.

Question. Did he inform you of his being on these tracts?

Answer. He gave me a description of Marrott's island and the 6,000 acre tract.

Question. Whose lands were located by Clarke next to the 6,000 acre tract?

Answer. Argotes' tract, then Garvin's, and then he located his own land.

Question. Have you copies of Argotes' tract? Answer. I have.

- Question. Do you suppose that the person who made those surveys was an accurate surveyor?
 Answer. I have no reason to suppose otherwise.
- Question. Did you receive the field notes of Argotes' tract from Clarke? Answer. No: from McHardy.
- Question. Who surveyed Garvin's tract? Answer. McHardy.
- Question. Who surveyed Charles Clarke's tract? Answer. Charles Clarke himself.
- Question. When did he do it? Answer. I do not know whether it was in 1819 or 1820.
- Question. Do you think it could be in 1818? Answer. I do not know. I think it was in 1819 or 1820.
- Question. Do you recollect when Mr. McIntosh removed from Florida?
 Answer. About 1813, when the United States' troops left the province.
- Question. Did Mr. McIntosh remove all his negroes from Florida?
 Answer. He did all those within his control.
- Question. Where did he afterwards settle? Answer. In Georgia.
- Question. Did he ever bring them back? Answer. Never.
- Question. When did he take the benefit of the pardon?
 Answer. He returned personally to take the pardon in 1816 or 1817, but I am not certain.
- Question. Was it a special pardon? Answer. It was.
- Question. Has Marrott's island, or any part of it, been granted to any other person?
 Answer. I do not know whether it was ever surveyed or granted to any other person.
- Question. In the case where lands are granted in one entire tract, and that tract be abandoned, would not a re-grant of a part of that tract be a forfeiture of the whole?
 Answer. That depended on the inclination of the Governor.
- Question. Would the Governor have re-granted that land if he considered it as appertaining to the royal domain? Answer. This I am unable to answer.
- Question. Why do you suppose that it depended upon the will of the Governor to make this forfeiture?
 Answer. Because, as he was arbitrary, there was no one to oppose him.
- Question. Do you know what quantity of land Mr. McIntosh has in this country?
 Answer. I do not know exactly, but believe about 20,000 acres. His lands are generally valuable. The certificates were kept in a field book, which I have not.
- Question. Did the Government direct you to keep a field book? Answer. Yes.

Examined by Mr. Lancaster.

- Question. What validity, under the Spanish Government, had British grants, where the grantees had removed from the province under the treaty of 1783?
 Answer. If they had not recorded their grants, and got them recognised by the Spanish Government, they had no validity. Recorded and recognised are the same thing. All persons who claimed lands under British grants came forward, and had them recorded.
- Question. Upon what conditions were these British grants recorded, and what has the grantee to conform to?
 Answer. The grants were recorded upon condition of taking the oath of allegiance.
- Question. Were they recorded upon any other condition? Answer. No, sir.
- Question. Were those rules rigidly enforced, and the lands forfeited in consequence of their not being observed?
 Answer. Yes.
- Question. What was the evidence of forfeiture? Answer. Their being granted to another person.
- Question. Was the re-granting of lands the only mode of declaring them forfeited?
 Answer. I know of no other.

SATURDAY, December 13, 1823.

Testimony of Mr. Segin. Examined by Mr. Macon.

- Question. What is your age? Answer. Thirty-eight years.
- Question. How long have you resided in the province? Answer. Ever since I was born.
- Question. Were you a clerk in any office? Answer. I was a clerk in the escrivano's office.
- Question. How old were you when you were first taken into that office?
 Answer. About fourteen or fifteen years.
- Question. How long did you write in that office? Answer. About ten or twelve years.
- Question. Were the grants recorded in the office in which you wrote?
 Answer. The royal titles were, but not the grants.
- Question. Were you in the escrivano's office during Governor White's administration? Answer. I was.
- Question. Up to what period did you remain in that office?
 Answer. From 1800 to 1806 or 1807, and from 1809 to 1812 or '13.
- Question. Did you continue in the office in any other capacity?
 Answer. In 1812 or 1813 Mr. Entralgo and myself were appointed escrivanos pro tem. on account of the death of Zubizarreta.
- Question. How long did you continue as acting escrivano?
 Answer. Until some time in 1814, when Mr. Entralgo was appointed by the King as escrivano?
- Question. After the period of 1814, had you any charge in the office? Answer. Not officially.
- Question. Were you not very intimate, and frequently attending the office, after the period of 1814?
 Answer. I was appointed escrivano at Fernandina, and continued in that appointment until 1817.
- Question. When you were at Fernandina, was it your duty to record grants to lands in your office?
 Answer. It was not, but merely deeds and conveyances.
- Question. After your return from Fernandina in 1817, did you not frequent the escrivano's office?
 Answer. When business called me there.
- Question. As far as you were advised, did not the customs of the escrivano's office continue the same after you left it, as when you were in it? Answer. They did.
- Question. Do you not suppose that, if the customs were changed, you would have known it?
 Answer. I suppose I should.
- Question. After your return from Fernandina, in the business you transacted with them, did you not find the same customs prevailing as before? Answer. I did.
- Question. Were the concessions issued from the escrivano's office?
 Answer. They were not; they were issued from the Secretary's office, and the royal titles from the escrivano's office.

Question. Had the escrivano any thing to do but the bare registering of the royal titles? Answer. He had not.

Question. What do you mean by recording?

Answer. The original was placed in the care of the escrivano, who gave certified copies of them when required of him.

Question. Whose duty was it to make out the royal title?

Answer. The escrivano's, by order of the Governor. The royal title was made out by the escrivano, and taken to the Governor to sign, after which it was returned to the escrivano, who filed it in his office. The escrivano made out the royal title when the Governor was satisfied that the party was entitled to it.

Question. Was it not usual to consult the escrivano previous to any application for royal titles?

Answer. It was not necessary, though it was sometimes done.

Question. When a party applying for confirmatory titles to the Governor, was it not necessary to satisfy him that the conditions were performed?

Answer. It was, and he would not issue them unless satisfied.

Question. In what manner did the parties satisfy the Governor that they had complied with the condition?

Answer. He directed the party to prove by witnesses before him, the escrivano, or judge, that they had done so.

Question. Was it always required that the party examined should be put on oath? Answer. Always.

Question. Was it not always necessary for the party to prove by witnesses, in addition to his own oath, the compliance with the conditions of the concession? Answer. It was.

Question. Were you ever present when the party claiming royal titles proved the compliance of the conditions of the concession? Answer. Several times.

Question. Were not the examination of those witnesses in these cases strict? Answer. Yes.

Question. Do you know of any royal title being refused by the Governor for a non-compliance of conditions?

Answer. None. The parties would not dare go before the Governor, if they had not complied with the conditions.

Question. Do you know of any person failing to apply for royal titles who had a concession, and had not complied with the conditions? Answer. I do not know of any person.

Question. Was it necessary to locate the lands granted in correspondence with the description of the concession?

Answer. It was generally so.

Question. When a party obtained a concession which was occupied, was it not necessary to petition for a new location on vacant lands? Answer. Yes, it was.

Question. How was the legality of the previous possession ascertained?

Answer. By the previous occupant proving his possession by his certificate.

Question. Were not the original concessions found in the Secretary's office? Answer. They were.

Question. Where a person had a concession for a tract of land, adversely occupied, would the Governor allow him to locate it elsewhere? Answer. Yes.

Question. Do you think that when a person had obtained concession of lands for head-rights, and when it was shown to the Governor that he had removed his head-rights out of the Spanish dominion, that the concession would be confirmed by royal title? Answer. I cannot say, having never known such a case.

Question. When a person had a concession of land for head-rights, was it not necessary to settle them on the lands conceded before he applied for the royal title?

Answer. If his head-rights were one hundred, by placing one upon the land, it would be considered as complying with the conditions.

Question. Where a person applying for royal title in confirmation of his concession for head-rights, was it not necessary to prove to the Governor that he had the head-rights? Answer. I believe it was.

Question. When a party applied for a confirmation of a concession of head-rights, and it was shown to the court that the party had removed himself, his family, and negroes out of the Spanish dominion, that the Governor would have given a royal title? Answer. I think he would not.

Question. Was not Governor White very rigid in exacting a compliance of the conditions annexed to concessions of lands? Answer. I do not think that Governor White was more rigid than the other Governors.

Question. Do you think that the situation which you were in permitted you to know whether Governor White was more rigid than the other Governors? Answer. Yes, I could perceive that whilst I was in the office.

Question. Was not the public domain highly estimated by the Governors?

Answer. You must show services before you could obtain grants, and lands could not be purchased for money.

Question. When a person was injured by the Governor could he not appeal to a higher tribunal?

Answer. Yes.

Question. Was not a decree of the Governor considered the law of the land until it was reversed by a higher tribunal? Answer. Yes.

Question. During the Spanish Government did you not practise law here? Answer. Yes.

Question. How were the British titles of such claimants as removed from here under the treaty of 1783 regarded by the Spanish administration of this country since that time?

Answer. I do not know: I was not born until 1785.

By Judge Floyd.

Question. Could any other person have any thing to do with the public lands but the Governor?

Answer. No one.

Question. Was the Governor tenacious of this right? Answer. He was.

MONDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 15, 1823.

Mr. Perpall re-examined by Mr. Macon.

Question. Have you been a resident of this country since the year 1790?

Answer. No. I left this country in 1790, and returned in 1803.

Question. Have you resided since 1803 in St. Augustine? Answer. I have.

Question. What time of 1803 did you return? Answer. On the 29th June.

Question. Was Colonel White Governor of the province when you returned? Answer. He was.

Question. Were you well acquainted with Governor White? Answer. I was.

Question. Have you not also been well acquainted with all the Governors that succeeded him?

Answer. I have.

Question. Was not Governor White remarkably rigid in a compliance of his official duties? Answer. He was.

Question. Was he not also very particular in granting the public lands? Answer. He was.

Question. As far as you know, did not Governor White exact a rigid compliance with all the conditions annexed in the concessions of lands?

Answer. He did, as far as I know: he was the most rigid Governor we have had in that respect.

Question. As far as you know, were not Governor White's officers very much in awe of him?

Answer. They were.

Question. Did not persons, petitioning for lands from Governor White for their head-rights, find great difficulty in obtaining them? Answer. No difficulty, upon proving what they were entitled to.

Question. Was it not a principle of the Spanish Government, in granting land, to procure population or reward services? Answer. It was: but there were no grants for services until the year 1815—meaning military services.

By Mr. Lancaster.

Question. Had the Governors not discretionary powers, at all times, to grant lands? Answer. I do not know.

Question. Was it not always a custom with the Governor to grant lands for the erection of mills?

Answer. It was.

Question. Was it not also the custom to grant lands for making tanyards?

Answer. Yes, or any other machinery that was beneficial to the country.

Question. Did they not also grant lands for cowpens? Answer. Yes.

Question. Was it not also customary to grant lands for turtle crawls?

Answer. A person fishing for turtle in Indian river applied for lands as head-rights, which were granted him.

Question. Were these various grants, as far as you know, under any particular order?

Answer. They were made pursuant to the order of 1790. Where lands were granted for the erection of mills, tanyards, and cowpens, they were never given in fee simple, and the lands reverted to the King when the parties thought proper to remove therefrom.

Question. When a tanyard had been erected, did you ever know a royal title to be given?

Answer. I do not know that it was ever given.

Question. Do you know what validity the Spanish Government gave to British grants, where the grantees moved out of the province under the treaty of 1783?

Answer. None, except they remained here and took the oath of allegiance.

By Mr. Hamilton.

Question. Do you believe that the Governors had the power to grant a definite quantity of lands?

Answer. I do not know.

Question. Have you seen the royal order of 1790? Answer. I have of 1790, 1791, 1792, 1793, and 1815.

Question. Have you these royal orders? Answer. I have.

Question. Will you produce them to the board? Answer. I will.

Question. How did you get them? Answer. From my brother-in-law, Mr. Arribas, at Havana.

Question. Have you seen the regulations made by Governor White?

Answer. I have: they were made on account of a difference existing with the settlers at Musquito.

Question. Were these rules adhered to by the other Governors?

Answer. They were, except the diminution of the quantity relative to head-rights.

Question. Have you seen any other rules by Governor White? Answer. No.

Question. Have you got a copy of the regulations by Governor White? Answer. I have not.

Question. Did you, at any time, apply for lands as head-rights? Answer. I have.

Question. What course did you pursue, considering yourself acting in pursuance to the regulations?

Answer. I presented my memorial asking for lands according to the number of head-rights, and they were granted to me on conditions of taking possession and cultivating the same for ten years.

Question. At the expiration of ten years, was it necessary to prove the possession and cultivation before you obtained royal titles? Answer. It was.

Question. Was your own oath necessary, with other evidence? Answer. It was.

Question. Was there much form and strictness in making this examination?

Answer. There was of form, but not of strictness.

Question. Was it not always necessary that proof should be given on a substantial compliance of the conditions? Answer. It was.

Question. Would it be a compliance of the conditions if the grantee should put but two negroes on the lands, and cultivate elsewhere? Answer. It would.

Question. How do you reconcile the present answer with a former one, that it would be necessary to prove that you had cultivated the lands, and placed your head-rights thereon to get royal titles?

Answer. I do not mean to be understood that it was necessary to have uninterrupted possession with the head-rights, and that the lands granted should be cultivated for ten years successively: possession and cultivation during the ten years were sufficient. A substantial performance was all that was necessary. In order to get a royal title, it was necessary to petition for the same; and, upon proof of the performance of the conditions in the concession, it was granted.

Question. If the lands were abandoned for two years, did he not grant those lands to others?

Answer. I believe not, if the parties were in the province, and had their head-rights with them.

Question. If a petitioner were in possession of the lands, and cultivated the same, would he grant him other land? Answer. He would grant him other lands for the surplus of his head-rights.

Question. If a person were to place his head-rights on lands at Musquito and move them on other lands, would he be entitled to a royal title for the first, provided his head-rights were in the territory.

Answer. If his head-rights were in the province he would be entitled to it.

Question. Was it not necessary to obtain from the Governor an order of survey, in order to have lands surveyed? Answer. It was.

Question. Was there any other person to whom you could apply for an order to survey?

Answer. There was not.

Question. Was it not necessary to petition the Governor for permission to change the location of lands?

Answer. It was.

Question. Did you ever apply to the Governor for permission to change location?

Answer. I did make one application. It was commonly thought necessary, and it was granted where a person could show good cause for the same.

Question. Could you not obtain this change of location by applying to the Surveyor General?

Answer. No; to the Governor.

Question. Could you change metes and bounds of a tract without applying to the Governor? Answer. No.

Question. Do you think the surveyor, without presenting a petition to the Governor, [could] change the survey? Answer. I do not believe he could.

Question. When grants were made in one entire tract, had the surveyor, without permission of the Governor, power to divide it in various tracts? Answer. I believe not.

Question. Did you ever know of an instance of such a change? Answer. No.

Question. Did you ever know an application to the Governor to divide the location?

Answer. Not in my knowledge.

Question. What was the nature of the lands granted for saw-mills? Answer. Pine barren, generally.

Question. If, in these lands for mill seats there should be plantable lands, would not the Governor grant them to persons applying for the same? Answer. I do not know.

Question. Was it, or was it not, necessary that the Surveyor General should survey himself, or could he do so by deputies?

Answer. He might appoint a deputy, but it was his, the Surveyor General's, duty, to certify the same.

Question. Was it not the duty of the Surveyor General to make a report of all the surveys made?

Answer. I believe not.

Question. Was there at any time, to your knowledge, a Surveyor General's office kept in this city?

Answer. Not to my knowledge.

Question. For the last twelve years where did the Surveyor General reside?

Answer. I do not know; but understood that Mr. Clarke was Surveyor General, and he resided at St. Mary's.

Question. Had you any doubts that Mr. Clarke was Surveyor General? Answer. None.

Question. Where did Mr. Clarke reside when Surveyor General?

Answer. Generally at St. Mary's, but visited St. Augustine now and then.

Question. When the Surveyor General was absent, how did persons get their lands surveyed?

Answer. By representing to the Governor that he was absent, and requesting a special surveyor should be appointed.

Question. Do you know whether the Governor gave Mr. Clarke verbal powers, independent of his written instructions, as to the division of lands?

Answer. I do not know. If any, it was Governor Coppinger; he had great confidence in Mr. Clarke.

Question. As you were intimate with Governor White, you know whether his acts in this province were approved of by the Captain General of Cuba?

Answer. I do not know: he was a cautious, discreet man, and never communicated his official concerns to any person.

Question. When Mr. Clarke visited this city did it cause any degree of interest among the inhabitants?

Answer. No.

By Mr. Floyd.

Question. Do you know when there was a Surveyor General appointed? Answer. I do not.

Question. Did you ever see the instructions to the Surveyor General? Answer. No.

Question. If a person introduced a number of head-rights, obtained for them a concession, and afterwards, before the ten years had expired, by misfortune lost them or sold them, would his grant be confirmed?

Answer. I think it would.

By Mr. Blair.

Question. Are those regulations before you the same published by Governor White in 1803?

Answer. They are.

Question. Do you think the lands granted by other Governors governed by those regulations?

Answer. I believe they were, except what appertains to head-rights.

Question. Was the regulation prescribing the shape of lands adhered to by Governor White and his successors?

Answer. They were attended to by Governor White, but not by his successors.

Question. When two persons' lands interfered, had each not a right to call for a re-survey, according to the regulations of 1803? Yes.

Question. Did not the Governors subsequent to White, require the regulation laying off land one-third in front and two-thirds in rear, to be conformed to? Answer. Only where individuals required it.

Question. Were foreigners permitted to hold lands in Florida?

Answer. No, unless they took the oath of allegiance.

By Mr. Lancaster.

Question. When grants were located on lands previously occupied, was it not a matter of course to locate them elsewhere? Answer. It was.

By Judge Floyd.

Question. What was the rule where the land called for was discovered to be covered by water, or was not good?

Answer. To locate elsewhere, upon application to the Governor.

TUESDAY, December 16, 1823.

Mr. Andrew Burgevin, by Mr. Hamilton.

Question. How long have you resided in this country? Answer. Since October, 1817.

Question. What has been your employment since your arrival?

Answer. I was appointed surveyor some months after my arrival.

Question. By whom were you appointed?

Answer. First by Mr. Clarke, as one of his deputies, and afterwards by the Governor; that is to say, when a person wished a survey, I got a license from the Governor.

Question. Did you make any surveys? Answer. Yes.

Question. When you received your license from the Governor, did you receive any instructions? Answer. No.

Question. Were you ordered to obey the instructions of George Clarke, by the Governor? Answer. I was not.

Question. To whom did you make returns? Answer. To the owners of the lands.

Question. Did you not consider yourself bound, when you were called on to survey, to give one-third front and two-thirds depth?

Answer. I never received any instructions on the subject.

Question. When have you seen George Clarke? Answer. I do not remember.

Question. Have you not conversed with him within the last week? Answer. I do not know whether I did or not.

Question. When you had an order of survey, were you accurate in the surveys?

Answer. I was; and always went on the lands to survey.

Question. Did you ever certify to plats of land which you never surveyed?

Answer. When I received an order of survey, I went on the lands.

Question. Did you make actual surveys in all cases where you have given certificates?

Answer. I went upon the land, but was sometimes prevented from making the survey, for fear of being murdered by the Indians.

Question. Do you know whether Mr. McHardy had an appointment from the Governor as surveyor?

Answer. Mr. McHardy surveyed as I did.

Question. Did Mr. Clarke direct you to make a survey for him? Answer. He did.

Question. Did you ever survey lands belonging to Mr. Clarke?

Answer. I did, by an order from the Governor, obtained by petition.

Question. What tract did you survey for him? Answer. A tract in Alachua.

Question. Did you go to that land in Alachua, and make the survey?

Answer. I did go to Alachua, but did not go round the land. I have not been in the Hammock.

Question. Was Mr. Clarke aware as to the manner you surveyed the land?

Answer. I believe he was; and that Mr. Clarke knew, or was aware, that it could not be done otherwise.

Question. Did Mr. Clarke tell you it was unnecessary to go upon the land to be surveyed? Answer. He did not.

Question. Did Mr. Clarke tell you it was unnecessary to make actual surveys?

Answer. Yes, provided the survey could not be made.

Question. Have you not made many surveys since 1818?

Answer. I have. The original survey was given to the owner, who deposited it in Mr. Entralgo's office.

Question. Did Clarke give you any written instructions? Answer. He did not.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, December 17, 1823.

Daniel Hurlbert, by Mr. Macon.

Question. What year did you settle in this country?

Answer. I became a Spanish subject in the latter part of 1801, or the first part of 1802.

Question. When you first came into this country did you apply for lands?

Answer. It was near two years after I came into the country that I applied for lands.

Question. When you applied for lands did you apply for your head-rights? Answer. Yes.

Question. In what manner did you make this application? Answer. By memorial to the Governor.

Question. Before you got a final title was it not necessary to prove to the Governor the number of head-rights stated in the memorial?

Answer. It was; the concession which I had was conditional.

Question. At the time you applied for your head-rights was it not necessary to produce them? Answer. It was.

Question. As far as you know was this necessary? Answer. Generally.

Question. Do you know of any instance where this was not done? Answer. I do not.

Question. Do you not believe it was always necessary? Answer. I do.

Question. Do you know in what manner orders of survey were procured?

Answer. Yes; by a memorial to the Governor.

Question. Was that order directed to any particular person? Answer. It was directed to the surveyor.

Question. In order to change the location of lands was it not necessary to memorialize the Governor?

Answer. Certainly.

Question. Do you know of an instance where the Governor refused to change the location of lands?

Answer. Never, except with the interference of a third person.

Question. Where persons changed their location did you not know that they applied to Government?

Answer. Yes.

Question. As far as you know, was it not necessary that the conditions of grants should be substantially complied with?

Answer. Yes, it was.

By Mr. Hamilton.

Question. Was it necessary to take possession and cultivate the land?

Answer. According to the time of the grant.

Question. Where lands were granted to a person for head-rights, and the grantee should put one or two negroes on the grant, would it be considered as complying with the conditions?

Answer. It would be, if the head-rights remained in the province.

Question. Do you know any thing of the instructions of the Surveyor General? Answer. I do not.

By Mr. Blair.

Question. Do you know what has been the custom in forfeiting lands?

Answer. In the time of Governor White they were much more strict than latterly.

Question. Do you know whether it was the custom of the country to require the person to put all his head-rights on the lands granted him?

Answer. It was not customary to put all the head-rights on the lands granted him.

Question. In case where a person came into the province, and procured lands in separate parcels, was he obliged to take possession of each separate tract?

Answer. It has not been the custom while the head-rights remained in the province.

Question. Where a person procured land for head-rights, and settled the head-rights on land purchased, would the person be entitled to the land conceded?

Answer. Yes; provided the head-rights remained in the Territory.

Question. What did you consider taking possession of the land?

Answer. Upon putting my head-rights upon the lands granted. It was necessary, also, to cultivate the land to take possession. Government granted land for the purpose of populating the country.

Examined by Judge Floyd.

Question. Was it customary for the order of survey to be contained in the concession?

Answer. No; you were obliged to petition Government.

Question. Do you know when the Surveyor General was appointed? Answer. I do not.

Question. Do you know what were the rules and regulations in the Surveyor General's office? Answer. No.

Question. Were there regulations? Answer. There were.

Question. Do you know if George Clarke was appointed Surveyor General? Answer. I understood so.

Question. Do you know by whom he was appointed?

Answer. By Governor Coppinger or Kindelan; but I do not know by which.

Farquhar Bethune sworn and examined on behalf of the United States.

Witness says, I have been a resident in the Territory since 1803; and in and about 1805 I saw Mr. McIntosh at Fort George, with a large number of negroes, which, I believe, he informed me he had introduced from Georgia. I also know that Mr. McIntosh did, in 1812 or 1813, carry back a large number of negroes into Georgia, and that they were never brought back under the Spanish Government. I presume that Mr. McIntosh brought as many as one hundred and fifty negroes into the province. I have understood, from what source I cannot recollect, that Mr. McIntosh purchased some of Mr. McQueen's negroes. I heard of the regulations of Governor White, I think, in the year 1805 or 1806. I have seen them: I considered them as official acts, and binding while he was Governor. We obtained land under him by memorial setting forth our head-rights; upon which the concession was issued, corresponding to the representation of those head-rights; they were granted on condition of locating by a certain time, but the concession was not considered forfeited by a non-compliance in the stated time; royal titles would not be given unless the parties would show they had complied with the conditions: I allude now to the royal order of 1790. Previous to the appointment of Surveyor General it was necessary, when a tract of land was granted, and found to be in possession of another, to apply by memorial to the Governor for permission to change the location; but if not in possession, and after the appointment of a Surveyor General, it was unnecessary. I have lands, the location of which was made without application to the Governor. I claim one small tract, the location of which was changed by a decision of the tribunal, there being a difficulty as to the concession or grant, there having been a grant or concession made previously to another person, who came forward and made a representation of the case; upon which the judge ordered that I should be allowed to change the location. I also claim one large tract, a mill seat, for sixteen thousand acres: the change of location of this claim was made in 1817 or 1818. The general regulations for surveying lands under the royal order of 1790, granted for head-rights, were, that, when upon rivers, they should be one-third front, and two-thirds back. The same regulations were not pursued in the location of lands under the royal order of 1815. My lands are in the interior, upon a creek partly navigable. I understood from the Surveyor General, and from no other public officer, that it was not necessary to apply for permission to change location of land. I applied to Mr. Clarke to know what was necessary to be done to insure a change of location. I was induced to this, by knowing changes of the kind made by particular surveyors, and I supposed that the Surveyor General had better authority for so doing than the private surveyors had.

Question. Did you ever understand from Mr. Clarke that he was vested by the Government with the discretionary power of changing the location of lands?

Answer. Mr. Clarke informed me that he had that power by virtue of his office.

Question. Did you ever know this to be done by any other person than George J. F. Clarke?

Answer. There was no other surveyor here.

Question. In case a grant was made, and the land granted was found vacant, and that it had been so for more than two years, although granted to another, would not the first grantee lose his right to it?

Answer. In such cases the Government required the first grantee to be cited, and, in case he could not show good reasons for his not complying with the conditions of his grant, he lost all title to the same.

Question. Would not it be considered as prima facie evidence in case the land had been vacant for two years in succession; and would not the first grantee be then obliged, in defence of his claim, to come forward and show cause why he had not complied with the conditions of the grant?

Answer. When the first claimant resisted the grant to the second was then cited by the first.

Question. When a tract of land was granted to a second person, and found to be in legal possession of the first grantee, what was the course pursued?

Answer. It was a requisite, previous to the appointment of a Surveyor General, for the second grantee to present a memorial to the Governor stating the case, and petition for a change of location. Those persons in the neighborhood of St. Augustine, after the appointment of Surveyor General, applied to Government. The Surveyor General resided, previous to 1817, at St. Mary's, (Georgia.) The regulation of Governor White was, that any lands which had been vacant for more than two years reverted to the Government, and were liable to be disposed of. This regulation, however, was not enforced. It referred, I believe, to persons in general, without regard to their being in or out of the Territory. I was a judge under the Spanish Government for two years, in 1813 and 1814. My jurisdiction was unlimited as to object and amount: the parties could appeal for any amount above one hundred dollars. It was necessary that I should make myself acquainted with the orders and regulations of the Governors. In deciding differences relating to lands I considered myself as bound to conform to the orders and regulations of the Governor. Disputes concerning lands were settled or adjudicated upon by the judge and Governor, (constituting what was called the tribunal,) instituted either originally or by appeal. The regulations of the Governors were considered as the laws of the land, subject to be changed by the Governor who promulgated them, or his successors. That the permission to change the location of concessions was a matter of course, and the memorial requesting this permission was equally a matter of form. A concession was always considered as a good title against the Government, subject, alone, when the land was previously granted and in possession, to a change of location.

Question. Did you ever know of a refusal of permission to change the location upon reasonable grounds?

Answer. Never.

Question. In order to divide a concession in two parts was it not necessary to apply to the Governor for permission?

Answer. It was before the appointment of a Surveyor General.

Question. Have you any grant or concession which was divided by the Surveyor General?

Answer. Yes, the mill grant was so divided; this was in 1818.

Question. What was the fate of lands which had been granted by the British Government by the operation of the treaty with Great Britain in 1783?

Answer. Those persons who remained and took the oath of allegiance were confirmed in their titles; but those who left the country lost their claims, and the land reverted to the Spanish Government.

Question. Could any person, having lands granted to him for head-rights, obtain other lands without showing that he had fulfilled the conditions of the first, and introducing additional negroes?

Answer. He could not, unless he could show that the first lands were not sufficient for his hands.

Question. What was the character of Governor White?

Answer. He was a man of strict integrity, and was distinguished for the scrupulous performance of the duties of his office.

Question. Was he considered as lavish of the public lands? Answer. Quite the contrary.

Question. At what time did he come into office? Answer. In about 1794 or 1795.

Question. When did he die? Answer. In 1811.

Question. What was the character of Governor Kindelan?

Answer. A respectable man, and a man of integrity.

Question. Was he strict in the discharge of his duty?

Answer. Very much so: as much so as White, but a more polished man than White: he was quite an intelligent man. During the time of White and Kindelan there was no Surveyor General: persons were sometimes appointed to survey a particular district.

Question. Had either of those persons appointed power to change the location within their district?

Answer. I fancy they had not.

Question. When persons applied for lands to Governor White or Governor Kindelan, did they not require that proof should be made of the performance of the conditions?

Answer. Yes.

Question. Was not this proof made before the tribunal? Answer. Yes.

Question. Would either of those Governors issue royal titles unless they were satisfied that the grantees had acted in good faith?

Answer. They would not.

Question. When permission or grants were given for cowpens, did not the Government reserve to itself the right of granting away all the plantable lands included in it?

Answer. I do not know.

Question. What was the estate conveyed by permission to pasture?

Answer. I believe an absolute one to the applicant and his heirs.

Question. Upon a disuse it reverted to the Government? Answer. I am unable to say.

Question. Did you not always understand that the Government of Cuba approved of the conduct of Governor White?

Answer. I have always understood so.

Question. By whom were the Governors of this province appointed? Answer. By the King.

Question. White and Kindelan were both appointed by the King?

Answer. Kindelan was a brigadier general, and White a colonel, at the time of their appointments.

Question. Who appointed Coppinger? Answer. The captain general of Cuba.

Question. Did he come from Cuba here? Answer. Yes, sir.

Question. What rank had he? Answer. He was a colonel.

Question. What was his character?

Answer. In my opinion much less respectable than either of the others.

Question. Was he not considered as negligent of the duties of his office?

Answer. I considered him lax.

Question. Was he considered as an honest man?

Answer. I do not think that, in point of integrity, he stood so high as White or Kindelan.

Question. Was it not supposed that, by a proper application to Governor Coppinger, improper favors might be obtained? Answer. A suspicion was entertained, by many, of his honesty: I know not how correctly.

The commissioners have found it difficult to elicit many general principles from the uncertain and conflicting evidence before us. It will be perceived, by the examinations of the most intelligent and respectable inhabitants of the Territory, that the royal orders, addressed to the Governors of this province, did nothing more than announce the royal will, leaving it to the local authorities to adopt and arrange all the means necessary to carry it into execution. These administrative arrangements seem, in some cases, to enlarge, and sometimes to narrow, the operations of the order. They were sometimes in writing, and published to the community, but were often adopted in practice without any written authority. None of the written rules seem to have been uniformly adhered to by all the Governors; and the practice changed, not only with the change of officers, but, also, with every alteration in the circumstances and condition of the country.

Under these circumstances, we have felt ourselves bound to regard the actual practice of the Government, by its various functionaries, rather than adhere to the neglected rules published by the local authorities, particularly where they seemed to be in opposition. This rule we felt ourselves bound to adopt in justice to the community, first, because the will of the Governor, whether written or unwritten, was the rule of conduct to all the other functionaries, and equally authoritative when it was equally well ascertained; second, because the people were bound to conform to existing customs, as there was no tribunal to which they could appeal to enforce the execution of any written law or regulation. We also felt ourselves bound to confirm, or recommend for confirmation, all cases consummated by royal title, without condition, and when no evidence of fraud, either against the Government of Spain or the United States was produced before us, because such grants would evidently be valid against the Spanish Government—a rule prescribed by the treaty itself, and repeated in the act of Congress passed on the 8th of May, 1822. Besides which, it would evidently be attended by the most unjust consequences to the grantees, in such cases, to go back beyond the grant, and, after years have elapsed, and a considerable portion of the population have left the country, to require proof of conditions performed or services rendered. But, although we receive an unconditional royal grant, as prima facie evidence of right, we do not preclude ourselves from inquiring into the verity of the grant itself, or whether it may not have been antedated.

In relation to conditions we have, in general, required proof of a substantial compliance, according to the actual practice of the Government; but it will be perceived they were of various kinds, and the consequences of non-performance still more various, and, withal, entirely uncertain, depending on the discretion of the Governors. Under these circumstances it has been found difficult to digest any set of rules to embrace so great a variety of cases. We have exercised our best discretion in doing substantial justice between the United States and all such claimants.

COPIES OF DECREES.

Ramon de Fuentes vs. the United States.

This is a claim for a house and lot in the city of St. Augustine, known and designated in the schedule of the buildings and lots in said city as lot No. 203, in square 28, measuring upon its front from east to west fifteen Spanish yards, and in depth, from north to south, sixty Spanish yards, with its improvements and appurtenances. Upon this day this cause came on to be heard, and upon exhibits therein filed, and the testimony of Peter Miranda, Charles W. Clarke, Nicholas Rodriguez, Francis Medicis, being therein taken, and the board being sufficiently advised of and concerning the premises, do order and decree that all claim of the United States of and to said lot be released to said claimant; which decree was ordered to be recorded.

JANUARY 16, 1824.

James Bosley vs. the United States. Claim to five hundred acres of land at Moultrie.

In this case James Bosley claims five hundred acres of land at Bella Vista, or Moultrie, in virtue of a deed of bargain and sale from William G. D. Worthington, dated 8th of October, 1822, who derived title from Charles Gobert and others, dated 26th February, 1822, who derived title in virtue of a public sale of property of José Maria de la Torre, who, by a memorial and decree of the Governor of East Florida, dated 30th July, 1806, claimed the same. It also appeared in evidence that the said Charles Gobert, who received the lands subject to the same conditions on which they were granted to José Maria de la Torre, took possession, and held uninterrupted possession of the same up to the end of the year 1820. This being all the evidence in the case which was submitted to the board, and they being fully advised of and concerning the premises, give the following opinion, to wit: The claimant, James Bosley, having produced a regular claim of title from the competent Spanish authorities, to himself, the only question which could arise, (the power of the Governor being admitted to grant lands,) is whether the conditions contained in the original concession have been complied with, and whether the transfers have been such as were conformable to the regulations and laws of the Spanish provinces. From all the researches which we have been able to make, we find no difficulty in deciding that, in the year 1806, lands were granted under the royal order of 1790, to such settlers as, of their own free will, presented themselves and swore allegiance; and in proportion to the number of their families, and grants made from 1790 to 1803, (29th October,) were regulated by certain edicts of the King—vide 1791. To remedy certain evils, and which had become manifest, the acting Governor adopted certain rules and regulations to be observed in granting lands—vide regulations 29th October, 1803. We find another regulation, that no title of absolute property would be given until the grantee had occupied or held possession ten years. This regulation we have received incidentally from other documents and oral testimony, there being no such written documents within our reach. Those regulations of 1803, had sundry other conditions applicable to ordinary cases, which it is unnecessary here to examine. As the then Governor ordered this five hundred acres of land to be sold for the payment of the debts of the original grantee, we feel bound to presume that he possessed the power, and that no failure had taken place previous to the sale; and, as no other condition could, with propriety, apply to the purchaser than the holding possession, cultivating, &c., we feel no hesitation, from the evidence in the case, and orders and regulations of the Spanish authorities, in ordering and adjudging, and we do hereby order and adjudge, that the claim which the United States may have to the land in question, be relinquished in favor of said James Bosley, and that he be confirmed in his title to the same, so far as the United States have an interest, and no further.

John H. McIntosh vs. the United States.

The claimant applied, by a memorial, to the Spanish Governor, on the 18th May, 1803, for a concession of land, under the royal order of 1790, allowing head-rights to new settlers, and obtained a grant for ten thousand nine hundred acres, it being the amount he was entitled to by the number of his family, but upon the condition, in substance, that he would take possession of said lands in twelve months from the date of the grant.

Whether he had performed this condition, or had afterwards forfeited the right acquired by its performance, were the questions before us which gave rise to the voluminous examination of facts attached to our report. We think it was sufficiently proved that Mr. McIntosh came into the province, with all his head-rights, within or about the time limited in the concession; that this was a substantial compliance with the views of the Government, but that custom made it necessary that he should settle a part on the lands conceded; that he did settle a small part of his force on one of the tracts; and that this was taking possession, according to the custom of the country, of the whole concession. We also think it is proved that he remained in the province, and employed his head-rights in planting, until the year 1812, when he removed them to the State of Georgia, where he has ever since remained. We do not think there is any evidence of a forfeiture under the written regulations, or the practice of the local Government, both of which required the fact of abandonment to be ascertained by a legal tribunal, and a subsequent grant to another person, to divest a right already vested by possession. We also find that Mr. McIntosh was pardoned by a special act of the King, in the year 1816 or 1817, which restored him, in general, to the privileges of a subject. We do therefore advise, that the claim of the United States in and to the aforesaid concession of land, ought to be relinquished to the said McIntosh.

Pedro Miranda vs. the United States. Memorial for 1,000 acres of land.

The claimant, in support of his title, produced, in evidence, a memorial and decree for a thousand acres of land, without conditions, dated January 2, 1816, to Don José Simeon Sanchez; also a deed of bargain and sale from José Simeon Sanchez, for the said one thousand acres of land, dated April 15, 1823. This case being submitted, and the board being fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge, that the claim of the said Pedro Miranda be confirmed to him and his heirs, so far as the United States may have any interest to the one thousand acres of land aforesaid, and no further.

Bernardo Segui vs. the United States. Memorial for 7,000 acres of land.

The claimant in this case produced, in evidence, a memorial and decree of absolute property from the Governor, dated December 20, 1815, for seven thousand acres of land; as also a plat and certificate of survey, by which it appears that, in virtue of the decrees of the Cortes of January 22, 1813, and the royal order of 1815, there was granted to the claimant, in absolute property, the seven thousand acres of land, at the place set out in the memorial and certificate of survey; and as we conceive that, by the decrees and order aforesaid, the quantity to be apportioned, according to the merit of the applicant and the number of his family, was left alone to the discretion of the Governor for the time being, that title of the claimant would have been confirmed to him under the Spanish Government, we recommend the case to Congress for their confirmation.

Mary Ann Davis vs. the United States. Memorial for 500 acres of land.

The claimant, in support of her title, introduced sundry depositions, which went to prove that John Barker, the original grantee, made application to the Governor, in 1815 or 1816, for permission to settle on the King's road, at a place called Davis's creek, and occupy five hundred acres of land, and obtained permission from the Governor to settle there, with a promise to give a title at some future period; that the said Barker did settle on the land, and, after he had been on it for some time, the Governor offered to have the grant made out to him for the five hundred acres of land, but that he, Barker, was not able to pay the fees; that the family of Barker consisted of eight or nine, white and black; that the said Barker lived on the land from the year 1815 or 1816 till the year 1822; also a deed of bargain and sale from John Barker to claimant, Mary Ann Davis, dated September 12, 1822; that the said Barker enjoyed quiet and peaceable possession under the Spanish Government during the time aforesaid. The case being submitted, and the board being fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the claim of the said claimant, Mary Ann Davis, to the five hundred acres of land as described in her said memorial, be confirmed to her and her heirs, so far as the United States may have any interest to the same, and no further.

Samuel Fairbanks vs. the United States. Memorial for 240 acres of land.

The claimant, Samuel Fairbanks, claims one hundred and sixty acres of land as tenant in common with Polly Beardon, wife of William Beardon, who was Polly Gilbert, daughter of Robert Gilbert, deceased. The said Samuel Fairbanks claims title in virtue of a deed of bargain and sale, dated March 16, 1822, from Absalom Beardon and Hannah his wife, who was Hannah Gilbert, daughter of Robert Gilbert, deceased, for the quantity of eighty acres of land; and one other deed of bargain and sale, dated October 28, 1823, from Robert Gilbert, son and heir of Robert Gilbert, deceased, and Elizabeth his wife, for eighty acres of land. And the claimants, in support of their respective rights, produce an absolute title from the Government of Spain to Robert Gilbert, in which royal title is recapitulated the original memorial, decree, and order of survey, as far back as 1791, signed by the Governor of the province in 1815; and also the deposition of one witness, who proves that the said Robert Gilbert is the only son, and Polly Beardon and Hannah Beardon the only daughters, of Robert Gilbert, deceased; and, furthermore, that the said Robert Gilbert lived on and cultivated the land in question until his death in 1820; that the claimants are still in possession of the same. The case being submitted, and the board being fully advised of and concerning the premises, order and adjudge as follows: that is, that the title of the said Samuel Fairbanks, for the quantity of one hundred and sixty acres, be confirmed to him and his heirs; and that the quantity of eighty acres of the aforesaid tract of two hundred and forty be confirmed to Polly Beardon, wife of William Beardon, and her heirs, so far as the United States may have any claim to the same, and no further.

Moses E. Levy vs. the United States.

This is a claim for thirty-six thousand acres of land lying in Alachua. The claimant produced, in evidence, a certified copy of a concession or grant made to Fernando de la Maza Arredondo and son, by the sub-delegate general, superintendent of the island of Cuba and the two Floridas, Alexander Ramirez, bearing date December 22, 1817, for four leagues of land to each wind, reckoned from a point, or the settlement of Alachua, to lay in rectilineal figure, with the conditions imposed, that the grantee shall settle upon said lands two hundred Spanish families; and that, also, they should begin the said establishment in three years from the date of the grant; which proceeding occurred with the advice of the fiscal of the royal domain and the Surveyor General, under a royal order to the said superintendent, &c., dated September 3, 1817, requiring him to use all the means in his power to augment the population in Florida. The claimant also produced a deed of conveyance for thirty-six thousand acres of land, executed by F. M. Arredondo, agent and attorney in fact for F. M. Arredondo and son, bearing date January 2, 1822, in exchange for another tract on Alligator creek, for which it is in proof claimant paid twenty-five thousand dollars. Claimant also produced, in evidence, a decree of the said sub-delegate general, superintendent of the island of Cuba, &c., dated December 2, 1820, allowing one year prolongation. It, however, appears, from the testimony of William T. Hall, (see exhibit F,) that the settlement did actually begin on the 12th of November, 1820, he, the deponent, being a Spanish subject employed to commence said settlement. Although, from much of the testimony taken in this cause, it appears that the hostile disposition of the Indians rendered a settlement difficult and precarious sooner than that period, and even then, yet, since that time (the testimony is abundant to show) a continuation of the settlement, the establishment of several families there, and a great expenditure of labor and money by the proprietors. It is in proof (see the depositions of F. P. Sanchez and Frederick Warburg) that Levy, the claimant, has expended, in the settlement of families, building houses, clearing lands, furnishing provisions, clothing, &c., upwards of $18,000; and that he has been making arrangements with many families in Europe, for several years past, to bring them to this country and settle them, for which purpose he purchased this tract of land. It is further in proof that there are settled on said grant fifty or more persons, of which about thirty have been introduced by Levy, the claimant, and that, amongst those he has introduced, there are five or six heads of families. Under all these circumstances, although it cannot be pretended that the condition of the grant to Arredondo has been complied with, we cannot but see a degree of merit in the claim of Mr. Levy for a part proportionate to his compliance, which entitles it to the peculiar consideration of Government. Whether the commissioners are bound to regard the merits of the original grant alone, or may decide upon the claims subsequently carved out of it, is a question upon which we have had some difficulty, and a difference of opinion; but, whatever may be the true construction of our powers, we have no difficulty in deciding in favor of the equity of Mr. Levy to have his claim confirmed to a quantity proportionate to the merit and extent of his compliance.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States. Memorial for 160 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, the memorial and decree of absolute property, for one hundred and sixty acres of land, to Juan Leonardy, dated 15th February, 1816; also, a plat and certificate of survey, dated 28th April, 1819, of the same; and also, a deed of sale from grantee to the claimant, for the land in question. And the case being submitted, and the board, fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of the claimant be confirmed to him and his heirs, so far as the United States have any interest, and no further.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States. Memorial for 400 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, a memorial and concession for four hundred acres of land, in the name of John Andrew, dated 8th October, 1801; also, a memorial, and certain evidence adduced, which prove that the grantee took possession of the land granted him, and cultivated it for some time; that, in consequence of the revolution in 1812, he had been compelled to leave it; also, a conveyance from grantee to claimant, dated 24th day of April, 1820; also, a plat and certificate of survey, dated the 18th August, 1818. This case having been submitted, and the board, being fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of claimant to the four hundred acres of land, as set out in his memorial, be confirmed to him, so far as the United States have interest, and no further.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States. Memorial for 5,000 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, a memorial and decree of the acting Governor for fifteen thousand acres of land, with authority to locate five thousand acres of it at Tocoy, five miles above Picolata, dated 24th December, 1817, to Juan Huertas; also, a plat and certificate of survey of the same, dated 9th of September, 1818; and also, a deed from the grantee to the claimant, for the five thousand acres of land set out in the memorial, dated 7th July, 1821. This case being submitted, and the board, being fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order that the same be reported to Congress for their confirmation, with our opinion that (no fraud having been suggested) the claim ought to be confirmed.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States. Memorial for 300 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, a memorial and decree for three hundred acres of land, in the name of Lewis Mattier, dated 3d February, 1801; also, an order of survey, dated the 26th April, 1821; also, a plat and certificate of survey of the same, dated 29th May, 1809; also, the certificate of R. McHardy and others, showing that the grantee had occupied the land in question, and cultivated it, for several years; and also, a deed from grantee to the claimant, dated 20th January, 1822. This case being submitted, and the board, fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of the claimant be confirmed to him and his heirs, so far as the United States have any interest, and no further.

Belton A. Copp vs. the United States. Memorial for 1,200 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, a memorial of Don Bernardo Segui, and a decree of the Governor accompanying the same, for twelve hundred acres of land, without condition, dated 22d January, 1818; also, a plat and certificate of survey of the lands in question, dated 1st August, 1818; also, a deed from the grantee to Don George

Fleming, dated the 18th January, 1819; also, a bill (or deed) of sale, from George Fleming to claimant, dated 23d day of August, 1821. This case being submitted, and it appearing that the claimant was not a resident in the province at the time of the cession, and the quantity claimed being over one thousand acres, we order and adjudge that the memorial, with all the evidence and documents, be forwarded to Congress for their determination, with our opinion that the claim ought to be confirmed.

William Berrie vs. the United States. Memorial for 350 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, an absolute grant from the Government for 350 acres of land, dated 12th February, 1817. This case being submitted, and the board, fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of claimant to the land in question be confirmed to him and his heirs, so far as the United States have any interest, and no further.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States. Memorial for 600 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, a memorial and decree of the Governor for a tract of land, dated 27th May, 1799, in the name of John Granoply, the quantity undefined; also, certain depositions taken, by which it is proved that the grantee had taken possession, and improved the lands in question, by erecting buildings on it, clearing a small piece of the land, and establishing a cowpen; that possession was uninterrupted till 1819, December 29, when the grantee conveyed the land in question to the claimant, by deed of that date; also, a plat and certificate of survey of six hundred acres of land, pursuant to the memorial and decree aforesaid; also, the deposition of Don Bartolomé de Castro y Ferrer and others, proving that the grantee was a subject of the King of Spain, and resident in this province, at the change of flags. This case being submitted, and the board, being advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the memorial, and evidence accompanying the same, be forwarded to Congress for their determination. The quantity being undefined, we conceive that, notwithstanding the claimant has made out a good equitable right to the land in question against the United States, yet, from the provisions of the act organizing this board, approved 8th May, 1822, the board are prohibited from confirming any claim, or part thereof, where the amount claimed is undefined.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States. Memorial for 2,000 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, a memorial and decree of the Governor, without condition, for the two thousand acres of land mentioned in his memorial, in the name of Pablo Rosette, dated 14th October, 1817; also, a plat and certificate of the same, of 25th July, 1818; as also, a deed of sale from grantee to claimant, dated 24th November, 1819; all of which we find to have been regularly executed according to the forms of the Governments under which they respectively took place.

The commissioners then referred to the parol examinations of Peter Miranda, &c., who were duly sworn in other cases of Mr. Gay, and who stated, in substance, that the said A. Gay had been a resident in the Territory of East Florida for a number of years, and was so at the exchange of flags. Wherefore, we do confirm unto the said A. Gay his right and title to the said claim of two thousand acres, as far as the United States have any interest, and no further.

John Huertas vs. the United States. Memorial for 15,000 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, an absolute title from the Governor for the 15,000 acres of land; that is to say, five thousand at Tocoy, and the remaining ten thousand on the St. John's river, dated the 24th December, 1817. Also, an order of survey, together with two plats and certificates of surveys, dated 4th June, 1822. This case being submitted, and the board fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that this case, with the memorial, documents, and other evidence, be forwarded to Congress, with our opinion that the same ought to be confirmed.

Eliza Robinson vs. the United States. Memorial for 105 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, a memorial in the name of Pedro Capo, and a decree of the Governor, dated the 5th of March, 1803; also, a deed of sale from the grantee to the claimant for the land in question, dated November 9, 1821; also, a plat and certificate of survey of the same. It was proved by Fran. J. Fatio that the original grantee, many years ago, cultivated the lands in question, and that he was a man of family. This case being submitted, and the board fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of claimant to the one hundred and five acres of land in question be confirmed to her and her heirs, so far as the United States have any claim, and no further.

Samuel Fairbanks, &c. vs. the United States. Memorial for 2,000 acres of land.

The claimants produced, in evidence, a memorial of Joseph S. Sanchez, and the decree of the Governor thereon, granting two thousand acres of land at the place mentioned, without condition; also, a deed from Joseph S. Sanchez and wife, and Antonio Alvarez and wife, for one undivided half of the land in question, to the claimant, Samuel Fairbanks. It further appeared, in evidence, that the claimants were both resident in the province at the cession. This case being submitted, and the board being fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of the claimants be confirmed to them and their heirs, as tenants in common, so far as the United States have any interest in the same, and no further.

Samuel Fairbanks vs. the United States. Memorial for 500 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, a memorial in the name of Rafael D. Fontaine, and the decree of the Governor granting him five hundred acres of land as petitioned for, without condition, dated 10th December, 1815; also, a plat and certificate of the survey of the same, dated 25th September, 1819; also, a deed from grantee to Samuel Fairbanks, dated 10th April, 1823. This case being submitted, and the board being fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of the claimant to the five hundred acres of land, as set out in his memorial, be confirmed to him, so far as the United States have any interest in the same, and no further.

Peter Bagley vs. the United States. Memorial for 200 acres of land.

The claimant produced in evidence a memorial of Reuben Hogan, dated 19th December, 1799, and the decree of the Governor, dated 20th December, 1799; also, relinquishment from grantee to claimant, dated the 4th day of March, 1823. This case being submitted, and the board being fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of the claimant to the two hundred acres of land, as set out in his memorial, be confirmed to him and his heirs so far as the United States have any interest in the same, and no further.

Charles Hogan vs. the United States. Memorial for 200 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, a title of absolute property to him for two hundred acres of land, dated 12th January, 1818. The case being submitted, and the board fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of the claimant to the two hundred acres of land as described in his title, be confirmed to him and his heirs so far as the United States have any interest in the same, and no further.

Reuben Hogan vs. the United States. Memorial for 385 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, a royal title in absolute property to him and his heirs, dated 14th October, 1801, for three hundred and eighty-five acres of land, as set out in his memorial. This case being submitted, and the board fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of the said claimant to the land aforesaid be confirmed to him and his heirs, so far as the United States have any interest in the same, and no further.

Francis R. Sanchez vs. the United States. Memorial for 4,000 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, his memorial to the Governor of Florida, dated 18th December, 1815; also, the Governor's decree granting him the land in his memorial of four thousand acres. This case being submitted, and there being an absolute title of property in the memorialist from the law and usages of this province, we have no doubt but, had the claimant applied to that Government, that his title would have been recognised as a sufficient one. We, therefore, recommend the same to Congress for their confirmation.

Joseph Delespine vs. the United States. Memorial for 560 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, the memorial of Antonio Huertas to the Governor of the province, dated the 3d of October, 1800, and the Governor's decree of the 7th same month, granting the same without condition; also, a plat and a certificate of survey of the same, dated 6th August, 1821; also a deed from grantee to claimant for the five hundred and sixty acres of land, as set out in his memorial, dated 9th July, 1821. It also appeared, in evidence, that the grantee has occupied the land for many years before, and within one year of the cession, as a pasture, and had cabins built for his slaves, who took care of his cattle. This case being submitted, and the board being fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of the claimant to the five hundred and sixty acres of land, as set out in his memorial, be confirmed to him and his heirs, so far as the United States have any interest in the same, and no further.

Sarah Tate vs. the United States. Memorial for 450 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, the memorial of John E. Tate to the Governor, dated 18th September, 1811; also, the decree of the Governor, dated 20th of same month, granting the land solicited on conditions set out in the decree; also, an official document by which the applicant agreed to take the land upon the condition named in the decree, dated 23d September, 1811; also, a plat and certificate of the survey of the four hundred and fifty acres of land named in the memorial, dated 21st April, 1821. It also appeared, in evidence, that the grantee, shortly after the grant, made an attempt to establish himself on the land, but was prevented by the revolution of 1812; that, previous to the revolution, he had got out timber to build on the land, which afterwards decayed; that he died in the year 1822; and that the claimant is his only child. This case being submitted, and the board being fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of the claimant to the four hundred and fifty acres of land set out in her memorial, be confirmed to her, and her heirs, so far as the United States have any interest in the same, and no further.

Peter Fouchard vs. the United States. Memorial for 1,500 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, his memorial to the Governor, dated the 16th November, 1815; also, the Governor's decree of absolute title, dated 20th November, 1815, for fifteen hundred acres of land at the place set out in his memorial. It also appeared, by the deposition filed, that the claimant was resident in the province at the cession, and is still so; and that, from the continued hostilities of the Indians, it was unsafe to take possession, and survey lands. This case being submitted, and the board being fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of the claimant to the fifteen hundred acres of land, as set out in his memorial, be confirmed to him and his heirs so far as the United States have any interest in the same, and no further.

Eusebius Bushnell vs. the United States. Memorial for 600 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, his memorial dated March 17, 1799, for six hundred acres of land; also, the decree of the Governor for the same, dated 13th March, 1799. It appeared, in evidence, that the claimant was in possession of the land in question in the year 1803; that his son was killed in 1800 or 1801. The claimant died in the year 1812. This case being submitted, and the board fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the claim to the six hundred acres of land in the memorial be confirmed to the unknown heirs of Eusebius Bushnell, deceased, and their heirs, as far as the United States have any interest in the same, and no further.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States. Memorial for 400 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, a royal title from the Government to Don Bartoleme de Castro y Ferrer, for four hundred acres of land, without condition, dated July 15, 1815; also, a plat and certificate of survey, dated 1809; also, a deed from grantee to claimant, dated 21st February, 1821. This case being submitted, and the board fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of the claimant be confirmed to him and his heirs, so far as the United States have any interest, and no further.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States. Memorial for 700 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, a memorial and decree of the Governor for seven hundred acres of land, in absolute property, to Lewis Mattier, dated 19th August, 1814; also, a plat and certificate of survey of the same, dated 4th September, 1818; as, also, a deed of sale from grantee to claimant, for the land in question, dated 4th September, 1818. This case being submitted, and the board being fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of the claimant to the seven hundred acres of land, as described in his memorial, be confirmed to him and his heirs, so far as the United States have any interest, and no further.

Avice & Viel vs. the United States. Memorial for 1,000 acres of land.

In this case the claimants produced, in evidence, the memorial of Francisco and John Triay, dated 19th August, 1794, together with the decree of the Governor for the same, dated the 26th of the same month; also, the memorial of the grantees and Don José Peso de Burgos to the Governor, praying liberty to exchange lands, dated 11th September, 1798, together with the decree of the Governor, permitting the exchange, dated the same day. It was proved, by depositions, that Mr. Burgos occupied the land twenty years; that Messrs. Triay occupied it before, knows not how long; that his family consisted of fifteen blacks and six whites; also, a deed of bargain and sale, from Maria M. de Burgos and others, widow and heirs of José Carlos Peso de Burgos, deceased, to claimants, for the land in question. This case being submitted, and the board conceiving that, as the claim is undefined in quantity, they have no jurisdiction of final confirmation; they, therefore, order and adjudge that the same, with the evidence and other documents, be forwarded on to Congress, with their opinion that it ought to be confirmed, inasmuch as, by the rules and regulations of the Spanish authorities at that time, the claimants prove that, from the number of their family, they were entitled, at the least, to one thousand acres.

Joseph Delespine vs. the United States. Memorial for 600 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, the memorial of Don Juan Huertas, dated 3d May, 1811; also, the decree of the Governor, granting him the six hundred acres of land he solicits, without condition, dated 3d May, 1811; also, a plat and certificate of survey of the same, dated 18th March, 1821; also, a deed from grantee to the claimant, dated the 10th day of February, 1821. It also appeared, in evidence, that both the grantee and claimant were resident in the province at the time of the cession, and were Spanish subjects, and that grantee had been in possession of the land for upwards of three years before the cession. This case being submitted, and the board being fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title of claimant to the six hundred acres of land set forth in his memorial, be confirmed to him, so far as the United States have any interest in the same, and no further.

Samuel Fairbanks vs. the United States. Memorial for lot in St. Augustine.

The claimant, in support of his title, produced, in evidence, the original grant from the Governor to Donna Maria Ventura Rodriguez, dated 18th August, 1796, to the lot set out in the memorial; also, a power of attorney from the said Donna Maria Ventura Rodriguez to John A. Cavedo, authorizing and empowering him to sell and convey the lot aforesaid; and, also, the deed of John A. Cavedo, as attorney in fact for the said Donna Maria Ventura Rodriguez, to the claimant, Samuel Fairbanks, for the lot mentioned in the memorial. This case being submitted, and the board, fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the claim of the said Samuel Fairbanks be confirmed to him and his heirs, to the lot in question, so far as the United States have any interest, and no further.

Heirs of Lorenzo Capo vs. the United States. Memorial for 157 acres of land.

The claimants produced, in evidence, a plat and certificate from John Murphey, deputy surveyor, dated 3d January, 1783, for the quantity of fifty acres, surveyed for James Bradshaw; also, a receipt of John Murphey, for the surveyor's fees, with an endorsement on the back of the same, transferring it to Lorenzo Capo; also, a receipt of William Price, for the sum of fifty-seven dollars, the consideration of a tract of one hundred and seven acres, opposite the aforesaid tract. It also appeared, by the deposition of Anthony Hindman, that he has resided upwards of thirty years near the land in question; that he was well acquainted with James Bradshaw during the time the British had possession of this province; that he, Bradshaw, held possession of the island of fifty acres of land, and that he occupied and cultivated the land for from seven to nine years, uninterrupted; also, that he was well acquainted with William Price; that, after the death of Bradshaw, his whole property went into the possession of said Price, who was his administrator; and that, as such, he settled the business of the estate; and that, as a part of the property of said decedent, was sold the said island of fifty acres of land, to Laurence Capo, of this city, which contract was made and ratified in presence of this witness, in this city, in the year 1784. At the same time another contract was made between the said William Price and Laurence Capo, for the purchase of another tract of land containing about one hundred and seven acres, nearly adjoining the island aforesaid, for the sum of fifty-seven dollars; and that the last mentioned tract of land belonged solely to said William Price. It also appeared that the said Capo took possession of the two tracts of land aforesaid, and rented them out, for some time, under the Spanish Government; that the tenant of Capo planted the land in corn and other provisions. This case having been submitted, and the board fully advised of and concerning the premises, do order and adjudge that the title to the one hundred and fifty-seven acres of land, in the claimants' memorial, be confirmed to them as the legal heirs and representatives of Lorenzo, alias Laurence Capo, deceased, so far as the United States have any interest in the same, and no further.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States. Memorial for 500 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, an absolute title from Government to Don George Fleming, for twenty thousand acres of land, for services performed under the royal orders of 1813 and 1815, dated 24th September, 1816; also, a plat and certificate of survey of the five hundred acres, part of the aforesaid grant, dated 2d February, 1820; also, a deed from Don George Fleming to Don Andres Burgevin, dated 21st February, 1820; also, a deed from said Don Andres Burgevin to claimant, Don Antelm Gay, 22d February, 1820, for the land aforesaid. This case being submitted, and the board dividing in opinion on this point, "whether the board have power to confirm to a claimant any part of a grant, where the quantity in the original is such as to take from them their power to decide finally," it is ordered that the memorial, and evidence accompanying the same, be forwarded to Congress for their decision.

Moses E. Levy vs. the United States. Memorial for 14,500 acres of land.

The claimant produced, in evidence, the memorial of Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, by his son, to the Governor, dated 1st March, 1817, together with the decree of the Governor, dated 24th March, 1817, by which is granted to Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, the senior, thirty thousand acres of land, at the places named in his memorial; also, the memorial of Arredondo, Jun., dated 8th June, 1819, praying that the lands in the aforesaid memorial may be surveyed, &c.; also, the decree of the Governor, appointing Don Andres Burgevin, the surveyor, to perform the said surveys, same date; also, the plat and certificate of survey of fourteen thousand five hundred acres, dated 15th August, 1819; also, a royal title for the fourteen thousand five hundred acres of land, in favor of the said F. Arredondo, in absolute property, dated 9th August, 1819; also, a deed from grantee to Hernandez and Chauviteau, dated 3d August, 1820; also, a power of attorney from said Hernandez and Chauviteau to Moses E. Levy, authorizing him to convey the land in question, dated 2d November, 1820; also, a deed from said Moses E. Levy, attorney for Hernandez and Chauviteau, to Abraham M. Cohen, for the land aforesaid, dated 8th June, 1821; also, a deed from said A. M. Cohen to the claimant, dated 8th June, 1821; all which appear to have been regularly executed, according to the laws of the Government under which they were made. Although the royal title and survey bear date subsequent to the 24th day of January, 1818, yet the original concession, made at the time that the Governor was legally authorized to make it, and it being without condition, and there having been no suggestion of fraud in the transaction, we deem the concession obligatory on us. Therefore, we recommend the same for confirmation.

No. 3.

DEAR SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, December 29, 1823.

We beg leave to lay before you, for your consideration, and the information of others who may feel interested in the subject, the following account of the proceedings of the Board of Land Commissioners constituted for East Florida, together with the difficulties which lay in the road to a successful termination of the duties of the commission; and, as far as we are able, to advise the measures most likely to facilitate the objects of the Government.

Immediately after the organization of the board, the question arose, what part of the claimants' exhibits are required to be recorded? A majority of the commissioners were of opinion that, according to the fourth section of the act, passed in May, 1822, the entire deraignment of title, when it could be produced, including all the papers to be read in evidence, should be recorded at the cost of the claimant. This decision gave rise to complaints among the people that they were loaded with unnecessary expenses, either by the Government or the commissioners. Although we believe the public mind is at present satisfied, at least in a great degree, in relation to that subject, in consequence of ascertaining that the expense is far short of what was apprehended, we still beg leave to say that the operation of this provision is severely felt by the poorer class of people in the Territory; and if it be possible to relieve them in any manner compatible with the views of the Government, it would not only be felt by them as a happy exemption, but would greatly facilitate the future operations of the board. In consequence of the necessity for translating and recording all the voluminous documents comprising Spanish titles to real estate, at the very time, also, that the law made it necessary that the secretary should record the memorials of the claimants and the proceedings of the board, more time has been consumed in preparation for final adjudication than comported with the expectations and wishes of this country, or, perhaps, with the views of the Government. This difficulty was the more sensibly felt, in consequence of the improvidence of the law in allowing but one secretary, and failing entirely to furnish him with the means of collecting his recording fees, which have not been paid, but in a very few instances, and are scattered, in small sums, through the United States and the Spanish islands. The law requires the services to be done unconditionally, and creates a simple debt against the claimant, which, in a great majority of cases, would not be worth collecting by the ordinary process of law. Under these circumstances we required the secretary to employ one assistant, which reduces his regular salary to a mere pittance, out of which it would be ungenerous and unjust to ask of him to employ another. The two secretaries, thus employed, placed the record in sufficient forwardness to authorize a notification to the public that we would begin to adjudicate on the second Monday of the present month. But it soon became apparent that the whole time of our principal secretary would be taken up in attendance on and recording the minutes of the board; so that translations having ceased to progress, would soon be overtaken, and claimants subjected to uncertain, and, therefore, harassing delays, while our clerks would be preparing their cases. To obviate this difficulty, and supply ourselves with the means of continually progressing, we have employed, upon our individual responsibility, another clerk to take and record the proceedings of the board, at the rate of four hundred dollars per annum, relying upon the justice or munificence of the Government to make an appropriation for that object. One clerk is now continually employed in translating; another, in recording the evidence of titles; and the third, in attendance on the board, which holds its sessions every day.

To return from this detail, we beg leave to advert to the petition of the inhabitants of this city in relation to a subject which was presented to our consideration at a very early period of the session.

Those who owned property in the city, or within the town of Fernandina, desired the board would exempt them from the trouble and expense of exhibiting their titles, or would give them time to appeal to the Government on that subject. A majority of the board agreed to wait the advice of your Department in answer to the petition of the people; and, also, to communicate such information in relation to the public property as they possessed, under an impression that an answer would be received in time to allow an exhibition of their titles, if it should be unfavorable, before the time limited by law shall have expired. The answer, however, has not been received, nor have any of those claims been exhibited.

We would respectfully submit that, by the second article of the treaty with Spain, "all public lots and squares, public edifices, fortifications, barracks, and other buildings, which are not private property," are transferred to the United States; and that, subsequently, this article was at least partially executed, by the Spanish authorities delivering to the agent of our Government a schedule, purporting to be of all such property, together with the actual possession of such as could be occupied. The Spanish inhabitants here look to the act of receiving that document as being a recognition, on the part of the United States, of their private rights to all other lots and houses.

In addition to this view of the subject they consider it rigorous policy in the Government to require of them to spread on record, at a considerable expense, (which, indeed, many of them are ill able to bear,) deraignments of titles to more than three hundred lots, for no other purpose than to show the Government its small modicum of ground. They think it would better comport with the views of a just and liberal sovereignty, to employ its executive and legal officers in ferreting out a few illegal claims, than to tax with extreme rigor the whole of a very poor community for that purpose.

In recapitulating these views we do but wish to show the grounds on which we suspended, as we then supposed temporarily, the reception of these claims. But, as this subject may be a matter of inquiry with other departments of the Government, we take the liberty of communicating the information we possess, in relation to the property said to belong to the United States within this city, besides that contained in the schedule before alluded to.

1. A row of water lots extending from the fort to the mouth of the St. Sebastian, the whole length of the town, and of various depths, from one to two hundred feet. Some of these, a few in number, are claimed as private property; but the majority, we believe, are acknowledged to belong to the public. A few years ago they were above high water mark, and were covered by orange groves; but the water has gradually encroached, until almost the whole area is subject to the ordinary flood. It is, however, said that the water is again retiring, and some of the inhabitants believe that some of these lots may hereafter be of value.

2. A swamp of about sixty yards in breadth, running parallel with the bay, and nearly through the centre of chartered limits of the city, containing from fifty to sixty or seventy acres; all of which is covered by a thin sheet of water at every flood tide, but with a slight embankment, of little more than one hundred yards, would entirely protect.

3. On the south and west the city is bounded by the river St. Sebastian, which forms, by its diurnal floods, an extensive march or swamp, which contains several hundred acres, but its value will depend upon the practicability of excluding the water.

4. An extensive esplanade, reaching fifteen hundred yards northward from the Castle, and from the St. Sebastian's on the west, to the North river on the east, a distance nearly as great; the whole commanded by the guns of the fort, and being the only approach to the town, has been kept by the Spanish authorities free from the least obstruction. A few grants have been made within it, and we at first believed, from casual information, that they were grants of temporary use, and made without authority; but we are since informed that the proprietors claim a higher degree of title, which they intend applying to the Government to affirm, and we must, therefore, decline expressing, because we have not had an opportunity of forming, an opinion upon the subject.

5. It has been said that some of the houses nearest the fort are built on public ground, perhaps by parol permission of a Governor, but contrary to an ordinance reserving a certain distance from the fort in every direction. Of this we do not speak with certainty, nor have we the means of certain information. Indeed, in relation to all these details, we beg leave to say we do not make them upon the assurance of any official investigation, but as bare suggestions growing out of the inquiries made of the inhabitants; of course, not to be taken as conclusive, but are merely intended to guide the inquiries of the Government in case it should think proper to relieve the inhabitants from the necessity of exhibiting their titles, and should take upon itself to separate the public from the private property by legal investigation.

Besides the above specifications we have no reason to suspect that any property in the city, claimed to be private, is not held by fair and equitable titles. Mr. Smith, the marshal of the district, and formerly mayor of the city, has been engaged in similar inquiries, without being able to trace any claim of the Spanish Government to property held as private.

The board has experienced some difficulty upon the subject of procuring transcripts of titles when they are not in possession of the claimant, and cannot be obtained but by an application to the keeper of the public archives. We first adopted a rule requiring claimants to file with our secretary their original papers, or attested copies; but, as the customs of the Spanish Government required all originals to be left in the public office, and but few copies were given out, the expense of transcripts was sensibly felt and complained of by the people, which, added to a serious doubt entertained by the board as to the legality of the requisition, induced us to discontinue the demand, and, finally, to rescind it.

In the mean time, however, a communication was received from the Department of State advising us of, and enclosing a letter to the keeper of the archives, directing him to deliver to our order the papers and records which had been turned over to his office by the Spanish authorities. This order, the officer to whom it was directed, was unwilling to obey; and we did not feel ourselves authorized to make or enforce a peremptory demand. If it embraced any, it embraced all the public records of the Territory, and virtually abolished the office of the keeper of the archives, which had been established by an act of the Legislative Council, and approved by Congress. Besides which, the same act had deposited these records with that officer exclusively, and had made copies, certified by him alone, evidence in all the courts of the Territory. If they should be taken from his possession the object of the law would be defeated, as it is clear that a copy, certified by the secretary of the board, would not be legal evidence; nor could he ever receive them back, for the purpose of certifying copies, without the authority of a legislative act; because they are not bound in books that could be identified, but contained upon loose sheets of paper, which might be taken away or misplaced without the possibility of detection. They are even without a complete index, and the keeper is obliged to rely on his memory to facilitate his researches.

This will also suggest the great inconvenience of having such a mass of indigested record thrown in upon our secretary, who, if constantly employed, would not be able to meet the demand of the public for transcripts, for which the law would not allow him fees, and yet which he could not deny without the grossest outrage against the public.

In addition to these difficulties, in the way of making such a demand, the act of Congress under which we are acting, seems to confine us to the privilege of inspecting and taking transcripts of the public record within the Territory.

Finding ourselves unable to compel any other or better arrangement, our translating secretary is now obliged to take from the public records all such documents as are required to be produced in evidence before us. It is, however, but justice to the keeper of the archives to say that he has furnished every possible facility in the discharge of this troublesome duty.

Since our adjudications commenced we have been somewhat embarrassed by the presentation of cases not contemplated by any express provision of the statute, but apparently within its equity.

1st. Consists of cases in which the grantee has not made an entire, but has made a partial performance of the conditions of his grant.

2d. Cases in which purchasers from grantees of a part interest in such grants have made a compliance with the conditions in proportion to their interest.

We do not doubt that, in all cases, the Government intends to secure to the settler what he had a right to expect from the well-established customs and usages of the Spanish authorities; but the rigid limitations contained in the statute under which we are constituted leave the subject involved in embarrassment. In some instances within our knowledge, individuals have made heavy expenditures in improvements, extensive clearings, and numerous buildings, towards a compliance, but have stopped short of a fulfilment. We feel confident that it is not the interest or desire of the Government to reduce these persons to poverty by taking from them, in some instances, all they possess, and the more especially as they received their property upon conditions which, by the usages of the Spanish Government, they had an unlimited time to perform. But, in all such cases, we would beg leave to suggest the propriety of directing such proportions to be surveyed in a given mathematical figure around their dwellings or improvements.

The last remark introduces a subject of greater difficulty. Owing to the fear of Indian hostilities which universally prevailed, many of the claims before us are without surveys or other means of location; and in many others the plats and certificates filed with the claim were made by the surveyors without their ever having been on or near the premises. The objects called for, which are generally a stake or a pine tree, were at first supplied by imagination, and, being without a mark or other designation, leave the location as uncertain as in former cases. Many of the concessions and grants thus vague and uncertain, will, no doubt, be affirmed; and the difficulty will be felt by the public surveyor when he is called on to re-survey these claims under the direction of the statute. He will be obliged to survey them, in many instances, wherever the party shall direct, or not survey at all, unless the Government will devise some means of avoiding the inconvenience.

We beg leave, also, to inform the Government that, as far as we are informed and believe, the country between the Suwannee and Appalachicola is unembarrassed by any other claim than that of Forbes & Co. We make this statement under the impression that it would comport with the wishes of the people of this country, and the views of the Government, to have that part of the public territory brought into market at as early a period as practicable. Mr. George J. F. Clarke, who officiated for many years as Surveyor General of this province under the Spanish authorities, and kept a record of all public surveys executed by himself or his deputies, upon examination before us, deposed that he knew of no location within the country bounded by these two rivers, except the one before alluded to; nor has any such claim been filed before us.

Under an impression that it is our duty to do so, we communicate that about the number of six hundred claims have been presented to the board, of which we hope to be able to report to Government from one to two hundred within the time limited by the act of Congress; and, also, that a greater number is believed to be still unrepresented, some of which have been deposited in the office since the time allowed for filing them elapsed, under the impression that Government would renew the permission.

We remain, with sentiments of sincere respect, your obedient servants,

DAVIS FLOYD,
W. W. BLAIR.

Hon. WM. H. CRAWFORD, Secretary of the Treasury.

No. 4.

DEAR SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, September 24, 1823.

Herewith you will receive a memorial from the inhabitants of this place, upon the subject of titles to lots of ground within the chartered limits of the town.

Many of the most respectable inhabitants regard the transfer stipulated in the second article of the treaty, of "all public lots and squares, public edifices, fortifications, barracks, and other buildings, which are not private property," as having been perfectly executed when the Spanish authorities here delivered to Colonel Butler a schedule of all such property, together with actual possession of all such as could be occupied, and they look to the act of receiving that document as containing a recognition on the part of the United States of their private rights to all other lots and houses.

In addition to this view of the subject, they consider it rigorous policy in the Government to require of them to spread on record, at considerable expense, which, indeed, many of them are ill able to bear, deraignments of titles to more than 300 lots, for no other purpose than to show the Government its small modicum of ground. They think it would better comport with the views of a just and liberal sovereignty to employ its executive and legal officers in ferreting out a few illegal claims, than to tax with extreme rigor the whole of a very poor community for that purpose.

With these views they are unwilling to believe that the several acts of Congress, subjecting land titles to the investigation of commissioners, were intended to embrace their claims to lots and houses; or they are flattered with the hope that an appeal to Government will procure them exemption from what they regard as a peculiar hardship. With a view to giving an opportunity for such an appeal, as well as to obtain information for ourselves, Judge Floyd and myself, previous to his leaving here for Kentucky, whither he has gone for his family, concurred in the propriety of asking the instruction of your Department on this subject, which was not then executed, only because of the judge's hasty departure without signing a letter that had been submitted to the board, and assented to.

Since that time, however, I have been occasionally engaged in making inquiries, which have resulted in ascertaining that several parcels of ground within the city, and not embraced by the schedule before alluded to, are public property.

1st. A row of water lots extending from the fort to the mouth of the St. Sebastian, the whole length of the town, and of various depths, from one to two hundred feet. Some of these lots, a few in number, are claimed as private property, but the great majority are acknowledged to belong to the public. A few years ago they were above high water mark, and were covered by groves of oranges, but the water has gradually encroached until almost the whole area is subjected to the ordinary flood. It is, however, said that the water is again retiring, and some of the inhabitants believe that these lots may hereafter be of value.

2d. A swamp of about sixty yards in width, running parallel with the bay and nearly through the centre of the chartered limits of the city, containing about fifty acres, which is covered by a thin sheet of water at every flood tide, but which a slight embankment of little more than a hundred yards would entirely exclude.

3d. On the south and west the city is bounded by the river St. Sebastian, which forms, by its diurnal floods, an extensive marsh or swamp, which contains from two to three hundred acres, but its value will depend on the practicability of excluding the water.

4th. An extensive esplanade reaching fifteen hundred yards northward from the castle, and from the St. Sebastian to the North river, a distance nearly as great, the whole commanded by the guns of the fort, and being the only approach to the town, has been kept by the Spanish authorities free from the least possible obstruction. A few grants have been of late made within it, but they are grants of merely temporary use, and even these seem to have been without authority.

5th. It is said that some of the houses nearest the fort are built on public ground, perhaps, by parol permission of a Governor, but contrary to an ordinance reserving a certain distance from the fort in every direction. Of this I do not speak with certainty, nor have I the means of certain information; and beside this, I have no reason to believe that any property in the city, claimed to be private, is rightfully the property of the public. Mr. Smith, the marshal of the district, and also the mayor of the city, has been employed, at my request, in similar inquiries, without being able to trace any claim of the Spanish Government to the property claimed as private within the city.

This information may not be of any importance to the Government, but I have thought it right to possess them of it while the memorial of the inhabitants is before them. And, in the mean time, beg leave to subscribe myself, with sentiments of cordial esteem,

Yours, &c.,

W. W. BLAIR.

Hon. WM. H. CRAWFORD.

To the Hon. William H. Crawford, Secretary of the Treasury. The memorial of the subscribers, lot-holders of the city of St. Augustine, humbly sheweth:

That your memorialists, in common with the holders of land in the country, have been suffering great difficulties, hardships, and embarrassments, for two years, in consequence of the protracted and undetermined condition of the claims of the United States to lands in this Territory.

Thus situated, your memorialists trust it will not be deemed unreasonable that they represent to your Department their full conviction that neither the interest nor the policy of the United States require a determination of the land claims in any other mode than such as is consistent with equity, economy, simplicity, and despatch.

Of the lots in St. Augustine to which this memorial has exclusive reference, that part belonging to the United States was officially designated, and a schedule thereof delivered by the Spanish authorities to those of the United States; and, to this schedule your memorialists humbly beg your reference, as being ample and sufficient evidence of the extent of public property within the limits of this city.

The lots of private property are upwards of three hundred in number, and have passed through chains of title; some commencing in the seventeenth century, and the greater part early in the eighteenth century; and these chains or deraignments of title are not only on record, but the facts of descent, conveyance, and occupancy, are matter of great public notoriety.

Your memorialists further represent, that they are fearful that the late act of Congress prescribing the mode of ascertaining land claims may be so construed as to make it necessary that the lot-holders of St. Augustine should furnish the commissioners with copies of the deraignment of title, and your memorialists beg leave to urge on you the inexpediency of such a construction, from the following considerations:

First. Copies of all the titles to lots in St. Augustine would appear to be unnecessary, because they are already on record in the public archives.

Secondly. The lot-holders would not only be put to great inconvenience from delay, but, many of them, are absolutely unable to pay the expense attendant on the copying of such voluminous documents.

Thirdly. Such a construction of the law would have the effect of retarding the public business, and operating to the ruin of many individuals who have already suffered so severely from delay.

And, lastly. If, by inadvertence or otherwise, the official schedule referred to should be defective in omitting any public property, such defects your memorialists humbly submit to be of comparative insignificance, and can be remedied either by the personal knowledge of the land commissioners, or by a few hours' inquiry.

Under these considerations, your memorialists pray that you will be pleased to instruct the land commissioners, or otherwise act in the premises so that the lot-holders of St. Augustine may be relieved from the expense and inconvenience, and the public from the delay attendant on such a construction of the law.

PETRONA VALDEZ,

For myself, and as attorney for Joseph M. Hernandez, and by 124 other persons.

SIR:

SENATE CHAMBER, March 11, 1824.

I send you a letter from Mr. Blair, of St. Augustine, explaining the conduct of that commission. I was requested to place it before you.

Sincerely yours,

RD. M. JOHNSON.

Col. JAMES MONROE, President.

MY DEAR SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, February 21, 1824.

A letter received from General Call informs us that difficulties existed in the Senate, arising out of information received by a member of that body from a gentleman of this Territory relative to our proceedings, but particularly in relation to our decisions under the second section of the second law under which we were acting. Our decision was under the second clause of that section, and related exclusively to the extent of our jurisdiction. We decided that an "actual settler," within the meaning of the clause, was any person actually settled within the province at the exchange of flags. If the Senate have no other objection to our proceedings, we may deem ourselves peculiarly fortunate, for, among the almost innumerable questions we have been called on to decide growing out of the most inexplicable statute I remember to have seen, to have erred but once would be, of itself, a source of great consolation; but, to have erred only on a question that cannot, by possibility, injure the rights of the United States, is peculiarly so. But I deny that there is error in the decision rendered.

By the first act of Congress we have confirmatory jurisdiction to the amount of one thousand acres, unconditionally. By the second our jurisdiction is extended to three thousand five hundred acres, but only in favor of actual settlers. This latter provision is contained in the second section, which may be thus translated:

Actual settlers shall not be required to produce in evidence a deraignment of title where it cannot be obtained, but their claims shall be confirmed where they do not exceed three thousand five hundred acres, provided, they have been recognised by the Spanish Government, and provided the claimants shall produce satisfactory evidence of right to the land claimed.

The commissioners shall have jurisdiction over all claims of actual settlers to the amount of three thousand five hundred acres.

The first clause enables us to decide on cases without a deraignment of title, provided the claimants are actual settlers. Under this clause it has never become necessary to decide upon what was meant by actual settlers, because there is not a single claim filed before us that does not rely on a deraignment of title or actual possession of the premises claimed. A naked right without either has never been set up before us, nor is there a single case, in a list of nearly one thousand now before us, without a deraignment of title, when the claim is over one thousand acres.

The reason why a title or possession is always set up is very obvious. The law requires, in the absence of a title, that the party shall prove a recognition by the Spanish Government, and, therefore, a right to the property. If there is any written evidence of the claimant's right it is a muniment of title, and must be produced whether it amount to a complete title or not; but where there is no such writing, how can the claimant show a right or recognition without actual possession? A right could not be obtained by purchase, nor in any way known to the Spanish law, but by an actual settlement. I mean a naked right, independent of the Governor's discretionary power to bestow titles. For it is worthy of particular notice, that, although the Governors claimed the right to distribute lands at their discretion, for the promotion of laudable public objects, it was also understood that the royal order of 1790 was imperative, and invested the actual settler with a right to demand of the Governor his proportion of the public lands. We do not mean to say that every actual settlement gave an abstract right, but that it was the only basis for a right, separate from a title.

It is, besides, the basis of the only mode of recognition that this board can regard. Wherever the Spanish Government has recognised a claim in writing, if done in proper time and by competent authorities, it would amount to a title, as they had no settled form for conveyances, and a title means nothing more than an expression of the Governor's will in favor of the claim. But where there is no such expression in writing, could I rely on any proof that a Governor had said A B was entitled to a given quantity of land? I think not, because the Governors were incompetent to convey by any mode, except that established in the country, and because of the general insecurity of such testimony, against which most nations have provided in the form of statutes of frauds and perjury. But an uninterrupted possession of the premises under the Spanish Government, and with its knowledge and consent, although it might not amount to a sufficient recognition in all cases, would in all be the only safe basis for such proof. Although an actual and continued possession under the Spanish Government does not in all cases prove either a right or recognition of itself, yet we cannot see how either a right or recognition can be proved without it. This has been so well understood that not a single claim has been presented without either a deraignment, or an allegation of actual possession.

As far as the clause under consideration purports to extend our jurisdiction over one thousand acres, it is useless, because there is no case filed before us over that amount without a deraignment of title; and, in relation to all the cases without a deraignment, the words "actual settlers" are useless, because they all set out an actual possession.

Thus much for the first clause under consideration. The second extends our jurisdiction, not only to cases in which there is no deraignment of title, but to all cases under three thousand five hundred acres in favor of actual settlers. The question to which I allude arose under this clause in a case of Mr. Gay for two thousand acres, in which he produced a deraignment of title, and proved that he was a settler in Florida, but not on the land at the exchange of flags. The question then arose, what is meant by an actual settlement in the clause under consideration?—whether it meant a settlement in the Territory or on the land claimed. We discussed and considered it as a question of jurisdiction only, the discussion of which either way could enlarge or lessen the rights of any man in the Territory; the utmost effect it could have would be to confine our jurisdiction to the cases of those who occupied their lands, or extend it to those who lived on other lands in the province.

We decided upon taking jurisdiction in all cases of actual settlers within the Territory, for the following reasons:

1st. The words actual settlers are entirely vague and indefinite, the sentence in which they are found not containing any indication of place, or any means of ascertaining whether actual settlers in the Territory, or actual settlers on the land, were meant; for one is certainly as much an actual settler as the other. Beside which, it would have been so easy and natural, if the latter was meant, to have added "on the land," or to have used the plain English and legal word "occupants," instead of a word which has no precise meaning in the English language. As Congress choose to use the word without giving it any specific application, we thought it our duty to give the most general application. The word "actual," alone, qualifies the unmeaning word settler, and greatly strengthens our construction of it, because if settler means only those who were living on the land, the word "actual" seems to be unnecessary, as the fact of cultivating a plantation or not, can scarcely ever be dubious, nor is it a matter about which false pretences are ever used; but, if the other construction is adopted, it is often difficult to tell whether a person is a settler or a transient resident, and it is common to practise deceits to get the advantages of the former, without forfeiting citizenship elsewhere. This view seemed also to unlock the policy of the Government in this enactment. It seemed evidently to make a distinction between those who were permanently interested, and itinerant speculators who came for the purpose of obtaining lands upon a speculation, and removed elsewhere, or had their families in other places. Here we saw the basis of a proper distinction, but we own we have not been able to see the policy of making the distinction between the town and country. It is well known to the Government that the Americans who settled in the province lived on plantations, while the Spaniards all lived in the towns. To give the clause such a construction as would give us jurisdiction over American claims to the amount of three thousand five hundred acres, and confining it in cases of Spaniards to one thousand, seemed to us an invidious and unnecessary distinction.

How strange, too, that the Government should invest us with power to decide, finally, on claims of a difficult and doubtful character, to the amount of three thousand five hundred acres, and, in plain cases of a deraignment, jealously confine us to one thousand.

We have deemed it right to look at the operation as well as the letter of the act; and adapt it to practical purposes. It is the only way by which any set of commissioners will ever be able to do justice to the people or the Government. We have, in substance, construed the act to give us jurisdiction to the increased amount in favor of all actual inhabitants in this Territory; but, to avoid the ill consequences of an error, if it should be one, we have directed that all such cases over one thousand acres shall be reported with the evidence entire, so that the committee, if they think we have overreached our jurisdiction, may consider the cases as recommended instead of confirmed. Every possible inconvenience is thus avoided.

But, until it is altered by the Government, I must continue to place the distinction where it now is; but, to avoid inconvenience, we will also continue to report the evidence in cases over one thousand acres.

With sentiments of high respect, I remain your most obedient servant,

W. W. BLAIR.

Hon. RD. M. JOHNSON.

DEAR SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, August 7, 1823.

The Board of Commissioners have this day decided that it is necessary, under the fourth section of the act of the 8th of May, 1822, to have all written evidence of title presented to the board recorded by its secretary.

This decision, rendered unavoidable by the language of the act alluded to, and by the proceedings of several previous boards constituted for similar purposes, is likely to operate severely upon the poorer class of people in the Territory. If it be possible to relieve them, in any manner compatible with duty, it would afford me pleasure; and, as the views of the Government may be somewhat different, I solicit your exposition of the clause before alluded to.

In the mean time I remain your obedient servant,

W. W. BLAIR.

Hon. WM. H. CRAWFORD.

SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, July 14, 1823.

I enclose a translation of what is commonly called the royal order of 1815, together with a copy and translation of a letter supposed to have been written by Governor Kindelan, the apparent inducement to the order.

In the letter there has evidently been an erasure, and the word "extensiva" introduced in the place of "exclusiva." As the most numerous and extensive grants have been made in virtue of the above order, it is very important that correct copies of all the correspondence that may have passed between the captain general of the island of Cuba and the Governor of East Florida, should be procured for the consideration of the commissioners.

If a copy of the royal order could be obtained in extenso it would afford the commissioners a better opportunity to adjudicate upon many of these grants. The magnitude of the grants requires that the authority through which they are created should be scrupulously examined, the more especially as most of them are made to persons not enumerated in the military rolls, and generally as late as 1817, 1818.

The regulations issued under the Intendancy of Morales, forwarded for our Government, are expressly named for Louisiana and West Florida, and the concessions in this province have most certainly not been governed by those instructions. If the titles be genuine, there has been a most extraordinary latitude in the discretionary powers, or at least in the exercise of the powers of the Governors.

To a pilot named Miranda, three hundred and sixty thousand acres were granted by Governor White, and, by the same person, several from five to fifty thousand. Coppinger's grants do not exceed one hundred thousand, but there are very many from one thousand to seventy thousand.

The public archives, as placed in possession of the American commissioners at the cession, together with the contents of the six boxes of papers claimed by Governor Coppinger, ought to be put under our charge. The latter contain correspondence of much importance, connected with the disposition of public lands, and ought to be examined, and subject to more restraint than they are at present.

As the commissioners will require some accommodation for offices, ought we not to be authorized to hire, or would it not be advisable to appropriate, the "Treasurer's house" to this use?

It is rumored that Judge Blair has resigned. If so, permit me to suggest the propriety of appointing some person in this neighborhood, and particularly to recommend Dr. Richard B. Furman, of Charleston, now residing in this place, as every way qualified.

I have the honor to remain, your obedient servant,

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

HON. WILLIAM H. CRAWFORD.

MOST EXCELLENT SENOR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, June 4, 1813.

On the 1st of the present month I discharged from the service the three companies of whites who were under arms in this place; and this I did, as well on account of the scarcity of provisions, which rendered it urgent, as their own necessity to devote themselves to the care of their respective families, and to their labors, after an insurrection from which both they and the province had suffered so much.

I cannot avoid recommending to your excellency the good order and fidelity that animated this militia, and, also, the third battalion of the regiment of Cuba, since the first moments of the insurrection, for all which I think them all worthy of the favors to which the supreme Government may deem them entitled; and I make bold to recommend that some favors, and such as I shall recommend, be granted unto them: that a commission be granted by the King to every officer of the militia who had been under arms, corresponding to the grade which he held under the denomination of provincial; and that a portion of lands be granted to each soldier, which, by the regulations established in this province, corresponds with the number of persons composing each family, and the same favors might also be extended to the married officers and soldiers of said third battalion of Cuba.

Men, in general, must be excited by something that will stimulate them, and it is not easy to find one who is indifferent as to the public estimation of his services. With what I propose, without giving them in reality any thing, they will receive a satisfaction which ultimately must be productive of beneficial effects, particularly if that favor be granted to those only who were at the defence. To that end, and in case your excellency should approve my proposal, I transmit, respecting the officers of both these corps, a list of those who, under that conception, ought to be comprised.

His Excellency DON JUAN RUIZ DE APODACA.

ST. AUGUSTINE, June 29, 1823.

I hereby certify the foregoing to be a true and correct copy of a document on file in my office.

ST. AUGUSTINE, June 30, 1823.

I hereby certify that the foregoing translation is faithfully made, and that the copy of certificate is correct.

HAVANA, July 7, 1815.

Under date of the 29th of March, ult., his excellency the Minister for the General Department of the Indies, writes me as follows:

"I have rendered an account to the King of the contents of the letter of your excellency, No. 236, of the year 1813, with respect to the rewards which you considered the Governor of East Florida ought to grant to the individuals composing the white local militia, and, also, to the married officers and soldiers of the third battalion of the regiment of Cuba, for the zeal they manifested during the insurrection of the province; and His Majesty, while he thus assents to said favors, desires that your excellency may state the recompense which you think due to the commandant of the third battalion of Cuba, Don Juan Jose de Estrada, who acted as Governor pro tem. during the first moments of the insurrection; to the officers of artillery, Don Ignacio Saleres and Don Manuel Paulin; and to the officer of dragoons, Don Juan Purcheman, whom the Governor mentions in his official despatch. By the desire of the King I communicate this information for the government of your excellency, including the royal despatches of the local militia, according to the note transmitted by your excellency."

And I transmit the same to you, including the documents therein mentioned, that you may act as directed, and report to His Majesty, by the first opportunity, whatever you may deem just with respect to the recompenses in question.

APODACA.

His Excellency the GOVERNOR pro tem. of East Florida.

ST. AUGUSTINE, June 19, 1823.

I hereby certify the foregoing to be a true and correct copy of a document on file in my office.

SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, January 12, 1824.

I take the liberty to request that the enclosed letter addressed to Davis Floyd, Esq., and recorded on the minutes of the commission, with the note to which it is an answer, may be presented to the consideration of the Committee on Public Lands, to which I deem it proper to subjoin the following extraordinary doubts of the majority of the commissioners, with a copy of the regulations of the 1st of August, submitted by me, and unanimously adopted by the commission.

The majority of the commission entertain, and have, at their sittings, expressed doubts whether the claimants to city property are required to present their claims to the adjudication of the commissioners.

The law makes no distinction. In my opinion the commissioners ought to possess a discretionary power to call on those only where there exists any suspicion of public interest. I make this suggestion with great deference, but with a perfect knowledge of all the circumstances.

The majority of the commission entertain, and have, at their sittings, expressed doubts whether they be not authorized to adjudicate finally on claims, a part of a grant, the whole amount of which exceeds our jurisdiction.

That Congress might be informed on this subject, previous to any future legislation, and to prevent the extravagant speculation that would result from such a decision, a motion was made to ascertain the sense of the commission, which the majority declined to consider, notwithstanding there were cases before it immediately involving the question.

There are other sources of objection to the proceedings of the commission, which were intended to be communicated by the minority, had the commission made an official report; and, as such, would necessarily have been subject to the inspection of Congress.*

The circumstances connected with the appointment of our secretary and assistant secretary, are, perhaps, within the knowledge of your Department.

In consequence, I recommend to the consideration of Congress, whether it would not be advisable to fix the salary of the secretary at fifteen hundred dollars, and authorize the appointment of an assistant, with a compensation of one thousand dollars; and both should possess a knowledge of the Spanish language. As yet there have been no fees paid for recording; and such is the poverty of the country, that it would be almost impossible to collect them. If Congress should not see fit to relieve the claimants from this charge, incident to an investigation instituted for the purpose of ascertaining public lands, and, in many instances, charging claimants whose titles have been acknowledged for centuries, I earnestly recommend that the compensation of the secretary shall have no contingent reference to this source of payment. If I be not misinformed, the Attorney General has given it as his opinion, and such is the construction of my colleagues, that the compensation to the secretary may amount to two thousand five hundred dollars. This may be a correct legal conclusion: it certainly is not a fair inference, and never was intended by Congress. The fees imposed on the claimants were meant to be appropriated in payment of the salary and the contingent expenses of the commission, and not to the amount of one thousand two hundred and fifty dollars, to be reserved by the secretary as an addition to his salary.

The important and procrastinated situation of the business of the commission renders it necessary that there should be an extension of its session, and the interests of the United States require that time should be allowed for a thorough investigation of the claims.

I have the honor to remain, with much respect, your obedient humble servant,

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

WILLIAM H. CRAWFORD,

Secretary of the Treasury.

SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, January 8, 1824.

It is with much pleasure I reply to your note of this morning, in the hope that a full explanation of our respective views of the course most advisable for the commission to pursue, may lead to the adoption of such regulations as will tend to facilitate the discharge of the important and delicate responsibilities with which we are entrusted.

It is for this purpose I submit the following propositions and regulations:

1st. That the secretary be directed to translate and record the royal orders, the official correspondence, the regulations of the Governors, and the instructions and calculations controlling the surveyors.

2d. That the commission ascertain whether the Governors of East Florida possessed any authority to dispose of the public lands independent of the royal orders, and whether their regulations are to be considered the acts of the Spanish Government, and, as such, to be respected in our adjudications.

3d. That the commission determine whether the royal order of the 29th March, 1815, authorizing grants for military services, be not controlled by that of the 29th October, 1790, and what are the conditions referred to in the latter order.

4th. That the commission ascertain whether the surveyors were authorized to change the location of concessions at discretion, and in the same manner to divide grants and locate the several parts; and whether they were not subject to certain regulations, and the table of Purcell explanatory of the same.

5th. That the commission determine whether they can inquire into the validity of the circumstances of a grant antecedent to the issuing of the royal titles, where the concessions have been made within the authority of the royal orders.

6th. That the commission decide whether the abandonment of the province by the British subjects, after its cession to Spain in 1783, did not, by operation of the treaty of cession, re-attach their lands to the royal domain.

7th. That the commission inquire whether grants containing the customary clause, "without injury to third persons," were valid against the Spanish Government, if it should appear that the lands petitioned for had been previously granted, without a subsequent decree and order to change the location.

8th. That the commission ascertain whether decrees for pasturage and mill-seats conveyed more than a permission to use the pasture and timber, and whether the Government did not reserve the right to concede to others all the plantable lands contained therein.

9th. That the commission determine whether lands abandoned for more than two years in succession were not considered vacant lands, reverting to the royal domain—the grantee continuing to reside in the province; and whether, if so, the effect of such an abandonment can accrue to the benefit of the United States when the absence of the claimant was an incidental consequence of the rebellion of 1812.

The propriety of establishing these preliminary principles will, I am confident, appear to you necessary upon mature reflection. Without settling some general law it will be impossible for the commission to do justice to the claimants, and perform their duty to the United States. The means of deciding are in the possession of the commissioners, for which the United States are principally indebted to the detention of the public documents from Governor Coppinger by the order of General Andrew Jackson.

* Mr. Lloyd, of the Senate, is fully informed.

I again offer for the consideration of the commission, regulations, the utility of which, if candidly examined, cannot fail to meet its concurrence, the more especially as the embarrassment of our present proceedings practically teaches the necessity of resorting to some change.

First regulation.—That the secretary be directed to prepare a descriptive list of the claims, according to the form presented by me, and adopted by the commission.

Second regulation.—That the secretary be directed to class the claims under the respective royal orders on which they are predicated, and that the commission proceed to the examination and adjudication of the claims in classes.

First class.—Those predicated on the royal order of the 29th March, 1790, separating those with, from those without, royal titles.

1st specification, those not exceeding 1,000 acres.

2d do. those not exceeding 3,500 do.

3d do. those exceeding 3,500 do.

Second class.—Those predicated on the royal schedule of the 17th June, 1801, granting the houses and lots, and remitting the principal and interest to the purchasers.

Third class.—Those under the royal order of 29th of March, 1815, authorizing bounties for military services, divisions, and specifications, as in the first class.

Fourth class.—Those under the royal order of September 3, 1817, directing the Intendant of Cuba to dispose of lands in East Florida.

Fifth class.—Those emanating from the British Government.

Sixth class.—Those grants for services, and not predicated in either of the royal orders.

(See Miranda's for 24 miles, and Arredondo's for 20 miles square, and Buyck's for 50,000 acres.)

Divisions and specifications as in first class.

Seventh class.—Those dated after the 24th January, 1818, and by the treaty declared null and void.

Third regulation.—That the commission commence, as soon as the papers are in readiness, to adjudicate upon the claims under the order of 1790, and, in the mean time, that they collect the evidence in the large grants to be transmitted to Congress during the present session.

Fourth regulation.—That in all those cases within the final jurisdiction of the commissioners, that the memorial of the claimant, or an abstract of the same made by one of the commissioners, together with the original grant, concession, or order of survey, be alone recorded, with a memorandum exhibiting the deraignment of title, as follows:

That C claims from B, by deed bearing date the ——— day of ———, in the year ———, who derived title from A, the grantee, on, &c. Wills, deeds, bills of sale, or other mesne conveyances, not to be recorded, except by reference, as exhibits A, B, C.

Fifth regulation.—That in all cases beyond the final jurisdiction of the commissioners, that the memorial of the claimant, with the documents incident to the grant, the memorial, decree, order of survey, survey and confirmation, or royal titles, (if there be any,) be recorded, together with an abstract of the documentary evidence; but that the deraignment of title be only recorded by reference, as in the preceding regulations.

Seventh regulation.—That the commission will retain, through the whole course of the examination of witnesses, a supervisory control, that immaterial and illegal evidence be not recorded.

Eighth regulation.—That it will no longer be the duty of the secretary to make out memorials or prepare commissions for the examinations of witnesses.

Ninth regulation.—That the secretary will hereafter confine his written translations to material parts of Spanish documents, and, in all cases within the final jurisdiction of the commission, having royal titles, the attendance of the secretary will only be required to give parol translations.

Tenth regulation.—That, in all cases where there are royal titles, the fees for recording will only be charged on the memorial and royal title; but in all cases, on condition, seeking confirmation, fees will be charged on such records as the commission shall determine essential for the establishment of the claim when directed to be recorded.

I have been thus particular, to avoid the usual misunderstandings incident to the irregular manner in which our proceedings have been minuted, and more illegally kept, in loose sheets; and I anticipate that you will no longer indulge in so disingenuous an interpretation of my motives as to imagine that I would attempt to expose the regulations of the commission by the introduction, in a disguised form, of a practical illustration of their injurious inexpediency. It is impossible that the commission can investigate the claims with advantage, if they are to be taken into consideration without any other system than the order in which they have been entered. I am confident when you have deliberated upon these propositions and regulations, you will be convinced of the propriety of their adoption, the more especially if you reflect upon the embarrassments that now procrastinate our examination, and that, for all useful purposes, the business of the commission is now essentially suspended. I appeal to your candor to acknowledge whether I have not repeatedly anticipated our present difficulties, as the necessary consequences of the decisions of the commission, and whether your recent anxiety to have perfected the descriptive list submitted by me might not be considered as conclusive evidence?

I am aware, in some instances arising from the unfortunate indulgence of the commission in permitting claims to be filed not corresponding with our regulations of the 1st August last, that the memorials present but an imperfect statement of the claim, which may, however, be supplied by a little extra attention on the part of the commissioners in collating from the testimony a brief analysis, or by directing the claimants to file supplementary memorials.

It is with much pleasure I avail myself of your admission, that "the time when we must make report to Congress will shortly elapse," to renew the proposition to report immediately to the Secretary of the Treasury the acts and proceedings of the commissioners; and, inasmuch as we have done little more than to order the claims to be filed, (none of which have been recorded,) that we suggest the propriety of an indefinite extension of our session, if our secretary is to translate and record all the testimony, and that further time be allowed for the admission of the numerous claims that remain to be presented.

I am perfectly willing "to take all the claims now in readiness into consideration," which state of preparation, according to the decisions of a majority of the commission, will place under our consideration only thirty-seven claims, of which eleven are not within our final jurisdiction, notwithstanding we have a secretary authorized by law, and two assistants appointed by the commission.

The following decisions I have uniformly opposed, and, in my estimation, they ought to be reported to Congress:

The majority of the commission have decided that all documents presented shall be recorded in extenso, and those in Spanish be translated by the secretary: thus giving an employment to the secretary of an indefinite termination; and, inasmuch as the mesne conveyances are of indifference to the United States, and as Congress has reserved no right to revise our proceedings within our final powers, there can be no necessity to record the evidence in cases of confirmation, as our decisions will undoubtedly be made upon the force and authenticity of the originals.

The majority of the commission have decided to adjudicate upon claims where the grants have issued subsequent to the 24th of January, 1818, and without giving any reasons for so doing, notwithstanding the treaty declares all such grants null and void.

The majority of the commission have decided that the authorization to confirm to actual settlers to the amount of three thousand five hundred acres, must be understood to include all persons resident in the Territory at the time of the cession, and not to be limited to those who were at that period in the actual possession and occupancy of the lands claimed.

The majority of the commission have decided that they will adjudicate on claims without examining the original documents, while they are aware that the public records, in the possession of the keeper of the public archives, have been much exposed, and are still kept in loose sheets, without schedule or descriptive list, and that the letter from Governor Kindelan, the foundation of the royal order of 1815, has been essentially altered, and that transcripts of different import have been furnished. The advertisement of the keeper of the public archives also makes known to the commission that a small grant has been withdrawn from the office, and one of 16,000 acres substituted.

The majority of the commission have repeatedly refused to report its proceedings, while they have unofficially communicated with the Secretary of the Treasury, without giving any intimation of the time, manner, or substance of their communication. The delicacy and propriety of such conduct I do not understand, and abstain from comment.

I have the honor to remain, with much respect and regard, your obedient servant,

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

DAVIS FLOYD, Esq.

Note referred to, from David Floyd, Esq., to Alexander Hamilton.

"Inasmuch as the commissioners will be able to make final decisions of but few claims, and as much time will be necessary to investigate and report sundry rules, regulations, and customs, prevalent in the province relative to granting lands, and as the time when we must make report to Congress will shortly elapse, I would propose for consideration, whether it would not be proper to take all the claims now in a state of readiness into consideration, have them recorded, and finally decided; and whether we would be able to devote more of our time, and our secretary, to the investigation of new cases; or whether, probably, the whole time may not be necessary to the preparation of those before us. Yours," &c.

NOTICE.

Whereas, on or about the 27th November there was introduced into the office of the subscriber, in a clandestine and dishonorable manner, a document purporting to be a memorial and concession for 16,000 acres of land, to an inhabitant of this province, (whose name is, from motives of delicacy, withheld from the public, as he could not have been privy to the transaction,) this is, therefore, to give notice to those interested, but more particularly to him who was mean enough to take advantage of the confidence placed in him while in my office, that the imposition has been detected, and that the document now bears upon it my certificate of the circumstances, and the fact of its having been illegally introduced into the office. As I have reason to believe that the person who introduced the said document into my office stole therefrom another of a similar description, although not so valuable, I hereby offer a reward of $100 to any person who, knowing the facts, will give information, to enable me to prosecute the thief to conviction.

WILLIAM REYNOLDS, Keeper of the public archives.

NOTICE.

The following regulations have been adopted by the commissioners appointed to ascertain claims and titles to lands in that part of the Territory of Florida known as East Florida.

All persons claiming title to lands under any patent, grant, concession, or order of survey, will make a brief statement, by memorial, setting forth the situation, boundaries, and, if possible, the deraignment of title, to the lands claimed, together with the number of acres, when and by whom granted, and by what authority; and whether the same be the whole or part of the original grant.

All cases where grants have been made on conditions, it will be necessary to show the nature of the conditions; whether they have been performed; and, if not, the reasons why they have not been complied with.

Where lands are claimed by actual settlers, without grants, concessions, patents, or order of survey, the same must be declared, and the circumstances of possession and occupancy stated distinctly, together with the nature of the evidence in support of the claim; and whether the said possession ever was, and in what manner, acknowledged or sanctioned by the Spanish Government.

In all instances where claims are made in virtue of British patents, grants, &c., the claimants must describe in what manner they claim, whether as original patentees or grantees, or by assignment; also, whether they are in actual possession; and, if out of possession, that they claim, bona fide, as American citizens.

All original documents, if in the possession of the claimants, must be exhibited; and, in all other cases, certified copies, the memorial, order of survey, survey and confirmation, together with translations of the same.

Claimants will show whether they were actual residents at the time of the cession, and where they now reside.

The office of the commissioners will be at the Government house until further notice.

A. HAMILTON,
W. W. BLAIR,
DAVIS FLOYD,
Land Commissioners.

ST AUGUSTINE, August 1, 1823.

On the 8th of August a resolution was adopted by the commissioners, requiring only so much of the papers to be transmitted as were material, at suggestion.

SIR:

As the course I have pursued as a member of the Board of Land Commissioners may induce those who are interested to attempt to create prejudices, I take the liberty to request that no unfavorable impressions may be made until the proceedings of the board are subject to your inspection. I feel that all the invidious responsibilities of the commissions have devolved on me; and, whatever may be the result, I shall support the part I have taken with firmness. The board have commenced the adjudication of claims without settling the preliminary principles that are to govern their decisions. I have come to the determination, as the board will not ascertain the law, nor examine the original documents, to be present without taking any part in the adjudication, and to report to the Treasury Department, our proceedings for the consideration of Congress.

The act creating the commission terminates on the second Monday in February.

I am aware that, in writing to you, I ought not to ask to be excused; but such are the circumstances, that I must either communicate in haste, or lose an unexpected favorable opportunity.

I am, with much respect,

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

JAMES MONROE, Esq.

ST. AUGUSTINE, January 23, 1824.

SIR:

As a member of the commission appointed to ascertain claims and titles to land in East Florida, I have the honor to request that you will lay before the President of the United States the enclosed letter for his consideration.

With sentiments of the highest respect, I remain, sir, your obedient servant,

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

Hon. W. H. CRAWFORD, Secretary of the Treasury.

SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, January 23, 1824.

It is with extreme regret I have to inform you that I have considered it my duty to the interest of the United States to decline any participation in the final adjudication of claims to land, and to recommend that the proceedings of this commission be suspended until Congress shall have an opportunity to investigate its acts. I have also to advise, that the records in the possession of the keeper of the public archives, and those papers specially detained from Governor Coppinger by the order of General Jackson, be transferred to a different charge.

In assuming the responsibility I am aware that I have undertaken an invidious, embarrassing, and unthankful office, and I anticipate the corresponding sacrifice of reputation and respectability, if I be not justified by the result; and, were I to consult personal interest, I should be induced to resign, the more especially as there cannot accrue the slightest advantage to my character.

The act of Congress, in virtue of which we have been appointed, expires on the second Monday in February, when it is my intention to proceed to Charleston to anticipate any order that may be sent requiring my attendance in Washington, if such a requisition should be deemed necessary.

In partial explanation of the differences in the commission, I take the liberty to refer to my letter of the 10th instant, addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury, enclosing one from me to Davis Floyd, Esq., of the 8th of January, in answer to his note of the same date.

I have the honor to remain, with great respect, your obedient servant,

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

JAMES MONROE, President.

I should recommend, as safe depositories of the public records, Edward R. Gibson and William Simmons.

No. 11.

WASHINGTON, March 31, 1824.

SIR:

The remarkable differences of opinion that have characterized the proceedings of the Board of Commissioners appointed to ascertain claims and titles to land in East Florida, induce me to tender my resignation, notwithstanding I have had the satisfaction to observe that the act of the present session of Congress affirmatively supports the positions I have uniformly advocated.

In electing to pursue this course I desire to avoid the invidious task of being constrained, through the force of official duty, to arraign the conduct of those with whom I have been associated, when, perhaps, the pride of an avowed opinion may have created an injudicious pertinacity in its adherence, and caused the dictates, possibly, of the purest intentions, to become the subjects of serious reprehension, from the deleterious influence of their arbitrary practice. I allude to the extraordinary indisposition, constantly manifested, to adopt any measures that might tend to facilitate the progress of the duties with which we were charged; and, unaccountable as it may appear, the unexplained refusal to settle general principles as preliminary to correct adjudication, necessarily operating injurious to the rights of the United States, by embarrassing and paralyzing the influence of the minority of the commission, and to the claimants productive of endless inconvenience, expense, and trouble; the frequent decisions of important questions, in reference to the powers of the commission, without the certainty and responsibility of written opinions, and consequent invariable misconceptions of what was determined; the illegal and improper manner in which the minutes were kept on loose and imperfect sheets, and the still more extraordinary procedure, the refusal to secure and examine the original papers and records, trusting to their genuineness upon the certified transcripts of a territorial officer, whose assistant was one of the secretaries of Governor Coppinger, notwithstanding they were officially informed that a fraudulent erasure had been made in an important document in that office, corroborated by a tacit admission of the propriety of the charge, by the issue of subsequent transcripts, without persisting in the alteration, and while it was a subject of public notoriety that records had disappeared, and, in one instance, a grant of 16,000 acres discovered to have been introduced in place of another for less than as many hundreds. These papers and records are publicly exposed, and are without schedule, neither numbered nor lettered, and in loose sheets.

I must, however painful may be the reflection, notice, as inconsistent with the performance of a confidential trust, unsusceptible, from its peculiar nature of control through legislative provisions, and vitally dependant on the integrity with which it is administered, to answer the objects of its creation, the fact of practising the law in actions of real estate involving questions and conflicting interests which are the immediate subjects of their adjudication. In the first case involving any doubt, the claim of John H. McIntosh, my associates were both engaged as counsel.

In reference to this case I must remark that, in consequence of a determination to decide upon the validity of claims before any general principles were settled, I declined joining in the adjudication. The correspondence I had the honor to transmit to you from Charleston, and my communication of the 10th of January last, enclosing my answer to Davis Floyd, of the 8th of January, in reply to his note of the same date, will fully explain the arrangements and principles proposed by me to be adopted by the commissioners, together with which I take the liberty to refer to a copy of a tabular descriptive list* prepared by me for the use of the commission, exhibiting the circumstances of each and all the grants.

I cannot avoid mentioning that I have observed with regret the imperfections of the official report forwarded to your Department, and especially in the omissions of an adjudicated case connected with circumstances of peculiar delicacy; together with the suppression of the first regulations, and all the correspondence alluded to in the preceding paragraph.

To express my dissent from the conclusions of the report, I must remark, with all due deference, that the argument seems to be drawn from an extraordinary bias, indicative of an impulse corresponding with the feelings of counsel employed and interested in the cause of their clients. The report decides in favor of the unlimited powers of the Governors to dispose of the public lands; and commences in support of this position, with an extract from the Codes of India, 12th title, book 4th. In my estimation, the contrary is the just conclusion to be drawn from an examination of the whole documentary and respectable parol testimony. It is evident, from the extract taken from the Codes of India, through all the royal orders and official correspondence, to the change of the Intendancy of Florida, in 1817, to the Intendant of the island of Cuba, that the Governors possessed a very circumscribed and limited authority.

In answer to Zespédez, the first Governor after the recession of the Floridas to the King of Spain, by the Government of Great Britain, communicating the embarrassed state of the country, and asking permission to make grants of lands, the Count de Galvez, on the 4th July, 1785, Mexico, remarks, that he approves of the police arrangements contained in his letter of the 8th May, 1785, but, with respect to his request for instructions, for the purpose of granting lands "to the old Floridians, as well as any other Spaniards or foreigners, he will inform his excellency the Minister of the Indies, that, by his superior prudence, measures may be taken as are agreeable to him, or may merit the approbation of the King." It also is represented by Zespédez, that the houses abandoned by the English were rapidly decaying, and recommends that they should be sold: to which subject there appears no reference, until the royal order of the 17th June, 1801, is communicated to Governor White. In this order, Quesada, successor to Zespédez, is represented as having made sale of the houses and lots, for the benefit of the treasury, the payment of which is remitted, in consequence of information communicated by Governor White, in 1798, that the purchasers refused to comply with their promises, founding their objections on the grants of land made gratis to foreigners, after a consultation with the council of Indies, by the King. The next evidence is Quesada's edict, the copy of which in my possession is without date, but must have been antecedent to 1796, at which time he ceased to be Governor, announcing "that the grants to all the inhabitants, permanently settled, and subjects of His Majesty, in his royal name, and for their use, the quantity of land they may require, in proportion to their force, without any exception;" and predicates this authority on the 12th title, 4th book, of the Codes of India, but declines, until he receives instructions from his Government, "to make absolute distributions for powerful motives." On the 12th October, 1803, Governor White informs the Captain General of Cuba, that he had reduced the quantity of lands to be granted to new settlers, from one hundred acres, to heads of families, to fifty, and to laborers, from fifty acres to twenty-five, for the approbation of his Government. In the year 1813, Governor Kindelan recommends the services of the militia, and the married officers and soldiers of the Cuba battalion, as entitled to the royal favor, to which an answer is sent, in 1815, by the Captain General, communicating the royal disposition, and authorizes grants of land to be made to the privates of the militia, and exclusively to the married officers and soldiers of the Cuba battalion, giving to the officers of the militia royal commissions corresponding with their respective militia grades. On the 21st October, 1817, the powers of the Intendant of Cuba seem to be limited; for, by royal order of that date, the liberal policy authorized for the settlement of the island of Puerto Rico is extended to that of Cuba; and, in December, 1817, the same authority is given to the Intendant, in relation to the lands in Florida, and the Intendancy transferred to his direction.

The order of the regency of the 22d of January, 1813, provides for the division of the public lands into two equal parts, appropriating the one to the payment of the public responsibilities, and the other is declared for the use of private individuals; and makes provision for the disabled officers and soldiers honorably discharged. The tenth article of this ordinance is as follows: "The quantity which, in each town, is granted to officers or soldiers, shall be in equal proportion of value to the space and quality of the same, and more or less for some places than in others, according to their circumstances, and the greater or less extent of the lands; managing, if possible, that, at the least, each quantity shall be such as to be sufficient, regularly cultivated, for the maintenance of an individual."

In this statement we have a tacit admission, at least, of the first Governor, that his powers did not authorize him to grant lands, notwithstanding he considered the circumstances of the country, requiring the exercise of such a power. And, again, we find Governor Quesada, as late as 1793, practically construing his instructions imperfect, and predicated his sole authority on the limitations contained in the Code of India. It should also be remarked, that the Governors had their council, with whom they were directed to consult and advise; and, consequently, we may fairly conclude that, whatever doubts may have been entertained, when disposed in favor of the Territory, must have received their sanction. We have, in addition to this, the regulations of the regency in 1813, providing for the disposal of public lands, and for military services. Then, I ask, how can it be pretended that the Governor possessed an unlimited authority, and how the royal order of 1815, authorizing remuneration in lands for military services, could be construed as undefined? This last royal order has not only been carried into effect by excessive grants, but has been made the excuse for repeated extravagant gifts to the same individual, for the same services.

It is worthy of observation, that none of the grants, made in opposition to the regularly established custom, were in the possession of actual settlers at the time of the cession; and that, until the agrarian prodigal, Coppinger, issued absolute titles for mill-seats, cow-pens, &c., they were only considered and occupied as privileges to use the timber and pasture, the Government reserving the right to dispose of all the plantable lands within their customary limits of sixteen thousand acres.

The report is certainly in error in declaring, or even intimating, that no established rule, governing the surveyors, was legally in force. It was in evidence, that the written instructions to Marrott, and these in principle corresponding with the universal Spanish custom, direct that the front line shall not exceed one-third of the depth, and that they were uniformly pursued until the general jubilee distribution commenced upon the prospect of the cession to the United States; and, even during the absence of all integrity and regulation, no written evidence could be produced of an authorized departure. In all differences about boundaries, references were always made, and conclusively, to these regulations.

* In possession of Mr. Barton, of the Senate.

To this will be opposed the evidence of George J. F. Clarke and his pretended deputy, Burgevin. In mentioning the name of the latter I ought to apologize to Mr. Clarke, as I considered him too contemptible for serious examination, and too trifling to support or injure any other.

The extravagant pretensions and inconsistent representations of Mr. Clarke, with a memory on some subjects singularly tenacious, and on others peculiarly forgetful, to my mind created such unfavorable impressions as to destroy all confidence in his accuracy. It is possible this gentleman may have mistaken his instructions. I certainly entertained much respect for him antecedent to his examination, and regretted his evidently painful situation afterwards. It was, however, my duty to make the examination without respect to his feelings. Several of his tracts, and those of his immediate friends, were involved in the successful establishment of the powers he advocated, and that of Mr. McIntosh, even further than my colleagues were aware. Mr. Clarke was an interested witness to the amount of forty thousand, and Burgevin exceeding twenty thousand acres.

I must here take the liberty to remark, that the conduct pursued by my colleagues gave to my examinations an invidious inquisitorial character, and, what was more unfortunate, it created an indirect sanction to witnesses to attempt to impose improper testimony.

I regret that the discrepancies of the report prevent my referring to Purcell's table of calculations, in connexion with Marrot's and Clarke's instructions. The whole would show a perfect system, and, notwithstanding the Governors may have exhibited occasional favoritism, there existed a most respectable degree of regularity while there was any expectation of responsibility to the Spanish Government.

The amount of acres of land included in the exceptionable grants cannot be estimated at less than one million five hundred thousand; and, as they are pretended to be surveyed, extending along the shores and spreading over the hammocks, giving to many tracts fronts greatly exceeding the depth, the public interests involved must bear almost a duplicate value to the numerical computation.

To those acquainted with the peculiarities of our southern countries, and who reflect that the extension of the front line gives a greater proportional advantage than the mere additional front, this estimate will not appear excessive. In a parallelogram composed of three successive square miles, receding from the river or front, the hammock, as in most cases, not extending in the same direction to exceed half a mile, the tract will have but one-sixth of what is appreciated the most valuable lands; when, if the relative position of the figure be reversed, the amount of hammock lands in the triple front will be one-half of the tract, and the whole brought within an average distance of the water of less than two-thirds of a mile, leaving to the United States, in the rear, the entire pine lands.

It is certainly material to the interest of the United States, and especially to the honest claimants, that the proceedings should be speedily examined. If the decision of the commission be correct, the business ought to be concluded in less than six months, and, if not, the sooner it is terminated the better.

It may not be improbable that, with some, the course I have pursued may be condemned as erroneous in not submitting, as the minority, to the judgment of the commission expressed by the majority. I am, nevertheless, conscious that, although this may in general, and in minor points, be correct, there are occasions when silent acquiescence would be censurable, and an independent opposition imperiously required.

It is my matured opinion that Congress will not sanction many of the claims recommended for confirmation as authorized by the Spanish Government, but will consider them as fraudulently made in anticipation of the cession of the Floridas to the United States.

I have the honor to remain, with much respect, your obedient humble servant,
ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

Hon. WM. H. CRAWFORD, Secretary of the Treasury.

NOTE.—I am inclined to believe that all the papers I have referred to have not been embodied in the report of my colleagues.

No. 12.

SIR:

NEW YORK, May 1, 1824.

I had the honor this morning, in reply to Mr. Jones's note received by to-day's mail, to inform the Government that I was not in possession of any draught of my letter written from Charleston, and that I should be under the necessity, with the exception of the copies of the letters contained therein, to give my communication from memory, which I now do, treating the subjects thereof more at large, affording the President a better opportunity to understand the bearings of the transactions to which it relates, with the request that this may be considered as its substitute.

I have dated the enclosed from Charleston to preserve the order of the correspondence, and to answer the reference in my letter of the 31st March, written the day after my arrival in Washington.

I am, respectfully, your most obedient servant,
ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

Hon. W. H. CRAWFORD, Secretary of the Treasury.

SIR:

CHARLESTON, February 25, 1824.

I had the honor, from St. Augustine, under date of the 10th of January, to transmit to you, for the inspection of the President, my correspondence with Davis Floyd, Esq., of the 8th of the same month, to which I have now to add the last communications that passed between myself and colleagues.

The majority of the commission having refused to settle any general principles, or to adopt any organization of our business that would facilitate or render it intelligible, I considered it my duty to assume the responsibility of withdrawing from the adjudication; at the same time I continued a constant attendant, noting in written memoranda whatever transpired.

I have come to this place in anticipation of some communication from the chairman of the Committee on Public Lands, requesting my attendance in Washington previous to the passage of any act of Congress extending the term of the commission.

With much respect, I remain, &c.,

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

Hon. W. H. CRAWFORD.

SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, January 27, 1824.

We shall commence this morning making out a report of the proceedings of the board to send on to the Secretary of the Treasury. We would be sorry that a difference of opinion amongst the commissioners should deprive the people and the Government of the aid of any one member of the board, and hope therefore, that, notwithstanding we may have differed in opinion on an important question, whether the majority were right or wrong, it affords no good reason why we should not all unite in making up the report of the board; and, also, in rendering the reasons for the confirmation or rejection of such claims as have been decided. We, therefore, hope that you will change your previous determination, and unite with us in making out the report and decisions aforesaid.

We are, respectfully, &c.,

DAVIS FLOYD.
W. W. BLAIR.

Col. ALEX. HAMILTON.

As I had declined joining in the adjudication I conceived it a matter of delicacy to absent myself from all private meetings; and, having absolutely disapproved of the conduct of my colleagues, I returned the following answer to their letter, immediately upon its receipt. The board being in session, I wrote immediately, to prevent delay.

GENTLEMEN:

ST. AUGUSTINE, January 27, 1824.

If my attendance were not mere matter of form, I should regret that my absence would "deprive the people and the Government" of my assistance in making up the report of the commission; but as I have uniformly disapproved of the course that has been pursued, and since there has been no difference of opinion in the few cases that have been the subjects of your adjudication, I can perceive no other consequence in my interference than to occasion delay and embarrassment. As I have not heard, notwithstanding my constant attendance, the principles which have governed the commission in its decisions, it would be impossible for me to show their propriety; and to attempt to illustrate their inaccuracy by the assumption of what has been your interpretation of the rules, regulations, and royal orders, that have been in force, and governed the disposition of the lands in this Territory, while under the jurisdiction of the Spanish Government, would be a preposterous and most idle task.

When the report shall be made I presume the commission will terminate its session, to prevent further inconvenience resulting from my refusal to participate in its proceedings.

It is with great regret that I have considered it my duty to the public interest, and not less so to the claimants, who were deeply concerned in the propriety and strictness of our examinations, to decline your invitation to change my determination.

I have the honor to remain, with much respect, your obedient servant,

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

Hons. DAVIS FLOYD, and
W. W. BLAIR.

GENTLEMEN:

ST. AUGUSTINE, January 30, 1824.

It may be proper to inform you that, in my opinion, the document upon which Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, Jun., claims title to fifty thousand acres of land, is not authentic; and I have to request, in consideration of the interest of the United States, that the records of title in the office of the keeper of the public archives may be deposited in a trunk, and secured with separate locks—one for the use of the commissioners, and the other for the keeper of the public archives.

I am, with much respect, your obedient servant,

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

Hons. DAVIS FLOYD, and
W. W. BLAIR.

P. S. I shall be obliged to you to inform me what is your determination in relation to the records of title.

To the above no answer was given; but, on the succeeding day, while I was directing transcripts to be made from the minutes, Mr. Floyd joined me, when I directed his attention to my note in reference to the public records. It was our united opinion that these papers were insecurely kept; and mine, that it was our duty to direct the marshal to take forcible possession, if the proposition I had submitted should not be complied with. To this course Mr. Floyd objected, and alleged, as his reason, that he would not do any act that might compromise his communications to Washington. We then ordered the marshal to call upon the keeper of the public archives, and request him to concur with the proposed arrangement. The following is the answer, and such as I had anticipated. I had made repeated unsuccessful attempts to secure these papers, aware that I ought not in prudence, and in the exercise of a sound discretion, commence an investigation into their validity while they were subject to intrusions, and under an irresponsible control. The President had directed these documents to be transferred to the charge of the commissioners, which was not complied with, under an evasion sanctioned by the majority of the board. This order from the President was issued in consequence of a communication made by Mr. Floyd and myself, the day after his arrival in St. Augustine, at my suggestion.

The treaty declares that the public records shall be transferred to the American commissioners at the cession of the Territory. The communication of the President advises that the public records, transferred by Governor Coppinger (the Spanish) to General Jackson, (the American commissioner,) should be placed in charge of the land commission. The majority of the commissioners, with the keeper of the public archives, decide that, as there was no other than a constructive transfer, there was not such a delivery as to embrace the documents alluded to within the order of the President. It was also contended that, as the Florida Legislative Council had placed a certain portion of these papers in charge of the keeper of the public archives, he was bound to retain possession of them. To which it was objected that, inasmuch as Congress had limited the powers of the Legislative Council, and especially prohibiting them from interfering with the landed rights of the United States, they had no power to dispose of the original titles to lands that were, with the Territory, transferred as public property; in which character they had always been held under the Spanish Government. It being also a well established principle of law, that the muniments of title ought always to attend the highest right to the land, they were, in fact, the only evidences of the acts of the Government, to illustrate under what conditions and circumstances the public lands were appropriated. These records were the representatives of the allodial right of the King; and no sales could be made without the sanction of the Government, obtained by regular petition; and, in all cases where lands remained vacant for two successive years, they were considered reannexed to the "royal domain;" and were frequently, under such circumstances, conveyed to others by subsequent grants, and the improvements sold for the benefit of the public treasury. [See Governor White's regulations, published in 1803 and 1805.] The original grants were never given to the grantees—transcripts were alone issued.

The annexed report was made by the marshal on the 2d February, 1824.

To the honorable the commissioners appointed to ascertain claims and titles to land in East Florida:

GENTLEMEN: In obedience to your order of the 31st ultimo, I called at the office of the keeper of the public archives, and proposed to Antonio Alvarez, Esq., [late secretary to Governor Coppinger,] that all the original title to lands in that office should be deposited in a chest to be provided for that purpose, on which should be placed two locks; the chest and key of one of the locks to remain in charge of the keeper of the public archives, the key of the other lock to remain in charge of the land commissioners; that, when any papers should be required, some person authorized by the commissioners would attend with their key at the office of the keeper of the public archives; that he might have free access to the papers, at the same time protecting them from improper exposure. Mr. Alvarez declined acceding to the arrangement proposed.

With much respect I remain your obedient servant,

WATERS SMITH, Marshal E. F.

NOTE.—The words within brackets by myself. A. H.

Perceiving that my colleagues were determined not to take any steps that would coerce the production or tend to secure the public records, which became the more necessary after transcripts had been issued, with the official certificate that they were copies of the originals in his possession, I resolved to expose the proceedings of the commission, and, if possible, cause it to be suspended. Under the impression that, as we ceased to be in commission on the 7th February instant, the expiration of the act of Congress in virtue of which we had been appointed, it would be necessary to re-nominate us to the Senate, I had intended to have made a formal protest.

The majority of the commission having decided that, as Congress had, by the act of 3d of March, 1823, extended the final jurisdiction of the commissioners in favor of "actual settlers" to three thousand five hundred acres, this extension was not to be considered as confined to those only who were in the cultivation or occupation of the land claimed, but that it embraced the claims of all those who were merely residents within the Territory at its cession, the period referred to in the act. It was not alone on the ground that this interpretation was not authorized by fair construction, and the reasons apparent why Congress should be more confiding to the commission in a class of claimants so peculiarly advantageously situated, that I was opposed to their decision, but because I considered the public interests essentially jeopardized by the admission of claims that, in my opinion, had been made in fraud of the United States, and in direct violation of the provisions of the royal order of 1815, in virtue of which they were avowedly made. Of these grants few, if any, were in actual possession at the time of the cession, and of those which had been located since the surveys had not corresponded with the regulations of the Spanish Government, but in such a manner as, at least, to duplicate the injury to the public interest.

If the view I had taken of this subject was correct, and of which I entertain no doubt, it was of importance to the community, and every individual desirous to make purchases in Florida, that no act of the commission should facilitate the imposition intended to be practised upon those who might be induced to speculate under the sanction of the decisions of the commissioners. I consequently sent the subjoined note to the presiding commissioner:

SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, February 4, 1824.

In order to guard against any unfortunate speculations that might arise from the decisions of the majority of the commissioners, permit me to recommend that no evidence of confirmation issue in those cases exceeding one thousand acres, where the claimants are not actually settled on the lands claimed, until Congress shall have an opportunity to examine our proceedings.

I am, with much respect, your obedient servant,

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

To DAVIS FLOYD, Esq.

To the above no answer was made, and, on the following day, I departed for Charleston.

All which is respectfully submitted.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

MINUTES OF THE BOARD OF FLORIDA LAND COMMISSIONERS.

Board of Land Commissioners, city of St. Augustine, district of East Florida.

Agreeable to an act of Congress, entitled "An act for ascertaining claims and titles to land within the Territory of Florida," approved the 8th of May, 1822; also, an act of Congress entitled "An act amending and supplementary to the act for ascertaining claims and titles to land in the Territory of Florida, and to provide for the survey and disposal of the public lands in Florida," approved the 3d of March, 1823. Present: the Hons. Davis Floyd, William W. Blair, and Alexander Hamilton, appointed and commissioned for the purpose of ascertaining the claims and titles to lands within the district of East Florida: The said commissioners met at the Government house, in the city aforesaid, on Monday the 4th day of August, 1823, agreeably to previous notice published in the East Florida Herald, and proceeded to open their session for the performance of the duties assigned to their office. Whereupon, on motion,

Resolved, That the Hon. Davis Floyd be appointed presiding member of the board.

Ordered, That Francis J. Fatio be appointed secretary to this board. Whereupon, the said Francis J. Fatio took and subscribed the oath of office prescribed by the acts of Congress in that case made and provided.

Ordered, That John Lowe be appointed messenger to the Board of Commissioners.

Waters Smith presented to the board the following documents, with an accompanying memorial from James Bosley, of the city of Baltimore, to wit:

A deed from William G. D. Worthington to James Bosley, marked A, for five hundred acres of land;

A deed from Charles Gobert, and others, to said Worthington, marked B;

A certificate of Mr. Arredondo relative to Moultrie plantation;

Which documents were ordered to be filed by the secretary of the board.

RULES.

Ordered, In all cases where, in the deraignment of title, the documents may be very voluminous, the commissioners will require only so much of their contents as they may deem essential to a fair understanding of the claims.

Ordered, That the secretary of this board do apply to Patrick Lynch for all papers heretofore filed with said Lynch, relating to land titles in the district of East Florida, by virtue of an appointment as provisional secretary of this board made by the Hon. Alexander Hamilton; and that the accounts of said Lynch, for his services, be audited.

Ordered, That all claimants may be permitted, in the time of adjournment of the commissioners, to file their memorials and documents with the secretary, who shall produce them before the board at its next meeting for examination.

Ordered, That the board be adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

TUESDAY, August 5, 1823.

The Board of Commissioners met according to adjournment. Present, all the members.

The following rules were then adopted:

Resolved, That claimants be not required to produce their title papers translated into the English language, but, in all cases, be permitted to file the original documents. The honorable Alexander Hamilton dissenting.

Ordered, That all the papers heretofore filed before the meeting of the board be returned to their respective owners, and that they be permitted to present the same in proper order.

Upon the motion of Francis J. Fatio, secretary of this board, Joseph B. Lancaster is admitted and sworn his deputy, well and truly and faithfully to perform the duties required of him by the Board of Commissioners.

Resolved, That the district attorney, the keeper of the public archives, nor the secretary to this board are not authorized to represent as attorneys or agents, any claims to lands before the commissioners. Honorable Davis Floyd dissenting.

The Board then adjourned until to-morrow morning, at 10 o'clock.

WEDNESDAY, August 6, 1823.

The board met according to adjournment. Present, all the members.

John H. McIntosh presented to the board his memorial for sundry tracts of land, with the following documents:

A memorial and certificate of four tracts of lands, with surveys of each. The first, a tract of land at the head of Indian river, containing six thousand acres, and bounded by Indian river and vacant lands; second, a tract called Stony Point, on Marrott's island, lying in Indian river; the number of acres not specified; third, a tract of land of 300 acres, situated on the north side of Marrott's island, and lies between the lagoon of Indian river, bordering on the said island and the Musquito lagoon; fourth, a tract of land of one thousand acres, called Cabbage swamp, situated on the east of Indian river, opposite the Narrows.

Also, a copy of the royal title to John McQueen for 98 caballerias and 8 acres, or about 3,254½ acres of land, upon St. John's river and McGirt's creek, together with a copy of the bill of sale for third tract; and another called Fort George, executed by said McQueen in favor of said McIntosh.

A conveyance from Timothy Hollingsworth to said McIntosh, of a tract of land containing eight hundred acres upon St. John's river, called Mulberry Grove.

An obligation from John McQueen to said McIntosh to make title to a tract of land upon Miami river, with a receipt acknowledging payment for said tract; also, a receipt from said McQueen to said McIntosh for the sum of $28,000, expressed to be the full consideration for three tracts of land.

Also, a title from said McQueen to said McIntosh for a tract of land on Miami river, containing 2,000 acres; also, an official copy of the concession to McQueen of said tract.

John B. Strong, Esq. moved the Board of Commissioners upon the following interrogatory, to wit: "Will the board require of the claimant to file with the secretary his memorial only for record, or will he be compelled to file therewith the documentary evidence of his title; and does the law require such document to be recorded, and fees paid to the secretary therefor?"

On which motion and interrogatory the board resolved that they will hear argument upon to-morrow.

The board then adjourned until to-morrow morning, 10 o'clock.

THURSDAY, August 7, 1823.

The board met according to adjournment. Present, all the members.

John Love, by his agent, William R. Gibson, presented his memorial to the board, praying confirmation to three hundred acres of land, situate about fifteen miles south of St. Augustine; also, a document marked A, purporting to be a copy, of Benjamin Lord's receipt for surveying the same, and a copy of an appraisement thereof by William Moss and George Gressall, all of which are ordered to be filed; also, an exhibit marked B, purporting to be a copy of a certificate of naturalization of said Love, obtained from the clerk's office of the federal district court, held in the city of Charleston, South Carolina.

Leave is given to John B. Strong, Esq., to withdraw his motion made on yesterday, and set down for argument for to-day.

Samuel Fairbanks, by John B. Strong, his attorney, presented his memorial, claiming title to a lot of ground in St. Augustine, on St. George street, containing near one acre of land, without any document accompanying the same; which is ordered to be filed.

The board adjourned until to-morrow morning, at 10 o'clock.

FRIDAY, August 8, 1823.

The board met according to adjournment. Present, all the members.

Patrick Lynch presented his account against the United States as provisional secretary to this board, appointed by the honorable Alexander Hamilton, one of the members of this board, from the 7th of June to the 5th of August, sixty days, at $1,250 per annum, $208 33; which is ordered to be certified to the Treasurer of the United States.

Duncan L. Clinch presented his memorial to this board, praying confirmation to a tract of land of five hundred acres, situated in the Twelve-mile swamp, near Joseph Thomas's land, and about seven miles northwest from St. Augustine; also, filed an original grant for the same, as spoken of in his memorial, to William Penn; a conveyance from said Penn to William Frazer and John Richardson, and a conveyance from Thomas Stone and William Wilson to Thomas Clarke; also a conveyance from C. W. and J. F. Clarke to said memorialist; also, a plat of survey of the same. All of which papers are ordered to be filed.

THURSDAY, September 11, 1823.

The Board of Commissioners met this day. Present, the Hons. Alexander Hamilton and William W. Blair. Sundry resolutions, in the words and figures following, to wit, (eight in number:)

Resolved, That the commissioners will, on the 15th day of September, commence the examination of the evidence of all claims, and conditionally adjudicate upon those arising under the royal order of 1790, commonly known as the order regulating head-rights, and such as may be founded on the general law of India.

Resolved, That as, by the proviso of the fourth section of the act of Congress, approved the 8th of May, 1822, the commissioners are not authorized to decide upon claims emanating both from the British and Spanish Governments, they will suspend forming any final decisions until the 1st of December, the ultimate period established by Congress for the admission of claims.

Resolved, That, in the opinion of the commissioners, in the acts of Congress, in virtue of which they are authorized to ascertain claims and titles to land, no exception or distinction is made between city and county property; but that, in consideration of the interests of the United States not requiring that the commissioners should be vested other than with discretionary power to examine claims to city lands, where the same, by common report, may appear to the commissioners questionable, they do recommend to the inhabitants of St. Augustine and Fernandina to memorialize Congress to relieve them from the necessity of exhibiting their claims to city lots, and the consequent expense and embarrassment incident thereto.

Resolved, That the secretary to the Board of Commissioners be authorized to demand the recording fees, established by law, upon all memorials of claims ordered to be recorded; but that, upon all other documents, no fees shall be demanded until the termination of the next session of Congress.

Resolved, That all memorials presented to the consideration of the commission shall be subscribed by the proper signature of the claimant, or by his agent.

Resolved, That the public papers received by the commissioners, in virtue of a subpoena duces tecum, and by them ordered to be transcribed, be returned to the keeper of the public archives by the secretary of the board, and that the transcripts of the same be immediately translated.

Resolved, That claimants desiring to obtain the testimony of any witnesses residing without the Territory of Florida, shall file, with the secretary, their interrogatories; and, that the district attorney, under direction of the board, shall, if required, annex cross-interrogatories on behalf of the United States; and, that in all cases where the witnesses are resident within the Territory, the claimants may file depositions taken ex parte, as the said witnesses are subject to the jurisdiction of the commissioners, leaving it optional with the claimants to proceed by filing interrogatories, were presented to the board by Mr. Hamilton; which were ordered to be laid over for further consideration.

"Resolved, That the marshal apply to the keeper of the public archives, and that he present him with a copy of the letter addressed to the board by the Department of State, and know from him what and how many papers of the kind referred to in that letter are in his possession; and that he request the keeper of the public archives to deliver them to him, or show cause, if any he can, why he does not do so."

The board then adjourned until to-morrow evening at three o'clock.

FRIDAY, November 14, 1823.

The board met pursuant to adjournment. Present, Davis Floyd and Alexander Hamilton, Esquires.

Waters Smith, marshal for the district of East Florida, made his return here upon the resolution adopted by the board yesterday, in the words and figures following, to wit:

"Served William Reynolds, Esq., keeper of the public archives, with a copy of this resolution, and with a copy of the letter addressed to the board by the Department of State. Said Reynolds stated that he would personally appear before the Land Commissioners this day, at three o'clock P. M.

"WATERS SMITH, Marshal."

"ST. AUGUSTINE, November 14, 1823."

William Reynolds, Esq., attended here before the board, and made a parol answer to the resolution adopted by this board upon yesterday. Whereupon the board discharged the said William Reynolds from further attendance upon the board at this time, and discharged the rule for him to show cause.

The board then adjourned until Monday, 17th instant, at three o'clock P. M.

SATURDAY, November 15, 1823.

The board having met by special arrangement upon this day, at 4 o'clock P. M.: (Present, all the members:) to take into consideration a letter addressed to them by Edgar Macon, Esq., chairman of a committee of a public meeting, dated 15th of November, 1823, do answer as follows, to the first question, to wit:

1st. Whether the regulations published in the newspapers are still in force, and are required to be observed by the claimants to land in this district?

Answer. One of the regulations adopted by the board at its first meeting, and published, requiring claimants to present translations of their title papers, has been rescinded. Some other regulations, to wit: those requiring the claimants to say whether the claim presented be the whole or part of the original grant, and to present certified copies of their title papers have not been exacted of claimants, though these regulations have not been formally annulled. Claimants have generally conformed to the last regulation as written, but not always: neither have any memorials been rejected for the non-production of such papers, where they have been referred to as on record in the public archives, or in the clerk's office of the superior or county courts. With those exceptions the regulations, as published, are in force as far as we now remember.

Question 2d. Whether any other rules and regulations on the subject have been adopted by the board; and particularly, first, whether all the documents presented with the memorial to the board must be translated by the secretary of the board before the claim can be taken into consideration?

Answer. The board have adopted some other resolutions, but we presume that answers to the specifications to this question are all that is required. We answer to the first specification, to wit: that the board has not adopted any resolution upon the subject, but they believe it necessary that all the papers produced and filed as evidence in each case should be translated by the secretary before it is finally decided on by the board.

Second specification, to wit: Whether all the documents in each case, together with the memorial, must be recorded? We answer, that we require the memorial, and all the documents produced by the parties, and filed as evidence, to be recorded.

Third specification, to wit: Whether any claim will be taken into consideration before it be recorded with the accompanying documents?

Answer. We do not require the memorial or evidence of title in any case to be recorded before we take it into consideration.

Fourth specification. If the documents are to be recorded, is the record to be in the original Spanish, or the translation, or both?

Answer. The translations are alone to be recorded.

Fifth specification. Are the claimants required to pay for the recording of the documents; or only for the recording of the memorial or claim?

Answer. The claimants are required to pay for all the papers they require to be recorded, and for no more.

Sixth specification. Have any of the claims presented yet been recorded in any manner whatever?

Answer. None of the claims have yet been recorded.

Ordered, That the secretary do make out a copy of the proceedings of the board upon this day, and furnish Mr. Macon therewith.

The board then adjourned.

Edgar Macon, Esq., district attorney for East Florida, attended this day, under order of this board.

Lewis Hugeron was this day admitted and sworn in as assistant secretary of this board, well and truly and faithfully to perform the duties required of him by the Board of Land Commissioners.

Mr. Hamilton objected to either of the commissioners administering oaths when the board is not in session; that, depositions taken before either of the commissioners receive a consequence and importance from their official situation, that may mislead the judgment of Congress, as it will be presumed that the commissioners will have asked all pertinent and necessary questions.

Ordered, That the Secretary be directed, forthwith, to record the minutes of this board in a well-bound book.

Ordered, That the marshal of the United States for the district of East Florida be directed to prepare the Government house for the reception of this board.

It is ordered, That the rules of evidence governing courts of law govern this board for the future, viz: That the party calling the witness, first examine him, and then turn him over to the district attorney; and, when he has finished, the board can ask him any pertinent question which they conceive to have been omitted; but the party examining the witness cannot be interrupted without he is putting an improper question.

Mr. Hamilton dissented as to any restraint on the board in its examination.

The board then resumed the consideration of the case of John H. McIntosh, which was postponed until this day, and examined sundry witnesses, to wit: Gabriel W. Perpall, Antonio Alvarez, and Joseph M. Hernandez, and re-examined George J. F. Clarke.

THURSDAY, December 18, 1823.

The board met this day pursuant to adjournment. Present, all the members.

Edgar Macon, Esq., district attorney for East Florida, attended this day, under order of this board.

The form of a docket, exhibiting the character and circumstances of each claim, submitted by Mr. Hamilton, was adopted by the board; and that Mr. Macon, the United States' attorney, be authorized to employ as many persons as he may think proper to make out the same, aided by the secretary of the board.

To the decision of the commissioners in favor of the admission of the claims of Antelm Gay and others to record and adjudicate, Mr. Hamilton dissents; and states, as the grounds of his disagreement, that, by the treaty all grants, concessions, and orders of survey, dated subsequently to the 24th of January, 1818, are declared null and void; and that, unless expressly and specially revived by the acts of Congress, the commissioners can have no authority to take the said claims into consideration, inasmuch as the documents on which these claims are predicated bear date subsequent to 24th January, 1818.

On motion of Mr. Drysdale, the following rule was adopted by a majority of the board, viz:

"It is ordered, That, hereafter, commissions for the taking of testimony may issue in blank as to the names of the witness or witnesses to be examined: provided, that the claimant shall, in all such cases, whenever he can do so, name to the board, as commissioner, a judge of one of the courts of the United States, or a judge or justice of the superior, circuit, or county courts of the State in which the commission is to be executed."

Mr. Hamilton dissents to the issuing of any commission to — witness, unless the same be directed to a judge of the United States, or a judge or justice of the superior, circuit, or county courts of the State in which the commission is to be executed. Mr. Hamilton not being willing to issue blank commissions to any person or persons authorized to administer oaths, such as justices of the peace, notaries public, &c.

The board then adjourned until to-morrow morning, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

FRIDAY, December 19, 1823.

This day the board met pursuant to adjournment. Present, all the members.

Edgar Macon, Esq., district attorney for East Florida, attended this day, under order of this board.

On motion of Mr. Cox, leave is given him to amend his memorial in the case of Arredondo and son vs. the United States, for two hundred and eighty-nine thousand six hundred and forty-five acres and five-sevenths of an acre.

This day the United States' attorney made a motion, "whether the board considered themselves authorized to adjudicate and make a final decision upon a claim over which they had this power, which claim was a part of a grant for a greater number of acres of land than this board can finally act upon?" which was postponed for further consideration.

The board took into consideration the claim of Moses E. Levy for thirty-six thousand acres of land; and the documents marked with red ink, A, B, C, D, E, G, H, F, and J, being read, as well also as the deposition of E. M. Wanton, the board then proceeded to examine therein Thomas Murphy. At 2 o'clock, P. M., not being sufficiently advised of and concerning the said claim, adjourned the further consideration thereof until to-morrow.

The following letter was inserted by order of the board:

January 8, 1824.

Inasmuch as the commissioners will be able to make final decision of but few claims, and as much time will be necessary to investigate and report sundry rules and regulations and customs prevalent in the province relative to granting land, and as the time when we must make report to Congress will shortly elapse, I would propose for consideration whether it would not be proper to take all the claims, now in a state of readiness, into consideration; have them recorded, and finally decided; and whether we would be able to devote more of our time, and our secretary, to the investigation of new cases; or whether, probably, the whole time may not be necessary for the preparation of those before us.

Yours,

DAVIS FLOYD.

To ALEXANDER HAMILTON, Esq.

The board then took into consideration the claim of Francis J. Avice, for five hundred acres; which was submitted.

SATURDAY, January 24, 1824.

The board met this day, pursuant to adjournment. Present, all the members.

Edgar Macon, Esq., district attorney for East Florida, attended this day, under order of the board.

Resolved, That, in the future decisions of the board, there being only two members of the board who act in the adjudication, that, in case of a disagreement, the case will be reported to Congress, with the facts attending it, for their decision.

John B. Strong, attorney for the heirs of Lorenzo Capo, petitions the board of commissioners for a re-hearing in said case, and exhibits the deposition of Anthony Hindsman, which is herewith filed, and prays that the former decree, rejecting said claim, may be set aside, and a decree of confirmation entered thereon.

JOHN B. STRONG, Attorney for claimant.

The board then, agreeably to the said petition, reversed the decree of rejection upon said case, and granted thereon a confirmation.

Ordered by the board, that, in the case of Antelm Gay for four hundred acres, the decree of rejection be set aside, and a reconsideration of the case be allowed.

Ordered by the board, that, in the case of Antelm Gay for six hundred acres, the decree of rejection be set aside, and a reconsideration of the case be allowed.

John B. Strong, attorney for Sarah Tate, only heiress of John E. Tate, deceased, respectfully represents, that he expects to be able to give testimony in this case which will satisfy the honorable the board of commissioners of the justice of the claim of the petitioner or claimant to the land in question, by proving that Governor Coppinger offered to give other lands in lieu thereof. Your petitioner, therefore, prays that the board will vacate the decision or order heretofore made in this case, and permit the petitioner to introduce the testimony which he expects will show that the Spanish Government have considered the claimant's father legally entitled to the land in question, since the grant made to him in 1811, on the St. John's river.

JOHN B. STRONG, Attorney for claimant.

ST. AUGUSTINE, January 24, 1824.

Agreeable to the request of the petitioner, ordered by the board, that, in the case of Sarah Tate for four hundred and fifty acres, the decree of rejection be set aside, and a reconsideration of the case be allowed.

FLORIDA LAND CLAIMS RECOMMENDED FOR CONFIRMATION.

No. 1.

AUGUST 29, 1823.

To the honorable the Commissioners appointed to try claims and titles to land in East Florida.

The memorial of Belton A. Copp, a citizen of the United States, residing in the county of Camden, in Georgia, sheweth:

That your memorialist claims title to a tract of land, situated on the west side of the river St. John's, opposite New Buena Vista, and known by the name of Guy's place or Pelitka, first line commencing on the river St. John's, and running north 45 degrees, west 120 chains; second line running north 45 degrees, east 120 chains; third line running south 54 degrees, east 80 chains; and the fourth line bounded on the east by the river St. John's, as per survey thereof, in schedule B, will more fully appear, which said tract of land contains twelve thousand acres; and was granted to one Bernardo Segui on the 22d day of January, 1818, as will appear by exhibit A, by virtue of the royal order of the 29th March, 1815, which concession was carried into royal grant on the 3d of August, 1818, which will appear by exhibit B; and which said tract of land, on the 18th of January, 1819, was conveyed, in fee, by the said Bernardo Segui, for the consideration of $1,200, to one George Fleming, a Spanish subject, and a resident of Florida, till the 23d of August, 1821; and after, as per exhibit B, will also appear that, on that day last mentioned, the said George conveyed the said tract of land to your memorialist, which conveyance also forms a part of exhibit B. Your memorialist further says that he is in actual possession of said tract of land, and that a part of it is in cultivation; all which is humbly submitted.

BELTON A. COPP.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, December 16, 1817.

Don Bernardo Segui, a native and inhabitant of this city, to your excellency, respectfully sheweth:

Being advised of the royal clemency of his Majesty, by his royal order of the 29th of March, 1815, his having acceded to the gifts proposed by the Government of this province, that, to the faithful subjects of the same, who occupied themselves in the defence thereof during the last invasion, lands should be granted them in absolute property.

The services rendered by the memorialist in all that period are well known and notorious; and although he did not take up arms and undergo the fatigues of a militiaman, yet he exercised the duties of police officer, and discharged other trusts peculiar to the royal service, which your excellency's predecessors thought proper to charge me with, and which I performed to their satisfaction. These limited services, and the sight of a large family which surround him, obliges him to resort to the said royal clemency, and by it prays that your excellency will be pleased to grant him, in absolute property and dominion, a tract of vacant land containing twelve hundred acres, opposite a place known by the name of Joe Gres, and situated on the opposite sides of the bank of the river St. John's, in this said province, bounded on the north and west by vacant lands, and on the south by those belonging to Don Gabriel Perpall, which he hopes to receive from the known justice of your excellency.

BERNARDO SEGUI.

To the GOVERNOR.

ST. AUGUSTINE, January 22, 1818.

Grant the memorialist the twelve hundred acres of land in the place pointed out, of which there will be given him a title, in form, by the Government notary and royal finance.

COPPINGER.

I certify, the foregoing to be a true and correct translation from a document in the Spanish language.

F. J. FATIO, S. B. L. C.

Title in favor of Don Bernardo Segui to twelve hundred acres of land on the opposite side of the banks of the river St. John's.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, August 3, 1818.

Don José Coppinger, colonel of the royal armies, civil and military Governor, and chief of the royal finance in the city of St. Augustine, Florida, and its provinces, by his Majesty:

Whereas, by royal order of the 29th March, 1815, his Majesty has been pleased to approve the gifts and premiums proposed by my predecessor, the Brigadier General Don Sebastian Kindelan, for the officers and soldiers, both of the line as well as of the local militia, and other individuals of this province who contributed to its defence at the time of the rebellion, being one of said gifts, the distribution of lands, according to the number of family each individual may have, Don Bernardo Segui having presented himself, and making known his services rendered in said defence, he petitioned, in virtue of them and the aforesaid gifts, for the concession of twelve hundred acres of land which were granted him by my decree of the 22d January of the present year, opposite the place known by name of Joe Gres, and situated on the opposite side of the banks of the river St. John's, bounded on the north and west by vacant lands, and on the south by those of Don Gabriel Perpall, the dimensions of the said lands being as follows: the first line begins at an oak, and runs north 45 degrees west, 120 chains, and ends at a pine; the second line commences at the said pine, and runs north 45 degrees east, 120 chains, and ends at another pine; the third line begins at the last mentioned pine, and runs south 45 degrees east, 80 chains, and ends at a cypress, as is fully seen in the proceedings brought forward by the said Don Bernardo Segui, filed in the office of the notary of Government. Wherefore, I have thought proper to grant, and by these presents do grant, in the name of his Majesty and his royal justice, which I administer to the said Don Bernardo Segui, the aforesaid one thousand two hundred acres of land, without injury to a third person, in the place already pointed out, for himself, his heirs, and successors, in absolute property; and I hereby, and by these presents, deliver him the corresponding title, by which I separate it from the royal domains, from the right and dominion it held in said land; and I cede and transfer it to the said Bernardo Don Segui, his heirs and successors, that in consequence thereof they may possess it as their own, make use of and enjoy it free from any claim whatever, with all its entrances, outlets, uses, customs, rights, privileges, and all and in general, which hath, doth, or in any manner by right may belong or pertain thereto; and, it being their wish, they may sell, cede, transfer, barter, or alienate it at their will and pleasure. To all of which I interpose my authority, as far as possible, and according to law, in compliance with the sovereign will.

Given under my hand, and countersigned by the undersigned notary of Government and royal finance in this said city of St. Augustine, Florida the 3d of August, 1818.

JOSE COPPINGER.

By order of his Excellency:

JUAN DE ENTRALGO,

Notary of Government and Royal Finance.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, August 3, 1818.

Conformable to the original filed in the archives under my charge, to which I refer, and at the request of the party, do seal and sign the present copy on two leaves of ordinary paper, stamps not being used.

JUAN DE ENTRALGO,

Notary of Government and Royal Finance.

In virtue of the order, dated the 11th of July last past, which was communicated to me by Don Joseph Coppinger, colonel of the royal armies, civil and military Governor of this city and its province, I certify that I have measured and laid off for Don Bernardo Segui a tract of land, situated on the west of the river St. John's, opposite the place on which there is a military post; which land contains one thousand two hundred acres, its figures and demarcations being the same as represented in the preceding plat, [See plate 3, fig. 1.] and give this certificate, which I sign in St. Augustine, Florida, the 1st day of August, 1818.

ANDRES BURGEVIN.

The foregoing plat is copied from the original, but on a double scale, to which I refer.

A. BURGEVIN.

I certify that the foregoing is a true and correct translation from a document in the Spanish language.

F. J. FATIO, S. B. L. C.

CONVEYANCE.

Know ye, that I, Don Bernardo Segui, resident of this city, do sell to George Fleming, inhabitant of this province, one thousand two hundred acres of land, which I possess as my property, opposite the place known by the name of Joe Gres, and situated upon the opposite side of the banks of the river St. John's, bounded on the north and west by vacant lands, and on the south by those of Don Gabriel Perpall, the first line beginning at an oak, and running N. 45°, W. 120 chains, and ending at a pine. The second line begins at said pine, and runs N. 45°, E. 120 chains, and ends at another pine. The third line commences at the last mentioned pine, and runs S. 45°, east 80 chains, and ends at a cypress; which lands appertain to me in absolute property, by a concession made to me by this Government on the 22d January, 1818, and of which there was given me corresponding title on the 3d of August of the same year, as a recompense for my services rendered at the time of the insurrection of this province, agreeable to the royal order on the subject; and I sell him the said one thousand two hundred acres of land, under the boundaries and dimensions already explained, with all its entrances, outlets, usages, customs, rights, and privileges, which it has or may belong to it, free from any incumbrance, (as I, the said notary, do certify as results from the register of mortgages under my charge, which, to that effect, I examined,) in the sum of one thousand two hundred dollars, which the purchaser has paid me in cash, of which sum I acknowledge the receipt, of my own free will, renouncing the proof, laws of delivery, exception for pecuniary misreckoning, fraud, and other circumstances of the case, whereof I acknowledge a formal receipt. In virtue of which I separate myself from the right of possession, title, and whatever other rights, real and personal, I had, or may have, to said lands, which I cede, renounce, and transfer in favor of the purchaser, and whomsoever may represent him, that he may, as his own, possess, sell, and alienate the same at his will, in virtue of this deed, which I make in his favor, as a sign of real delivery, with which will be proved his having acquired possession without the necessity of further proof, from which I relieve him; and I bind myself, to the eviction and goodness of this sale, in sufficient form, and in the most formable manner to the purchaser, with my present and future property, with power and submission to the tribunals of His Majesty, that they may compel me to the fulfilment thereof, as by sentence agreed to and passed by virtue of an adjudged cause, upon which I renounce all laws, customs, rights, and privileges in my favor, and the general in form which it prohibits. And I, the said Don George Fleming, being present, do accept in my favor this deed, and by it receive as purchased the aforesaid one thousand two hundred acres of land, in the price and manner it has been sold me, which I acknowledge to have received of my free will, renouncing the proof, laws of delivery, those of the things not seen, nor received, fraud, and all other things in the matter, of which I give a receipt in form. In testimony whereof, it is dated in this city of St. Augustine, Florida, the 18th of January, 1819.

I, the notary, do attest and know the parties who signed, being witnesses. Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, Jun., Don Pedro Miranda, and Don Guillermo Travers, residents, present.

BERNARDO SEGUI.
GEORGE FLEMING.

Before me, JUAN DE ENTRALGO, Notary of Government.

Conformable to its original, filed in the archives under my charge, to which I refer, and at the request of the party, do seal and sign this present copy on two leaves of ordinary paper, stamps not being used. St. Augustine, Florida, this day of the acknowledging thereof.

JUAN DE ENTRALGO, Notary of Government.

I certify the foregoing to be a true and correct translation from a document in the Spanish language.

F. J. FATIO, S. B. L. C.

TERRITORY OF EAST FLORIDA, city of St. Augustine:

Know all men by these presents, that I, George Fleming, for and in consideration of one cent to me in hand well and truly paid by Belton A. Copp, the receipt whereof is acknowledged, hath bargained and sold, and hereby do bargain, and sell, and transfer to said Belton A. Copp all my right, title, and interest in the lands to which the plat on the other side, and A. Burgevin's certificate opposite to it, refers, which were conveyed to me by Bernardo Segui, as by the documents herewith appears, to have and to hold, to said Belton, his heirs and assigns, without warranty on my part.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal, on this twenty-third day of August, eighteen hundred and twenty-one.

GEORGE FLEMING.

In the presence of DANIEL D. COPP.

No. 2.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, December 18, 1815.

Don Francisco Roman Sanchez, native and inhabitant of this province, with due respect to your excellency, sheweth that, on the south part of the river known by the name of Santa Fé, about ten miles to the westward of the Alachua road to St. Mary's, there is great quantity of vacant lands adapted for cultivation and raising of stock, to which he intends dedicating himself for the purpose of increasing the same; and, as the petitioner has not obtained any concession of lands on which he can establish himself as he wishes, with all his family and slaves, he therefore prays your excellency will be pleased to grant him four thousand acres of land at said place, bounded on the north by said river Santa Fé, and on the other sides by vacant lands; which quantity of acres are necessary, not only on account of the number of negroes he owns, but also for the said raising of stock, and many other purposes relating to a planter; being a favor which he hopes to merit from the goodness of your excellency.

FRANCIS R. SANCHEZ.

To the GOVERNOR.

DECREE.

ST. AUGUSTINE, December 18, 1815.

In consideration of the urgent necessity there is of settling this province by all possible measures, and for the purpose of raising horned cattle, on account of the scarcity thereof, which is daily observed, grant the petitioner the four thousand acres of land in the place where he prays for, without injury to a third person; and for his security, grant him a certified copy from the secretary's office of this memorial and decree.

Roman Sanchez vs. United States.

Witter Clarke sworn and examined. Deposed that he had always heard that there were Indians at Santa Fé; he thinks it would have been unsafe to establish a plantation or carry stock there: that the Indians stopped him while about attempting a survey, and would not let him proceed, but threatened him if he did attempt it.

Daniel Hurlbut sworn and examined. Deposeth that it was considered unsafe, even on the St. John's, to settle there on account of the Indians.

No. 3.

To the honorable the Commissioners appointed to ascertain claims and title to lands in East Florida:

The memorial of Francis Julian Avice and Prosper Viel respectfully sheweth, that your memorialists claim title to a tract of land consisting of one thousand acres, situated on the river St. Sebastian, opposite the city of St.

Augustine, which were granted to José Peso de Burgo by the Spanish Government, the eleventh of September, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight, in virtue of the royal order of the 29th of October, 1790, and for which lands the said Peso de Burgo received a title from Governor Coppinger upon the twenty-fourth of February, one thousand eight hundred and eighteen; which title and plat of the survey of said tract of land are herewith filed, and marked M. and N. And your memorialists further sheweth, that they became the proprietors of said tract of land by virtue of a bill of sale from the widow Peso de Burgo to your memorialists, dated upon the twenty-second of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and twenty-two; which is also herewith exhibited, and marked O. Your memorialists further sheweth, that they are actually seized and possessed of said land, that they are citizens of the United States, and residents of the city of St. Augustine. All of which are respectfully submitted, &c.

FRANCIS J. AVICE.
PROSPER VIEL.

To the honorable the Commissioners appointed by law to ascertain claims and titles to lands in East Florida.

Francis J. Avice and Prosper Viel, with leave, amend their memorial before this board for one thousand acres of land lying on the west side, and on the bank of the St. Sebastian river, to the following effect: They state that, in the year 1794, a concession for an undefined quantity of land at St. Sebastian river, was made to Francis and John Triay by Governor Quesada, which they herewith exhibit. That, on the 11th of September, 1798, the said Francis and John Triay exchanged their said lands to José Peso de Burgo for lands which he had at a place called Governor Grant. That no steps were taken, at any time, to ascertain the quantity of said lands till after the 24th of January, 1818, but that the same was in the possession of the original grantee from 1785 until the exchange aforesaid, which was permitted by Governor White; which said exchange, and Governor White's permission for the same, are herewith exhibited. That, after the exchange, the said lands were always in the possession and cultivation of the aforesaid José Peso de Burgo until 1819, when he died, and afterwards in the possession of his widow until the time of the purchase by memorialists from her, since which time they have been actual occupants. They aver that the said lands were as head-rights to said José Peso de Burgo, and that, for many years before his death, his head-rights would have entitled him to more than one thousand acres.

J. B. LANCASTER, Attorney for claimant.

Memorial to the Governor and Commander-in-chief.

FLORIDA, August 19, 1794.

Francis and John Triay, brothers, and residents of this city, to your excellency most humbly and respectfully show, that, in the year 1785, at their request, they were granted, by your excellency's predecessor, some arable lands, which belonged to the Englishman Don John Forbes, situated on the west of the river St. Sebastian, as will be seen by the annexed memorial and its decree: and believing that, with the anterior permission, they could enjoy the right of a good and legitimate property, they have since understood that, unless they could obtain the authorization and new license of your excellency, they had no right to said lands: in virtue of which they humbly pray that you will be pleased, not only to excuse this unforeseen circumstance, but also to grant them the necessary license, in order to show the same whenever it is required; in which your excellency will be pleased to interpose your authority for its greater validity—a favor which they hope to obtain from the humane heart of your excellency.

For the petitioners,

RAFAEL SAAVEDRA DE ESPINOSA.

DECREE.

ST. AUGUSTINE, August 26, 1794.

The parties may continue in the enjoyment of the lands on which they are situated, until, in the general survey, they be allowed whatever portion may appertain to them.

SEÑOR GOVERNOR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, September 14, 1798.

Don Peso de Burgo and Francisco and John Triay, with the respect due to your excellency, say, that the former, having possession of the land lying nine miles to the north of this town, at a place known by the name of Governor Grant, and the latter other lands on the west of the river called St. Sebastian, which were granted to them by this Government to be cultivated, as is shown by the annexed certificates; and the aforesaid Don José Peso de Burgo and Francis and John Triay having agreed to exchange the said lands one for the other, for the conveniences and advantages that can result to both parties; therefore, beg your excellency to allow them the said exchange, by which means they will settle themselves on said lands without further difficulties. By so doing you will confer a favor which they expect from your kindness.

For Francis and John Triay, who do not know how to write,

JUAN DE ENTRALGO.
JOSE PESO DE BURGO.

ST. AUGUSTINE, September 11, 1798.

It is granted to the above interested petitioners to do the exchange of lands they ask for; which exchange is to take place, with the knowledge of the commanding engineer, and the same to be recorded in the office of the Government; at which office the necessary certificates will be delivered.

Title of property for one thousand acres of land in favor of Don José Peso de Burgo.

Don José Coppinger, colonel of the royal armies, civil and military, Governor pro tem., and chief of the royal finance of this city of St. Augustine, Florida, and its province, by His Majesty:

Whereas, by the royal order, communicated to this Government the 29th of October, 1790, by the Captain General of the island of Cuba and two Floridas, it is provided, among other things, that, to those strangers who, of their own free will, shall present themselves to swear allegiance to our sovereign, lands should be measured for them free of expense, in proportion to the number of laborers each family may have; Don José Peso de Burgo having presented himself, he solicited of, and was granted by the Government, the 11th of September, 1798, in consequence of a transfer made by him with Francisco and Juan Triay of a quantity of land, without specifying the quantity, on the west side of the river St. Sebastian, which belonged to Don John Forbes at the time this province was under the British dominion; which, according to the number of the family of the said Peso de Burgo, shall consist of a thousand acres of land, in the following form: fifteen acres front towards the said river, and the rest in depth, until the quantity of the said one thousand acres be complete; on the west and low pine barren, under the following boundaries: on the east and south of the said river St. Sebastian, and on the west and north by the pine barren, as will be seen by the documents and memorial presented by the said Don José Peso de Burgo, attached to the proceedings instituted for the purpose of obtaining the title of property of said one thousand acres of land, all of which remain filed in the archives of the present notary; and, as no title whatever had been given to the said Don José Peso de Burgo for the security and evidence of his possession of the said land in the form adopted towards others, that more than ten years' uninterrupted possession have elapsed, to obtain possession of said lands in fee simple and absolute property, on which he has built houses, cultivated the same, and complied with all the conditions established by the Government for the gifts and concessions of this nature, as is seen in the titles given to other settlers, and is set forth in the same proceeding: Wherefore, and in consideration thereof, I have granted, and by these presents do grant, in the name of His Majesty, and of his royal justice, which I administer to the said Don José Peso de Burgo, the above-mentioned one thousand acres of land, for him, his heirs, and successors, in absolute property; and I hereby, and by these presents, deliver him the corresponding title, by which I separate it from the royal domain, from the right and dominion it held to said land; and I cede and transfer it to the said Don José Peso de Burgo, his heirs, and successors, that in consequence thereof they may possess it as their own, make use of and enjoy it free from any claim whatever, with all its entrances, outlets, uses, customs, rights, and hereditaments, and all and in general which hath, doth, or in any manner may belong or pertain thereto; and, being their wish, they may sell, cede, transfer, and alienate, at their will and pleasure: To all of which I interpose my judicial authority as far as possible, and according to law, in compliance with the sovereign will.

Given under my hand, and countersigned by the undersigned notary of Government and royal finance, in this said city of St. Augustine, Florida, February 28, 1818.

JOSE COPPINGER.

No. 4.

Title of property in favor of Don Juan Huertas of fifteen thousand acres of land.

Don José Coppinger, colonel of the royal armies, civil and military Governor pro tem., and chief of the royal finance of this city and province, by His Majesty:

Whereas, by royal order, communicated to this Government the 29th of October, 1790, by the captain general of the island of Cuba and two Floridas, among other things it is provided that, to strangers, who, of their own free will, shall present themselves to swear allegiance to our Sovereign, lands should be laid out for them free of expense, in proportion to the number of laborers each family may have. That Don Juan Huertas having presented himself, he solicited of this Government the concession of fifteen thousand acres of land as a compensation for his well-known services, and for the purpose of establishing a cowpen, and the raising of black cattle, which was granted him the 26th August, 1814, in consideration of the truth of his petition, according to the following boundaries: five thousand acres at a place called Tocoy, five miles above Picolata, bounded on the north by the lands of Don Manuel Solano, on the southwest by vacant lands, and on the west by the river St. John's; and the remaining ten thousand acres on the banks of the river, about twelve miles above a place called the Ferry, below B. Rayant's, bounded on the south by the lands of John Mure, and from thence east to the head of Deep creek, taking in the east and west banks of the said creek, and bounded on the north by the southwest line of Tocoy, and on the west by the river St. John's, as results from a certificate given by the secretary of this said Government, with the said date of the 26th of August, 1814, which is found attached to the proceedings instituted by the above mentioned Don Juan Huertas, praying that the corresponding title of the said land be given him. Therefore, and in consideration that the above mentioned Don Juan Huertas has fully proved his having established said cowpen, and that he employs himself in the raising of cattle, complying with the object of said concession, as is seen by the said proceedings filed in the archives of the present notary; and, according to my decree of the present month, I have, therefore, granted, and by these presents do grant, in the name of His Majesty, to the said Don Juan Huertas, his heirs and successors, the said fifteen thousand acres of land in absolute property; and I hereby, and by these presents, deliver him the corresponding title, by which I separate it from the royal domain, from the right and domain it held in said land, and I cede and transfer it to the aforesaid Don Juan Huertas, his heirs and successors, that in consequence thereof they may possess it as their own; make, use, and enjoy it, free from any claim whatever, with all its entrances, outlets, uses, customs, rights, appurtenances, and all, and in general, which hath, doth, or may belong or pertain thereto; and, it being their wish, they may sell, cede, transfer, barter, and alienate it at their will and pleasure. To all of which I interpose my authority, as far as possible, and according to law, in virtue of the sovereign will.

Given under my hand, and countersigned by the undersigned notary of Government and royal finance, in the city of St. Augustine, Florida, the 24th of December, 1817.

PETITION.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, December 19, 1815.

Don Bernardo Segui, notary public pro tem. of the town of Fernandina, resident in this city, respectfully sheweth:

That, with the permission of your lordship, he has come to this capital, with solely the object of making known to you, as he has already done verbally, the deplorable situation and condition of that population, originating from a want of commerce, in consequence of the declaration of peace between Great Britain and the United States of America. In May, of the present year, your memorialist was appointed by your lordship's predecessor, Don Sebastian Kindelan, to the office he now holds in said town; and, as he thought to have obtained by it the greatest advantages, he abandoned in this city, as is well known, the business which he had for the support of himself and family, resulting thereby his leaving a certainty for an uncertainty, and, consequently, at present, without any means whatever. The town of Fernandina, as he has already stated, is in such a deplorable situation, on account of there not being any trade whatever, that your memorialist passes entire weeks without obtaining a half rial in fees. If, therefore, a fact so positive, adding thereto the limited services he has performed, merit the consideration of your lordship, he hopes to obtain from your well-known justice, and in virtue of the superior orders of His Majesty, (whom God preserve,) in which he recommends that lands be granted gratis to Spanish subjects, that you be pleased, therefore, to grant him, in absolute property, the quantity of seven thousand acres of land on the east side of the river St. John's, between the place called Dunn's lake and that known as Horse Landing, including in said tract of land the place called Buffalo Bluff, which was latterly given up to the Government by the house of Don Juan Forbes & Co. in exchange for other lands. Therefore, your memorialist prays that your lordship may be pleased to grant him the said quantity of seven thousand acres of land in the place mentioned, not doubting that he will obtain them from the well-known justice of your lordship.

BERNARDO SEGUI.

To the GOVERNOR.

DECREE.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, December 20, 1815.

The renunciation made by Don Juan Forbes & Co. of the lands mentioned by the interested in this memorial, being certain, and in virtue of the reasons which he indicates to this Government, let there be granted to him, in absolute dominion, the seven thousand acres of land which he petitions for, under the boundaries which he points out, without injury to a third person, despatching for his security a certified copy of this concession, which will serve him in every event for a title in form.

DON ANDRES BURGEVIN,
Private Surveyor in this city of St. Augustine, East Florida.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, September 10, 1818.

I certify that, in virtue of the permission of this Government, I have measured and marked the boundaries of a tract of land containing seven thousand acres, more or less, situate on the east of the river St. John's, at the place known as Buffalo bluff, and running south, bounding the waters of said river, as is more fully seen by the annexed plat, (see plate 4, fig. 1,) which piece of land belongs to Don Bernardo Segui, by a concession made to him by this Government, the 19th December, 1815.

To the honorable the Commissioners appointed to ascertain claims and titles to land in East Florida:

The memorial of Antelm Gay, a citizen of the United States, and actual resident of the city of St. Augustine, East Florida, and who was such citizen and resident at the time of the cession of Florida to the United States, respectfully sheweth:

That your memorialist claims title to a tract of land, consisting of five thousand acres, situate on the east side of the river St. John's, near Tocoy, bounded on the north by lands now or late of Don Manuel Solana, on the south-east by vacant lands, and on the west by the river St. John's; the same being a part of a grant of fifteen thousand acres made by the Spanish Government, on the 26th August, 1814, to Don Juan Huertas, in virtue of the royal order of the 29th of October, 1790, as appears by the certificate of full title given by Governor Coppinger on the 24th of December, 1817, herewith presented; and the title of your memorialist is derived from a purchase of the said five thousand acres of land made from the grantee, the said Don Juan Huertas, on the 7th day of July, 1821; from which time your memorialist has been in possession of said land.

In confirmation of the said title of your memorialist, the following documents are respectfully presented herewith:

1. Certificate of full title and grant by Governor Coppinger.
2. Conveyance from grantee to your memorialist.
3. Certificate of survey and plat.

All which is respectfully submitted.

ANTELM GAY.
JOHN RODMAN.

By his attorney,

ST. AUGUSTINE, August 20, 1823.

[TRANSLATION OF CONVEYANCE.]

Know ye that I, Don Juan Huertas, resident of this city, do really sell to Don Antelmo Gay, also a resident, five thousand acres of land, which I possess as my property in this province, situate at a place called Tocoy, five miles above Picolata, bounded on the north by the lands of Don Manuel Solano, on the south-west by vacant lands, and on the west by the river St. John's; which lands were granted me by a decree of this Government of the 26th of August, 1814, and of which there was given a title of absolute property on the 24th of December, 1817; the said land being known by the following dimensions and limits:

The first line commences on the banks of said river St. John's, near the mouth of Tocoy creek, at a cypress marked H, thence south 70 degrees, east 160 chains; the second, likewise, begins at a pine marked H, at which the former line ends, and runs thence south 110 chains, to a swamp; third line crosses said swamp, and runs east 100 chains; and the fourth begins at a pine marked as the former, runs south 130 chains, and ends on the margin of Deep creek, as is seen by a certified plat by Don Andres Burgevin, private surveyor, dated the 19th of September, 1818; which I herewith deliver to the said Don Antelm Gay; and I sell him the said five thousand acres of land under the boundaries and dimensions already explained, with all its entrances, outlets, uses, customs, rights, and privileges which it has, or may belong to it, free from any incumbrance, (as I, the said notary, do certify, as results from the register of mortgages under my charge, which, to that effect, I examined,) for the sum of $5,000, which the purchaser has paid me in cash, of which sum I acknowledge the receipt, of my own will, renouncing the proof, laws of delivery, exception for pecuniary misreckoning, fraud, and other circumstances of the case, whereof I acknowledge a formal receipt; in virtue of which I separate myself from the right of possession, title, and whatever other right, real and personal, I had, or may have, to said five thousand acres of land, which I cede, renounce, and transfer, in favor of the purchaser, and whomsoever may represent his cause and right, that he may, as his own, possess, sell, and alienate the same, at his will, in virtue of this deed, which I make in his favor, and consent to, as a sign of real delivery, with which will be proved his having acquired possession, without the necessity of further proof, from which I relieve him. And I bind myself to the eviction and goodness of this sale, in sufficient form, and in the most favorable manner to the purchaser, with my present and future property, with power and submission to the tribunals of His Majesty, that they may compel me to the fulfilment thereof, as by sentence agreed to and passed by virtue of an adjudged cause, upon which I renounce all laws, customs, rights, and privileges in my favor, and the general in form which prohibits.

And I, the said Antelm Gay, being present, do accept in my favor this deed, and by it receive as purchased the said five thousand acres of land, in the price and manner it has been sold me, which I acknowledge to have received of my free will, renouncing the proof, laws of delivery, those of the thing not seen nor received, fraud, and all other things in the matter, of which I give a receipt in form.

In testimony whereof it is dated in this city of St. Augustine, Florida, the 7th of July, 1821.

I, the notary, do attest and know the parties who signed, being witnesses, Don Francisco Pascual Sanchez, Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, Jun., and Don Francisco José Fatio, residents present.

Don Andres Burgevin, surveyor, appointed by a decree of this Government, dated the 3d instant in favor of the interested:

I certify that I have measured and laid off to Don Juan Huertas a tract of land, situated on the east bank of the river St. John's, about six miles to the south of Picolata, containing five thousand acres; the first line of which commences on the bank of the river, near the mouth of Tocoy creek, and at a cypress marked H, and runs south, seventy degrees east, one hundred and sixty chains; the second begins at a pine marked H; then south, one hundred and ten chains, and ends at a swamp; the third crosses the swamp, and runs east one hundred chains; the fourth begins with a pine marked H, and runs south one hundred and thirty chains, and ends on the bank of Deep creek; and, in all its other circumstances, is conformable to the following plat. [See plate 4, fig. 2.]

In witness whereof, I sign the present certificate in St. Augustine, Florida, the 19th of September, 1818.

To the honorable the commissioners appointed to ascertain claims and titles to land in East Florida.

ST. AUGUSTINE, August 20, 1823.

The memorial of Antelm Gay, a citizen of the United States, and actually a resident of St. Augustine, in the Territory of Florida, and who was such citizen of the United States, and resident in Florida, at the period of the cession of said country to the United States, respectfully sheweth:

That your memorialist claims title to a tract of land, consisting of five hundred acres, situated on the west side of Indian river, and at the mouth of St. Sebastian river, bounded on the south by the last named river, the same being part of a grant of twenty thousand acres from the Spanish Government, made by Governor Coppinger, the 29th of September, 1816, to George Fleming, in virtue of the royal order of the 29th of March, 1815; and which said tract of five hundred acres your memorialist purchased from Andrew Burgevin on the 22d of February, 1820, who purchased the same from the original grantee aforesaid on the 21st of February, 1820.

And your memorialist further sheweth, that no conditions whatever were annexed to said grant, and that your memorialist is in possession of the five hundred acres aforesaid.

The following documents, in confirmation of the title of your memorialists, is herewith presented:

1st. Original grant to George Fleming of twenty thousand acres.

2d. Survey and plat of the same.

3d. Conveyance of the five hundred acres from George Fleming to A. Burgevin.

4th. Conveyance from Burgevin to your memorialist.

5th. Survey and plat of the same.

All which is respectfully submitted.

ANTELM GAY,

By his attorney, JOHN RODMAN.

Title of property in favor of Don George Fleming of twenty thousand acres of land, on the banks of the river St. Sebastian.

Don José Coppinger, lieutenant colonel of the royal armies, civil and military governor, and chief of the royal finance in this city of St. Augustine, Florida, and its province:

Whereas, in the royal order of 1815, 29th of March, His Majesty has been pleased to approve the gifts and premiums proposed by my predecessor, the Brigadier General Don Sebastian Kindelan, for the officers and soldiers, both of the line as well as the local militia of this province, who contributed to its defence at the time of the rebellion, being one of the said gifts, the distribution of vacant lands; and Don George Fleming, captain of militia, and resident of this city, having set forth his distinguished and extraordinary services, to which he has contributed both with his property and person in the defence of this said province at different periods; sacrificing and abandoning his property, as a faithful subject, worthy of every recompense for his love, fidelity, and patriotism, and according to the powerful reasons which he has made known to me in his memorial, dated the 9th of the present month, I have thought proper, by my decrees of the same day, to accede to his prayer relative to the granting him twenty thousand acres of land, with a title of absolute property, in a place situated on the banks of the river St. Sebastian, to the south of Indian river, or the river Ys, and between the east coast of Florida and the river St. John's, setting forth hereafter with more clearness and precision the dimensions, whenever the surveyor shall measure the same, as will be fully seen in the said memorial and decree filed in the archives of the present notary. Wherefore, and in attention to said recommendable services, agreeably to the will of the sovereign, and as ordered by the laws, to remunerate with distinction those who are worthy, according to the nature of the said services, and of the persons who have performed them, I have thought proper to grant, and, by these presents, do grant, in the name of His Majesty, and according to his royal justice, which I administer, to the said Don George Fleming, the abovementioned twenty thousand acres of land in the place pointed out, without injury to a third, for himself, his heirs, and successors in absolute property; and I hereby, and by these presents, deliver him the corresponding title, by which I separate it from the royal domains, from the right and dominion it held in said land, and I cede and transfer it to the aforesaid Don George Fleming, his heirs, and successors, that, in consequence thereof, they may possess it as their own, make use of and enjoy it free from any claim whatever, with all its entrances, outlets, uses, customs, rights, and privileges, and all and in general which hath, doth, or in any manner may, belong or pertain thereto; and it being their wish, they may sell, cede, transfer, barter, or alienate it, at their will and pleasure. To all which I interpose my judicial authority as far as possible, and according to law, in virtue of what has been already explained, and in compliance with the sovereign will.

Given under my hand, and countersigned by the undersigned notary of Government and royal finance, in this said city of Augustine, Florida, the 24th of September, 1816.

JOSE COPPINGER.

By order of His Excellency:

JUAN DE ENTRALGO, Notary Public.

Don Andres Burgevin of this vicinity, and private surveyor:

I certify that the following plat [see plate 4, fig. 3] represents a tract of land, containing five hundred acres, situated on the west side of the river Ys, Indian river, and near the mouth of the river St. Sebastian, bounded south by the last mentioned river. Said land is a part of a tract of twenty thousand acres which I measured, by order of this Government, for Don George Fleming, and was granted him on the 9th of September, 1816, and being in all other circumstances conformable to the boundaries herein mentioned.

In witness whereof, I sign the present in St. Augustine, Florida, the 3d of February, 1820.

ANDRES BURGEVIN.

I certify that the foregoing is a true and correct translation from two documents in the Spanish language.

CONVEYANCE.

Know ye that I, Don George Fleming, resident of this city, and captain of the provincial militia in the same, do really sell to Don Andres Burgevin, likewise a resident, five hundred acres of land, being a part of a concession made to me by this Government as a recompense for services, on the banks of the river Ys, (Indian river,) and St. Sebastian, and of which there was granted me the corresponding title of property on the 24th September, 1816; which five hundred acres are situated at the mouth of the river St. Sebastian, on the north side, and measures one hundred chains front on the river Ys. The first line begins at a palm tree on the banks of said river Ys, and runs, south, forty-five degrees west, fifty chains, and ends at a pine marked \equiv . The second line runs, south, forty-five degrees east, and ends at a stake in the river St. Sebastian, measuring one hundred chains: and I sell him the said five hundred acres of land, under the boundaries and dimensions explained, with all its entrances, outlets, uses, customs, rights, and privileges, which it has or may belong to it, free from any incumbrance, (as I, the said notary, do certify, as results from the register of mortgages under my charge, which to this effect I examined,) in the sum of five hundred dollars, which the purchaser has paid me, of which sum I acknowledge the receipt, of my own will, renouncing the proof, laws of delivery, exception for pecuniary misreckoning, fraud, and other circumstances of the case, whereof I acknowledge a formal receipt: In virtue of which I separate myself from the right of possession, title, and whatever other right I had, real and personal, I had or may have to said five hundred acres of land, which I cede, renounce, and transfer in favor of the purchaser, and whomsoever may represent his right, that he may, as his own, possess, sell, and alienate the same, at his will, in virtue of this deed which I make in his favor, and consent to as a sign of real delivery, with which will be proved his having acquired possession, without the necessity of further proof, and being present; and I, the said Don Andres Burgevin, being present, do accept in my favor this deed, and by it receive, as purchased, the aforesaid five hundred acres of land, in the price and manner it has been sold me, which I acknowledge to have received of my free will, renouncing the proof, laws of delivery, those of the thing not seen nor received, fraud, and other things in the matter, of which I give a formal receipt. In testimony whereof, it is dated in this city of St. Augustine, Florida, the 21st day of October, 1820.

I, the notary, do attest and know the parties who signed, being witnesses, Don William Travers, Don Francisco Pasqual Sanchez, and Don Bernardo Segui, residents, present.

Plan of twenty thousand acres of land [see plate 5, fig. 1] in absolute property to George Fleming, Esquire, on 24th September, 1816, for the services he rendered His Catholic Majesty as captain of the militia of Florida, and other services. These lands are situated on the river St. Sebastian, precisely at the place where it joins with Indian river, having the advantage of two fronts. The land is admirably adapted for the cultivation of sugar, cotton, rice, and other productions of the climate; and surveyed by Mr. Andrew Burgevin.

I certify that the above plat is a copy of the original.

To the honorable the Commissioners appointed to ascertain claims and titles to lands in East Florida, the memorial of Antelm Gay and Francis J. Avice, citizens of the United States, and actually residents of St. Augustine, in the Territory of Florida, and who were such citizens of the United States and residents of Florida at the period of the cession of said country to the United States, respectfully sheweth:

That your memorialists claim title to a tract of two thousand acres of land, situated at Mosquito, bounded on the north by lands of Octavius Mitchell, on the east and west by vacant lands, on the south by lands of Francis P. Sanchez; which tract of land was obtained from the Spanish Government by a grant made by Governor Coppinger on the 14th of October, 1817, to Don Pablo Roseté, in virtue of the royal order of the 29th March, 1815, and which land was purchased by your memorialists from the grantee the 24th November, 1819; and your memorialists are now in possession of said land. In confirmation of your memorialists' title, the following documents are respectfully presented herewith:

- 1st. A certified copy of the original grant.
- 2d. Conveyance from the grantee to your memorialist.
- 3d. Certificate of survey and plat.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Petition of Don Pablo Roseté.

ST. AUGUSTINE, October 14, 1817.

Don Pablo Roseté, lieutenant of the army, adjutant of the staff of the whites attached by His Majesty to the battalion of the disciplined militia of the regular infantry of the Havana, and commandant of the two companies of the same which serve as auxiliaries in this place, with due respect to your excellency, represents:

That, being one of those who, in his opinion, are concerned and comprehended in the royal order of the 29th March, 1815, relative to the distribution of lands in consequence of having been in this province from the 13th of March, 1813, at which epoch it was invaded and besieged by rebels of the same, and by parties of the State of Georgia, when the petitioner was appointed to the defence of the redoubt, situated at Solano's ford, with a sergeant, a drummer, two corporals, and fourteen grenadiers of the aforesaid companies, by His Excellency Don Sebastian Kindelan, the predecessor of your excellency; that he rigorously complied with the first duties of his commission, and moreover daily attended His Excellency aforesaid, and his secretary's office, in the capacity of an amanuensis, as will certify the secretary of said office, the lieutenant of the armies Don Thomas de Aguilar, that he rendered those extra services without any salary or emolument being awarded to him for the same: and whereas His Majesty, by his said royal order, has been pleased to approve the rewards which your predecessor aforesaid proposed to be given to such individuals who contributed to the defence of said province until the entire tranquillity thereof was effected, whether they were veterans or voluntarily engaged, and whereas one of the favors or indemnities alluded to consists in a distribution of lands in absolute property: The petitioner, therefore, supplicates your excellency that, as a reward for his laborious services, and in consideration of the services which, by their notoriety, entitles him to that royal favor, you be pleased to grant him two thousand acres on the river Ys, (Indian river,) bounded south by lands granted to Isaac Weeks; which favor your petitioner entertains no doubt of receiving from your excellency.

PABLO ROSETE.

To His Excellency the GOVERNOR.

DECREE.

ST. AUGUSTINE, October 14, 1817.

In consideration of the well-known services rendered by the petitioner, the two thousand acres, situated in the place by him mentioned are hereby granted to him, for which the title of absolute property will be issued in his behalf, in the usual form, from the secretary's office of the Government and of the royal domains.

Title of property, in favor of Lieutenant Don Pablo Roseté, of two thousand acres of land, at the head of the river Ys, (Indian river.)

Don José Coppinger, colonel of the royal armies, civil and military governor and chief of the royal finance in this city of St. Augustine, Florida, and its province, by His Majesty:

Whereas, in the royal order of the 29th of March, 1815, His Majesty has been pleased to approve the gifts and premiums proposed by my predecessor, the Brigadier General Don Sebastián Kindelan, for the officers and soldiers, both of the line as well as of the local militia, and the other individuals of this province who contributed to its defence at the time of the rebellion, being one of said gifts, the distribution of lands in proportion to the number of family each individual may have; that Don Pablo Roseté, lieutenant in the army, adjutant of the general staff attached by His Majesty to the battalion of infantry of disciplined militia of free blacks of the Havana, and commandant of the two companies of said battalion which remain as auxiliaries in this city, having set forth the merits of his services rendered in the said defence, and soliciting in virtue of the same, and of said gifts, the concession of two thousand acres of land, they were granted him at the head of the river Ys, (Indian river,) bounded on the south by those granted to Don Isaac Weeks, as is proved by my decree of the 14th of October of the year last past, on the memorial of the interested, with the same date, which remains on file in the Government notary's office: wherefore I have granted, and, by these presents, do grant, in the name of His Majesty, and according to his royal justice which I administer, to the said Lieutenant Don Pablo Roseté the above-mentioned two thousand acres of land in the place pointed out, without injury to a third person, for him, his heirs, and successors in absolute property; and I hereby, and by these presents, deliver him the corresponding titles by which I separate it from the royal domains from the right and dominion it held in said land; and I cede and transfer it to the said Lieutenant Don Pablo Roseté, his heirs and successors, that, in consequence thereof, they may possess it as their own, make use of, and enjoy it, free from any claim whatever, with all its entrances, outlets, usages, customs, rights and privileges, and all and in general, which hath, doth, or in any manner, by right, may, belong or pertain thereto; and, it being their wish, they may sell, cede, transfer, barter, or alienate the same at their will and pleasure. To all of which I interpose my judicial authority as far as possible, according to law, and in compliance with the sovereign will.

Given under my hand, and countersigned by the undersigned notary of Government and royal finance in this said city of St. Augustine, Florida, the 17th April, 1818.

CONVEYANCE.

Know ye, that I, Don Pablo Roseté, first adjutant of this city, do really sell to Don Francisco Julian Avice and Don Antelmo Gay, new settlers of this province, two thousand acres of land which I possess as my property in the territory of Mosquito, of this said province, bounded on the north by the lands of Don Octavius Mitchell, on the east and west by vacant lands, and on the south by the lands of Don Francisco P. Sanchez. The first line commences at a pine, marked M and R, and runs south 35°, east, 41 chains 43 links, to another pine marked R. The second line commences at the last mentioned pine, and runs south 65°, west, 141 chains 43 links, to a stake. The third line commences at said stake, and runs north 35°, west, 141 chains 43 links, to a pine marked ||||. The fourth line runs north 65° east, beginning at the last mentioned pine and ending at the first, where the measurement began, and containing the same number of chains as the others, as is seen by the plat, which, under date of the 25th of July, 1818, was made by Don Robert McHardy, an intelligent person, by permission of the Government; which lands were granted me by a decree of this Government of the 14th of October, 1817, as a recompense for my services, and of which a title of absolute property was given me on the 17th of April of the said year of 1818: and I sell unto them the said two thousand acres of land, under the boundaries and dimensions already explained, with all its entrances, outlets, usages, customs, rights, and privileges, which it has or may belong to it, free from any incumbrance, (as I, the notary, do certify, as results from the register of mortgages under my charge, which, to that effect, I examined,) in the price of $3,000, which the purchasers have paid me in cash, of which sum I acknowledge the receipt of my own will, renouncing the proof, laws of delivery, exception for pecuniary misreckoning, fraud, and other circumstances of the case, whereof I acknowledge a formal receipt, in virtue of which I separate myself from the right of possession, title, and whatever other right, real and personal, I had, or may have to said lands, which I cede, renounce, and transfer in favor of the purchasers, and whomsoever may represent them, that they may, as their own, possess, sell, and alienate the same at their will, in virtue of these writings, which I make in their favor as a sign of real delivery, with which will be proved their having acquired possession without the necessity of further proof, from which I relieve them: and I bind myself to the eviction and goodness of this sale, in sufficient form, and in the most favorable manner to the purchasers, with my present and future property, with power and submission to the tribunals of his Majesty, that they may compel me to the fulfillment thereof, as by sentence agreed to, and passed by virtue of an adjudged cause, upon which I renounce all laws, customs, rights, and privileges in my favor, and the general in form which prohibits it: and we, the said purchasers, being present, do accept, in our favor, this indenture, and by it receive as purchased the aforesaid two thousand acres of land in the price and manner it has been sold us, which we acknowledge to have received of our free will, renouncing the proof, laws of delivery, fraud, and all other things in the matter, of which we give a receipt in form. In testimony whereof, it is dated in this city of St. Augustine, Florida, the 24th of November, 1819. I, the notary, do attest and give faith to the parties who signed, in the presence of the witnesses, Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, Jun., Don Antonio Mier, and Don Juan Huertas, residents, present.

Petition for re-hearing.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States.—Claim for seven hundred acres of land.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States.—Claim for four hundred acres of land.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States.—Claim for two thousand acres of land.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States.—Claim for a lot in St. Augustine.

Antelm Gay vs. the United States.—Twelve acres of arable land, with pine land adjoining.

To the honorable the Board of Commissioners appointed to ascertain claims and titles to land in East Florida:

The petition of Antelm Gay respectfully sheweth, that the original concession upon which the royal titles, or absolute grants mentioned in the above claims, respectively, are founded, are severally dated, and were severally made, anterior to the 24th of January, 1818. That the reason they were not produced by the counsel of your petitioner, was, as your petitioner believes, that it was considered that the royal titles in the memorials of your petitioner mentioned, and by him exhibited to this honorable board, would be received as, if not conclusive, at least prima facie evidence of the facts they set forth, and especially of the existence of the concessions on which they are founded. Your petitioner represents to this honorable board, that he is able to lay before them the said several concessions on which the said royal titles are founded. Your petitioner, also, further represents, that he was under the impression that, at the time his said claims, which have been rejected, were under the examination of the board, that it was taken as proved and admitted, that your petitioner was an inhabitant and resident of this Territory before, and at the time of, its cession to the United States, and that he has been so ever since. These facts your petitioner has power to prove, to the satisfaction of this honorable board.

Your petitioner, understanding that the failure on his part to produce the aforementioned concessions, or to prove the fact of his having been a resident of this Territory at its cession, has been the cause of the rejection of his claim in the above cases; he, therefore, prays that this honorable board will grant him a re-hearing of his said claims, and thereby afford him an opportunity of introducing his said evidence; and he will ever pray, &c.

TERRITORY OF FLORIDA, county of St. John's:

On this 4th day of February, 1824, personally appeared before me, Elias B. Gould, a justice of the peace for said county, Don Ramon Sanchez, Don Bartolome de Castro y Ferrer, Don Pedro Miranda, who, being duly sworn, upon their oaths, say, that they are severally acquainted with Don Juan Gianople, and that they have been so acquainted with him for twenty-five years now last past. That he was then a man with a numerous family of children, and owned five slaves. And the said deponents further state, that the said Don Juan Gianople has, since their acquaintance with him, been an inhabitant of East Florida, and is an inhabitant thereof at this time.

No. 9.

ST. AUGUSTINE, August 5, 1823.

To the honorable the Commissioners appointed to ascertain claims and titles to lands in East Florida, from the memorialist, the subscriber, who declares:

That he resides in the United States, and that he was not in the province of East Florida at the time of the cession of the said province to the United States.

That he resided at a former period in the said province, and that the Government of the same made to him, on the 18th May, 1803, the following concession of lands, as his head-rights, on certain conditions, which, when required, he can prove were complied with, being allowed one hundred acres for himself, and fifty for each of his family and negroes: 1st. A tract of land at the head of Indian river, containing six thousand acres, and bounded by Indian river, and vacant lands were adjoining the same. The same is described by a survey, which is herewith presented. [See plate 6, fig. 1.] 2d. A tract called Stoney point, or Marrot's island, lying on Indian river. The number of acres contained in the same is undefined, both in the memorial which your memorialist made to the Spanish Government, and in the concession of the same to him, it being considered as containing but a small proportion of good land. A survey of the same is herewith presented. 3d. A tract of land of three hundred acres, situated between north and east, on the north side of Marrot's island, and lies between the lagoon of Indian river, bordering on the said island and the Mosquito lagoon, in front of the other, &c. A survey of the same is herewith presented. 4th. A tract of one thousand acres, called Cabbage swamp, situated to the east of Indian river, opposite the Narrows, so called from its being narrower than any other tract. A survey of the same is herewith presented, together with an official copy of the concession to your memorialist, which enumerates all and each of the said tracts of land.

Your memorialist begs leave to state that he would have required, and probably have obtained, royal titles for the said concessions of lands, previous to the change of Government of said province, but from an insurrection which took place in 1812 in the country, and in which your memorialist, being a principal actor, though pardoned by the King, had raised such an excitement in the minds of those who were devoted to the Spanish Government, that his life might have been taken by some bigoted and malignant assassin, who would the more readily have committed such an act, as he might have calculated to have done it with impunity. Your memorialist can prove that, a short time before the cession of the province, he arrived in a vessel off St. Augustine, wishing to enter the same; but, on inquiring of the Governor whether he would be responsible for the safety of his person, he replied, only "while your memorialist was in his sight." Your memorialist has respectfully further to show that, on the 20th March, 1804, he made a purchase, in conformity to all the forms of the Spanish laws, from the late John McQueen, of two tracts of land, situated on the St. John's river. The one called Fort St. George he has since sold; and the other, called St. Juan Nepunensana, containing ninety-eight caballerias and eight acres, having one front on St. John's river, and another on McGirt's creek, and which is very particularly defined in an official copy of the royal title to said John McQueen, who had possession of the same from the year 1790 to that of 1804, and from John McQueen to your memorialist; an official copy of which is also herewith presented.

Your memorialist also purchased from Timothy Hollingsworth, deceased, a tract of land on St. John's river, called Mulberry grove, and containing eight hundred acres, in the year 1805, under a royal title, with all the Spanish forms, in such cases; but, not having a translation of the same, cannot particularly describe it. An official copy of his conveyance to your memorialist is herewith presented; the royal title to him is on record in the office with the archives.

Your memorialist also purchased from the said John McQueen two thousand acres of land on Miami river, but for which he did not receive Spanish titles, from the circumstance of this concession not having been obtained ten years. Your memorialist took Mr. McQueen's obligation to make titles for the same, together with a receipt acknowledging to have received a full consideration for this tract, together with the other two tracts which your memorialist had purchased from him, and, subsequently, titles in full for the same; all of which papers are herewith submitted to your board; but none of them being on record, your memorialist requests that they may be taken care of. An official copy of the concession to Mr. McQueen is also presented. Your memorialist having offered to your honorable body a particular statement of his claim and titles for lands in the Territory of Florida, respectfully requests a confirmation of the same; and that, where they exceed three thousand five hundred acres, your honorable board will recommend to Congress to confirm such claims and titles.

And your memorialist will ever pray, &c. &c.

JOHN H. McINTOSH.

To the honorable the Board of Commissioners appointed to ascertain titles and claims to lands in East Florida, from their memorialist, who sheweth:

That, in a memorial which he presented to your board on the 5th day of August last, he described one of the tracts of land called Marrot's island, (a part of the concession of land which the Spanish Government had granted to him for his head-rights,) as undefined in its quantity of acres; since which he has ascertained, from seeing an old British grant for the said island, that it contains three thousand six hundred acres: he therefore requests that it may be considered by your honorable board that it does contain the said quantity of three thousand six hundred acres, and act accordingly.

JOHN H. McINTOSH.

Don George Clarke, lieutenant of the militia of St. Augustine, Florida, commissioned judge of the northern district, and Surveyor General of the province, appointed by his Government:

ST. AUGUSTINE, December 2, 1817.

I certify that I have measured and laid off for Don Juan H. McIntosh three hundred acres of land at a place known by the name of Stewart's swamp, situated northeast from the northern point of Marrot's island, between the river Ys, or Indian river, and Hillsborough, being part of a larger quantity granted him by the Government the 18th of May, 1803; and is conformable in all its parts to the following plat, a copy of which remains in the book of surveys under my charge. [See plate 6, fig. 2.]

GEORGE J. F. CLARKE.

[TRANSLATION.]

To the Governor, Don Juan H. McIntosh, recent settler, admitted under the protection of His Catholic Majesty, respectfully sheweth:

That he intends removing to this province in the course of twelve months, with his family and slaves, amounting to two hundred and fifty, besides five white men, two of whom have families; and, for the purpose of carrying into effect said intention, he solicits that your excellency will be pleased to grant him the lands which appertain to him, according to the number of his family and slaves as above mentioned, in the following places: an island in the river Ys, (Indian river) known by the name of Stoney point, or Marrot's Island, which name he gave it, having a person residing thereon. Likewise, three hundred acres of land which contain about one hundred and fifty acres of hammock or plantable land, known formerly by the name of Stewart's swamp, situated about northeast from the north part of Stoney point island, and lies between the lake of river Ys, (Indian river,) near said island and Mosquito lake, opposite the other, intersected on the part of the hammock by a creek from said river, on the east of said island. Also, one thousand acres of land which contain from seven to eight hundred acres, called Cabbage swamp, situated on the east side of the river Ys, (Indian river,) opposite the Narrows, so called on account of said river being more narrow there than at any other part, and about twenty miles distant from its mouth. Likewise, six thousand acres of land one mile below the head of river Ys, (Indian river,) on the west side, running north from that to another point two miles; thence, in a direct line south three miles, until it stops in front of the first point, and one mile distant, containing three miles square, comprising the lands described on said lines; a creek empties into the river Ys that runs through said lands; a favor which he doubts not of obtaining from your excellency, and which he will gratefully acknowledge.

[DECREE.]

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, May 18, 1803.

Grant the memorialist the land he petitions for, without injury to a third; and, until the number of his family he may have for its cultivation is known, let the quantity appertaining to him be surveyed, with the absolute conditions, that he must present a person of property as his security that he will take possession of said lands in the course of the twelve months, and of his having executed the same, will be put in continuation of this, my decree, and that it will be out of his power to claim damages in case of an invasion, or for other motives, in which the royal service demands his retiring into the interior of the province.

WHITE.

NOTE.—The memorialist has presented himself, declaring that the said six thousand acres of land is understood to be situated one mile below the head of river Ys, (Indian river) on the west side, although the boundaries described in the memorial are not very correctly explained, which he sets forth on account of not having seen said land, but has petitioned for them through the information he has obtained. Dated as above.

ST. AUGUSTINE, December 2, 1817.

I certify that I have measured and laid off for Don Juan H. McIntosh one thousand acres of land at a place called Cabbage swamp, on the east side of the Narrows of river Ys, or Indian river, being a part of a larger quantity granted him by the Government the 18th of May, 1803, and is conformable, in all its parts, to the following plat, a copy of which remains in the book of surveys under my charge. [See plate 6, fig. 3.]

GEORGE J. F. CLARKE.

No. 10.

To the honorable the Commissioners appointed to ascertain claims and titles to land in East Florida.

The memorial of Moses Elias Levy respectfully sheweth, that your memorialist, in his own behalf, and that of others concerned, claim a title to a portion of land, consisting of one-eighth of the grant hereinafter mentioned, and not less than thirty-six thousand acres of land, situated in Alachua county; which title was acquired by a purchase made by your memorialist from Fernando de la Maza Arredondo and son, as will appear by the attested copy of the covenant and indenture annexed, and marked A, who obtained it by a grant made by the sub-delegate, general superintendent of the island of Cuba and the two Floridas, Alexandro Ramirez, which concession was made by virtue of the powers which the laws of Spain invests his high office with, and other royal orders, particularly that of the 3d of September, 1817, which the grant makes mention of, and by and with the advice and consent of the fiscal or attorney general for the royal or national domain, and the Surveyor General.

Your memorialist further sheweth, that the original grantees, and others concerned, were in actual possession at the time of the cession; that, from the date of the purchase, your memorialist was, and is now, in actual occupancy of said lands, as may be attested by Edward M. Wanton, Horatio S. Dexter, Francis P. Sanchez, and others, and that your memorialist is a citizen of the United States, and a resident of Mincopie, in Alachua.

Your memorialist further sheweth, that the grant alluded to in this memorial, consists of four leagues of ground towards each point of the compass, to be reckoned from the point which is established as the centre; and that this grant was made on the 22d day of December, 1817, as evidenced by the attested copy herewith annexed, and marked B. That the settlement of two hundred families was attached as a condition of the grant, and to be commenced within the period of three years from the date of the grant; that the grantees had a prorogation of one year over and above the aforementioned three years, for the fulfilment of the foregoing terms, as will appear by the decree of the superintendent, and the correspondence between said superintendent and Coppinger, the then Governor of this province, attested copies are herewith annexed, and marked C, D, and E; that, notwithstanding the extension of this time, the concerned did, in September, 1820, enter into an agreement with William Tudor Hall, to settle, with certain number of other persons, on the said tract of Alachua; and that the said William Tudor Hall, with others, did proceed to the said territory of Alachua, and on or about the 7th day of November, of the same year, actually began the establishment, as will appear by the deposition annexed, and marked F.

Your memorialist begs further to state that, in November, or early in December, of same year, Edward M. Wanton and Horatio S. Dexter were employed and engaged to proceed to the aforesaid territory of Alachua, and established themselves as settlers, as will be attested by the same persons, Francis P. Sanchez and others.

Your memorialist begs leave further to state that, long before the settlement was first established, the territory of Alachua was abandoned by the native Indians of this territory; and that the chiefs, in a talk which they formally held with Governor Coppinger, were apprized of the grant in question, as being made by his superior in authority, to the said Arredondo and son, and that two hundred families were to be established in it. The documents or record of said talk, like many other documents, as your honorable body must be well aware, are missing from the archives, and the only means left your petitioner to prove the existence of this talk, and its result, is the deposition of Antonio Alvarez, then first officer of the secretary's office, and now one of the officers of the keeper of the Spanish archives' office, and Pedro Miranda, both present at said talk, as will appear by their affidavits annexed, and marked G and H.

Your memorialist also represents that, although the treaty of cession of 22d February, 1819, ratified by His Catholic Majesty on the 24th October, 1820, in the spirit of which, and according to the literal translation of that on the Spanish side, the 8th article provides, "that the proprietors of such lands, who, by reason of the recent circumstances of the Spanish nation, and the revolution in Europe, have been prevented from fulfilling all the conditions of their grants, shall complete them within the terms limited in the same, respectively, from the date of the treaty," &c. &c.; which might have justified the grantees in waiting until the title was confirmed by the Government of the United States, or, at any rate, to defer a settlement calculated to incur immense expense and trouble, as it was to be made in a wild and inhospitable country, seventy miles from the capital, and in the neighborhood of savages, to even as late a period as the 24th of October ensuing. Yet the grantees, notwithstanding all the disadvantages and hardships they had to contend with, did continue, even after the ratification and promulgation of the treaty, with vigor and zeal, the objects which, from the date of the grant, had been in preparation, and which they actually began to carry into effect on the 7th November, 1820, and have advanced and augmented the establishment to its present respectable footing.

The present settlers, with their families, amount to about forty-seven persons, the most of whom have been transported and maintained at the expense of the concerned; who have, also, at considerable cost, cut a road for wheel carriages of about forty-five miles, leading from the river St. John's to the settlement; have built upon the same eight bridges, erected twenty-five houses, and established three plantations on the tract, of which about three hundred acres are cleared, and now under cultivation. The present owners of said grant or tract of land, consist of more than seventy individuals, most of them agriculturists from New York, New Jersey, and other parts; many rich and opulent citizens, the major part of whom became purchasers with the intention of settling on the said lands, circumstances publicly well known, and which will be substantiated when the parties present their respective claims before your honorable body.

The proprietors have now prepared materials, and are about erecting a saw-mill; have got out the frames, &c., to build ten or fifteen houses, and are now clearing land for the establishment of eleven farms, as will be made to appear by the annexed affidavit, marked J. Further testimonies may be obtained from Mr. Edward M. Wanton, and others, settled on the lands. All of which is respectfully submitted.

ST. AUGUSTINE, August 14, 1823.

A.

Whereas Messrs. Hernandez and Chauviteau did, some time in the month of August, one thousand eight hundred and twenty, purchase from Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, the elder, a concession or tract of land, situated on both sides of Alligator creek, in East Florida, containing about thirty-eight thousand and four hundred acres, a more particular description of which will be seen by reference to the deed and other accompanying documents, bearing date in the month aforesaid; which concession or grant was afterwards transferred to Moses E. Levy for, and in consideration of, the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, actually paid by Moses E. Levy, who has since that time remained, and still is, the owner of said concession or tract, the one-half or moiety of which he desires to give and grant unto Arredondo and son, of Havana, in exchange for certain lands hereinafter mentioned; and the said Arredondo and son, proprietors of a large portion of a certain grant, or concession of land, made to them, the said Arredondo and son, in and by a decree bearing date at Havana, on or about the twenty-second day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventeen, commonly called the Alachua grant, situated in East Florida, a more particular description of which will be seen by reference to said grant, have consented, and agreed to give and grant the one-sixteenth part of the said concession to the said Moses E. Levy, in exchange for the lands above mentioned. This indenture, therefore, between Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, the younger, agent and attorney in fact for said Arredondo and son, of the one part, and Moses Elias Levy of the other part, witnesseth: That the said Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, agent and attorney as aforesaid, hath given, granted, aliened, exchanged, and released, and by these presents, doth give, grant, alien, exchange, and release, unto the said Moses Elias Levy, one-sixteenth part of said concession, grant, or tract of land, lying and being in Alachua as aforesaid, to have and to hold the said one-sixteenth part unto him, the said Moses Elias Levy, his heirs and assigns forever, in exchange for the lands hereinafter mentioned, granted by said Levy to said Arredondo and son. And the said Moses Elias Levy hath given, granted, aliened, exchanged, and released, and doth by these presents give, grant, exchange, and release, unto Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, otherwise called Arredondo and son, one undivided half or moiety of the concession, grant, or tract, lying on Alligator creek as aforesaid: to have and to hold the one-half or moiety of the said concession, grant, or tract, to them, the said Arredondo and son, and their heirs and assigns forever, in exchange for the lands before mentioned given and granted, to said Moses Elias Levy.

And the parties to these presents do covenant and agree, that if both of the above mentioned concessions shall be established, and recognised as legal and valid, on or before the first day of April, 1824, they shall reciprocally give and exchange, at the cost of the party requiring them, all further and other assurances which they may deem necessary more effectually to secure the interests hereby meant to be conveyed; and it is further covenanted and agreed that, if the title to Alligator creek tract shall not be established and ratified, and deemed valid by a board of land commissioners, or some other tribunal or commissioners, on or before the day and year last mentioned, then, and in that event, Arredondo and son shall transfer and convey unto Moses E. Levy one other sixteenth part of said Alachua concession, so as to make the whole amount conveyed to said Levy one-eighth part of the whole concession; and, in order the more effectually to secure the same, the said one-sixteenth part set aside for this purpose is, by these presents, placed under the absolute control of said Levy until the said 1st day of April, 1824, or until the title to the Alligator creek tract, which was granted to Arredondo, the elder, shall be recognised; and they further covenant and agree that, if the Alachua concession shall not be deemed valid by a competent tribunal on or before the said 1st day of April, 1824, so as to secure to the said Moses Elias Levy the one-sixteenth or eighth part thereof, according to the contingencies herein mentioned, then, and in that event, the said Moses E. Levy shall be entitled immediately to an equivalent in other lands owned or provided by Arredondo and son, or an equitable indemnity in the manner pointed out by the contracts on the subject of Florida lands heretofore made between F. M. Arredondo, the elder, and Moses E. Levy. And it is further agreed and covenanted, that the said Moses Elias Levy shall continue to exercise the sole and absolute control in all respects, as if he were the sole owner over the whole of the Alligator creek tract, as well as one-eighth of the Alachua, until the question of titles be determined, or until the day and year above mentioned, whichever event may first happen; and the said Arredondo, the younger, agent and attorney as aforesaid, covenants to and with the said Moses Elias Levy that the one-sixteenth part of said concession shall not contain less than eighteen thousand sixty-two and a half acres, and the one-eighth not less than thirty-six thousand one hundred and twenty-five acres, but may, respectively, contain a greater quantity, if the quantity contained in the whole grant will justly allow of a greater to these proportions. And said Arredondo, agent as aforesaid, covenants to reimburse and refund to said Levy any sum or sums of money which he may lay out and expend in and about the premises; and, upon consultation and deliberation, the parties to these presents covenant and agree that the above written covenants and agreements shall be modified and changed in the following manner: that is, if one of the above-mentioned tracts shall, on or before the 1st day of January, which shall be in the year 1826, shall be recognised and deemed valid before any court or tribunal in the United States, and the title of the other tract not determined, then, and in that event, the rights and claims of the parties in the tracts of land, respectively, as settled by this exchange, shall not be altered or changed; and Moses E. Levy shall, in that event, retain his claims on Alachua, and Arredondo and son shall retain their claims on one-half of Alligator creek tract; nor shall Arredondo and son be required to convey to said Moses E. Levy the additional one-sixteenth part of Alachua until the title, grant, or concession of Alligator creek tract shall be annulled; nor shall the said Arredondo and son be required, in the case of either grant, to give an equivalent therefor, as provided by this and their several contracts on the subject of Florida lands, until the said grant shall be actually annulled and determined to be not the property of Arredondo, Levy, or their assigns; and the said Moses E. Levy shall do and perform whatever lies within his power to effect, as early as possible, a legal recognition of said grants. In testimony whereof, they, the said F. M. Arredondo, agent and attorney as aforesaid, and Moses E. Levy, have hereunto affixed their hands and seals, this 22d day of January, 1822, the word "Fernando" in the second page, and word "hundred" on fourth page, being first obliterated.

TERRITORY OF FLORIDA, county of St. John's:

I, James S. Tingle, clerk of the county court for the county aforesaid, do certify that the foregoing is a true copy from the records in my office.

[TRANSLATION.]

[The original appears to have been written on stamped paper, of the second class, valid for the years 1816 and 1817.]

Don Alexandro Ramirez, intendant of the army, superintendent general, sub-delegate of the royal treasury of this island of Cuba and the two Floridas, president of the tribunal of accounts, and of the committee of tithes, superintendent of the crusada, sole judge of arrivadas, protector of the royal lottery, chief director and inspector of the royal monopoly of tobacco, &c.

Whereas Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo and son, of this city, merchants, have presented a petition, in this Intendancy, and general sub-delegate superintendency, dated the 12th November last, praying for a gratuitous grant of a piece of ground in East Florida, where they have been established, and where the greatest part of their family reside, with much of their property, offering to form an establishment in the territory known by the name of Alachua, the same being suitable for the raising of cattle and grain, if cultivated, by two hundred families, which they will, at their expense, transport there; showing, also, other advantages that will result in favor not only of the other inhabitants already established and living in the city of St. Augustine, but likewise of the Creek and Seminole Indians on the boundaries of that country, provided that the said tract of land be granted unto them, with an absolute dominion thereon, it consisting of four leagues of ground to each point of the compass reckoned from the aforesaid establishment of Alachua, which is to be fixed as the central point: which petition having, by my decree of the 12th instant, been referred to the captain of infantry, Don Vincente Sebastian Pintado, Surveyor General of the Floridas, he returned it, on the 15th, with the requisite explanation, advancing the most solid reason to show and demonstrate how convenient and useful it would be to encourage the settling of that province without any expense of the royal treasury, and to accept the proposals of the concerned on account of the importance of the undertaking, and of the great expenses they must make in order to put it into execution. In consequence thereof, and by a decree of the same day, the aforesaid petition and report were passed to the inspection of the King's attorney in the treasury department, who, in his memorial of the 17th, supported the petition of De la Maza Arredondo and son, founding his opinion on the royal orders for the encouragement of settling in these possessions of His Majesty, and consented that the said grant of the tract of land should be made unto them on the terms they propose: in consequence whereof I issued, yesterday, the decree, as follows:

"These proceedings being examined, in consequence, and by virtue of, the royal order of the 3d of September of this year, by which His Majesty, appointing me to the superintendency of the two Floridas, has most expressly ordered that I should endeavor to encourage the settling of those provinces by every means that my prudence and zeal could suggest, in conformity with the opinion of the King's attorney, and the report of the Surveyor General of said provinces, the tract of land called Lachua, in the East Florida, is declared unappropriated, and belonging to the King. In consequence thereof, and taking into consideration the notorious honesty and fidelity, as well as the well-known wealth and other good qualities of Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo and son, I grant unto them that piece of ground which they ask out of the said unappropriated tract of land, in full property, in conformity with the royal orders on the subject, and under the precise condition to which they are bound, there to settle two hundred families, and that they shall be Spanish, together with all other requisites already set forth, and that will be set forth, by this superintendency by virtue of the said royal order; and, also, that they must begin the establishment in the term of three years at furthest, without which this grant shall be void, and that the same must be understood, provided that it will not be prejudicial to the right of any third person, and more especially to the native Indians of that country that may have returned, or may intend to return to it, to cultivate the fields."

Let these proceedings pass to the said Surveyor General, to make the plan of this grant in conformity to his report, and to the extent of four leagues to each point of the compass, as herein granted, in rectilineal figure, with all possible clearness, in order to prevent doubts and lawsuits in future. All which being done, let a title in due form be granted, with the said plan annexed to it, of which a copy must be kept with the proceedings, it being understood that the three years as aforesaid for the commencing the establishment of the families must be reckoned from this day; and that, on the first families being ready to be sent, the concerned will lodge information thereof, with a list of the individuals, their birthright and employment, that the necessary orders and instructions be given to the Government and sub-delegation of the royal treasury in the East Florida, in order that His Majesty may be opportunely informed thereof.

The figurative plan, as aforesaid, being presented by the surveyor, together with the explanation of the survey and admeasurement, it appears that the above-mentioned tract of land is situated in the East Florida, fifty-two miles more or less west of the city of St. Augustine, and about thirty-six miles west of the eastern shore of the river San Juan, bounded on all sides by unappropriated land, having in or about its centre the place known by the name of Alachua, which was formerly inhabited by a tribe of Seminole Indians that abandoned it, and according to the dimension and form set forth in the said plan, and the explanations thereto annexed; and taking it into consideration that the leagues used in that province consist of three English miles, and each of them of one thousand seven hundred and sixty yards, or eighty Gunter's chains, the tract of land granted as aforesaid, contains two hundred and eighty-nine thousand six hundred and forty-five English acres and five-sevenths of another, which are equal to three hundred and forty-two thousand two hundred and fifty arpents and one-seventh of another, of those in use in West Florida; the English acre being reckoned at one hundred and sixty poles or perches, and each linear English perch at sixteen and a half London feet, according to the use in the time of the British possession of that country, which has been since tolerated by our Government. Wherefore, and using the faculties which our lord the King (whom God preserve) has conferred upon me in his royal name, I gratuitously grant unto the above-mentioned Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo é Hijo the number of acres of land above stated, in the direction, boundaries and distances, set forth in the figurative plan, of which a copy must be annexed to this title, that they may possess and enjoy them as sole masters thereof, and in the terms mentioned in my decree herein inserted. In testimony whereof, I have ordered this title to be given, signed by me, sealed with the royal seal of my secretary's department, and countersigned by the Commissary at War, Don Pedro Carramot, appointed by His Majesty Secretary of this Intendancy, and sub-delegate superintendency.

Given at Havana, on the twenty-second day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventeen.

DON JUAN NEPOMUCENO DE ARROCHA, Secretary of the Intendencia de Ejercito, (Intendancy of the Army,) general superintendency, sub-delegate of the national domain of this island and the two Floridas:

I certify that his honor, the intendant of the army, superintendent general, sub-delegate of the same national domain, has this day decreed as follows: "Having before me the information received at this office from the Senor Gobernador and sub-delegate of San Augustin of Florida, and in consequence of the instructions given him by this general superintendency on the 2d of October, ultimo, and attending to the reasons which the concerned adduced, Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo and son, they are allowed prolongation of one year, which they have solicited for the object proposed; without any prejudice to their interest, let it be given to them, certificates of the secretary's office for the end and purposes which may suit their interest, and let this be communicated to the same senior sub-delegate for his intelligence; and, in conformity of this decree, I give the present in Havana the 2d day of December, 1820.

JUAN NEPOMUCENO DE ARROCHA.

HAVANA, April 2, 1820.

The annexed memorial which Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo and son, of this commerce, presented me, with the title of the concession of a lot of land which was granted them by this sub-delegate general superintendency in December, 1817, asks for prolongation of one year to accomplish or carry into effect the establishment of the families which he proposed, and it is convenient that your lordship inform on this particular point. I have, in consequence, so decreed it on this day, accompanying it with a certified copy of the title not to expose the original to the danger of the seas.

God preserve you for many years,

ALEXANDRO RAMIREZ.

DON JOSE COPPINGER.

E.

ST. AUGUSTINE, October 23, 1800.

In your lordship's official letter of this current month, you ask me to inform on the subject of one year's prolongation solicited by Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo and son, of that commerce, for the establishment of the families which he proposed in the territory of Alachua, which gratuitous concession, with a formal title, he obtained of that sub-delegate general superintendency in December, 1817. I must inform your lordship that, as yet, only the copy of the said grant has come to hand, but not the memorial of Arredondo which your lordship speaks of in your said official letter. I have to inform your lordship that I find no obstacle, or have no objection, that the said prolongation shall be granted, because, if this meditated establishment takes place, the benefits that will result from it will be considerable, and will further the prosperity of this province, which our Government so anxiously desires to promote.

God preserve your lordship many years.

To the INTENDANT OF THE ARMY, Superintendent General of the two Floridas.

AFFIDAVITS.

Whereas, by the laws of the Territory of Florida, the judge of the circuit court is the only officer pointed out to issue a commission for taking depositions in suits not already commenced, and, as there is no such officer now in this circuit, the following depositions are, therefore, taken without said commission:

CITY OF ST. AUGUSTINE, Territory of Florida:

Personally appeared this twentieth day of January, 1823, before me, Waters Smith, mayor of the city of St. Augustine, Antonio Alvarez, who, being duly sworn, doth depose and say, that this deponent acted as chief clerk to Governor Coppinger, and was present at a talk held between the said Governor and some Indian chiefs shortly after the establishment made by Mr. Wanton on the Alachua; that the chiefs complained that white men had settled at the Alachua; the Governor replied that they were sent there by Mr. Arredondo, with his (Governor Coppinger's) permission, in consequence of Mr. Arredondo's having obtained a grant of the land from a person having more power, or a greater man than himself, meaning thereby, the superintendent of the island of Cuba and both Floridas. The Indian chiefs said, in substance, that they were satisfied, and would comply with the Governor's request, and not molest or disturb the white men.

And this deponent further saith, that this talk was carried on with the usual formalities observed on such occasions, the King's interpreter, Antonio Huertas, being present and interpreting. And this deponent further saith, that the Indians have abandoned the Alachua ever since the year one thousand eight hundred and thirteen, since that time having had no regular settlements on these lands. This information is obtained by means of the office of chief clerk to the Governor, and not from this deponent's having actually been on the lands.

TERRITORY OF FLORIDA:

On the twentieth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty-three, personally appeared before me, Waters Smith, mayor of the city of Augustine, Peter Miranda, who, being duly sworn, doth depose and say that, shortly after Mr. Arredondo had sent Mr. Wanton to settle in the Alachua, this deponent was present at a part of a talk held with the Indians by Governor Coppinger. The Governor directed the interpreter to tell the Indians not to disturb the white men who had settled at Alachua, as the land had been given to Mr. Arredondo by a man at Havana having more command than himself, and who had command also over him, (the Governor.) This deponent then left the talk, and cannot, from his personal knowledge, say what further took place; but Governor Coppinger afterwards informed this deponent that the Indians were perfectly satisfied that Mr. Arredondo's agent should remain.

CITY OF ST. AUGUSTINE, Territory of Florida:

On the 25th day of July, 1823, personally came and appeared before me, Waters Smith, mayor of the city of St. Augustine, William T. Hall, who, being duly sworn, doth depose and say, that he is a subject of the King of Spain, and that, about the month of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and twenty, this deponent entered into an agreement with Peter Mitchell, (who understood that said Mitchell, Arredondo, and others, were owners of a tract of land in Alachua,) to go himself, and employ others with him, to make settlements at Alachua on said lands; that this deponent, shortly after, proceeded to Alachua to view said lands, and, on his return, employed two men by the names of John Smith and Patrick Lannam to become settlers with deponent; that, on the seventh day of November, of the same year, the said party reached Alachua, and immediately proceeded to clear land and erect dwellings of the following dimensions: one of twenty by fifteen feet, for the two men and other settlers which deponent calculated to send on, and one other thirty by twenty feet for the dwelling of deponent, and for a store. While Smith and Lannam were at work, deponent returned to St. Augustine, having fallen sick, and continued indisposed for two and a half months. Early in January, of eighteen hundred and twenty-one, Smith came to town, and reported that the houses were finished, wanting only locks and hinges, which report being confirmed by Burges, a very intelligent half-breed Indian, deponent furnished Smith locks and hinges, and forty dollars in cash, for the use of himself and Lannam. That, on the recovery of deponent, he understanding that several other settlers, employed by said Mitchell and Arredondo, had made establishments at Alachua, on the aforesaid lands, some of which settlers being personally disagreeable to deponent, he abandoned the project and settlement. And this deponent further saith, that, during the time he was engaged in the above-mentioned settlement, he kept a diary of the occurrences, but which was destroyed by the rains and wet in swimming creeks: Therefore, in this deposition, he has not stated dates with precision, but to the best of his recollection. And deponent further saith, that the settlement made by himself, Smith, and Lannam, was about one and a half miles east of old Payne's town. And the deponent further saith, that he is not directly or indirectly interested in any lands or grants in the Alachua.

CITY OF ST. AUGUSTINE, Territory of Florida:

On the 7th day of August, 1823, personally came and appeared before me, Waters Smith, mayor of the city of St. Augustine, Thomas Brush, who, being duly sworn, doth depose and say, that he, with other settlers from New York, arrived at Alachua the beginning of January last for the purpose of settling; their expenses, as well as one year's maintenance, being borne by the Alachua Company. That the settlers or company have opened a road from Picolata, on the St. John's opposite Buena Vista, to Alachua, being a distance of about forty-five miles; they have erected eight bridges, and made the road passable for wheel carriages. That, on the arrival at Alachua of deponent and his party, they found the Alachua settlement at Micanopé consisting of thirteen houses, most of the houses about twenty by eighteen feet, two of which, however, were larger, one being forty-five by thirty, and one thirty-five by twenty-five feet. To the settlement have since been added twelve houses, and materials ready for ten more; and hands are now employed sawing timber, and arrangements making, and many of the materials ready, for erecting a water saw-mill. The settlement at present consists of the following persons, viz: This deponent, Edwards, Thomas Brush, Jr., George Downs, Sidney Haines, Ogden, John Smith Penny, Jacob Brandenburg, Elisha Morris, Bonnell, Warburg, Chateaneuf, Moore, Levy, Edward Wanton, Elias Haines, Elihu Woodruff, William Wanton, and Dr. Kelly. The above persons, with their families, make in all forty-seven persons. There are three different plantations at the Alachua, and this present year there is planted, as near as this deponent can judge, about one hundred and fifty to one hundred and fifty-five acres. There are, in those three plantations, about three hundred acres of cleared land, and the settlers are about clearing land for twelve more plantations. That provisions from the seaboard to the Alachua, before the road above mentioned was opened, were transported at a very great expense; and deponent thinks that every bushel of corn must have cost, by the time it was delivered at the settlement, five dollars per bushel, and other provisions in proportion.

And further this deponent saith not.

THOMAS BRUSH.

Subscribed and sworn to before me the day and year first above written.

WATERS SMITH, Mayor.

I do hereby certify that the foregoing are true and correct copies of four depositions taken before me, having been this day compared by me with the originals.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal in the city of St. Augustine, at the [L. S.] said city, this eleventh day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty-three.

WATERS SMITH, Mayor.

CITY OF ST. AUGUSTINE, Territory of Florida:

On the 11th day of September, A. D. 1823, personally came and appeared before me, Waters Smith, mayor of the city of St. Augustine, Edward M. Wanton, who being duly sworn, doth depose and say, that, on the 16th day of December, 1820, he was applied to for the purpose of settling at Alachua; deponent then resided at Picolata, and on the same day started for Volusia, and there concluded an agreement with Horatio S. Dexter to go and settle on the Alachua lands; and as said Dexter had previously entered into terms with the Alachua Company to settle on said lands, this deponent agreed with said Dexter to go and settle there, and to participate in the agreement previously made between Dexter and the company; and, on the agreement being made with Dexter, deponent immediately began to make preparation for the settlement, and continued at Volusia perfecting his arrangements until the 8th day of April following, when he left Volusia, and, on the 16th day of the same month, arrived at Alachua, and has ever since continued to reside there with his family; also, deponent's son, with his family, and still resides there. And deponent further saith, that the Alachua Company still continue to carry on and support the settlement at very great expense and trouble; and the establishment has been progressing ever since deponent first became a settler, and at the present time consists of twenty-eight houses, and preparing to erect others; have dug several wells, and established three plantations, on which is about three hundred acres cleared land, and about one-half of the cleared land cultivated the present season. Preparations are making for eleven or twelve more plantations. The company have had a road cut from Buena Vista to Alachua, a distance of forty or forty-five miles. A number of bridges have been erected on this road, as near as deponent can now recollect, about eight or ten. A saw-mill is about to be erected, the materials being ready; the present population being about fifty. And deponent further saith, that, before the road was cut from Buena Vista to Alachua, it is his opinion that the cost and transportation of corn to the Alachua settlement would bring the price to five or six dollars per bushel, and every other article proportionally high.

No. 11.

To the honorable the Commissioners appointed to ascertain claims and titles to lands in East Florida:

The petition of Moses E. Levy respectfully sheweth: that your memorialist claims title to a tract of land, consisting of fourteen thousand five hundred acres, situated on the west bank of the St. John's river, at a place called Hope hill. The first line runs south 75° west, 176 chains, to an old path of the Chococate Indians. The second line runs north 25° west, 520 chains, to a stake on a path of the Okelooka Indians, and is bounded as follows: on the north by the Indian path last mentioned, on the east by the river St. John's, and on all other sides by unseated lands; which title your memorialist derives from a grant made to Fernando M. Arredondo, senior, by Governor Coppinger, in virtue of the royal order of 29th March, 1815, who sold the same to your memorialist, and is the whole original grant. And your memorialist further sheweth, that he is in actual possession of said lands; that he is a citizen of the United States, and resident of Meconopé, in East Florida.

Documents filed with this memorial.

1. Copy of title to F. M. Arredondo, marked A.
2. Plat of survey, marked B.

Other documents relating to this claim will be found filed with a memorial of your petitioner, marked A. A. The papers alluded to are marked C, D, E, G.

Bill of sale.

Know ye, that I, Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, inhabitant and merchant of this town, do declare that I am owner and lawful proprietor of a tract of land containing fourteen thousand five hundred acres, situated in the province of East Florida; and that Don Fernando, of the same surname, my son, is owner of another tract containing thirty-eight thousand five hundred acres, situated in the same province; which two tracts of land are intended to be sold to the firm of Hernandez and Chauviteau, under the condition that, within the final termination of two months, there shall be presented to them the necessary authority for the portion belonging to my aforesaid son, as also his title of acquisition therein; and, as respects the land which is my own property, there having only been required to be produced the copy, (of the title,) attested by the notary, Don Juan de Entralgo, of the 9th of August, one thousand eight hundred and nineteen, it is presented to them, as also the map and explanation of the location and boundaries of both tracts. In which state the firm of Hernandez and Chauviteau agreed to my guarantee and security respecting my son, Don Fernando. There remained another difficulty to be got over somewhat greater, which was, to make it appear that no duties were to be paid thereon, for the reasons stated to the superintendent sub-delegate of the two Floridas, in a representation made to him on the 7th of July last; who, having taken all the necessary informations in the business, declared, by a decree of the 24th of the said month of July, that, in conformity to the proceedings, (as made out,) the matter should be sent back to the general administration, that a permit might be delivered as petitioned, with exemption from duties; and the only requisite that, on the delivery of the document, there should be a copy thereof given in to the Government and national bureau of Florida for the proper effect; upon view whereof, the administration aforesaid so determined yesterday, as will more particularly appear by the proceedings which are attached hereto upon nine sheets of paper, that the consequences which are just may ensue. And, in pursuance thereof, I declare for myself, and in the name of the said Don Fernando de la Maza, my son, on whose behalf, in the fullest manner, I give my voice and assurance, derato et grato, with an express denunciation of all laws upon the case, and which shall be cancelled upon a delivery of the power and title of ownership mentioned in the beginning, and upon these conditions I actually sell, and give in perpetual alienation to the firm of Hernandez and Chauviteau, inhabitants and merchants here, the aforesaid two tracts of land, the one, my property, containing fourteen thousand five hundred acres, and that of my son, thirty-eight thousand four hundred acres, both situated in the province of East Florida, having the bounds and courses appearing on the map attached to the proceedings, which are hereunto annexed, upon which also are found the titles of my property; and, as respects the thirty-eight thousand four hundred acres of my son, his title of ownership shall be produced at the end of two months, a little more or less, attached to the power, which is to be added with proper notification to this writing; which two tracts of land I transfer in favor of the aforesaid Hernandez and Chauviteau, according to, and in their present state, with all their inlets, outlets, uses, customs, and appurtenances, acquired and lawful, thereto belonging and appertaining, I and my son, Don Fernando, having possessed them free from all incumbrances, as I, the recorder of mortgages, do declare and certify hereafter, for the price and sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, out of which twenty thousand are appropriated for the land and sale of my son, and the remaining five thousand dollars for the land and sale of my own property; and of which two portions or amount of twenty-five thousand dollars, to which the price of both tracts amounts, as received in ready coin to my satisfaction, I renounce the proof, delivery, exception on account of pecuniary misreckoning, fraud, and other circumstances in the case, and do deliver, in the fullest manner, a formal receipt. Manifesting, as I do declare, that the price and just value of both lands is that already stated, and if they are worth any thing more, or may be valued above the contract, whatever it may be, I make of it to the purchasers a gift and donation, absolute, entire, perfect, and irrevocable, according to the right titles made out, with all recordings, clauses, entails, and requisites, for their better and necessary validity. In consideration whereof, I separate, quit, and transfer from myself and my legitimate son, Don Fernando, all title of property, voice, and appeal, useful possession, ownership, and other deeds, real, personal, lawful, direct, and indirect, which to the aforesaid two tracts of land we had and held in the part and portion which is set forth belonged to each: therefore, under the recited conditions and guarantee, I renounce and transfer them to the firm of Hernandez and Chauviteau, or to whomsoever may hold their power, that, as their own property, they may possess, enjoy, or alienate at their will by virtue of this writing, which I deliver them in testimony of an actual delivery, whereby is acknowledged their having acquired possession and holding the same without a necessity of other proof, from which I absolve them; and I bind myself to the security and validity of this sale with my present and future property, and by making a full guarantee for punctual fulfilment thereof, upon which I renounce all laws and privileges in my favor, which I moreover hereby bar. And we, the firm of Hernandez and Chauviteau, being present, do accept in our favor this writing, which is made to us of the aforesaid two tracts of land, for the sum, and in the manner which they are sold to us, and of which we acknowledge the delivery, with a renunciation of all the laws upon the case, and do deliver a formal receipt, dated in the ever faithful city of Havana, the 3d of August, in the year one thousand eight hundred and twenty.

I, the public notary, certify that I am acquainted with the parties conveying, who, moreover, ratified, delivered, and signed hereto, there being as witnesses, Don Rafael Garcia, Don Thomas Gomez, and Don Buenaventura Calvet, present, and residents.

FERNANDO DE LA MAZA ARREDONDO.
HERNANDEZ & CHAUVITEAU.

Before me: CAYETANO PONTO.

Copy of the title of ownership in favor of Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, of fourteen thousand five hundred acres of land, situated to the west of St. John's river.

Don Joseph Coppinger, colonel in the royal army, civil and military Governor, and head of public finance in this city of St. Augustine, in Florida, and province, on behalf of his Majesty:

Whereas, by a royal order of the 29th of March, one thousand eight hundred and fifteen, his Majesty has deigned to approve the gifts and rewards proposed by my predecessor, Brigadier Don Sebastian Kindelan, for the officers and soldiers, not only regulars, but citizens and other individuals of this province, who united in the defence thereof in the time of rebellion. One of the said favors being a distribution of vacant lands, and in consideration of Don Fernando de la Maza having manifested to me the distinguished and extraordinary services which he has rendered in various employs, which he exercised with liberality and usefulness to the royal treasury, and in duty towards his King and country, as also in the defence of the said province when it was invaded in the year one thousand eight hundred and twelve, as appears more fully by the memorial which he has presented to me, dated the 21st of March, one thousand eight hundred and seventeen, in regard to which, and in consequence of the authority which I exercise, I have thought fit, by my decree of the 24th of the same month of March, to grant his request, whereby, as a remuneration of his said services, there should be awarded him a donation of thirty thousand acres of land, with titles of absolute property, which have been designated in three different places, and one of them consisting of fourteen thousand five hundred acres, is situated to the west of the river St. John's, commencing its measurement to the north by the old path of the Chocachati Indians, whose dimensions and boundaries are known in the following manner: The first line runs south seventy-five degrees to the west, measuring one hundred and seventy-six chains; the second line runs north twenty-five degrees to the west, measuring five hundred and twenty chains parallel to the river St. John's until it meets the road from the town of Okelawaca, which road from thence to the river forms the last line, and finishes on the same path of the Indians, as more fully appears by the plan made out by Mr. Andrew Burgevin, surveyor, dated the 5th of the present month, in pursuance of my decree of the 8th of June of the present year, authorizing him for that purpose, and by virtue of that which is granted by the aforesaid decree of concession of the 24th of March, one thousand eight hundred and seventeen; all which united proceeding remains in the archive of the present notary: Therefore, and in reference to the said worthy services, in compliance with the will of our sovereign, and of what is imposed by the laws for rewarding with distinction such as may be worthy, and in consideration of the said services, and of the persons who rendered them, I have determined to grant, and, in the name of his Majesty, and of the royal justice which I administer, do grant to the aforesaid Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo the aforesaid fourteen thousand five hundred acres of land in the place designated, without prejudice to a third person, for himself, his heirs, and successors, in absolute property, and make out to him, as by these presents I do, the suitable title thereto, whereby I separate it from the royal exchequer, all right and dominion which it held to the said land, and do yield and transfer to the aforesaid Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, his heirs and successors, that, by virtue thereof, he may possess it as his own, use and enjoy the same, without any rent, with all its inlets, outlets, uses, customs, rights, and appurtenances, which it has held and holds, and of acquisition or in right thereto belonging, and may touch, and of his own free will, sell, cede, transfer, and alienate, as they may best think fit: to all which I give my judicial authority, as far as I can do, and of right ought, by virtue of what is set forth, and of the will of the sovereign.

Given under my hand, and countersigned by the underwritten notary of the Government and royal exchequer, in this said city of St. Augustine, in Florida, the 9th of August, 1819.

JOSEPH COPPINGER.

By order of His Excellency:

JUAN DE ENTRALGO,
Notary of Government and Royal Finance.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, August 9, 1819.

Conformable to the original remaining in the archives under my charge, to which I refer, and at the request of the party, do sign and subscribe this present copy on three sheets of common paper, stamps not being used.

JUAN DE ENTRALGO,
Notary of Government and Royal Finance.

Conformable to the originals remaining in the registry under my charge, to which I refer, and at the request of the party, I give these presents, at the ever faithful city of Havana, the 9th of August, 1820.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, March 1, 1817.

Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, inhabitant of St. Augustine, and actually residing in the city of the Havana, through his son, of the same name, residing in this place, to your excellency, respectfully sheweth:

That he has the honor of having served His Majesty in different employments and destinations, and particularly in the department of commissary of the Indians, without any salary, or any other emolument whatever, for more than twenty years, having discharged the duties of that office with the utmost exactitude, to the satisfaction of all the Governors of this place, contributing thereby to the peace and harmony which existed with those savages; with which commission, and that of the comptroller pro tem. of the royal military hospital of this town, which he likewise discharged for many years without any salary or emolument; which meritorious services have saved to the royal revenue many thousands of dollars, as is well known to your excellency, and to the public authorities of this place.

Latterly, after obtaining a discharge from these different employments, he separated himself from the service of His Majesty to attend to the discharge of his duty towards his family; he engaged himself in the fatiguing service of patrols, and aid-de-camp to the Governor de Estrada, in consequence of the invasion of this province, in the year 1812, and for want of officers for that service, in which he was occupied until the year 1813; when, having been elected by a majority of votes, with all the necessary solemnities on the occasion, elector of the parish and district of this said province, he was obliged to go to the city of Havana, and remain there as one of the deputies of the Provincial Junta. To discharge the said duty he was under the necessity, as a loyal subject, to expend large sums, which he willingly did, in the service of his King and country, being well persuaded that he would be rewarded for it at a future period.

He has been informed that the royal order of His Majesty of the 29th March, 1815, directs that a remuneration of grants of land be given to all the individuals who were armed in the defence of their country during the insurrection which began in 1812; and as your petitioner is one of them, and is entitled, for this reason, to said gifts; as also being one of the oldest settlers, and having augmented his family and negroes ever since the cession of this province to His Majesty, and one of those whom the royal ordinances and laws recommend that they may be attended to, both in quality of first settlers, as also on account of his distinguished services, that he be preferred in the partition of lands; he therefore prays your excellency will be pleased to grant him, in absolute property, thirty thousand acres of land, to say, fifteen thousand acres to the southwest of the large lagoon known by the name of lake George, which survey may be so made that a creek of sweet water, situate in that place, may occupy the centre of the front thereof; and the remaining fifteen thousand acres, on the west side of the St. John's river, the measurement of which to commence from the old Indian Chucichatty path, opposite the site on which the firm of Pantón & Leslie had their store established, known by the name of the Upper store, being at the south side of the great lagoon known by the name of lake George, and thence in line to run southerly until it completes the number of acres; and, as the actual circumstances of the province do not permit at present the measurement and chaining of said lands; and, at the same time, as the survey could not take place for want of surveyors, as Don George Clarke, named by this Government, has other occupations which give him no time to attend to it; he therefore hopes, from the justice of your excellency, that you will be pleased to suspend the acknowledgment of the titles of the property whilst the memorialist does not obtain the plats of said lands, in order that their situation and limits may be specified with exactness, for perfecting the location and situation of the same; and, in the mean time, the grant which your lordship may think fit to make him may serve as a title, under your decree, in continuation; for it is the wish of the memorialist that, when the same be given him, it may have all the requisites necessary; a favor which he hopes to receive from the justice of your excellency.

FERNANDO DE LA MAZA ARREDONDO.

To the GOVERNOR.

ST. AUGUSTINE, March 24, 1817.

In attention to the services which this party specifies, which are manifest and notorious, and making use of the power conferred on me by the laws and the royal will, I grant, in the name of His Majesty, and the royal justice which I administer, to Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, the senior, the thirty thousand acres of land he solicits, in absolute property, in the places he has designated, without prejudice to a third person; of which titles of dominion will be given as soon as the plats to be made by the surveyor be presented, serving, in the mean time, this decree, and an equivalent, in all its parts, which, with the foregoing petition, will be filed in the archives of the notary of Government and royal finance office, from whence the interested will be furnished with a certified copy of the proceedings, properly authenticated, and in due form, in order that this concession may be duly credited, and that he may be able to make use of said lands, and to dispose of them as he may think proper.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, June 8, 1819.

Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, Jun., inhabitant of this city, and in the name, and as attorney for his father, of the same name, now residing in the Havana, to your excellency respectfully sheweth:

That, under decree of the 24th March, 1817, your excellency thought proper to grant to his said father, in absolute property, thirty thousand acres of land, in the two situations marked and designated in the certified copy which accompanies: And whereas, the unfortunate situation of this province have not permitted that said lands be measured and laid off by the Surveyor General, Don George Clarke, who had not time to attend to this survey, in consequence of his absence, having been and now actually occupied on other service for the Government in the northern part of this province; and as there is a favorable opportunity for your memorialist having the said survey made by Don Andres Burgevin, a person who, by special commission of this Government, supplies the place of said Clarke, and who has hitherto refused to travel to the above-mentioned place, fearing the hostile disposition of the Indians; all of which were the causes that hindered his said father from obtaining the titles of dominion and property which he is entitled to, ever since the above-mentioned date of the 24th of March, 1817: Therefore, your petitioner prays your excellency be pleased to authorize said Andres Burgevin, that he may proceed to the survey of said lands as is specified in said concession, separating from the second tract five hundred acres, which he will survey, commencing about one mile to the south of the old Indian path of Chocochate, in order that they may be made in three different surveys: that is to say, one, of fifteen thousand, the other, of fourteen thousand five hundred, and one, of the said five hundred acres; a favor which he hopes to obtain from the justice of your excellency.

FERNANDO DE LA MAZA ARREDONDO, JUN.

To the GOVERNOR.

ST. AUGUSTINE, June 8, 1819.

Let his request be granted accordingly; Don Andres Burgevin previously accepting the same, and taking the necessary oath, citing the parties to appear having lands adjoining.

In the ever loyal city of Havana, on the 2d of November, 1820, before me, the notary, and witnesses, whose names will appear at foot, that the commercial firm of Hernandez & Chauviteau, inhabitants and merchants of this city, whom I know, and give full faith and credit, appeared before me and declared that they gave their full power, which by right is required and necessary, to Don Moses Elias Levy, inhabitant of this place; that, in the name of said grantors of said power of attorney to represent their persons, rights, and actions, may dispose, at the highest price which at the time of sale may be offered, fifty-two thousand nine hundred acres of land, the property of said grantors, which they purchased in two lots, comprising, the one of fourteen thousand five hundred acres, the other, of thirty-eight thousand four hundred acres, situated in the province of East Florida, under the limits and boundaries which the surveys set forth, attached to the documents and bill of sale which Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo made in this office the 3d August, in this present year, and by which said attorney will be guided in giving the competent bill of sale of said fifty-two thousand nine hundred acres of land, under the clauses, renunciations, cessions, obligations, and requisites, which may be required for its validity and stability; all of which they now approve and ratify, as if they were personally present at its execution, disposing of the receipts thereof according to instructions, and, if necessary, requiring of Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo the exact fulfilment of the condition pending in the said bill of sale, made to them on the 3d of August last past, without omitting the necessary judicial and extra-judicial proceedings or conciliatory steps which may be offered in the discharge of the duties which, by this power of attorney, are conferred on said Moses Elias Levy; being well understood that the omission of any precise clause or circumstance which, in this instrument, ought to be included, may not detain him from practising in all which may necessarily occur in all its incidents and occurrences which they confer on him, the said Levy, in the most ample and general form, without any limitation whatever, with ample power to judge, to take oath, to summon, to protest, to take exception, to appeal, to supplicate, to ask for terms, to abandon and separate, or to continue the same, as may best suit him; as also to substitute, to revoke substitutes, to name others, and exonerate them in due form; for the security of which they bind themselves, their properties, present or future, with an inserted clause of guarantee for its punctual fulfilment, upon which they renounce, from this time, when the occasion may offer, to realize the effects for which this power of attorney is given, all the laws and privileges in their favor and defence, and that which prohibits it.

In testimony whereof, the parties have signed this instrument before the witnesses, Rafael Garcia, Tomas Gomez, Buenaventura Calvet, present, and inhabitants.

F. J. FATIO, S. B. L. C.

This indenture made the 8th day of June, in the year of our Lord 1821, between Francisco Hernandez, of the city of Havana, in the island of Cuba, merchant, and John Joseph Chauviteau, of the same place, merchant, by Moses Elias Levy, of Philadelphia, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, their attorney, duly qualified, constituted, authorized, and appointed by them for that purpose by a power of attorney, bearing date on the 12th day of November, 1820, of the one part, and Abraham M. Cohen, of the city of Philadelphia, merchant, of the other part, witnesseth: That the said parties of the first part, for, and in consideration of, the sum of $35,875 to them in hand, paid at or before the sealing and delivering of these presents, the receipt whereof they do hereby acknowledge, and themselves therewith fully satisfied, contented, and paid, have bargained, sold, aliened, transferred, conveyed, released, and confirmed, and, by these presents, do bargain, sell, alien, transfer, convey, release, and confirm, unto the said Abraham M. Cohen, his heirs and assigns, all that piece, parcel, or tract of land, situate, lying, and being in the Territory of East Florida, bounded as follows: situate on the west bank of the river San Juan, bounded on the north side by an old Indian path of the Chocochati Indians, and containing fourteen thousand five hundred acres of land, more or less, which said tract of land was surveyed by Andres Burgevin, surveyor, appointed by a decree of the Government of Florida, a copy of a draught of whose survey is hereunto annexed, marked A, reference being had thereunto, the boundaries, situation, and extent of the said tract will more fully appear; also, a certain other tract of land, situate, lying, and being in the said Territory of East Florida, situate on both sides of a creek called Alligator creek, beginning at seven miles west of an Indian town called Alligator town, (leaving the said distance of seven miles between the said Indian village and the now described tract,) being about twelve miles in length and five in breadth, that is to say, two and a half miles on each side of said river, containing thirty-eight thousand four hundred acres, a plan or draught of which last mentioned tract is hereunto annexed, marked B, by which the boundaries, situation, and extent of the said last mentioned tract will more fully appear, being the tracts conveyed by Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, on behalf of himself and son, to the said parties of the first part, by an instrument of writing, bearing date at Havana, the 3d day of August, 1820, and confirmed subsequently by Don Fernando, the son, together with all and singular the woods, under-woods, waters, water-courses, ways, houses, fences, improvements, rights, members, hereditaments, and appurtenances thereunto belonging, or in any wise appertaining; and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, rents, issues, and profits thereof, and of every part and parcel thereof; and, also, all the estate, right, title, interest, benefit, property, claim, and demand whatsoever, in law or equity, of them, the said parties of the first part, and each of them, of, in, and to the same, and every part and parcel thereof, to have and to hold the said lands, tenements, and hereditaments, and all and singular the premises hereby granted, or intended so to be, with the appurtenances, unto the said Abraham M. Cohen, his heirs and assigns, to his own proper use and behoof forever; and the said Francisco Hernandez and John Joseph Chauviteau, for themselves, their heirs, executors, and administrators, separately and jointly, do covenant, promise, and agree to and with the said Abraham M. Cohen, his executors, administrators, and assigns, that they have not jointly done, committed, or suffered any act, matter, or thing whatsoever, whereby the title of the said parties of the first part to the premises, as above described, has been or can be impaired, weakened, destroyed, or encumbered, and that the said parties of the first part, each, against his own acts and deeds, and against his own heirs, and all person or persons claiming under him or his heirs, all and singular the premises, unto the said Abraham M. Cohen, his heirs and assigns, shall and will warrant, and at all times defend, by these presents.

In witness whereof, the parties to these presents have, interchangeably, hereunto set their hands and seals, the day and year first above written.

Be it remembered, that, on the 9th day of June, Anno Domini eighteen hundred and twenty-one, before me, the Hon. Bushrod Washington, one of the associate justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, came Joseph Simon Cohen, of the city of Philadelphia, attorney at law, one of the subscribing witnesses to the preceding indenture, who, being duly sworn, did depose and say that he was present, and saw Abraham M. Cohen, the grantor therein named, sign, seal, and deliver the said indenture as his own act and deed, for the use and purposes therein mentioned; and that this deponent, together with A. A. Browne, signed their names thereto, as witnesses thereof.

J. SIMON COHEN.

Witness my hand and seal the day and year last aforesaid.

BUSHROD WASHINGTON.

Recorded the 18th January, 1822. A true copy from the records in my office.

Attest:

JAMES SCOTT TINGLE, C. C. C.

Don Andres Burgevin, as surveyor, appointed by a decree of this Government, made the 8th of June of the present year, in favor of the interested:

I certify that I have measured and laid off to Don Fernando de la Maza Arredondo, Sen., a tract of land containing fourteen thousand five hundred acres, situated on the west bank of the river St. John's, beginning on its north side, by the old Indian road to Chocochati, and being conformable, in its other points, to the preceding plat. [See plate 7.]

In witness whereof, I give the present, which I sign in St. Augustine, Florida, the 5th August, 1819.

ANDRES BURGEVIN.

A copy of its original, to which I refer.

I certify the above to be a true translation of an account current in the Spanish language.

F. J. FATIO, S. B. L. C.

MOSES E. LEVY vs. UNITED STATES.

Evidence of Thomas Murphy.

Question. How long have you been acquainted with the settlement of Alachua?

Answer. I have been on the land in 1821. I have been previously acquainted with the circumstances of the settlement in February of the same year, and was employed by Mr. Mitchell, one of the owners, and Mr. Dexter, agent, to keep the books relative to this settlement.

Question. Do you know when Mr. Dexter was engaged to promote that settlement?

Answer. The 1st of November, 1820, as far as I recollect, he was engaged by Mr. Mitchell to make a settlement at Alachua, but would be more certain by referring to his books.

Question. Were any other persons engaged at the same time?

Answer. Not in December, but in February Mr. Wanton was engaged by Mr. Dexter, on the part of Mr. Mitchell; and afterwards, and in March of the same year, by Mr. Arredondo, confirmed the said nomination.

Question. How do you know of such arrangements, and Mr. Arredondo's agreement to it?

Answer. I was present at Volusia when Mr. Dexter engaged Mr. Wanton. Mr. Arredondo's assent became acquainted with by correspondence from himself.

Question. Do you know what powers Mr. Mitchell gave Mr. Dexter?

Answer. I do not know whether he gave him any more powers than to effect a settlement at Alachua, with the consent of the Indians.

Question. Was it to induce others to go to the land?

Answer. I do not know, at that time; but subsequently, and ever since, that Mr. Mitchell approved of the employment of Mr. Dexter, of myself.

Question by Mr. Hamilton. How long did you stay at Alachua, and at what time did you go there?

Answer. I went in August, 1821; staid there until the spring of 1822. Have not been there since.

Question. Do you consider yourself a settler there? Answer. I do not.

Question. Were you, at the time, a Spanish subject? Did you make a settlement of yourself at the time?

Answer. I did not.

Question. Was there a settlement there the first time you went? Answer. There was.

Question. Describe it.

Answer. There were about eight buildings; one large log house, used as a lodging house, a trading store with the Indians, a corn house, a kitchen, and two negro cabins. The second time there were very little alterations, except some additional negro houses.

Question. Was Mr. Wanton a Spanish subject? Answer. He was.

Question. Had he any family?

Answer. He had a son the first time I was there, and in November following his — came there as I was about leaving the settlement.

Question. Have they remained there since? Answer. I believe they have.

Question. Did Mr. Wanton go there to make a settlement, or trade with the Indians?

Answer. To make a settlement.

Question. Did Mr. Wanton do any thing but trade with the Indians?

Answer. He cleared and cultivated part of a field, and introduced stock there.

Question. Had he any negroes?

Answer. He had about seven or eight the first time; I found that he had cleared, when I went there in August, the field.

Question. Was any arrangement made by the Indians to permit Mr. Dexter and Mr. Wanton to make this settlement? What was the nature of the arrangement? Answer. As far as I know, to cultivate and establish.

Question. What was the establishment? Answer. Principally a trading establishment, and to cultivate the land.

Question. Who were the Indians?

Answer. One of King Hijah's sons, John Hicks, Osecke, Latake, and others that I do not recollect.

Question. Was Micanope or Jumper there? Answer. Neither.

Question. Did Micanope or Jumper ever approve of the settlement?

Answer. Does not recollect whether they approved of it. Has frequently heard them speak, and never heard them speak as regards the settlement.

Question. Was Mr. Dexter there the first time you went? Answer. Yes.

Question. Did you see Mr. Dexter the first time you went?

Answer. I did. He, Mr. Dexter, never lived there permanently.

Question. What did Mr. Dexter do?

Answer. I have seen him assist Mr. Wanton in the store, and also in making arrangements for the reception of the Indian agent, bringing up provisions from the river St. John's to the Alachua settlement.

Question. Did Mr. Dexter never build a house there? Answer. Never, to my knowledge.

Question. Where is the place of residence of Mr. Dexter? Answer. At Volusia, and occasionally in town.

Question. Are you certain Mr. Dexter was employed to make a settlement on account of the Alachua proprietors?

Answer. I am positive he did.

Question. Do you not know that he went there for the purpose of making the settlement, and, at the same time, had a trading house? Was the said store for himself, or the Alachua concern?

Answer. I conceive it was on account of the Alachua concern.

SATURDAY, December 20, 1823.

Mr. Murphy re-examined by Mr. Hamilton.

Question. Have you ever understood that Mr. Dexter had an Indian title to this land? Answer. I have.

Question. Have you seen it?

Answer. I have not. I have seen a copy of a relinquishment of the Indians of said lands in favor of Dexter, as agent of Arredondo & son.

Question. Who do you understand were the witnesses to said contract?

Answer. Edward Wanton, William M. Gibson, and William Wanton.

Question. Do you know whether these persons are interested in this grant?

Answer. Mr. E. Wanton is interested in the grant.

Question. Was there any difficulty in making this settlement?

Answer. It was considered dangerous at that time.

Question. After obtaining permission from the Indians, do you imagine it was dangerous?

Answer. I imagine not.

Question. Did you understand why the settlement was not commenced before? Answer. No.

Question. Was either of the Arredondos residents of this Territory at the time of the settlement?

Answer. Fernando Arredondo, Jun.

Question. Were any Spanish families introduced, antecedent to 1822, into this Territory, for this settlement?

Answer. I do not know; I never understood that there were.

Question. Are the Arredondos men of large property? Answer. I do not know.

Question. Did you understand that the Arredondos owned large grants, other than this?

Answer. Merely from general rumor.

Question. Did you understand that those grants were antecedent to this grant? Answer. I know nothing of it.

Question. Do you understand that Mr. Dexter makes an adverse claim to this grant? Answer. I have.

Question. When did you come to this province? Answer. In May or June, 1818.

Question. Were any attempts made to settle the Alachua at that time? Answer. None that I know of.

Question. Did you ever hear of the Alachua grant before you were engaged to settle it? Answer. No, never.

Question. Did you ever understand from Messrs. Dexter, Mitchell, and others, that it was necessary to commence the settlement in order to save the grant?

Answer. No; I did not.

Question. Was there not a great deal of anxiety expressed on the occasion?

Answer. Mr. Mitchell wrote to Mr. Dexter on the occasion.

Question. When did the settlement commence? Answer. In April, 1821.

Question by Mr. Lancaster. Might there not, as far as you know, have been improvements at Alachua previous to 1821?

Answer. There might.

Question. Do you know whether Mr. Dexter was a Spanish subject at the time he was employed to make this settlement?

Answer. He was.

Question. Do you know whether Mr. Dexter was to settle on the land by agreement with the proprietors?

Answer. I do not.

Testimony of Hipolite Chateaufneuf.

Question by claimant. Are you established at Alachua? Answer. I am.

Question. How long have you been established? Answer. One year.

Question. From whence came you? Answer. From France.

Question. From what part of the United States? Answer. From Delaware county, State of New York.

Question. By whom were you engaged to come to this country? Answer. By Mr. Levy, now present.

Question. How long are you from France? Answer. Six years.

Question. Were you in this country all that time? Answer. No, in the United States.

Question. Did any other persons come with you from New York to Alachua?

Answer. Yes, twenty-seven or twenty-eight.

Question. For what purpose did you come to Alachua?

Answer. To cultivate the olive, vine, and other productions of the south of France.

Question. Who paid your expenses?

Answer. Mr. Levy paid my expenses from the north, as well as the persons who came with me.

Question. Do you know what were the expenses of yourself and other persons from New York to Alachua?

Answer. I do not, but imagine them to be very great.

Question. Were not you and the other settlers engaged as permanent settlers? Answer. We were.

Question. How have you all been supported at Alachua?

Answer. By provisions principally furnished by Mr. Levy.

Question. Has not the maintenance of the settlement been very expensive? Answer. Yes, very expensive.

Question. For what purpose do you leave the Territory?

Answer. For the purpose of bringing my family and two other French families.

Question. How many houses are there built at Alachua?

Answer. There are about twenty finished, and about as many not.

Question. How many persons are there at the establishment? Answer. About fifty odd, white and black.

Question. How many negroes are there? Answer. Seventeen or eighteen.

Question. Do you know that there are a great number of families in Europe engaged to come to Alachua?

Answer. I have understood it from Mr. Levy and a Mr. Warburg.

Question. Where is Mr. Warburg from? Answer. From Hamburg.

Question. When did Mr. Warburg arrive at the settlement? Answer. At the same time I did.

Question. Are the settlers now at Alachua engaged in clearing and making new settlements?

Answer. Yes, certainly.

Question. About what quantity of land is there cleared? Answer. About seven or eight hundred acres.

Question. How many acres of land have there been cultivated this year?

Answer. I cannot say, but believe about two hundred.

Question. How many acres have the settlers cleared? Answer. Mr. Levy has about one hundred and twenty.

MONDAY, December 22, 1823.

Testimony of Mr. Alvarez.

Question by claimant's attorney. Do you know the signature, now before you, of Juan Nepomuceno de Arrocha?

Answer. I am acquainted, as clerk, with the signature of Arrocha, and, to the best of my knowledge, believe it to be the same.

Question. Were all the acts sent by him to this office sent enclosed with acts of the Intendant, or were they sometimes sent without them?

Answer. They were generally sent enclosed in official letters of the Intendant, and at others without.

Question. When they were sent without letters of the Intendant, were they regarded as evidence? Was it customary to receive a certificate without a seal of office? Answer. Yes; the secretary has no seal of office.

Question by Mr. Hamilton. Has the Intendant any seal of office?

Answer. I am not certain whether it was a public or private seal.

Question. Has the Intendant a seal he affixes to public papers? Answer. He does.

Question. Does he affix it to royal orders? Answer. No.

Question. To what does he affix the seal of office?

Answer. To patents, grants; and the secretary has no right to place the seal of the Intendant to any document.

Question. Whose duty was it to promulgate the royal orders to the Governor of Florida?

Answer. The secretary issued the royal orders, and the Intendant enclosed them to the Governors.

Mr. Alvarez states that, if the secretary had affixed the Intendant's seal to any certificate of his own, it would have been rejected.

Testimony of John Cavedo.

Question by attorney of claimant. When were you last in Havana?

Answer. About the month of February or March, 1823.

Question. Do you know the signature of the secretary of the Intendancy?

Answer. Yes; I have seen the signature both in the Havana and at St. Augustine; have seen his signature in the notary public's office and custom-house.

Question. Did you know Arrocha as secretary of the Intendancy? Answer. I did.

Question. Have you seen him at his office?

Answer. I have; I never spoke to him, and have seen him at his table writing; I have never seen any document, bearing his signature, in his office.

Question. Was it not a matter of public notoriety that he was the secretary of the Intendancy at Havana?

Answer. Yes.

Question. Was the Intendant in the office at the same time you were there?

Answer. No; he had a separate office.

Question. Did you understand that the secretary acted of his own will, or under the direction of the Intendant?

Answer. I never understood that he had powers separate from those of the Intendant.

Question. Those papers you have seen in the custom-house with Arrocha's signature, were they sent there by him or the Intendant?

Answer. In letters of the Intendant.

Mr. Gomez's testimony.

Question. Is that the signature of Mr. Arrocha? Answer. It is, to the best of my knowledge.

WEDNESDAY, December 24, 1823.

George J. F. Clarke, being introduced and sworn, was examined by claimant's counsel.

Question. What was the state of the Seminole nation, in the neighborhood of Alachua, in the years 1818, 1819, 1820; whether disturbed or not? and, if so, the causes of disturbance?

Answer. General Jackson's army broke up at Micasooky town, on the borders of Florida, in May, 1818; the army then progressed east of the town of Suwanee, lying northwest of the centre of Alachua about thirty miles, which they broke up. The Indians, in consequence of which, were dispersed in small parties, and were scattered over East Florida, as far as Indian river and the seaboard. With these circumstances I became acquainted from report. I am unacquainted with them myself. I am not certain with regard to the distance from Alachua to the Suwanee. The Indians were dispersed in small marauding parties, and it was considered dangerous to go among them. This was the state of affairs, more or less, until the late transfer of this country to the American Government.

Question. Did the unsettled state of affairs in Spain, in 1818, 1819, 1820, cause any degree of stagnation in the business generally in this Territory?

Answer. Florida has been upon the decline from the revolution in France, and at this period was at a very low ebb; so low, indeed, that it scarcely could have been worse.

Question. Was not the Government of this Territory jeopardized or enfeebled by the unsettled state of Spain?

Answer. The Government was almost destitute, at that period, of funds and military, and unable to protect those who were at a distance from the town.

Question. Were not the enterprise and exertions of the inhabitants of this Territory, at that time, very much cramped and paralyzed in consequence of these causes?

Answer. The efforts of the inhabitants were much enervated, in consequence of their political insecurity.

Question. Whether, from these causes, emigration from all quarters, and particularly from Spain, was not checked?

Answer. It was; and I believe from these causes. As for emigration from Europe, we seldom had much; but from the United States, from which we generally received emigrants.

Question. Was it not more difficult to get emigrants from Europe, under such a state of affairs, than if no disturbances or difficulties had existed?

Answer. It was.

Cross-examined.

Question. Do you think that this state of affairs would prevent emigration from Cuba to this country, even under the protection of some wealthy or powerful personage?

Answer. I really cannot say.

Question. Were the inhabitants of this Territory in the habit of travelling into the interior?

Answer. It was not customary; there was but little travelling.

Question. Why not?

Answer. Because, in the first place, they had no business to call them there, and there was danger, besides, apprehended.

Question. Was there any apprehension of the Indians by the inhabitants? Answer. There was.

Question. Were the inhabitants averse to making settlements upon the outskirts of the present settlement?—I do not mean insulated location among the Indians.

Answer. Yes. They were averse to being on the frontier, although there were some hardy few who formed a frontier, though none wished or was willing to go beyond them.

Question. What are the Spanish inhabitants in the Territory, emigrants of old Spain?

Answer. I do not know.

Question. Do you know whether they are few or many? Answer. I do not know.

Question. Do you know whether there are twenty or one hundred more or less, either one or the other?

Answer. I really do not know; I never made any inquiry.

Question. Have you ever resided in the city?

Answer. I have had occasion to be here frequently, but never for a long period at once since the year 1808.

Question. Have you not made it your study to gain an intimate acquaintance with the population and general resources of Florida?

Answer. I have, sir, until the change of Governments.

Question. Are you not the author of many pieces appearing in the Florida Herald, signed A native Floridian?

Answer. I am.

Question. Have you not published some pieces upon the subject of the Indians?

Answer. Some of my pieces have been published, but not by me.

Question. Have you known any emigration of Spanish subjects, not Minorcans, unconnected with Government?

Answer. Yes; from Cuba, who came upon a bounty paid by the Spanish Government.

Question. Did you know any of them?

Answer. I did; do not recollect the names at present; came here about 1800; their descendants have left this place.

Question. Do you recollect of any emigration from Old Spain direct, or from Europe, Spanish subjects?

Answer. I do not.

Question. Do you know whether it has been the subject of solicitude of the Spanish Government to increase the population of Cuba, Puerto Rico, and the Floridas?

Answer. It was. I have seen a proclamation in one of the publications of the United States, which was intended to induce persons to emigrate and settle in Cuba—did not obtain my knowledge of Puerto Rico from the same source.

Question. Was the Spanish Government jealous of the emigration of the citizens of the United States?

Answer. It was. At one time, about 1792, the Territory was open to all; afterwards a proclamation, about 1804 or 1805, prohibiting the emigration only of citizens of the United States.

Question. Was this order of prohibition enforced?

Answer. It was, until the cession, although there were occasional exceptions.

Question. Did not the revolution in 1817, under McGregor, increase the jealousy?

Answer. It did not.

Question. The incursion under McGregor was principally conducted by Americans, and principally conducted by them—was it not?

Answer. Yes.

Question. What was the conduct of the Spanish population at that time?

Answer. Generally in favor of the Government.

Question. Was the revolution in 1812 principally supported by the American population of this Territory, aided by the American army?

Answer. It was.

Question. Do you know of any American citizen who aided McGregor in his revolution?

Answer. I recollect but one only.

Question. In consequence of the revolution of 1812, were not bounties of lands given by orders of the King to such persons as remained faithful in their allegiance, and served the Government in some military capacity?

Answer. Yes.

Gabriel William Perpall, on part of the claimant.

Question by Mr. Lancaster. Will you state the situation of the Seminole Indians in the neighborhood of Alachua in 1818, 1819, 1820?

Answer. They were in a very disturbed and turbulent state. The Indian settlements having been broken up, and their towns destroyed by Jackson's army, they dispersed themselves over the country as far south as Indian river, and between that and Tampa, and on the coast.

Question. Were they considered as stationary? Answer. No; they were roving about.

Question. Was it not considered as dangerous, at that time, to go out to Alachua, for fear of meeting some of those roving parties of Indians?

Answer. It was; it was always necessary for the surveyors to take with them, as a safeguard, a negro to whom the Indians were known, and who was known by them.

Question by Col. Hamilton. What do you suppose is the number of the Spanish inhabitants, settlers, from Spain?

Answer. I know of but three from Spain.

Question. Do you know of any settlers, Spanish subjects, from Spain, since the year 1800? Answer. No.

Question. Have the Spanish Government been jealous of the population from the United States latterly?

Answer. They were, I believe.

Question. What induces you to suppose so?

Answer. The Government could neither grant them lands, nor even allow them to take the oath of allegiance.

Question. What was the cause of this restriction?

Answer. The revolution of 1812 was one of the causes.

Question. Did the Government of this country entertain any doubts of its political security in 1812 or 1817?

Answer. I do not know.

Question. Did the inhabitants of this country, in the years 1817, 1818, 1819, from the insecure and unsettled state of the Government?

Answer. They did feel themselves insecure by reason of the incursions of these disturbers of the public tranquillity.

Question. Were the inhabitants of the country friendly to the Spanish Government in 1817, 1818, 1819?

Answer. Some were, and some were not.

Mr. Francis P. Sanchez examined by Mr. Lancaster, in behalf of claimant.

Question. Were you employed by Messrs. Mitchell and Arredondo for the purpose of furnishing supplies for the Alachua settlement?

Answer. I was employed in the last of 1820 or '21, by Messrs. Mitchell and Arredondo, to procure supplies for the Alachua settlement: I was busied, from the time of my engagement with Messrs. Mitchell and Arredondo, in furnishing supplies till the last of 1822, to the amount of four or five thousand dollars.

Question. What were the supplies which you furnished?

Answer. They were principally provisions; some few dry goods.

Question. Did you understand whether the supplies were for the purpose of making a settlement or entering into trade?

Answer. I understood that they were intended for a settlement.

Question. Are you aware of any other expenses incurred by the company than those in which you were concerned, and was the amount large or small?

Answer. As large or larger than those in which I was concerned.

Question. Were these expenses incurred during the time in which they were contracting their expenses with you?

Answer. They were.

Question. Who incurred them? Answer. Messrs. Arredondo and Mitchell.

Question. Do you know, of your own proper knowledge, that this settlement was made by Mr. Levy?

Answer. I know it only from my correspondence with Mr. Levy's agent. I had written to Mr. Wanton, Mr. Levy's agent, giving him directions concerning the erection of buildings, &c.: from Mr. Levy and from the agent I received letters, saying that the works and improvements had been attended to, and were progressing as fast as possible.

Question. How long were you employed by Mr. Levy to furnish him with supplies for his settlement?

Answer. From March or April, 1822, until some time in the beginning of 1823.

Question. What was about the amount of supplies furnished for Mr. Levy?

Answer. About fifteen or sixteen hundred dollars.

Question. Do you know of any other expenses incurred by Mr. Levy for this settlement?

Answer. I do: he has paid in my presence moneys to different persons for the settlement, besides not less than fourteen negroes, which I received from Mr. Levy for the settlement at Alachua.

Question. Can you form any estimate of what amount Mr. Levy expended upon the settlement?

Answer. I suppose he has expended from three to five thousand dollars, exclusive of his account with me, and the cost of the above fourteen negroes, besides stock sent there by Mr. Levy.

Anthony Rutant examined on part of claimant, by claimant's attorney.

Question. Did you go to Alachua last year to take charge of Mr. Levy's agricultural establishment there, and at what time? Answer. I did, on the 18th July, 1822.

Question. Was it your intention to establish yourself permanently there?

Answer. Yes, in concert with Mr. Levy.

Question. Be so good as to state whether, and if any, what articles you took there, and the amount?

Answer. As near as I can tell about seven hundred and ninety-nine dollars in value, of which two hundred dollars were in dry goods, six horses, and other articles of agriculture, made up the amount of about seven hundred and ninety-nine dollars, as per invoice, more or less.

Question. Will you state what was the state of the settlement when you arrived there?

Answer. There were about twenty-five acres cleared and planted in corn.

Question. How many negroes did you find there?

Answer. But one. Mr. Wanton, the agent, used occasionally to hire Indian negroes. There were two white persons employed there.

Question by Colonel Hamilton. How long did you remain there? Answer. Between two and three months.

Question. Are you a settler there now? I am not.

Question. Have you been there since? Answer. I have been there occasionally, but not as a settler.

Dr. William Simmons sworn, and examined by claimant's attorney.

Question. Will you be so good as to state generally what you know concerning the settlement at Alachua?

Answer. I think it was in February, 1822, I was there; there were then five, or six, or seven houses. Mr. Wanton was there, and established there, and I understood had been there upwards of a year. There were five or six negroes about the establishment. I remained there about a fortnight on my visit to that place. I observed, during my stay, several head of cattle belonging to the establishment. I was there again in the course of the last month; there were three additional houses; there was also an additional white family, a Mr. Brush, with whom was residing three white men, who, I understood, had come out as settlers. I was also at Mr. Levy's settlement, Pilgrimage, about three miles off. I do not recollect the number of persons there, but I should judge that there were thirty, about eight or nine of whom were whites. I observed five or six horses and three team of oxen, which were employed on the settlement. I did not see the rest of the stock. There was a range of tenements which would accommodate nearly all the persons there; besides which I observed a corn-house, stable, and an out-house, which served, I believe, as a negro house, besides a blacksmith's shop. There was a good crop of corn raised this year; quite sufficient, I should think, for the support of the whole establishment for a year.

Question. You travelled upon a road from Alachua to St. John's river, which road was made by the Alachua Company?

Answer. I did. The road must have been made at a considerable expense, as it extends for about fifty miles; the road being sufficiently wide for a carriage, and having on it nine bridges.

Question. From the information which you have been able to obtain, can you say what number of people there are settled at Alachua?

Answer. Upon the three settlements, Mr. Wanton, Colonel Haines, and Mr. Levy's, there were about fifty persons.

Question. Did there appear to be any preparations making for any other settlement?

Answer. There were two other settlements under way, having commenced clearing and cutting for the purpose of building; there was more than one family at each settlement. The largest portion of settlers is at Mr. Levy's, the next at Mr. Wanton's.

Question by Colonel Hamilton. What was your intention or motive for visiting that part of the country?

Answer. Merely from motives of curiosity, and having a desire to see the country.

Question. Had Mr. Wanton his family there in 1822? Answer. He had.

Question. Were there any families besides the one you have mentioned.

Answer. There were two negro families besides.

Question. What was Mr. Wanton's occupation?

Answer. He had the directions of the planting, and other concerns, and had a store for the purpose of trading with the Indians.

Question. Were there any other persons besides the negroes there?

Answer. The proprietors were expected, and had arrived, but merely to look after their concerns. I saw Mr. Murphy there?

Question. Do you think that Mr. Wanton was in Alachua for any other purpose than that of trading with the Indians?

Answer. I understood that Mr. Wanton was there rather for the purpose of becoming a settler under the conditions of the grant.

Question. Did you understand that Mr. Murphy was there for the same purpose?

Answer. No. I understood that he was employed by the concern as corresponding clerk. He was not established there; but, by engagement, he was to meet the proprietors at that time. At my first visit there was no other person established there but Mr. Wanton and some negroes.

Testimony of James Riz, examined by claimant's attorney.

Question. Were you not, some time ago, engaged to forward a settlement on the Alachua?

Answer. I was engaged by Mr. Peter Mitchell, of Savannah, in November, in 1820, to assist in promoting the settlement at Alachua, under the direction of Messrs. Arredondo and William T. Hall.

Question. When did you arrive there?

Answer. I arrived on the 5th of December, of the same year, at Picolata, and on the next day at St. Augustine; I brought a small schooner boat, of about five tons burden, laden with goods, for the settlement; said goods were shipped by Mr. Mitchell, and landed at Picolata under charge of Mr. Wanton, who was requested to take charge of them by Mr. Mitchell.

Question. Do you know the value of the goods?

Answer. I do not, but believe I have a copy of an invoice, or a bill of lading, at home. I have heard it said that the value of the goods might be about two thousand dollars. I know that some of the articles were sent to Alachua. I was engaged by Mr. Mitchell to assist in any way pointed out by Messrs. Arredondo and Hall. In January I became a Spanish subject. There was nothing actually done until the month of April, 1821; after which time, until the 17th July, I was engaged in forwarding supplies, consisting of corn, &c., from this place to Buffalo Bluff, and from thence to Alachua. I discontinued services on account of sickness.

Cross-examined by district attorney.

Question. Were the goods sent to Alachua not intended principally for the Indian trade?

Answer. They were not; the principal part corn, strouds, &c., a greater part of which was required for the persons employed at the settlement. Should application be made to Mr. Sanchez, he could give correct information upon the subject.

Question. Did you never hear the proprietors declare an intention of entering into trade with the Indians?

Answer. No.

Question. When you were first employed by the company, did they not state that they were anxious to have the settlement made as soon as possible, that the conditions of the grant might be fulfilled?

Answer. No. I understood that the settlement was made.

Examined by Colonel Hamilton.

Question. Did not Mr. Rattenbury engage you to come to this country?

Answer. He induced me to come, by giving me, in conjunction with nine others, five hundred acres of land.

Question. Was Mr. Rattenbury's grant a conditional one? Answer. Yes.

Question. Were you not engaged by Mr. Rattenbury to come to this country for the purpose of settling the land?

Answer. The conditions were, merely, that I should come to St. Augustine. I was induced to come to this country, and would have settled upon the lands of Mr. Rattenbury, could I have done so, but was prevented by the Indians, in consequence of which we purchased a lot of land on Picolata.

Question. Did your companions settle with you on Picolata? Answer. They did; there were six of us.

Question. Have you ever told any one that Mr. Rattenbury deceived you?

Answer. I think he did deceive me. He told me that there were no instances of fever here, but my mother and father both died of it.

Question. You came on from Savannah in continuation of your original scheme from Liverpool?

Answer. Yes. I came on in Mr. Mitchell's boat, and paid Mr. Mitchell ten dollars for my passage. I understood that Mr. Alexander, Mr. Rattenbury's partner, or agent, had died a few months before in St. Augustine, which materially affected my affairs.

Question. Did you enter into any engagement with Mr. Mitchell in Savannah? Answer. I did.

Question. What was the nature of that engagement?

Answer. That I should come on to St. Augustine, and assist in the settlement of Alachua.

Question. Did you consider yourself, from the time you left Savannah, as under the direction of Mr. Mitchell?

Answer. Yes; I was directed to apply to Messrs. Arredondo and William T. Hall.

Question. Did either of the Alachua concern repay you the money for your passage? Answer. No.

Question. Were you ever on the Alachua tract? Answer. No.

Question. Were you ever requested to go there? Answer. Yes.

Question. To go as a settler? Answer. Yes.

Question. By whom was this request made?

Answer. By Mr. Wanton, who wrote to me while at Buffalo bluff; but I was prevented from going from the nature of my engagements.

Question. Did either of your companions take part in the establishment at Alachua? Answer. No.

Question. Were either of your companions included in your engagements with Mr. Mitchell, in Savannah?

Answer. No.

Question. Do you not consider Mr. Rattenbury as bound in justice to repay the amount of your expenses?

Answer. I do not consider him bound, by our engagements, to pay them: for, should I obtain the lands, I shall consider him exonerated; but should I not, I shall consider him in honor bound to refund me the amount.

Examined by Judge Blair.

Question. Were you engaged by Mr. Mitchell, in Savannah, to come to this country for the purpose of facilitating the settlement of the Alachua tract?

Answer. I was.

Examined by Mr. Drysdale, for claimant.

Question. You understood that, upon your arrival here, Mr. Hall was sick?

Answer. I did; he was sick of the fever and ague.

Question. Did you not have occasion to pay the Indians in your intercourse with them? Answer. I did.

Question. Did you pay them in money, or in corn, or other articles?

Answer. The payments were principally made in money; sometimes they were paid in corn, and other small articles.

Question. Were your engagements with Mr. Rattenbury such as to prevent your engaging in other employments? Answer. No, they were not.

Testimony of Andrew Burgevin—examined by Mr. Hamilton.

Question. Did you ever survey a tract of land for Mr. Arredondo on the St. John's.

Answer. I surveyed several; one of fifteen or sixteen thousand acres. I am not certain as to the number of acres. I measured the front alone with the chain. The survey was not made according to the Government order, as Mr. Hamilton states it, one-third front and two-thirds back.

Mr. Cox, for claimant.

Question. Witness never was directed to survey the land in any particular manner?

Answer. I never heard that it was required that the land should be surveyed in any particular manner, except in case of Mosquito, by Governor White. I, myself, never had any orders for a particular mode of survey. I never saw any directions of survey. My surveys have been always considered as correct by the Government, and titles given on them.

Question by Colonel Hamilton. What proportion does the line upon the river bear to the back, or any receding from the line upon the river? Answer. Not quite two to one.

Testimony of George J. F. Clarke.

Question. Have you any written explanation of your orders of survey?

Answer. I have; and will present a fair copy on Monday.

Frederick S. Warburg's testimony.

Question. Do you know for what purpose Mr. Levy purchased this tract?

Answer. I do. From a correspondence held by me with Mr. Levy since 1816, it was purchased for the purpose of settling it with certain families.

Question. Do you know whether Mr. Levy made any arrangements with those families to come to Florida?

Answer. I know that Mr. Levy did make such arrangements with some of them.

Question. Will you state at what time Mr. Levy first left his home for the purpose of purchasing or procuring lands for the families you speak of?

Answer. He left St. Thomas in 1816 to purchase lands for this purpose. The lands were to be purchased in some part of the United States.

Question. At what time did Mr. Levy procure the land?

Answer. I think it was in 1820. I procured this information from Mr. Delavente, in London, a correspondent of Mr. Levy, who had received letters from Mr. Levy; which letters I saw.

TERRITORY OF FLORIDA, District of East Florida:

Moses E. Levy vs. the United States. Deposition of Warburg.

The examination of Frederick S. Warburg, on the part of the plaintiff, taken before Elias B. Gould, a justice of the peace for the county of St. John's, in said Territory, to be read in evidence before the honorable the land commissioners to adjudicate on the claims and titles to lands in said district of East Florida.

Frederick S. Warburg being sworn, says: In the fall of the year 1816, deponent saw Mr. Levy in London; that Mr. Levy informed deponent that it was his intention to settle a number of families in America. In 1820

Mr. Levy informed deponent, through Mr. Delavente, that the families could now come out, as he had purchased lands in Florida; that Mr. Levy again sent to deponent in 1821, and engaged him to come out to this country. When deponent came out, he stayed for some time at the north to wait the arrival of several families who were also to come for the purpose of forming a part of the contemplated settlement; that, on the arrival of said families, deponent came with them to Florida; (say twenty-two persons, including colored people;) that the families who were principally relied on for the said settlement in Alachua still remained in Europe, with the exception of some who are now in the United States waiting for an opportunity to come. Deponent further states, that the number of persons now waiting in the United States and in Europe, who are expected to arrive at the settlement in Alachua to form a part of it, are from forty to fifty, and that engagements with them are of long standing; that, from 1821 to this period, deponent has been continually engaged in procuring settlers upon the lands of the said Levy in the Alachua, and is still in correspondence with individuals in Europe for that purpose; that deponent, from the knowledge he has of the original plan of Mr. Levy, further states that said settlement was to consist of about sixty families; that there are about five heads of families on Mr. Levy's settlement at the present time, and twenty-three souls, including fifteen slaves.

Upon the inquiry of the United States' attorney, deponent states that the reasons why the families have not arrived here before this, are the inconveniences of accommodation; for want of proper buildings, and other necessities to render them comfortable. Deponent says that he has been acquainted with Mr. Levy since 1816; that he does not know whether he is a Spanish subject.

Being further interrogated by the plaintiff's counsel, deponent says that Mr. Levy has expended about eleven thousand dollars.

F. S. WARBURG.

Affirmed before me this 7th day of January, 1824.

E. B. GOULD, J. P.

On application of F. S. Warburg to correct an error in the deposition taken before E. B. Gould, Esq., the said Warburg being first duly sworn, says, that the twenty-two persons alluded to in the said deposition, were partly on account of Moses E. Levy, and partly on account of the Alachua proprietors in general; that the colored people joined deponent in the river St. John's.

No. 413.

[1st Session.]

COMMISSIONERS OF LAND TITLES IN EAST FLORIDA.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, MAY 26, 1824.

Mr. WHIPPLE made the following report:

The Committee on the Public Lands, to whom were referred the message of the President of the United States, with the report of Alexander Hamilton, one of the commissioners for ascertaining claims and titles to lands in Florida, have had the same under consideration, and report:

That the Boards of Commissioners in Florida have been constituted in the mode usually adopted by the Government in similar cases, where the claims of individuals were to be examined.

In all legislation much must necessarily be left to construction, and the sound discretion of those charged with the administration of the laws. Had the mode of deciding claims and titles to lands in Florida been new, and the expediency or propriety of the system required to be tested by experiment, your committee might have been disposed to examine with more rigid scrutiny the laws, to ascertain if some defect might not be discovered in them, demanding the legislative interference of Congress, and whether some other tribunal might not be constituted better adapted to the decision of these claims than the present Board of Commissioners.

But, knowing that similar tribunals have decided on the claims of individuals to lands in all the States and Territories of the United States, where such decisions were necessary, and believing that the existing laws relative to the decision of claims in Florida are sufficient, if properly administered, your committee feel no disposition to recommend either a change in the tribunal for decision, or to add other legislative provisions to those already in existence, and which they believe sufficient, if properly executed. The committee, therefore, recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to cause to be prepared and transmitted to the commissioners for the examination of claims and titles to lands in Florida, such instructions, touching their powers, and the performance of their duties under the existing laws as he may deem necessary, from an examination of the report of Alexander Hamilton, one of the commissioners, and the report of the other two commissioners for East Florida.

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to adopt such measures as he may deem necessary for the safe-keeping and security of the public records of the Spanish Government in relation to lands in Florida.

To the House of Representatives of the United States:

WASHINGTON, May 18, 1824.

I communicate to the House a report, with accompanying documents, received from Alexander Hamilton, one of the commissioners of land titles in East Florida, deeming the statements therein contained to be worthy of the particular attention of the House, and of a nature which may, perhaps, require their interposition, or that of both branches of the Legislature.

JAMES MONROE.

AN ACT for ascertaining claims and titles to land within the Territory of Florida.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That, for the purpose of ascertaining the claims and titles to land within the Territory of Florida, as required by the treaty of the 22d of February, 1819, there shall be appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, three commissioners, who shall receive, as compensation for the duties enjoined by the provisions of this act, two thousand dollars each, to be paid quarterly from the Treasury; who shall open an office for the adjudication of claims at Pensacola, in the Territory of West Florida, and St. Augustine, in East Florida, under the rules, regulations, and conditions hereinafter prescribed.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of said commissioners to appoint a suitable and well qualified secretary, who shall record, in a well-bound book, all and every their acts and proceedings, the claims admitted, with those rejected, and the reason of their admission or rejection. He shall receive, as a compensation for his services, one thousand two hundred and fifty dollars, to be paid quarterly from the Treasury. He shall be acquainted with the Spanish language; and, before entering on a discharge of the duties of his office, shall take and subscribe an oath, before some authority competent to administer it, that he will well and truly, and faithfully discharge the duties assigned him, and translate all papers that may be required of him by the commissioners.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That said commissioners, previously to entering on a discharge of the duties assigned them, shall, before the judge of the Territorial court at Pensacola, or some other authority, in his absence, competent to administer it, take an oath faithfully to discharge the duties of their offices, and shall commence and hold their sessions on or before the first Monday of July next at Pensacola, and on the first Monday of January thereafter at St. Augustine, for the ascertaining and determining of all claims to land within the said Territories; notice of which shall be given by said commissioners, in some newspaper printed at each place, or, if there be no newspaper, at the most public places in said cities, respectively, of the time at which their sessions will commence, requiring all persons to bring forward their claims, with evidence necessary to support them. The session at St. Augustine shall terminate on the 30th of June, 1833, when said commissioners shall forward to the Secretary of the Treasury, to be submitted to Congress, a detail of all they have done, and deliver over to the surveyor all the archives, documents, and papers that may be in their possession.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That every person, or the heirs or representatives of such persons, claiming title to lands under any patent, grant, concession, or order of survey, dated previous to the 24th day of January, 1818, which were valid under the Spanish Government, or by the law of nations, and which are not rejected by the treaty ceding the Territory of East and West Florida to the United States, shall file, before the commissioners, his, her, or their claim, setting forth, particularly, its situation and boundaries, if to be ascertained, with the derangement of title, where they are not the grantees, or original claimants; which shall be recorded by the secretary, and who, for his said services, shall be entitled to demand from the claimants ten cents for each hundred words contained in said papers, so recorded; he shall be entitled to twenty-five cents for each subpoena issued: Provided, That, if the amount so received shall exceed one thousand two hundred and fifty dollars, which is hereby declared the compensation for his services, the excess shall be reported to the commissioners, and be subject to their disposition; and said commissioners shall proceed to examine and determine on the validity of said patents, grants, concessions, and orders of survey, agreeably to the laws and ordinances heretofore existing, of the Governments making the grants respectively, having due regard, in all Spanish claims, to the conditions and stipulations contained in the eighth article of a treaty concluded at Washington between His Catholic Majesty and the United States, on the 22d of February, 1819; but any claim not filed previous to the 31st day of May, 1823, shall be deemed and held to be void and of none effect: Provided, nevertheless, and be it further enacted, That, in all claims submitted to the decision of the commissioners, where the same land, or any part thereof, is claimed by titles emanating both from the British and Spanish Governments, the commissioners shall not decide the same, but shall report all such cases, with an abstract of the evidence, to the Secretary of the Treasury.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the commissioners shall have power to inquire into the justice and validity of the claims filed with them; and shall be, and are hereby, authorized to administer oaths, to compel the attendance of witnesses, by subpoenas issued by the secretary, and the adduction of such testimony as may be wanted; they shall have access to all papers and records of a public nature relative to any land titles within said provinces, and to make transcripts thereof. They shall examine into claims arising under patents, grants, concessions, and orders of survey, where the survey has been actually made previous to the 24th of January, 1818; whether they are founded upon conditions, and how far those conditions have been complied with; and, if derived from the British Government, how far they have been considered valid under the Spanish Government; and, if satisfied that said claims be correct and valid, shall give confirmation to them: Provided, That such confirmation shall only operate as a release of any interest which the United States may have, and shall not be considered as affecting the rights of third persons: And provided, That they shall not have power to confirm any claim, or part thereof, where the amount claimed is undefined in quantity, or shall exceed one thousand acres; but, in all such cases, shall report the testimony, with their opinions, to the Secretary of the Treasury, to be laid before Congress for their determination. Every witness attending under any process from the commissioners shall be allowed one dollar a day, and one dollar for every twenty miles' travel, to be paid by the party summoning him: Provided, nevertheless, That the commissioners shall not act on, or take into consideration, any British grant, patent, warrant, or order of survey, but those which are bona fide claimed and owned by citizens of the United States, and which have never been compensated for by the British Government.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That there shall be appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, a surveyor, who shall possess the power and authority, and receive the same salary, as by law appertains to the surveyor south of the State of Tennessee; but his duties shall not commence until the commissioners shall have examined and decided upon the claims in West Florida, who shall, thereupon, furnish the surveyor with a list of those admitted, and he shall, thereupon, proceed to survey the country, taking care to have surveyed and marked, and laid down upon a general plan, to be kept in his office, the metes and bounds of the claims so admitted; causing the same to be surveyed at the expense of the claimants, the price whereof shall be the same as is paid for surveying the public lands; but no surveyor shall charge for any line, except such as may be actually run, nor for any line not necessary to be run. He shall appoint a suitable number of deputies, and shall fix and determine their fees: Provided, That the whole cost of survey shall not exceed four dollars a mile: And provided, also, That none other than township lines shall be run where the land is deemed fit for cultivation. Said surveyor shall reside at such place as the President of the United States may direct, and shall keep his office there, and may charge the following fees, viz: for recording the plat and surveys of private claims made by any of his deputies, twenty-five cents for each mile contained in the boundary of such survey, and twenty-five cents for any copy certified from the books of his office.

PHILIP P. BARBOUR, Speaker of the House of Representatives.
JOHN GAILLARD, President of the Senate pro tempore.

MAY 8, 1822.—Approved:

JAMES MONROE.

AN ACT amending and supplementary to the act "for ascertaining claims and titles to land in the Territory of Florida," and to provide for the survey and disposal of the public lands in Florida.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the powers of the Board of Commissioners heretofore appointed for ascertaining claims and titles to lands in the Territory of Florida, shall be confined exclusively to the examination of titles and claims in that portion of said Territory heretofore known as West Florida; and that, for ascertaining titles and claims in East Florida, the President is hereby authorized, in the recess of the Senate, to appoint three commissioners, which appointments shall be of force until the end of the next session of Congress thereafter, who may appoint their secretary, and who, with their secretary, shall, within the district of East Florida, possess all the powers given by, perform all the duties required, and shall in all respects be subject to, the provisions and restrictions of the act of the eighth of May, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-two, entitled "An act for ascertaining claims and titles to lands in the Territory of Florida," except so far as the same is altered or changed by the provisions of this act; which Board of Commissioners, heretofore appointed, with that hereafter appointed, shall hold their sessions, severally, at the place within their respective districts, heretofore designated by law; but may adjourn to some other convenient place within their district, and may continue their sessions until the second Monday in February next, when they shall make a return of their proceedings to the Secretary of the Treasury, to be laid before Congress.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That, in the examination of titles to land before either of said Boards of Commissioners, the claimant or claimants shall not be required to produce in evidence the deraignment of title from the original grantee or patentee, but the commissioners shall confirm every claim in favor of actual settlers at the time of cession of the said Territory to the United States, where the quantity claimed does not exceed three thousand five hundred acres, where such deraignment cannot be obtained, the validity of which has been recognised by the Spanish Government, and where the claimant or claimants shall produce satisfactory evidence of his, her, or their right to the land claimed. And said commissioners shall have the power, any law to the contrary notwithstanding, of deciding on the validity of all claims derived from the Spanish Government in favor of actual settlers, where the quantity claimed does not exceed three thousand five hundred acres.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That each of the commissioners heretofore appointed, who has performed, and shall hereafter perform, the duties assigned him, shall receive compensation in proportion to that heretofore allowed him. And each of the commissioners hereafter appointed for East Florida, who shall actually perform the duties assigned him, shall receive the sum of two thousand dollars as a full compensation, payable quarterly from the Treasury of the United States.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the district attorneys for said districts, respectively, whenever required to do so by the commissioners within his district, to attend them for the purpose of arguing and explaining any points of law that may be deemed necessary to be examined; and said attorney shall be entitled to the same compensation therefor as when attending on the district court of said Territory.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That all claims not filed with the commissioners of the district where the land claimed is situated, in the manner prescribed by the act to which this is an amendment, on or before the first day of December next, shall be held to be void, and of none effect.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the marshal to execute and make return of all process which may be issued by the said commissioners, or the commissioners may, when they deem it necessary, authorize and empower any other person to execute and return said process.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That so soon as the commissioners shall have decided and reported on the private claims in said Territory of Florida, a surveyor shall be appointed for the Territory of Florida, who shall keep his office at such place within the said Territory as the President of the United States shall designate, and shall receive the sum of two thousand dollars, payable quarterly at the Treasury of the United States.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That, for the disposal of the lands of the United States lying in the district of East Florida, a land office shall be established and kept at such place within said district as the President of the United States shall direct; and that, for the disposal of the lands of the United States lying in the district of West Florida, a land office shall be established at such place in said district as the President of the United States shall direct.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That so soon as, in the opinion of the President of the United States, there shall be a sufficient quantity of the public lands surveyed within either of the districts of East or West Florida to authorize the opening of one or both of the land offices aforesaid, he shall cause the same to be opened, and shall proceed, from time to time, to appoint, with the advice and consent of the Senate, for each of the said offices, a Register and Receiver of the Public Moneys, who shall give security in the same sums, and in the same manner, and whose compensation, emoluments, duties, and authority, shall in every respect be the same, in relation to the lands to be disposed of at their offices, as are or may be provided by law in relation to the Registers and Receivers of Public Moneys in the several land offices established for the disposal of the public lands of the United States.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That, whenever a land office shall have been established in either of the districts aforesaid, and a Register and Receiver of Public Moneys appointed for the same, the President of the United States shall be, and he is hereby, authorized to direct so much of the public lands lying in such district, as shall have been surveyed according to law, to be offered for sale in the same manner, and with the same reservations and exceptions, and on the same terms and conditions in every respect, as have been, or may hereafter be, provided for the sale of the public lands of the United States.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That an entire township, in each of the districts of East and West Florida, shall be reserved from sale for the use of a seminary of learning, to be located by the Secretary of the Treasury.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That all the navigable rivers and waters in the districts of East and West Florida shall be, and forever remain, public highways.

SEC. 13. And be it further enacted, That so much of the act approved the 8th day of May, 1822, entitled "An act for ascertaining claims and titles to land in the Territory of Florida," as is inconsistent with the provisions of this act be, and the same is hereby, repealed; and so much thereof as provides for the appointment of a Surveyor General, and allows him to charge fees, is hereby repealed.

PHILIP P. BARBOUR,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

JOHN GAILLARD,
President of the Senate, pro tem.

JAMES MONROE.

MARCH 3, 1823.—Approved:

AN ACT to extend the time limited for the settlement of private land claims in the Territory of Florida.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the time limited for the settlement of private land claims in the Territory of Florida, by an act of the seventeenth Congress, entitled "An act amending and supplementary to the act for ascertaining claims and titles to land in the Territory of Florida, and to provide for the survey and disposal of the public lands in Florida," be, and the same is hereby, extended and enlarged, until the 1st day of January next, when the commissioners for ascertaining claims and titles to the lands aforesaid shall make a return of their proceedings to the Secretary of the Treasury, to be laid before Congress.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the claimant or claimants shall not be required to produce, in evidence, a deraignment of title from the original grantee or patentee, but the exhibition of the original title papers, agreeably to the fourth section of an act passed the 8th of May, 1822, entitled "An act for ascertaining claims and titles to lands within the Territory of Florida," with the deed or devise to the claimant, and the office abstract or abstracts of the intermediate conveyances for the last ten years preceding the surrender of Florida to the United States; and, where they cannot be produced, their absence being satisfactorily accounted for, shall be sufficient evidence of the right of the claimant or claimants to the land so claimed as against the United States: Provided, The claim be defined in quantity, and the amount does not exceed the quantity limited in the second section of the act which this is intended to extend: And provided, The conditions required by the laws and ordinances of the Spanish Government, and the treaty between Spain and the United States, shall have been complied with.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That no person shall be taken and deemed to be an actual settler within the provisions of the "Act amending and supplementary to an act for ascertaining claims and titles to land in the Territory of Florida," passed on the 3d day of March, 1823, unless such person, or those under whom he claims title, shall have been in the cultivation or occupation of the land at and before the period of the cession.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That so much of the act to which this is an amendment, as authorizes the secretary of the said commissioners to demand and receive from the claimants ten cents per hundred words for recording titles to land be, and the same is hereby, repealed.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the former secretaries, or those who may now be secretaries, to the said Boards of Commissioners, who shall have received their salary of $1,250 from the Treasury of the United States, which is by law declared to be their full compensation, shall be, and they are hereby, required to pay over, respectively, to the commissioners, conformably with the provisions of the original law, all such fees as have been demanded and received by them, which shall be appropriated to defray the expenses of the commission.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That so much of the acts of which this is amendatory, as makes void all claims not filed before the 1st day of December, 1823, be, and the same is hereby, repealed; and it shall be lawful for claims to be filed any time previous to the 1st day of September next; but all and every claim not filed by that time shall be held and deemed void and of none effect.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That each of the commissioners heretofore appointed, or who may hereafter be appointed, who has performed, and shall hereafter perform, the duties assigned him, shall receive, from the first Monday in February, until the first day of January next, at the rate of $2,000 per annum, in full compensation for his services.

H. CLAY,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.
DANIEL D. TOMPKINS,
Vice Pres. U. S. and Pres. of the Senate.

WASHINGTON, February 28, 1824.—Approved:

JAMES MONROE.

SIR:

WASHINGTON, May 12, 1824.

I had the honor, on the 31st of March last, (see page 766,) to tender my resignation as land commissioner; and, on the first of the present month, to request that it might be considered as withdrawn. I was induced to adopt the latter determination, that my communications might have the consequence of official importance. The situation in which I am placed is not without its difficulties. I have not been informed whether the President refuses to sanction the course I have been desirous to take, or whether he has deemed it most consistent with the public interest that I should be discharged from the responsibility of any further representations. I candidly confess that the manner in which my official reports have been treated, has occasioned to me very considerable surprise, the more especially as they related to subjects of serious national importance; and, until I am otherwise advised, I shall make my communications to the Government as being in commission.

In this understanding I take the liberty to present, for the consideration of the President, the accompanying report, with the request that it may be transmitted to Congress, in pursuance of the requisitions of the law in virtue of which I have been appointed.

In order to afford some opportunity to the President and Congress to understand the peculiar nature of the grants, I present the annexed documents in support of the following statement:

On the 6th December, 1814, Governor Kindelan is represented as having granted to Bernardo Segui sixteen thousand acres of land, on the authority of the royal order of 1790; and, on the 20th December, 1815, Estrada gave to the same person seven thousand acres, which you will find, in the report of the majority of the commissioners, recommended to Congress for confirmation as sanctioned by the orders of 1813 and 1815; at the same time reporting for confirmation a claim presented by Belton A. Copp, which he derives from a grant made to Segui, in virtue of the order of 1815, in consideration of his military services.

The situation of Segui is worthy of notice, and will be best understood by an examination of his memorial soliciting the seven thousand acres. I am under an impression, which I entertain with confidence, that Segui received other grants.

In selecting the case of Segui I have chosen one of the most moderate. I take this opportunity to remark that, at the termination of the present session of Congress, I wish my commission may be considered as resigned, and that, in the mean time, I may be held officially responsible. It is with unfeigned regret, and at the sacrifice of strong personal considerations, that I feel myself under the necessity of assuming the course I now take.

I have the honor to remain, with sentiments of high respect, &c. &c.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

Hon. JOHN Q. ADAMS, Secretary of State.

SIR:

WASHINGTON, May 24, 1824.

I take the liberty to enclose, as accompaniments to the documents ordered to be printed, the royal orders of the 27th of April, and 18th of July, 1818, as having an important bearing on any question that may arise under the grants to the Duke de Alagon, Count de Punon Rostro, and Don Pedro de Vargas. It is also worthy of remark, that the order of 27th April is addressed by Ramirez, the Intendant of Cuba, "to the Governor, sub-delegate of finance, St. Augustine, Florida," as affording an explanation of the character of the transfer of the Intendancy of Florida to the Intendant of Cuba, by the royal order of the 3d September, 1817. I would also suggest the propriety of adding to the documents the regulations of Morales of the 17th July, 1799. (See page 488.)

If it be within the discretion of the committee, I should be much gratified with an opportunity to revise and condense my report of the 10th of May instant, which was written in such haste as not to allow me time to make a transcript. If this cannot be done, I hope I may be at liberty to examine the proof sheet to correct imperfect phraseology, and re-letter the accompanying documents. It will be noticed that my letter of the 31st March last, tendering my resignation, was withdrawn by that of the 1st May following, for the purpose of presenting a statement of the proceedings of the commission more in detail, which I beg may be returned, and that a printed copy of all the documents may be furnished to me, in order to prepare a more perfect report, and relating to important subjects that have not heretofore been examined.

I have the honor to be, with much respect, your obedient servant,

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

Hon. CHRISTOPHER RANKIN, Chairman of the Committee on the Public Lands.

P. S. The regulations of Morales, Intendant of Louisiana and West Florida, will be found among the introductory papers to the laws of the Territory of Florida, published by order of the Legislative Council in 1822, and submitted to Congress at the last session for its approval.

John H. McIntosh and others vs. the United States:

The majority of the commissioners having elected to report upon the general powers of the Spanish Governors to appropriate the public lands, without attempting to explain the several royal orders in virtue of which almost all the grants are respectively and ostensibly made, it becomes my duty to communicate the views I have taken of this subject, the more especially as they are in conformity to the interests of the United States, which I consider involved to an important amount.

It has been my endeavor to give the most liberal constructions to the legitimate powers of the Governors, and to sustain, if possible, the pretensions of the claimants, aware that several persons had become purchasers upon the authority of the ex parte opinions of some of the most respectable professional gentlemen in this country. I have scrupulously avoided every influence that might be produced by the introduction of abstract and arbitrary rules founded on judicial precedents, confining myself to the plain and obvious conclusion, that those grants could not be considered valid under the Spanish Government, that were made in direct hostility to its laws, orders, and regulations, and that the United States, who are, by the treaty with Spain, placed in the same relative situation, is entitled to corresponding considerations. If the objection to confirm the grants had arisen from mere irregularities, and they had been made within any reasonable conformity to the authorities in virtue of which they are avowedly issued, I should, unquestionably, have yielded, if not acquiesced, in the decisions of the majority; but when it was evident that the grossest and most extravagant frauds were attempted to be imposed upon the United States in anticipation of the cession of the Floridas to its sovereignty, I felt imperiously bound scrupulously to investigate all those grants involved within this character, and all such as, from their extravagance, would bear the least suspicion of forgery.

I am sensible that the performance of the conditions of a grant were not, at all times, rigidly exacted; and that although, as a general regulation, if lands remained vacant for two years in succession, they became, ipso facto, forfeited, and that any person desirous to possess them might, in a summary manner, prove the vacancy to entitle himself to a concession, it was, nevertheless, customary, upon a reasonable excuse anterior to the possession by a subsequent grantee, to permit a re-assumption.

It has also been my opinion, founded upon an accurate examination of the uniform practice of the Spanish tribunals, corroborated by the most respectable testimony, that all grants made without injury to "third persons," a constant condition, and the lands should appear the property of an adverse valid claimant, a change in the location was invariably allowed, upon petition to tribunal, as a matter of course. The propriety of this conclusion cannot be questioned when we consider the object in issuing the grant, and reflect that it was for the purpose of extending agriculture and increasing population. In accordance with this policy lands were given gratis to settlers, the motive and benefit of which must have been contravened if the grant were not sustained by an equivalent in a new location.

In this communication I shall confine myself to an examination of the authorities of the Governors, reserving for a subsequent one a full exposition of the indelicate proceedings of the majority of the commissioners, in explanation of the motives that finally induced me to withdraw all confidence in their conduct; with the remark, as it will appear through the progress of this communication, that the allegation contained in the report, (by which appellation I shall hereafter distinguish that of the majority,) that "the laws and ordinances heretofore existing of the Governments making the grants, respectively, have, of necessity, been the first subject of inquiry with the commissioners, not only because they were pointed out by the statute as our peculiar guides, but because it was obviously impossible to do justice with exactitude without them," is an instance of intentional disingenuousness for the purpose of imposing upon Congress the appearance of a scrupulous performance of our official duties, derogatory to the delicate and important confidence which has been entrusted to our honor and integrity. (See correspondence with Davis Floyd of the 8th January, page 763, and with Davis Floyd and William W. Blair, of the 27th January, 1824, page 769.)

In order to facilitate an understanding of the differences of our constructions of the authorities of the Spanish Governors, I shall adopt the course pursued by the report, and examine "the rules by which they have been governed in their adjudications, and the authorities from whence they are drawn."

"1st. From the code of Spanish law, entitled the Laws of the Indies."

"2d. From the royal orders, made with particular reference to this Territory."

"3d. The decrees and regulations, appointed and published by the local Governors."

"4th. The customs and usages which prevailed in various offices in the Territorial Government."

The authority first referred to, contains the following general provision governing the distribution of the public lands, and, as appears from the code of laws from whence it is extracted, applies to all the ultra-marine provinces of the Spanish empire.*

* Book 4th, law 1, chap. 12, of the collection of the Laws of the Indies.

Of the sale, adjustment, and distribution of lands, lots, and waters.

"In order that our subjects be encouraged to the discovery and settlement of the Indies, and may live with the comfort and convenience which we desire, it is our will that houses, lots, lands, knights' shares, and peasants' shares of lands may, and shall, be distributed to all those who go to settle new lands in townships and villages, which, by the Governor of the new settlement, shall be assigned them, making a distinction between gentlemen and peasants, and those of an inferior degree and merit, and increase, and give them of better quality according to the importance of their services, and that they may devote themselves to the culture and improvement of them; and, having made on them their residence, and place of labor, and resided in those townships four years, we grant them the right, from thenceforward, to sell and dispose of them at their will, freely, as of a thing their property."

The brief explanation of this ordinance is, that the Governors "may and shall" distribute to all those who go to settle new lands, being the subjects of His Majesty, a quantity of land corresponding to their degrees, which may and shall be increased, and of better quality, according to the importance of their services; and that they may devote themselves, in security, to the culture and improvement of them, they shall be entitled to absolute ownership at the expiration of a residence of four years.

It is important to notice the import of the words "may and shall," as they are explanatory of the authority of the Governors to dispose of the property of the King. If the imperative "shall" had been alone made use of, an inference might be drawn that, according to some constitutional provision, the Governors possessed a discretionary power; but, as it is, accompanied and preceded by the word "may," no such interpretation can be reasonably assumed. In my opinion there is no room for speculation, and the only explanation that can be given to the expression may, is, that, by this ordinance, the King delegates to his gubernatorial representatives (associated, as other official papers show, with their councils) an authority to distribute his personal patrimony to a certain description of persons, in order to encourage emigration to his newly acquired territories; and, that there may be no disappointment of the policy of the King or to the emigrant, it is made imperative on the Governor that he shall make the distribution. The word may is not intended to convey a discretionary power, that he may or may not grant lands to new settlers, but that he may be clothed with authority to dispose of the lands to meet the emergency contemplated, and shall do so when applied to for lands by the class of persons to whom it refers.

And, in continuation of the above extract, the annexed will show in what proportions the lands were to be distributed, affording an additional illustration of the definite powers of the Governors.

"And, as it may happen that, in distributing the lands, there may be a doubt as to the measurement, we declare that a peasant's portion is a lot of fifty feet in breadth, and one hundred in depth, arable land, capable of producing one hundred fanegas of wheat and ten of Indian corn; as much land as ten oxen can plough in a day, for the raising of esculent roots, and eight of woodland; pasturage land for eight breeding sows, twenty cows, and five mares, one hundred sheep, and twenty goats. A gentleman's portion is a lot of one hundred feet in breadth, and two hundred in depth, and all the remainder five times the peasant's portion, to wit, &c. And we direct that the distribution be made in such form as that all may participate in the good or middling, and of that kind of which there may not be any in that part which shall be pointed out to each."

The report remarks, that "this seems to have been the rule for the distribution of the public lands during the first administration of the Spanish Government within these provinces; and, after the retrocession, up to the date of the second of September, in the year one thousand seven hundred and ninety, when Governor Quesada published his regulations, referring, for his authority, to a royal order investing him with plenary powers, but which we have not been able to procure."

The first of the above declarations is entirely a gratuitous volunteer; and, inasmuch as no grants were made subsequent to the retrocession, antecedent to Quesada's regulations, as officially appears, it can only be considered the law of the land, unaccompanied with any practical illustration. And it is utterly absurd and contrary to fact, "that Quesada refers for his authority to royal order (or royal orders) investing him with plenary powers, but which we have not been able to procure." (See document A.)

In anticipation of the regulations of Quesada, I insert an extract from Governor Zepedez's letter to His Excellency Don Joseph de Galvez, of the 29th April, 1785, (A,) enclosing an edict published by him on the 25th September, 1784, directing that all purchases made from British subjects should be recorded, otherwise to be considered null and of no value. And, after an exposition of the situation of the province, and the necessity of the royal interference to relieve its distresses and advance its prosperity, he remarks: "For the attainment of such considerable benefits, and to re-establish vigor in this actually debilitated province, it is necessary that the royal clemency deign to grant, as soon as possible, the most efficacious assistance in settlers and money. Your excellency being informed of the royal will, it rests with you to make the dispositions which you may find suitable as regards population; but, at the same time, I consider it my duty to set forth, for your superior wisdom, that, if His Majesty was pleased to admit as subjects, as well as Spaniards, those foreigners who are Roman Catholics, &c., granting them, in fee simple, lands in proportion to their means and industry, a number would come, who, in a short time, would be useful members of the community."

To the above I have not seen any answer, although in all probability it is to be found among the papers obtained from Governor Coppinger; and, for the want of which I must apologize, and present in excuse that, after having taken almost all the documents produced before the commission by a subpœna duces tecum, from the keeper of the public archives, for the purpose of having them transcribed, the constant answer to all my future inquiries was, that none others were discovered. My colleagues, in pursuing a course more friendly towards this office, were, in two or three instances, less unfortunate, and procured public papers to govern their decisions without the formality of an order of the commission, and of which I alone acquired a knowledge accidentally. The minutes of our proceedings, if they have been accurately reported, will afford frequent evidences of the official disappointments that have attended every attempt subsequent to the one referred to, made by me to secure a thorough examination of these papers, "so necessary as guides to do justice with exactitude."

The following is, however, a communication of the same tenor with the preceding, addressed by Zepedez on the 8th May, 1785, (B,) to Count de Galvez, viceroy of Mexico, together with his answer in reply.

The Count de Galvez is informed of the deplorable situation of the province, and of the return of many of the old inhabitants, soliciting to be restored to their possessions, which they were compelled to abandon by the change of the sovereignty of Florida to Great Britain; and, after stating his reasons for not complying with the request of the petitioners, he observes: "the great commiseration of our Monarch, who is desirous to relieve his faithful subjects, will, it is to be hoped, with a liberal hand, protect, if possible, the returning Floridians, granting them, if possible, their identical property, and, if not, of that which has devolved to his royal person."

"As no person has purchased lands they have devolved to the Crown, for which motive, besides the instructions relative to the division of lots and houses, as approved by your excellency, I respectfully conceive that it is important for the settlement of this country that power should be given me as soon as possible to grant lands, with preference to the old inhabitants of the country, afterwards to Minorcans, or any other Spaniards who may come to settle, and, lastly, to foreigners, in case His Majesty may think proper to admit the same as his subjects."

(C.)

Answer from Count de Galvez.

"With the letter No. 72, of the 8th of May of the present year, your lordship encloses me a copy of the act which you issued on the 25th of September of the last year, 1784, (D,) and had publicly posted, by hand-bills, for the government of the Spaniards who had purchased from the English landed or moveable property; your lordship also informing of the decay of said houses, and the consideration you have thought just in favor of the old Floridians, asking from me instructions for the purpose of expediting to them, as well as any other Spaniard or foreigner, lots and lands for the improvement of the country. Inasmuch as regards the first point, I informed your lordship, without hesitation, that the step taken by you has appeared to me very proper; but, as regards the same, as well as all the rest, I will inform his excellency the minister of the Indies, that, by his superior prudence, such measures may be taken as are agreeable to him, or may merit the approbation of the King. MEXICO, July 4, 1795.

EL CONDE DE GALVEZ."

The above documents are not so much given to show the little dependence to be placed in the statements of the report, (as the regulations of Governor Quesada, of the 2d of September, 1790, and the 20th November, 1790, are conclusive on that subject,) as to prove, by the correspondence, edicts, and practice of those officers, that they considered themselves as possessing very limited, if any authority, to dispose of the public lands. It is probable the little importance in which these documents* were held in the estimation of my colleagues, as they were subject to their inspection, will account for their being excluded from the report.

As the regulations of Quesada, of the 2d September, 1790, (E,) are represented as referring to "a royal order," which the commissioners have not been able to procure, investing him with plenary powers to dispose of the lands, I give the annexed articles of the regulations entire.

"Internal regulations of police. Don Juan Nepo. de Quesada, &c.

"Whereas I am commanded, by royal orders, agreeable to the public wants, to apply the most seasonable and quick remedies thereto; for the purpose, therefore, of accomplishing this, in the edict, commonly called "internal regulations of the police," I have taken the most conclusive steps, notwithstanding much to my sorrow, there has been so much to amend and establish, that a voluminous code would scarcely be sufficient for me to comprise all, in proportion to the ardent desire which animates me for the prosperity of the province and the service of the sovereign. Wherefore, merely for the present, and reserving hereafter, when permitted by my other duties, the right of attending particularly to this important subject, I therefore make known and order the following:

"1st. I grant to all the inhabitants permanently settled and subjects of His Majesty, in his royal name, for their use, the quantity of land they may require, in proportion to their force, in any part of this desert province, without any exception. To this end, those desirous of obtaining the same will present themselves to me within twenty days, stating their circumstances by memorial, what lands they have obtained to the present period, and in what quantity and in what place they are desirous of locating them now, under the precise condition that it will be without injury to a third person. I will attend to their solicitudes according to the examination I may make thereof, and although the laws of the Indies authorize me to make an absolute distribution of the same, and being in the case of the first of title 12th, book 4th, (see extract, page 867,) I abstain therefrom from powerful motives; but, for the greater security of those interested, I will forward my ideas and representations on the subject to the King, persuaded that, in consequence thereof, those obtaining grants from me now, will be confirmed in the possession of the same."

The remaining articles, with the exception of the 4th, which gives the terms on which the British subjects were permitted to remain, have no reference to the matter under consideration.

As these regulations are made the groundwork to justify the adjudications of the majority of the commissioners, and in deference to which Congress is recommended to confirm grants to almost every amount within three hundred and sixty thousand acres, it becomes essentially important, however apparent the misconstruction may be, to examine it with attention.

I confess that I have been unable to find any expression affording a reasonable excuse for the report that, in the preceding regulations, "Governor Quesada refers, for his authority, to a royal order investing him with plenary powers;" and I have been equally at a loss to ascertain where "the authority vested in the Governor of this province by the Code of Indies is, by Quesada, specifically disclaimed in practice," or even inferred.

It is somewhat surprising that the majority should not have remarked that Quesada speaks of royal orders, and not of a royal order, as it might have relieved them from the extraordinary interpretation or inference, founded upon imaginary premises, that "plenary powers" had been conferred to a Governor of East Florida which, if practice be any evidence, were not possessed by his superior the Captain General of Cuba, and while the Count de Galvez, notwithstanding his high and distinguished station, (Viceroy of Mexico,) did not consider himself authorized to direct or sanction the distribution to old Floridians soliciting lands under peculiarly interesting circumstances.

The declaration of the Governor is, "that he is commanded by royal orders, agreeable to the public wants, to apply the most seasonable and quick remedies thereto; to accomplish which, he had published an edict commonly called "Internal Regulations of Police." That these royal orders were not confined to those communicated to himself, but included those addressed to his predecessor, it is but reasonable to suppose; and that they had reference to the ordinary political administration of the country cannot be questioned, from the comment the first article of the regulations afford, and the direct appeal to the royal order of the fifth April, 1786, (F,) specifically, and only treating of the conditions on which the British were permitted to remain.

It is a subject, also, worthy of particular attention, that, in every instance that came under the observation of the commission, where the Governors undertook to dispose of the public lands, that they always justified their acts, or at least attempted so to do, in virtue of some authority specifically referred to. Is it to be presumed, and for what purpose, that Governor Quesada should found his authority to distribute lands to the permanent settlers, who might be desirous to cultivate and improve them, on the provision contained in laws of the Indies, if he possessed "a royal order" delegating to him plenary or any powers connected with the subject? and how much more extraordinary is it, that he should be clothed with plenary authority to grant lands to an indefinite amount, and that, at the time he considered it important, in correspondence with the emergencies of the occasion, to grant lands for the use of the inhabitants, he would not, for "powerful motives, issue absolute titles," but promised "to forward his ideas and representations on the subject to the King, persuaded that, in consequence thereof, those obtaining grants from me now will be confirmed in the possession of the same?"

* The correspondence between Zesperez and Galvez.

If I entertain any ability to form a construction upon principles of common sense, I must conclude that Quesada not only yielded to the strict legal interpretation of the laws of the Indies, in not granting absolute titles before the expiration of four years' residence and culture, but, in so doing, expressly and practically showed that he considered himself governed by them, and that, without them, he had no authority. The solution of the "powerful motives," if explained, would doubtless be, the novelty of the residence, and, notwithstanding the province was reputed a desert, His Majesty's subjects had been located on the improved lands abandoned by the British, and, consequently, the circumstances equivocal, it was, therefore, thought prudent not to commit any act that might give rise to serious difficulties in case his conduct should not meet the royal approbation. It must also have been within his knowledge that his predecessor Zespédez had applied for permission in reference to the identical subject. At all events, these are the circumstances upon which my colleagues have had the confidence to pronounce, that "the authority vested in the Governor of this province by the Code of the Indies is specifically disclaimed in practice by Quesada."

In the estimate I formed of the conduct of my associates, I, without hesitation, declined all participation in making up the report, aware that it must become the subject of Congressional scrutiny; (see communication to the Secretary of the Treasury of the 25th February, 1824, page 768;) and I am now the more satisfied that the course I have pursued was correct, from the discrepancies apparent on its face.

The majority have been peculiarly unfortunate in their discoveries. In the first place they interpret royal orders to mean a royal order, and as that order cannot be found, it is supposed that, of necessity, it must convey plenary powers; to say the least, a bold inference in a doubtful case. The facts are still more extraordinary, a royal order was issued and published by Quesada on the 20th of November, just seventy-nine days after the date of his regulations: which, if we may judge from the coincidence of time, and the specific use made of it in reference to his previous grants, must have been decreed in consequence of his promised representations; the existence of which my colleagues ought to have recollected from the pertinacity with which I insisted upon its production before the commission—a transcript of which I now give from a translation in the hand-writing of its secretary.

EDICT. (G.)

Don Juan Nepomuceno de Quesada, colonel of the royal armies, and commander-in-chief of the city and province of St. Augustine, Florida, by His Majesty:

Whereas, by the last packet which arrived at this port, his excellency the captain general of this province encloses me the following royal order:

ROYAL ORDER.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, November 20, 1790.

No settler shall be admitted in Louisiana or in Florida, should they pretend to have their transportation to those provinces, and maintenance there for some time, issued by the royal treasury. That those foreigners, alone, will be received who may, of their own free will, present themselves and swear allegiance to His Majesty; to whom there shall be granted and measured lands, gratis, in proportion to the working hands each family may have. That they shall not be molested in matters of religion, &c.

In virtue of which, I order the same to be published for the present, that it may be made known to all, it being understood that only those shall be admitted as resident settlers who, besides their good conduct and honorable proceedings, are good farmers and mechanics, who are beneficial to the settlement and advancement of the province; for which purpose there shall be granted them the gifts set forth in the inserted order. It is also made known to those who have obtained lands in the mean time from this Government, that they present themselves to the same for the purpose of asking and obtaining the requisite title of property from the office of the Government secretary, from whence the necessary orders will be issued after having registered the same in the notary's office.

And that it may serve as an incitement to all, I order, according to the powers I am invested with, and make known for the present, that the grants be of one hundred acres to each father of a family, and fifty to each white person, or of color, of which said family is composed; also, if persons are desirous of obtaining a greater quantity of lands, and there being a probability of their cultivating the same, they shall obtain an additional number of a thousand acres; it being understood that, in all the concessions, the utility, and not the quantity of the lands shall be attended to, so that each person shall acquire a proportionate quantity of each; and, also, that the width of each of said concessions must be only the third part of the length, and said length must not extend on the banks of the rivers and creeks; resting always with the Government the care of rewarding or punishing with additional expenses or absolute privation, as time shall discover, the merit, application, and advantages of the agriculturist, or the contrary.

If, in the absence of this edict and royal order, there could be any justification for the assertion that Quesada, in his regulations, referred to a royal order vesting him with plenary powers, such a pretence will no doubt now be considered at rest.

The interpretations of the conditions of this order corresponds with the provisions of the laws of the Indies, and the quantum of land allowed seems to bear the same proportion. In the one case the quantity is left undefined, except in the enumeration of the objects, which of course renders it susceptible of being reduced to a reasonable degree of certainty; and, in the other, the aggregate is experimentally declared, and the maximum increase fixed, as authorized by the laws of the Indies. In calling upon those who had received lands anterior to this order to present themselves for the purpose of procuring absolute titles, he also shows that it is in virtue of the authority there delegated that he has been enabled to perfect his previous grants—and, by this act, he has afforded a practical exposition of the term settler, and that there existed no difference in the principles of distribution, between new settlers coming from abroad, and settlers "permanent residents of the province, subjects of His Majesty."

If I have been correct in my deductions, the laws of the Indies were in force during the administration of Quesada, and the royal order of the 29th October, 1790, was expounded as corresponding with, and subservient to, those laws. If, on the contrary, it is to be considered as a specific independent authority, commonly known as the royal order regulating "head-rights," by which lands are authorized to be granted and measured gratis in proportion to the working hands each family may have, it must then be taken as a limitation of the general laws, removing all distinction as to the quality of the settler, in the distribution of the lands, giving to all an equal quantity in proportion to the strength of the family. Taken in either sense, it affords positive evidence that the powers of the Governors were restrained, and that there was no foundation for the report of the existence of plenary powers.

It is somewhat difficult to reconcile the following language of the report in reference to Quesada's regulations with what has been previously stated. Where my colleagues at least ought to have entertained doubts, they seem most certain, and, where there is no excuse for any, they immediately become embarrassed with difficulties. The whole object seems to be to establish the existence of an unlimited plenary power, or, at all events, to involve what- ever power did exist in such perplexity as to lead to the conclusion that the only authority was the uncertain capricious whim of the Governor, changeable, and ever changing with every new administration.

It is remarked by the report, that "the precise extent to which the regulations of Quesada, of the 2d of September, 1790, interfered with the provisions of the general law, and the privileges of the emigrant or inhabitant, cannot be clearly understood from its equivocal phraseology; nor is it eminently important to know, as this subject is put at rest by a letter from the Captain General."

The irrelevancy and absurdity of this answer cannot require any other comment than to request that it may be compared and tested with the regulations. It nevertheless must be noticed as unaccountable, that a letter of the Captain General, of the 29th of October, 1790, (H,) authorizing the admission of Spanish emigrants, could give rise to the observation "that, by this, it will be seen that the powers reserved to himself (Quesada) by the decree of the Governor (Quesada) are overruled, or regulated and restrained," when there does not appear a single word or allusion in the regulations referring to the admission of emigrants. The letter from the Captain General was in answer to one from Quesada of the 16th September, 1790.

"It is evident," says the report, "that the rule prescribed by the order of 1790, relates exclusively to emigrants, leaving the law as it stood before in relation to those who had already, or should have thereafter, the character of inhabitants or subjects. It is worthy of notice, also, that, although it provides for giving lands in proportion to the laboring hands introduced, it has entirely failed to designate the quantity each laborer should have, either leaving that part of the subject to the government of existing custom, or to the sound discretion of the Governor. The provisions of this ordinance may be considered as having defined and rendered certain the bounty upon emigration, which seems to have been uncertain, or but little understood."

I do not conceive it necessary to add more than has already been said in relation to the quantity to be distributed, according to the nature and evident intention of the order. As well might it be declared that the specifications contained in the laws of the Indies have entirely failed to designate the quantity each settler is entitled to. In the last sentence of the above, it is declared that the provisions of the ordinance have defined and rendered certain the bounty to the emigrant, that before seemed to be uncertain; and, in the preceding, it is said to have entirely failed to designate the quantity.

It is, however, of more importance to examine whether it be true, that "it is evident that the rule prescribed by the order of 1790 relates exclusively to emigrants, leaving the law as it stood before in relation to those who had already, or should have thereafter, the character of inhabitants or subjects."

It is almost impossible to refrain from expressions of harsh indignation at a representation so unwarranted by the whole evidence, written and parol, produced before the board. The majority cannot be ignorant that almost if not all the valid grants, made previous to the year 1813, were predicated on that order, and so, avowedly, confirmed by the commission. If the minutes be examined it will be found, indiscriminately, that residents, and emigrants, old Floridians, Spaniards, and foreigners, all participated. In virtue of this authority, Governor Quesada gave public notice that absolute titles would be issued, and directs that all those who are desirous to avail themselves of the offer must present themselves to Government within two months from the date of his edict. Governor White, on the 20th October, 1798, (I,) remarks to the Captain General, Saavedra, "that the King, desiring the improvement and settlement of the country, has determined that lands in the country should be given, gratis, to the foreigners or natives who would settle them, and recommends that the purchasers of the houses and lots should be released from their obligations, which was accordingly done by the King in his order of the 17th of June, 1801, (J;) and Zespedez, on the 8th of May, 1785, expressly informs the Captain General "that it is important that power should be given to him to grant land in preference to the old inhabitants of the country, afterwards to the Minorcans."

On the 12th of October, 1803, (K) Governor White published his edict, reducing the quantity of lands to be distributed to half that established by his predecessor, Quesada; which he communicated to the Captain General, on the 15th of October, 1803, (L) as follows: "For the purposes of avoiding the abuses which have been experienced in the granting of lands to the settlers without certain restrictions that will oblige them to cultivate the same, I have thought it convenient to establish the rules in the accompanying document, (K,) which I forward to your lordship for your intelligence and approval."

On the 2d of April, 1805, (M,) the following edict was published by White:

"Whereas, on the 12th of October, 1803, I thought proper to have published an edict, in which were prescribed various rules to remedy the many abuses and disorders as committed on the part of those obtaining lands, and ordering, in the ninth article of said edict, that all persons having abandoned, or that may not have continued, or do not actually cultivate the lands which may have been measured for them at any time by a surveyor, although the necessary title of possession should have been given them from the notary's office, they would lose their right to them, and would be given to any person who, not having lands to cultivate, would lawfully prove, in a summary manner, that the said lands were without cultivation for at least two years in succession. It is now made known that the improvements and buildings remaining on the lands thus abandoned or uncultivated in the specific time, that their value shall be appropriated in favor of the royal finance, as a deposit, until a new determination."

I concur with the report, that, although Governor White continued in office until his death in the year 1811, (with the exception of the important edict of the 31st May, 1805,) (N,) there were no subsequent official publications of his relating to the disposal of the public lands: there was, nevertheless, a communication from Estrada to the Captain General, on the 19th of June, 1811, (O,) recommending the sale of lands to emigrants, and suggesting the propriety of altering Governor White's regulations, which was answered by the Marquis de Somerulas, on the 14th September, 1811, (P,) refusing to permit the alteration desired, and totally neglecting to notice the advice relative to the change of the regulations.

It might have also been remarked by the report, that, from that period to the cession, the Governors of Florida published no edict enlarging their powers. It was during the insurrection that Governor White died, from which time such was the situation of the country, that there was but little, if any, emigration, and no Spaniard would venture to settle far beyond the neighborhood of St. Augustine.

The regulations, correspondence, and character of Governor White, are worthy of respectful consideration, as being in direct hostility with several extravagant grants said to have been made by him in 1811, but which had never been located antecedent to the cession of the Floridas to the United States, and three of which alone amount to the enormous aggregate of seven hundred thousand acres.

The next royal order in succession is that of the 4th January, 1813, (page 734, Q,) and is, in every particular, a restraint, if not a revocation, of the powers of the Governors to distribute the public lands. This very voluminous order will be found in the report. The copy in my possession is almost illegible; it is, notwithstanding, presented.

Extract from the order of the 4th January, 1813.

"Don Fernando VII., by the grace of God, and by the constitution of the Spanish monarchy, King of the Spains, and, in his absence and captivity, the Regency of the Kingdom, appointed by the General and Extraordinary Cortes, to all to whom these presents may come, greeting: Know ye that the Cortes have decreed the following:

"The General and Extraordinary Cortes, considering that the conversion of public lands into private property is one of the measures which the welfare of the people, as well as the advancement of agriculture and industry, most imperiously demands, and desiring, at the same time, that this class of lands should serve as an aid to public necessities, a reward to the deserving defenders of the country, and a support to the citizens who are not proprietors, do decree," &c.

The above preamble affords a general view of the succeeding twenty articles.

The sixth article declares one-half of the uncultivated and public lands pledged for the payment of the national debt contracted since the 1st of May, 1808.

The ninth article declares that, of the remaining uncultivated and public lands there shall be given a portion, gratuitously, to the officers of the army who, from advanced age, or disability occasioned in the military service, and honorably discharged, the quantity of which is, by the tenth article, defined to be as much as will be sufficient, regularly cultivated, for the maintenance of an individual; which the eleventh article directs to be assigned by the constitutional council of each town. The concessions of these quantities of lands are, by the twelfth article, directed to be called patriotic bounty, which shall not extend, at present, to other individuals than those who have served in the present war, or in the pacification of the actual disturbances of the ultra-marine provinces; and the thirteenth article includes those individuals who have served as partisans, or contributed in any other manner to the national defence, and have remained wounded or disabled by the result. The fifteenth article observes that, "out of the same remaining uncultivated and public lands, those fittest for culture shall be marked out and given gratuitously, by lot, to every inhabitant of the respective towns who asks for it, and has no other land of his own, and in a quantity proportioned to the extent of the land, so as that the whole of those thus divided, in any case, do not exceed the fourth part of the said uncultivated and public lands of the corporations of the town; and by the sixteenth article it is ordered that, if any of the grantees in the preceding article should, for two successive years, fail to pay the fee on the quantity of land belonging to the corporation, or to keep it employed usefully, it shall be granted to a more laborious inhabitant who has no land of his own.

On the 8th of June, 1814, (R,) the above order was recognised and confirmed by the King; and, to prevent the abuses that had arisen under it, the Intendants are enjoined strictly to adhere to what is prescribed in the Laws of the Indies, and particularly in the royal instructions of the 15th of October, 1754, to regulate the distributions of lands to be made in virtue of the order of 4th January, 1813.

If documentary testimony afford any proof of the correctness of the position I have taken, and, consequently, of the very limited authorities of the Governors; and if the United States are disposed to secure their rights, jeopardized by the report of the majority of the commissioners, there can exist no more favorable period than while the great portion of the grants are still held by the original grantees, the particeps crimines to the frauds.

In submitting the following letter of the 4th June, 1813, (S,) from Governor Kindelan to the Captain General, and royal order of the 29th March, 1815, (T,) I must remark that they have been made the ostensible justification of most of the extravagant grants, some of which will be seen on the table herewith presented, and heretofore referred to in my previous correspondence. The letter from Governor Kindelan is evidence that he considered his power to grant the public lands as limited; and, in recommending that bounties should be given for military services, he practically shows that the royal order of the 29th of October, 1790, afforded no authority to make grants for services.

MOST EXCELLENT SIR:

JUNE 4, 1813.

On the 1st of the present month, (S,) I discharged from the service the three companies of whites who were under arms in this place, and this I did as well on account of the scarcity of provisions, which rendered it urgent, as their own necessity to devote themselves to the care of their respective families and to their labors, after an insurrection from which both they and the province had suffered so much.

I cannot avoid recommending to your excellency the good order and fidelity that animated the militia, and also the third battalion of Cuba, since the first moment of the insurrection; for all which I think them worthy of the favors to which the supreme Government may deem them entitled; and I make bold to recommend that some favors, and such as I shall recommend, be granted unto them: That a commission be granted by the King to every officer of the militia who has been under arms, corresponding to the grade which he holds under the denomination of provincial; and that a portion of land be granted to each soldier, which, by the regulations established in this province, corresponds with the number of persons composing each family; and the same favor might also be granted, exclusively, to the married officers and soldiers of the said third battalion of Cuba.

Men in general must be excited by something that will stimulate them, and it is not easy to find one that is indifferent as to the public estimation of his services. What I propose, without giving them, in reality, any thing, will be the means of contenting them, and produce, henceforth, the best effects, it being understood that this gift will be for those who occupied themselves in the defence; and for this end, and in case that these my ideas merit the approbation of your excellency, I enclose, as regards the officers of both corps, lists of those who ought in that case to be comprehended.

His Excellency DON JUAN RUIZ DE APODACA.

It is worthy of notice, as a further evidence of a continued system, and practical demonstration of the acknowledged limited powers of the Governors, that Apodaca, an intelligent, correct, and distinguished officer, who remained Captain General of Cuba eight years, contrary to custom, two terms, and was afterwards promoted to the vice-royalty of Mexico, considered himself, even under those imposing circumstances, bound to refer the solicitation of Governor Kindelan to Spain, for the King's approbation, which was given as follows:

Under date of the 29th of March last, (T,) His Excellency the Minister of the Indies writes to me the following:

HAVANA, July 7, 1815.

I have informed the King of what your excellency sets forth in your letter, No. 236, of the year 1813, relative to the rewards which the Governor of East Florida considers the individuals of the companies of white militia, and married officers and soldiers of the third battalion of the regiment of Cuba, entitled to for their meritorious conduct during the insurrection of the province; and, at the same time that His Majesty approves of said gifts, he desires that your excellency will inform him as to the reward which the commandant of the third battalion of Cuba, Don Juan Jose de Estrada, &c. By royal order, I communicate the same to your excellency, for your information and compliance therewith, enclosing the royal commissions, according to the note forwarded by your excellency.

APODACA.

The GOVERNOR, pro tempore, of East Florida.

Having thus traced the official authorization the Governors had, at different periods, received to dispose of the public lands for the support of His Majesty's subjects, and to promote agriculture and the increase of population, I have now only to add, (discrediting and entirely disbelieving in the validity of a few grants said to have been made in the last year of Governor White's administration,) that the practice of granting lands was in pursuance of some established and uniform system as late as the year 1814, and subsequently, until the time of the cession to the United States, when distributions were made to individuals claiming their legal rights; and it is even to be doubted whether the exception be not unsustainable, inasmuch as there are strong suspicions that when the flood-gates of prodigality were opened, the frauds were not confined to a violation of the ordinary authority, but extended to the charge of forgery in ante-dating, &c.

I have now come to the royal order of the 3d of September, 1817, (U,) which, as it transfers the Intendancy of Florida to the Captain General and Intendant of Cuba, by whom there are instances of its having been exercised, it must be considered, pro tanto, as an entire revocation of the powers of the Florida Governors; and, as it has appeared by the documents to which I have already referred, that the Captain General would, on no antecedent occasion, interfere in the disposal of these lands, that the authority now given was perfectly new, and may reasonably be considered as transferred in conformity to the regulations of 1813 and 1814, establishing an entirely novel system in the property and uses of the public lands.

If I have succeeded in my considerations of this subject, I have shown, in the first place, that, without the provisions contained in the laws of the Indies, there was no authority in the Governors to dispose of the uncultivated and public lands, and that, in virtue of those laws, it could only be done in a definitely limited quantity, to promote agriculture and increase population; and that, in the next, the Governors who administered the Government of Florida immediately subsequent to the retrocession from Great Britain, in the most unqualified terms, did solicit and obtain an authorization to grant lands to all persons, residents, and emigrants, without distinction, "old Floridians, Minorcans as well as Spaniards, and to foreigners;" and that, notwithstanding Quesada recognises a right founded on the general laws, he emphatically declares that, from powerful motives, he prefers abstaining from its exercise until he be regularly instructed.

It must also appear evident, if the practice established by Quesada in his regulations of the 2d of September, 1790, and those of White of the 12th of October, 1803, and the application of Kindelan, on the 4th of June, 1813, to be permitted to give a gratuity in lands to those who had performed military services, ("as a mere testimonial of the royal approbation, being 'in reality of little importance' if distributed according to the regulations established in the province,") are to be received as practical commentaries on the royal order of the 29th of October, 1790, that none other than a limited authorization was conveyed, arising out of the representations incidental to the peculiar situation of Florida upon its restoration to the sovereignty of the Spanish nation, and beyond all question, when it is connected with the fact of having been communicated by the minister of the Indies, to whom all subjects were referred previous to the royal approbation, for the examination of the "Council of the Indies," it may be understood as issuing in conformity, and not in conflict, of the laws of the Indies, which seem to be revered and regarded as immutable as the laws of the Medes and Persians.

It must also be considered as established, that the royal order of the 29th of March, 1815, while it was issued to authorize a remuneration for particular and patriotic services, it being made referable "to the established regulations of the province," illustrated by the letter of Governor Kindelan of the 4th of June, 1813, was a mere extension of the character of the objects for which the public lands were to be for a specific occasion appropriated, and not an enlargement of the quantity of the lands to be distributed.

It has been alleged, and in support of which I confidently appeal to the minutes of the commission, that, during the administration of the Government of Florida, (within a presumable recognisance of the Spanish nation,) that there existed an established systematic rule in the distribution of the public lands, and that the grants made inconsistent with these restrictions have been subsequent to the year 1814, with the exception of perhaps five, said to have been issued by Governor White.

It has also been proved that the report is unwarranted in its conclusions that the Governors possessed any plenary powers to dispose of the public lands, and that the arguments in support of such an authority are founded on a supposititious existence of a royal order, in direct hostility to the positive evidence of the contrary.

It has also been proved by the documents herewith annexed, that, if Congress were not attempted to be imposed on, they have at least been kept ignorant of the knowledge of the existence of public papers essentially necessary to a proper understanding of the subject in which the interests of the United States are involved to a value amounting to millions of dollars.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

WASHINGTON, May 11, 1824.

NOTE.—I must apologize for the extreme want of brevity, and, perhaps, injudicious arrangement of the matter contained in the above report, with the remark, that so limited has been my time, that I have been unable even to make a fair transcript.

In consequence of a communication received from the Treasury Department, that it was the opinion of the President I ought to attend in this place, I arrived on the evening of the 6th instant; and, on the following day, understanding that the President was about to make a communication to Congress in relation to the Florida commission, I have prepared, as an accompaniment, the report I now submit.

WASHINGTON, May 11, 1824.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

I take the liberty to suggest that, instead of an adjudicatory commission, an agency ought to be created and established in Washington, to collect the claims and evidence to be reported to Congress.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

Governors of Florida.

Zespedez, from the year	1784 to 1790	} parts of both years inclusive.
Quesada, " "	1790 to 1796
White, " "	1796 to 1811
Estrada, (1st time)	1811 to 1812
Kindelan, " "	1812 to 1815
Estrada, (2d time)	1815 to 1816
Coppinger, " "	1816 to 1821

It is of some importance to remark, that Zespedez, Quesada, and White, were originally appointed by the King; that Estrada, being the next in command, on the death of White, he became temporarily his successor; and that Kindelan and Coppinger were first appointed by the Captain General of Cuba. The long administration of White, a period of fifteen years, affords a strong corroboration of his general reputation for distinguished intelligence, integrity, and scrupulous correctness, worthy of attention in adjudicating on the extravagant claims deputed to be made by him.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, April 29, 1785.

The prolonged time of four months having expired on the 19th instant, which the King, in his goodness, added to the eighteen established by the treaty of peace for the emigration of the British subjects, I consider it my indispensable duty to inform your excellency of the extreme decline of this province; unprofitable the abundant variety of its excellent timber; uncultivated the pleasant banks of the navigable rivers of St. John's, St. Mary's, and Nassau, situated to the northward of this city and that of Mosquito to the southward; the houses destroyed that adorned their fertile margins; the plantations abandoned which remunerated the industrious planter with abundant crops; the roads and paths covered with weeds and obstructions; and a general desolation reigning in all the province, to the very gates of this city, and even within the same, not presenting to the sight, either within or without, but unroofed edifices, threatening ruin, or already fallen to the ground; even the houses which the subjects of His Majesty have purchased from the English, impaired at the time of the purchase, are not repaired by them for want of funds—the greatest part of the purchasers being dependant on the King's pay, and those not having received any part of the salaries in money, relying on the rations of flour and salt meats, which, until now, have been supplied us on credit by foreigners, and fresh beef, which I have supplied also on credit, from an old Floridian, Don Francisco Sanchez.

This total want of money, besides the grief of having suffered the same in the sight of a foreign nation, has occasioned on this new born Government various unavoidable bad consequences; among others were of their being many of the Minorcans and others, who, at first, that determined and desirous of remaining, by paying attention to the emissaries of General Tonym, who did not neglect even calumnies to induce them to emigrate to the British dominions: many have done so already, compelled by the impossibility of gaining their livelihood for the want of the circulation of money. The wretchedness, most excellent sir, has arrived to such a degree, that there are days, in which the market being well supplied with vegetables, all the gardeners together cannot dispose to the value of one rial of their product.

The superior penetration of your excellency will bring to your consideration that, in an established Government, a chief can always, when the wants of the State or arrears of the royal treasury make it necessary, use the most prudent ways and means that his talent and zeal for the royal service and the public welfare may dictate to him. But here, in a country which has just ceased to exist for England, and is on the point of existing for Spain, there are no other ways and means than that of applying, through the channel of your excellency, to the paternal love of the best of Kings, stating, with frankness and respect, the melancholy situation of this growing commonwealth.

This sketch, equally true as it is deplorable, of the actual situation of this province, is afflicting, and would discourage me completely were I not sustained by the well-founded hope which I have conceived, of seeing it in time, by means of the benign hand of His Majesty and patriotic zeal of your excellency, rise from its actual decline to a state of vigor and utility. Its fertile soil, rich pasturage, abundant variety of timber, and the facility with which pitch, tar, turpentine, and rosin can be supplied, as well as its navigable rivers, in which, together with the sea that washes its coasts, there abounds the most delicious fish, proclaim it; and, above all, the commodiousness and goodness of the port of St. Mary's (of which I will afford your excellency a description and plan, as soon as the engineer can execute the same) ensures it. This port is acknowledged to be that of the greatest depth of water and easiest entrance of any on the extensive coast of North America from the Gulf of Mexico to New York, and consequently well adapted to admit, with benefit to the royal service and to the commerce, those national vessels which have suffered any damage going through the New Bahama channel would not, in this manner, be obliged to enter American ports to repair, as has been, and is the case. Besides this advantage in time of peace, it would afford, in case of a rupture with England or with the United States, the very important one of affording a secure asylum against the Providence privateers, as well as against the Americans, from whose ports that command the said channel, it would be easy for them to injure our commerce.

"For the attainment of such considerable benefits, and re-establish vigor in this actually debilitated province, it is necessary that the royal clemency deign to grant, as soon as possible, the most efficacious assistance in settlers and money. Your excellency being informed of the royal will, it rests with you to make the dispositions which you may find suitable as regards population; but, at the same time, I consider it my duty to set forth for your superior wisdom, that, if His Majesty was pleased to admit as subjects, as well as Spaniards, those foreigners who are Roman Catholics, or are desirous of being converted to said holy faith, granting them, in fee simple, lands in proportion to their means and industry, a number would come, who, in a short time, would be useful members of the community;" and, believing in the utility that can result to the Crown from such an admission, I enclose your excellency, by this opportunity, a triplicate copy of a manifest which I forwarded to the Count de Galvez in my representation No. 53. The manifest is of Don Francisco Felipe Fatio, whose services, and those of his son, Don Luis, I made known to the Count de Galvez in my representation No. 42, and of which I afforded your excellency a triplicate copy in another under No. 88; and I must now further state, that, owing to the utility and merits of both, I have thought proper to place on a plantation (the only one remaining in the province) which I have, situated on the river St. John's, a sergeant and eight men, hoping that their industry and experience serve as an incitement to others to imitate them.

As respects money I respectfully conceive that it would be beneficial, as soon as possible, to make a remittance here of the sums and correspondent royal orders, to make a beginning in the repairing, or rather the rebuilding of all the works and public edifices of this country. This alone would give spirit, energy, and support to this truly weak commonwealth.

I brought with me forty thousand dollars: this has not only been consumed, but this treasury is indebted (that for months does not receive one rial) a much greater sum, the greater part to foreigners, who only wait the payment thereof to quit the province. God preserve your excellency many years.

ZESPEDEZ.

To His Excellency DON JOSE DE GALVEZ.

[TRANSLATION.]

MOST EXCELLENT SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, May 8, 1785.

The positive intelligence which I received, some time since, of your excellency being appointed by His Majesty to go to that city, made me delay (as it was not very urgent at that time) forwarding your excellency the copy, which I now enclose you, of an edict which I had published the 25th of September last, for the ends as expressed therein.

I must at the same time inform your excellency, that some of the old Spanish proprietors have arrived, and will arrive here, with the idea that each of them had a right to take possession of their respective property, and others, by virtue of powers and transfers, without any other formality than that of saying, this formerly belonged to me, or to my grandfather, or to my uncle, &c.

I assure your excellency it would have been the greatest pleasure and satisfaction to me, if I had thought myself authorized to grant each one the possession of what he could have proved to have been legitimately his formerly, but the following consideration, which I lay before your excellency, have and do hinder me.

The King of Great Britain, in virtue of the treaty of peace of the year of 1763, considered all those lots, houses, and landed property of this province, not purchased within the limited term by said treaty from the Spaniards, to have devolved to the Crown, and, as sovereign, he made a donation of them to those he thought proper; so that each legitimate English proprietor has acquired his landed property by purchase made from an old Floridian, or by a donation made by the British Governors in the name of their sovereign, under the royal seal of the province; and, as the last treaty of peace, (the only rule that I had to govern me,) a period of eighteen months is allowed from the ratification, and afterwards a prolonged time to the British proprietors, according to the value of their respective possessions, that they may dispose of their property and transport their effects, I have not doubted a moment in permitting and approving these purchases, not only for the motives set forth, but likewise for the superior one of considering that, as all the landed property of this country that was not purchased within the specified term by the treaty of 1763, by the English from the Spaniards, devolved to the sovereignty of the King of Great Britain, in the same manner has devolved to His Majesty, in virtue of the recent treaty of peace, all English property that has not been purchased by Spaniards, within the time specified by the last treaty.

This has been, and will be my invariable answer to all pretensions relative to the former Floridian property: but, at the same time, I have mitigated my refusal, setting forth the magnanimity of our benign sovereign, who, without doubt, will attend with a pious breast to the claims of every Floridian who proves having formerly been the owner of property not transferred under the sanction of the recent treaty; as likewise stating that the pension assigned to those exiled, through the benign generosity of His Majesty, was not done alone as a duty of their sovereign, but likewise in justice as their protector and absolute owner of the landed property of this province not actually purchased by Spaniards. But, supposing for an instant that this property does not devolve by right or justice in his gift, even in that case it would be beneficial for the public good that the King should take possession thereof to avoid the law-suits and disagreements which would undoubtedly arise between the old inhabitants and those who have lately (about seventy in number) purchased houses and lots, confiding in the clause of the treaty.

On the other hand, it appears to be hard to deny the subjects, (I understand those who did not transfer their property to English subjects,) who abandoned their homes to remain faithful to God and to their sovereign, the possession of a heritage founded by their ancestors, in which they saw the first light of day as well as of religion. This consideration is of so much force, that the public faith, pledged by the late treaty, giving permission to the British to sell their property, can alone destroy it; and, consequently, to the Spaniards, the permission of purchasing it, remaining always in favor of the Floridians who think of returning to their native country. The great commiseration of our monarch, who is desirous to relieve his faithful subjects, will, it is to be hoped, with a liberal hand, protect the returning Floridians, granting them, if possible, their identical property, and, if not, of that which has devolved to his royal person.

All the houses of this city in general are in a state of ruin; almost the half uninhabitable, and a great number of the whole tumbling to the ground, so that all the inhabitants who have arrived, or may shortly arrive, will be under the necessity of repairing or rebuilding.

As no person has purchased lands they have devolved to the Crown, for which motive, besides the instructions relative to the division of lots and houses, as approved by your excellency, I respectfully conceive that it is important, for the settlement of this country, that power should be given me as soon as possible to grant lands, with preference to the old inhabitants of the country; afterwards the Minorcans, or any other Spaniards who may come to settle; and, lastly, to foreigners, in case His Majesty may think proper to admit the same as his subjects.

I have thought it my indispensable obligation to inform your excellency of the foregoing statement for the purpose of laying before the King these circumstances, so important to the prosperity of this new-born province, that he may be pleased, according to the superior information to your excellency, to issue those orders he may judge most convenient.

God preserve your excellency many happy years, which I wish and need.

ZESPEDEZ.

His Excellency Count DE GALVEZ.

MEXICO, July 4, 1785.

With the letter No. 72, of the 8th of May of the present year, your lordship encloses me a copy of the act which you issued on the 25th of September of the last year, and had publicly posted by hand-bills, for the government of the Spaniards who had purchased from the English landed or moveable property. Your lordship also informing me of the decay of said houses, and the consideration you have thought just in favor of the old Floridians, asking from me instructions for the purpose of expediting to them, as well as any other Spaniard or foreigner, lots and lands for the improvement of that country; inasmuch as regards the first point, I inform your lordship, without hesitation, that the step taken by you has appeared to me very proper; but, as regards the same, as well as all the rest, I will inform his excellency the minister of the Indies, that, by his superior prudence, such measures may be taken as are agreeable to him, or may merit the approbation of the King.

God preserve your lordship many years.

EL CONDE DE GALVEZ.

To his lordship Don VICENTE M. DE ZESPEDEZ.

Correspondent to representation No. 72.

Copy of an edict which was publicly posted by hand-bills, that all persons who had purchased, or may purchase from British subjects and other individuals, landed or moveable property, they make the same known, soliciting with anticipation the formalization of deeds whereby they may be secured and protected in their direct possession; it being understood that, should it so happen, that before the term, as specified, until the 20th of March, it is not closed, as it is ordered, any purchase or sale that may be made will be considered null and of no value.

IN THE CITY OF ST. AUGUSTINE, September 26, 1784.

His lordship, Don Vicente Manuel de Zespedez, Brigadier General of the royal armies, Governor and Commander-in-chief of this city and province, by His Majesty:

Whereas, considering it convenient, in regard to what may occur as to debts, disagreements, and law-suits, on the purchase of houses, lands, slaves, or any other species of landed or moveable property, made, or may hereafter be made, by Spanish subjects from the British, and to obviate all discord, dispute, or injury that might hereafter arise on the subject; taking a step that will be efficacious in putting a stop to such results as contrary to the tranquillity and public utility: Having, therefore, taken into consideration the only one which can be applied to gain such important ends, which is that of ordering that the contracts shall be made public instruments: I, therefore, by these presents, do order that all persons who have purchased, or may purchase, of said British subjects, or of other individuals, landed or moveable property in this said city, or its district, shall, indispensably, and with the necessary anticipation, have made out the necessary deeds to secure and protect them in the possession of the property so acquired, and prevent the disturbance which has heretofore perplexed them, applying for the same to the present notary of Government with the sellers, these having first proved, in this tribunal, the legitimate possession of the property they are about transferring, as is already ordered and is observed; which deeds must be stipulated and registered in the protocol or register of the same with the accustomed solemnities, and according to the laws of these kingdoms; it being well understood that all purchases and sales that, before the 20th day of March next, are not made according to the mode and circumstances pointed out, shall be considered null and of no value: and that the same be made known to all, obtaining by this method the most punctual observance, and that no one may plead ignorance, hand-bills shall be posted at the places pointed out containing this resolution: and by this which I decree, order, sign, and attest.

VICENTE MANUEL DE ZESPEDEZ.

Before me:

CARLOS XIMENEZ,
Notary of Government.

THE PRADO, April 5, 1786.

With this date, I communicate to the Captain General of the two Floridas, Count de Galvez, the following royal order:

"Agreeably to the report of the council of State, and according to what your excellency has manifested in your letter of preference, No. 56, and of the contents of the copy enclosed from the Governor of Louisiana, Don Estevan Miro, relative to the difficulties arising as to the removal of the English and American families established at Baton Rouge, Mobile, Pensacola, and Natchez from said provinces, according to the last treaty of peace, His Majesty has been pleased to approve the intimation given by your excellency to the said Governor, that no steps be taken as regard said families, being his royal will that, for the present, they continue to have permission to reside at the place they now inhabit, with the indispensable requisite that they take a solemn oath of fidelity and obedience to His Majesty, and not to exceed the limits in which they are at present situated, without obtaining from the Government an express license for that purpose. That those who do not comply with these just conditions shall immediately leave the country, by sea, for the colonies of North America on their own account; or, if not in their power, then on the King's, who shall repay himself out of their property as soon as it may be possible. That this same concession be extended to the inhabitants of East Florida, so far as may be adapted to them; and that in Natchez, and other parts of Florida where it may be necessary, there be established parishes of Irish clergymen, who may bring over said colonists, their children, and families, to our religion, with that softness and persuasion which it advises."

With the end that this royal resolution have the necessary course and happy results which His Majesty promises himself, it is necessary that your excellency (relying on your knowledge, and the information given you by Governors Miro and Zespedez) form a plan, or regulation, of the course to be observed in said parishes, setting forth the number of clergymen to be employed therein; it being understood that, this date, I inform the Bishop of Salamanca in order that he may choose, in the mean time, four of known zeal, virtue, and learning, of those in that university, or in any other part where they may be found. And I forward a copy of this royal resolution to the said Governors for their information and compliance therewith. God, &c.

I communicate the same by order of His Majesty, for the purposes therein expressed.

God preserve your lordship many years.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, January 5, 1814.

Don Zephania Kingsley, new settler of this province, to your excellency respectfully sheweth:

That a period of ten years has elapsed since he came to establish himself in the same, and enjoy the rights and privileges conceded to the new settlers, in virtue of the different royal orders which have been promulgated inviting population. With this motive your memorialist has introduced seventy-four negroes belonging to him, for the sole object of dedicating them to agriculture and the working of the lands; which, according to the quantity set forth by this Government, appertaining to him according to the number of workers he presented, having no other views of speculation or injury to the public finance by the right of importing, free of duties, goods, as many others have done, abusing and placing a wrong interpretation on the royal gifts, but that his object has been always that of promoting the industry, and occupying the only place for which they were invited; whereas, when other settlers, in their name, and for their particular interest, have enjoyed the privileges for the purpose of exempting them from paying the duties due the nation, your memorialist has left a well-known advantage in the exportation of his crops. No person can fail to know that the settlers who are most to be desired in this province are those who, from the moment of their reception, dedicated themselves to the cultivation of the land. Of this class your memorialist was and has ever been, so that as soon as he brought in his negroes, no delay or excuse should be admitted for the concession of three thousand eight hundred acres of land, which, according to the regulations made for the partition thereof, belonged to him at the rate of fifty acres for each worker, and one hundred for himself as head of a family. But your excellency, as well as every other sensible man, will not be surprised to hear that, when your memorialist presented himself to the late Governor, Don Enrique White, praying that the lands should be granted him, he answered that they were reserved for the poor settlers, and other similar expressions, delaying him until your memorialist tired, and not having wherein to employ his negroes, he resolved to acquire lands by purchase. Your excellency, according to the royal orders on the subject, will see at once the sovereign will; and it is not reasonable to believe that the lands were alone to be granted to poor persons, when the gift extends according to the number of laborers each person may have, directing the lands should be measured and laid off free of expense; and every prudent mind will discern that, if it was not the incitement of obtaining the lands gratis, and that the quantity promised should be given them, no person having so numerous a gang of negroes as your memorialist would have presented themselves. Wherefore, taking advantage of the said sovereign gifts, which have been made known for the purpose of inducing settlers to come, the memorialist does not ask for more than that belonging to him by right, and with justice, and confiding in the noble sentiments of your excellency, so well known, induces him to pray that you will be pleased grant him the three thousand eight hundred acres which ought to have been conceded to him, without any pretext whatever, when he moved his abode, and placed himself under the protection of His Catholic Majesty, as, by not having granted to him said gifts, it was also not fulfilling the sovereign will, under which security the memorialist came to establish himself. With this view, should your excellency be pleased to accede to this prayer, as your memorialist hopes, according to a right so manifest, which he has never abandoned, and that an arbitrary proceeding alone could have deprived him then of what all the other settlers enjoyed, he will point out the lands and places unseated, for his settlement, on this side the river St. John's, or wherever may be most convenient for the cultivation of grain, and principally rice, to which he proposes dedicating himself, that it may serve as an incitement to other inhabitants, making known the advantages of its production, and the utility that would result in the settlement of the province, which he hopes to receive from the impartial administration of justice of your excellency.

Z. KINGSLEY.

To the GOVERNOR.

ST. AUGUSTINE, January 26, 1814.

For the purpose of awarding what may belong thereto, add, in continuation, a copy of the royal order which treats of the admission of settlers and foreigners, and the regulation for the partition of lands made by this Government according to said royal gift, and that lastly amended by my predecessor, the Brigadier General Don Enrique White, certified by the present notary, with reference to his archives of the number of slaves it appears Don Zephaniah Kingsley has introduced, after which present the same.

EDICT.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, November 20, 1790.

Don Juan Nepomuceno de Quesada, colonel of the royal armies, and commander-in-chief of this city and province of St. Augustine, Florida, by His Majesty.

Whereas by the last packet which arrived at this port, his excellency the captain general of this province encloses me, under date of the 29th of November of the last year, the following royal order:

ROYAL ORDER.

No settler shall be admitted in Louisiana or in Florida should they pretend to have their transportation to those provinces, and maintenance there for some time, paid by the royal treasury; that those foreigners alone will be received who may, of their own free will, present themselves and swear allegiance to His Majesty, to whom there shall be granted and measured lands gratis in proportion to the working hands each family may have; that they shall not be molested in matters of religion, although there shall be no other public worship than the Catholic; that there shall be given to them no other assistance or aid than lands, protection, and good treatment, each family having the right of taking with them their property of any description, all free from duties; but, in case of exporting the same to any other place, they shall pay the six per cent. as established, and obliging them only to take up arms in defence of the province should an enemy invade the same. In virtue of which, I order the same to be published for the present, that it may be made known to all, being understood that only those shall be admitted as resident settlers who, besides their good conduct and honorable proceedings, are good farmers and mechanics, who are beneficial to the settlement and advancement of the province, for which purpose there shall be granted them the gifts set forth in the inserted royal order. It is also made known to those who have obtained lands in the mean time from this Government, that they present themselves to the same within the space of two months, for the purpose of asking and obtaining the requisite title of property from the office of the Government secretary, from whence the necessary orders will be issued after having registered the same in the notary's office. And that it may serve as an incitement to all, I order, according to the powers I am vested with, and make known for the present that the grants be of one hundred acres to each father of a family, and fifty to each white person, or of color, of which said family is composed; also, that if persons are desirous of obtaining a greater quantity of land, and their being a probability of their cultivating the same, they shall obtain an additional number of a thousand acres; it being understood that, in all the concessions, the utility and not the quality of the lands shall be attended to, so that each person shall acquire a proportionate quantity of each, as also that the width of each of said concessions must be only the third part of the length, and said length must not extend on the banks of the rivers and creeks, but towards the interior of the lands, resting always with the Government the care of rewarding or punishing with additional expenses, or absolute privation, as time shall discover, the merit, application, advantages, of the agriculturist, or the contrary vices.

A copy from the original, I attest:

DOMINGO RODRIGUEZ DE LEON,
Notary of Government.

Don Enrique White, colonel of the royal armies, civil and military Governor, and chief of the royal finance of this city and province of St. Augustine, Florida, by His Majesty, &c.

Whereas, it being necessary to vary and modify, in part, the rules and conditions which this Government had established for the concessions and divisions of lands to the new settlers, in consideration of the actual circumstances, on account of the great number of persons coming to enjoy the favors and privileges which His Majesty has granted to those who may come to establish themselves in this province, many abuses have arisen on the part of those grantees. Under the system and object which influenced the Government at that time in the prosecution of that plan, those as well as other inconveniences which experience has demonstrated, have plainly shown that they may tend to the hindrance of the advancement and prosperity of the province, for which reason, and to remedy the same, I have thought proper, and ordered that the rules prescribed in the following articles be observed for the future:

1st. That, whenever the new settlers shall take the customary oath of allegiance, they shall declare exactly the number of their children, their sexes, and ages, and in consideration of which lands will be allotted them, excepting those under eight years of age.

2d. That to each head of a family there shall be granted fifty acres of land, and an equal quantity to a single person, widow, or widower, and to the children or slaves of sixteen years, twenty-five acres each, but, from the age of eight to sixteen years, they shall be granted fifteen acres each.

3d. That, to those employed in the town, of whatever class they may be, if lands be granted them, or to their slaves, it shall be with the express condition of their cultivating the same within one month of the concession; being understood that, if they fail in so doing, it shall be granted to whomsoever shall denounce and lawfully prove the same.

4th. That all concessions in which no time is specified shall become extinct, and shall be considered as null, if the persons to whom they are made do not take possession and cultivate the same within the space of six months.

5th. That to none of those who cede or convey their lands to others under pretence of selling the improvements, there shall be granted them more lands in future; nor shall these transfers or conveyances be admitted if done without the consent of Government.

6th. Notwithstanding what is stated in the foregoing article, if it should suit any settler to change his situation, if he desires it, granting him lands in the place he may choose, but on consideration of giving up the improvements of the land he left for the benefit of the royal revenue, which will prevent the abuse of the transfers and sales which are prohibited, under any pretext whatever, until the proper time pointed out in the former plan or rules.

7th. That, on the lands not fit for cultivation, but have timber, or that are only proper for pastures, for which purpose alone they have been solicited, the owner cannot prevent any person from cutting and appropriating the timber to his own use who may present themselves with an order from the Government, but it is understood that it shall not injure the owner thereof.

8th. That all those who shall, for the future, ask for lands, must indicate a fixed spot, from whence the measurement must commence, which will be the cause of avoiding the mistakes and disputes which, by that fault, have been experienced, particularly a short time back.

9th. That all persons who shall have abandoned or discontinued the cultivation, nor actually cultivates the lands which at any period shall have been measured to them by the Surveyor General, although they have obtained the corresponding title of property from the notary's office, they shall lose their right to the same, and shall be given to any person not having lands for cultivation, who shall legally prove that said lands have been uncultivated at least two years following. And, for the punctual observance of what has been set forth, and that no person may plead ignorance, I order that copies be posted up in the public places of this city, as is customary, and that one be transmitted to the brevet captain of militia commandant of the same, and commissioned judge of the rivers St. John's and St. Mary's, Don John McQueen, that he may cause it to be made known to those inhabitants.

ENRIQUE WHITE.

St. AUGUSTINE, October 12, 1803.

By order of His Excellency:

JOSE DE ZUBIZARRETA,
Notary of the Government.

Conformable to their originals remaining on file in the archives under my charge, to which I refer, and agreeable to what is ordered, I seal and sign the present copy, in St. Augustine, Florida, the 27th of January, 1814.

JUAN DE ENTRALGO,
Notary pro tem. of Government.

In the most ample and proper manner, I certify and attest that, in various proceedings filed in the archives under my charge, it appears that Don Zephaniah Kingsley has introduced into this province, for the cultivation of lands, seventy-four negroes as his property, viz: twenty-five of them in the schooner Laurel, from the port of St.

Thomas, the 5th of May, 1804; ten of them the 25th of June, of the same year, in the schooner Laurel, alias Juanita, from the Havana; sixteen of them in the sloop Fish (Pez) from Charleston, the 15th of July, 1806; three of them in the schooner Esther, from the Havana, the 21st of October, 1806; and ten of them in the schooner Industry, from Georgia, the 9th of March, 1808. And that it may be made known, and in compliance with what is ordered in the foregoing decree, I seal and sign the present in St. Augustine, Florida, the 27th of January, 1814.

JUAN DE ENTRALGO,
Notary pro tem. of Government.

ST. AUGUSTINE, January 28, 1814.

Having seen, let it be made known, that Don Zephaniah Kingsley has a right to, and is worthy of the concession of three thousand three hundred acres of land which ought to have been granted him when he took the oath of allegiance, and came to this province to establish himself as a new settler, according to the number of seventy-four slaves which is known he has introduced, and will be seen by the preceding certificate of the present notary, regulated at fifty acres for each of them, and one hundred for the applicant as head of a family, which this Government allowed agreeable to the royal order communicated by his excellency the Captain General of the island of Cuba, the 29th of November, 1790, relative to the admission of settlers, which, copied, is found added to these proceedings, and was in force when the aforesaid Kingsley took the said oath, being prior to the new regulations made by this same Government, in the year 1803, for the partition of lands.

HAVANA, October 29, 1790.

I acknowledge the information given me by your lordship, under date of the 16th of September last, relative to Don Thomas Wooster, whose conduct and transactions gave cause for his leaving that province by order of the Government, of which I will inform His Majesty.

Relative to the introduction of families from Ireland, which your lordship proposes, I cannot accede on other terms than strictly adhering to what the King has advised me on the subject, and herewith transcribe the same for your lordship's government:

"No settlers shall be admitted in Louisiana or in Florida, should they pretend to have their transportation to these provinces, and maintenance there for some time, paid by the royal treasury. That those foreigners alone will be received who may, of their own free will, present themselves and swear allegiance to His Majesty; to whom there shall be granted and measured lands, gratis, in proportion to the working hands each family may have. That they shall not be molested in matters of religion, although there shall be no other public worship than the Catholic. That there shall be given them no other assistance or aid than lands, protection, and good treatment—each family having the right of taking with them their property of any description, all free from duties; but, in case of exporting the same to any other place they shall pay the six per cent. as established; and obliging them only to take up arms in defence of the province should an enemy invade the same."

To which rules your lordship must adhere in any solicitude that may occur under similar circumstances.

God preserve your lordship many years.

[TRANSLATION.]

MOST EXCELLENT SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, October 20, 1798.

Under date of the 20th November, 1791, index the 3d, No. 5, my predecessor transmitted to His Excellency Don Pedro de Lerena, a document relative to the valuation of the houses and lots which devolved to the royal patrimony on account of the abandonment thereof by the British when this province was taken possession of in the name of His Majesty.

By the decree which heads the said document, of which I forward your excellency a copy, No. 1, it was determined that the purchasers should pay the annual rent of five per cent. until the determination of the King; and the royal accountant's office having determined to collect what was due since that period, on account of the scarcity of funds at that time in this royal treasury a number of individuals have refused to make said payment; in consequence of which a suit was entered into, of which I likewise forward your excellency document No. 2, establishing their refusal, on the ground that, as lands had been granted gratis to the foreigners, with more reason ought the native subjects of His Majesty to be attended to.

It is manifest, most excellent sir, that the King, desiring the improvement and settlement of this country, he has determined that lands in the country should be given gratis to the foreigners, OR NATIVES, who may come to settle them; but, in nowise, that lots and houses in the city should be granted them, as in the present case. And seeing, with sorrow, the too great increase of this city in shops and taverns, without any increase in agriculture and other branches of commerce, which is the most essential for the prosperity of this possession of our sovereign; with this information, and with a view of the accompanying testimony, I hope that your excellency will inform me of the will of His Majesty, not only as relates to this affair, but also in the principal, which, as I have already mentioned, my predecessor transmitted in the year 1791, without having, in all this period, received any determination; and thereby causing great injury to the interests of the King, by the displeasure which a suspension of so many years occasions the people in an affair of this nature. God preserve your excellency many years.

H. W.

His Excellency Don FRANCISCO SAAVEDRA.

J.

[TRANSLATION.]

The King to the Governor and Commander-in-chief of the province of St. Augustine, Florida.

In a letter dated November 20, 1791, your predecessor gave an account, with accompanying documents, of the steps he had taken, and according to which the sale of the lots and houses relinquished by the English, and becoming part of my royal domain, agreeably to the third article of the preliminary treaty of peace concluded with that power, as also in regard to what had taken place relative to certain estates owned by the widow Donna Isabel Perpall, purchased from the English in a suspicious manner, but she not only being a widow, but poor, a Spaniard, and very possibly having acted with the most honest intentions, which makes her deserving of my royal clemency, and a number of other inhabitants being nearly in the same case, suspected of having purchased houses; some after the time allowed the English to sell, and others without his consent and intervention; and, although it was necessary to make a minute examination, he neglected doing the same, thinking it would be good for the service; and, observing that said buildings were falling to decay, he ordered their sale at public auction, a valuation being first made by skilful persons, with the proviso, that those taking said property should give security for the payment of the materials and lots when he thought it convenient, and repair said houses in the course of one year, paying in the meanwhile five per cent. annually, which was accordingly so done, after the purchasers had consented to pay him the principal amount, and having verified the sale, the total thereof amounted to 157,974 reals and a quartilla, including the value of the houses said to appertain to the above named Donna Isabel Perpall, to Mateo Martinez Hernandez, and to Don Manuel de Herrera, which were declared as belonging to my royal domain on account of their sale being false. And, lastly, in your letter of the 20th of October, 1798, you stated, with proof, that some refused the payment of five per cent., founding their objections on the grants of lands made to foreigners establishing themselves in that colony, and that the houses and lots in that city were not comprehended in those grants: and, seeing the continued increase therein of taverns and shops, without any improvement whatever in agriculture and other staples of commerce, you gave an account for my royal resolution not only of this incident, but likewise of the other, pending from the time of your predecessor. Having observed, in my Council of Indies, the opinion of my fiscal, with the information on that subject given by the accountant general's office, and consulting on the same the 17th of April last, I have resolved to remit, in favor of those indebted to the finance, the payment of the capital and interests on the houses and lots they acquired, and approve the sale and other steps as taken by your said predecessor, giving to each a title of possession and property that they may be secured hereafter in the possession of said estate, it being thus my will; and let an account of the present be taken in the said accountant general's office. Dated at Aranjuez, the 17th of June, 1801.

I, THE KING.

By order of the King our master:

ANTONIO PORCEL.

OFFICIAL.

To the Governor of Florida, informing him of having remitted, in favor of those indebted to the finance, of, in that the payment of the capital and interests on the houses and lots they acquired at the transfer of the country by the English, and so forth, as expressed therein.

PEDRO APARICI.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, February 18, 1802.

Take an account of this royal letter patent in the accountant office, and be it afterwards annexed to the proceedings on the subject, and it will be delivered to the Attorney General, that he may give me his opinion thereon.

ENRIQUE WHITE.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, February 18, 1802.

An account of this royal letter patent was taken in the principal accountant's office under my charge.

GONZALO ZAMORANO.

Having seen, let what his Majesty orders in his royal patent of the 17th of June last be kept, complied with, and executed, posting the same by hand-bills in the customary places, and inserting, particularly as relates to the royal donation and grant of houses and lots which, by appertaining to his royal domain, were sold here in the year 1791, with the yearly interest of five per cent. on the value of the property to which the purchasers bound themselves: let the royal approbation of said sale be likewise published; and, in consequence of the same royal gift, let the mortgages given them by the purchasers on said property be cancelled, and those which progressively have been made over to other proprietors, to whom said property was transferred by the original owners, at the same time, for the security of these last; let the conveyances of the royal donation be drawn out, to which, for the security and possession of legitimate possessors, let the royal favor be also extended. And, in respect to the doubts which took place as to the legitimate ownership of the property in the possession of Donna Isabel Perpall, Mateo Martin Hernandez, and Don Manuel de Herrera, in the proceedings relative to the sale of said lots and houses, which were, notwithstanding, sold as the others as belonging to the royal domain, inform them in particular, or their legitimate agents, of the royal patent, that it is also extended to the aforesaid property, that they may make use of all their right upon which, and in all incidents relative thereto, and which, in this general provision, cannot be taken into consideration; other provisions will progressively be made, and, as the cases and circumstances may require, of all which the fiscal representation shall be informed with respect to what concerns his duty.

WHITE.

LICENCIATE ORTEGA.

Don Enrique White, colonel in the royal army, civil and military Governor of the city of St. Augustine, and province of East Florida, for his Majesty, provided the foregoing, which he signed, after having consulted his lieutenant, auditor of war, and assessor general, on the 18th of March, 1802.

JOSE DE ZUBIZARRETA,
Government Notary.

St. Augustine, same day, month, and year, I notified the foregoing act to Don Gonzalo Zamorano, accountant of the royal finance, to take cognizance of the same; which I attest.

ZUBIZARRETA, Notary.

K.

Don Enrique White, colonel of the royal armies, Governor, political and military chief of the royal revenue of this place, and province of St. Augustine; in East Florida, for his Majesty, &c.:

Forasmuch as it is proper partly to vary and modify the rules and conditions which the Government had established for the concessions and division of lands to the new settlers; considering the actual circumstances which, on account of the great number of applications, and to distribute the favors and privileges which his Majesty has granted to those who may come to establish themselves in this province, many abuses, on the part of those new settlers, have arisen under the system which Government, to prosecute their plans, had there established; which, and other inconveniences since by experience demonstrated, have made it evident that they may tend to the prejudice and hindrance of the advancement of the province: for which reason, and to remedy them, I command and ordain that, for the future, the following rules and regulations shall be observed:

1. That at the time when any of the new settlers shall take the oath of fidelity and vassalage, as is customary, they shall declare exactly the number of their children, sexes, and ages; in proportion to which lands will be allotted to them, excepting those under eight years of age.

2. That to every head of a family shall be granted fifty acres of land; an equal quantity to a single person or widow; and to children or slaves, from sixteen and upwards, twenty-five acres; but, from the age of eight to sixteen, they shall only be allowed fifteen acres each.

3. That to those employed about town, of whatsoever description, if lands should be given for themselves or slaves to cultivate, it shall be with the express condition of their beginning to cultivate it within a month; in failure of which it shall be granted to whomsoever shall improve it, and enter complaint.

4. That all concessions of lands, in which no time is specified, shall expire and be annulled if the person to whom they are made shall not appear to cultivate and take possession of them within the space of six months.

5. That to none of those who cede or convey their lands to others, under pretence of selling their improvements, shall be granted any lands in future; nor shall these cessions or conveyances be admitted, if done without the consent of Government.

6. Notwithstanding what is said in the foregoing article, if it should suit any settler to change his situation, it will be permitted; if he desires, grant him lands where he may wish, but on express condition of giving up the improvements of the lands he left for the benefit of the royal revenue, on purpose to hinder the abuse of transfers or sales, which are prohibited, under that pretext, until the right time prefixed in the former rules in place.

7. That in those lands which are not fit for cultivation, but only for pasture or woodland, and under which title they have been granted, the owner shall not be empowered to hinder any person presenting, henceforth, an order of Government, from cutting down the trees, and appropriating them to his own use; but it shall be understood the possession should not be injured by it.

8. That all those who shall solicit lands for the future, must indicate a fixed spot from whence the measurement begins, on purpose to avoid disputes, too many of which have been already experienced.

9. That every person who shall have abandoned or discontinued cultivating, or not actually cultivates, the lands which, at any period, shall have been measured to him by the Surveyor General, even after he has obtained the corresponding title or proprietorship from the officer, shall lose his right to them, and they shall be given to any one not having land already, by proving, summarily, that they have laid uncultivated at least two following years.

And, for the punctual observance of what has been said, and that no one may plead ignorance, I order copies of this to be stuck up in the public places of the city, as is customary, and another shall be transmitted to the captain graduate of the militia, commander of them, and commissioned judge of the rivers St. John's and St. Mary's, Don Juan McQueen, who shall make it known to those inhabitants.

To the CAPTAIN GENERAL:

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, October 15, 1803.

For the purpose of avoiding the abuses which have been experienced in the granting of lands to the new settlers, without certain restrictions that will oblige them to cultivate the same, I have thought it convenient to establish the rules in the accompanying document, which I forward your lordship for your intelligence and approval.

My predecessor had assigned one hundred acres of land to the fathers of families, and fifty to each child and slave, whether full grown or small, a quantity really excessive, and could only have taken place at that time in which there were very few strangers who came in solicitude of lands; but, at present, there are many who come, and, consequently, there would result the greatest injury in the improvement of the province, unless said number of acres be diminished, on account of its being more than one individual can cultivate in a year, even divided in three parts, for the purpose of giving rest to the lands, which circumstance I have also had present for the destruction which has been made.

God preserve your lordship many years.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, April 2, 1805.

Don Enrique White, colonel of the royal armies, civil and military Governor of this city and province, and superior chief of the royal finance:

Whereas, on the 12th of October, 1803, I thought proper to have published an edict, in which were prescribed various rules to remedy the many abuses and disorders as committed on the part of those obtaining lands, and ordering, in the ninth article of the said edict, that all persons having abandoned, or that may not have continued cultivating, or do not actually cultivate, the lands which may have been measured for them at any time by a surveyor, although the necessary title of possession should have been given them from the notary's office, they would lose their right to them, and would be given to any person who, not having lands to cultivate, would lawfully prove, in a summary manner, that said lands were without cultivation for at least two years in succession: it is now made known that the improvements or buildings remaining on the lands thus abandoned or uncultivated in the specified time, their value shall be appropriated in favor of the royal finance, as a deposit, until a new determination; and, that it may be made known to all persons, I order copies to be posted in the customary places, and that another be transmitted to the brevet captain of militia, and commandant of the same, and commissioned judge of the rivers St. John's and St. Mary's, Don Juan McQueen, that he may make the same known to the inhabitants thereof.

Means for restraining the disorders concerning lands, and the various frauds and abuses which are committed against the royal revenue, by the new settlers in this province of East Florida.

1st. That it shall not be permitted to any settler, of whatsoever condition, to hold land, slaves, or other property in the province, if he do not reside in it; obliging all to a fixed and permanent residence, and assigning to those who do not comply the term of one month to withdraw their slaves, and one year to sell their lands, and whatever property they may have acquired; and that, after the expiration of the aforesaid term, the lands which they shall not have transferred, and the slaves found in the province, be forfeited in favor of the royal treasury.

2d. That the new settler shall not be reputed a subject of His Majesty who is absent from the province a year, or, at most, two successive years, and shall lose the lands granted him; and, also, be obliged to satisfy the duties on the merchandise he may have introduced, discounting them from the surety given for the protection of the King's droits, in case he emigrate from the province before the term, as is expressed below.

3d. That to the new settler who, at the time of taking the oath of fidelity and allegiance, declares himself to be married, and has not brought his wife and family with him, a positive term shall be assigned for him to bring them; and, in case he does not comply, he shall incur the penalties prescribed in the foregoing article; the same being observed towards him who avers that he is not married, and conceals it in his oath.

4th. That a title of property shall not be despatched for the lands granted until after ten years' possession; the certificate which is delivered by the secretary when the lands are granted, and the survey of the Surveyor General in conformity with it, being, until that period, sufficient to protect the interested.

5th. That the inhabitant who shall solicit full property of the lands granted to him shall give proof that he has cultivated them for ten successive years, with the slaves or laborers of his family corresponding with the number of acres granted him, and that he has complied with the other established conditions. The said proof being rendered, it shall pass to the fiscal of the royal revenue, that he may expound what is presented to him, and promote such information as he may judge proper in opposition to that of the interested, determining the proceeding in the contradictory judgment.

6th. That the children of a family, whose parents have emigrated from the province, shall have no right to claim a title, in full property, of lands granted to them, although they had been possessed of them more than the ten prescribed years, unless they had continued in the possession and cultivation of them with written permission from the Government, in which case they shall be delivered a title of full property, if it be solicited. The proof required in the preceding article having been given, and that always, after the absence of their parents, they had remained constantly in the province. This rule shall be observed as regards children whose parents may die in the said province.

7th. That those who have lands that have been ceded or transferred to them by others, with the consent and permission of the Government, shall have the same time allowed to them as their principals had, to claim, in due time, their titles of property; which shall be despatched to them after the requisite proof that they, and those they derive from, have complied with the conditions of the grants.

8th. That, at the time of receiving the oath of fidelity and allegiance of the new settlers, there shall be prescribed by Government a specified period for the importation of merchandise he manifests to be his property, according to the distance from whence he came, paying the import duties on those articles he may afterwards introduce.

9th. That the new settler shall satisfy the duties on importation, who, at the time of taking his oath, declares it to be his intention to sell his houses, lands, and other property, in order to introduce the amount in negroes and implements of agriculture, and afterwards, on the contrary, he would do it in merchandise, which would give room for many frauds, and would elude the provision of the former article.

10th. That in case any new settler shall declare that he owns houses, lands, credits, &c., and shall make it appear that he desires to introduce the value of said property and credit in merchandise, a certain term will be appointed for their introduction, free of duties, as is provided in the foregoing 8th article.

11th. That if it be proved that any new settler has introduced, as his own, merchandise belonging to foreigners or inhabitants of the province, defrauding thus the royal revenue, all the effects which may be seized shall be confiscated, giving the third-part of the value thereof to the informer, if there should be one, after having deducted the costs of court; and, further, the delinquents and their accomplices be punished, by imprisonment or banishment, for such a number of years as may be held fit; and that, in case of proof of the crime, no goods should be found, there shall be exacted from the delinquents and accomplices a considerable fine.

12th. That no new settlers shall be permitted to go into the dominions of his Majesty, if they have not at least resided four years constantly in the province.

13th. That every new settler, a captain or owner of a vessel, who may desire to pass in her to the Havana, or any other of his Majesty's dominions permitted, loaded with the produce of the country, shall have permission, giving security, in the value of the vessel, for her return into the province.

14th. That there be not admitted on the roll of the vessels destined to the dominions of his Majesty any new settlers who are not mariners by profession, and go in a fixed situation gaining a salary, excepting from this rule those who have completed the term of residence in the province prescribed by article 12th.

15th. That every new settler who declares any merchandise to be his property, shall give surety, in proportion as he goes, on introducing them, in the term which is assigned by his oath for the security of the royal duties, which he must pay if he emigrates from the province before the ten years of his establishment.

16th. That, in case it be proved that any new settler navigates with Spanish and American papers at the same time, or with those of any other foreign nation, the vessel and cargo shall be confiscated, giving the third part of the value to the informer, if there should be one, after satisfying the judicial costs and other expenses; and it shall be deemed sufficient proof for the establishment of this crime to have foreign colors hoisted at the ports where the vessels arrive, and that the captains do not present themselves to the consuls of his Majesty in the ports where they may be.

17th. That the dissensions which occur between the new inhabitants as regards granted lands, be decided summarily, without form or judicial clamor; and that, if the case were any thing complicated in its circumstances, a process of information and de officio should be formed; and, if it shall result that the dispute was promoted by the malice or bad faith of either of the litigants, he shall be condemned to satisfy all the costs, as well as the damages and expenses that the adverse party may have occasioned.

18th. That, also, those causes shall be decided summarily, without noise or judicial form, which occur on declaration whether any new settler ought or not be deemed a subject of His Majesty, for which declaration the character, rank, and other circumstances of the interested shall be taken into consideration.

19th. That if any new settler shall consider himself aggrieved by the decisions of the Government, in any of the cases of which the two preceding articles speak, he can recur to the captain general of the province for the determination which said superior chief considers just.

MOST EXCELLENT SIR:

The miserable situation, at present, of this city and province, and seeing that, of the one hundred and forty-one thousand thirty-one dollars and four reals which is allowed annually for salaries, there is owing to the end of April last nine hundred and twenty-five thousand one hundred and thirty-three dollars one and a half reals, obliges me to seek for some adequate measure to relieve myself from the difficulties under which I labor from the want of funds for the most urgent wants, such as the purchase of provisions; the allowance and pay of the third battalion of Cuba; the annual presents of the Indians; and the payment of the large balance of accounts due the persons employed in the royal finance, invalids, Florida pensioners; and to the heads of families, settlers, who receive a daily pension and charity, whose outcries are so continual that the most obdurate heart would melt at them with compassion.

The greatest part of the commerce of this province consists at present of British vessels arriving at the port of Fernandina, in Amelia island, for the purpose of loading with timber to convey to their arsenals in England, leaving the small duty of seven and a half per cent. under moderate valuations; these inhabitants cutting the same in the most convenient places, without any restriction whatever; our neighbors, the Americans, also availing themselves of cutting the wood clandestinely, without paying us any duty, adding the inconveniency of its not being in my power to put a stop thereto on account of the uninhabited situation of the places where the same takes place.

That the King may receive the benefit therefrom, I am of opinion that a very advantageous step may be taken for the advancement of this province, which is, that, for the purpose of aiding the royal treasury of West Florida, (which may not be in so deplorable situation as this,) a determination was taken to sell to the natives and foreigners, without distinction, the public lands, according to their quality; the said system be established here, transferring to the new settlers admitted, or to be admitted, conformably to what his Majesty sets forth by royal orders.

The lands are granted gratis to those who, with the necessary requisites, come to settle, but, by an administrative arrangement, the title of ownership cannot be issued them until after ten years' possession and uninterrupted cultivation, which practice is injudicious on account of its being too long a period for them to dispose of the land granted them according to the number of their families and slaves; and, should there occur in that time, any diplomatic change, they could not prove their legitimate possession, being liable to lose all their improvements thereon. The public lands being purchased by those, and also by the inhabitants already established here, which I do not doubt they would do if the prescribed time of ten years were not necessary, then this great difficulty would be obviated, and a greater number of new settlers would come, and receiving, of course, their title of possession, they would prize it, having cost them their money, and they would improve the land to procure some utility; the results would be the greatest advancement and prosperity of the country, income to the royal treasury, and would prevent, in some measure, the Americans from being benefited by what belongs to us, as each settler would take very good care that their property should not be taken away.

The measure which I propose to your excellency is not only for the utility of the country, or in regard to the unfortunate state of this royal treasury, but likewise, the situation in which the nation is placed at present, as it is necessary to put into operation the most effectual ways and means to support and alleviate, in some manner, the immense burden and expense it is at, without opposing, in any wise, the will of the sovereign, who wishes the prosperity and increase of his royal interest by all possible means; and I therefore believe that his royal intentions would be fully realized by the settlement of this province, and the alleviation of his royal finance. In virtue of which, should your excellency conceive that this measure will meet the approbation of his Majesty, I await that of your excellency to put it in execution.

ESTRADA.

I have seen your letters, Nos. 26 and 37, setting forth, in the present circumstances, the utility of alienating public lands to the new settlers of that province, on the terms expressed therein; and, in answer, inform you that the said alienation cannot take place, as the admission of citizens of the United States in the Floridas is expressly prohibited by a royal order of the 14th November, 1804, and by another of the 31st March, 1806, forbidding, on any pretext whatever, the sale of lands to foreigners coming into East Florida.

God preserve you many years. HAVANA, September 14, 1811.

THE MARQUIS DE SOMERUELOS.

To the GOVERNOR pro. tem. of East Florida.

Q.

[TRANSLATION.]

The Secretary of State and of the office of the Government of the peninsula, has communicated to me the following decree:

Don Fernando the Seventh, by the grace of God and by the constitution of the Spanish monarchy, King of the Spains, and, in his absence and captivity, the regency of the kingdom, appointed by the general and extraordinary Cortes, to all to whom these presents may come, greeting: Know ye, that the Cortes have decreed the following:

The general and extraordinary Cortes, considering that the conversion of public lands into private property is one of the measures which the welfare of the people, as well as the advancement of agriculture and industry most imperiously demands; and desiring, at the same time, that this class of lands should serve as an aid to the public necessities, a reward to the deserving defenders of the country, and a support to the citizens who are not proprietors, do decree:

ART. 1. All the uncultivated or public lands, and those of the corporations of cities, with the timber thereon, or without it, both in the peninsula and adjacent islands, as well as in the ultra-marine provinces, except the commons necessary for the towns, shall be made private property, taking care that those of the corporations of cities give an annual rent, by the most convenient means, which, at the proposal of the respective provincial deputations, shall be approved of by the Cortes.

ART. 2. In whatever manner these lands be distributed it shall be in full property; and, in the class of enclosures, that the owners thereof may fence them without injury to the pathways, roads, water-courses, and passages, and use them freely and exclusively, and apply them to the use or culture which best suits them; but they can never entail nor pass them at any time or anywise to a mortmain.

ART. 3. In the alienation of said lands, preference shall be given to the inhabitants of the towns within the limits of which they are, and to the occupiers who use the said uncultivated lands.

ART. 4. The provincial deputations shall propose to the Cortes, through the medium of the regency, the time and the terms when it will be most convenient to carry this disposition into effect in their respective provinces, according to the circumstances of the country, and the lands which it may be indispensable to preserve for the townships, in order that the Cortes determine upon what may be most convenient to each Territory.

ART. 5. This business is recommended to the zeal of the regency of the kingdom, and to the two Secretaries of State, in order that they may bring forward and inform the Cortes, at all times, of the representations which the provincial deputations direct to them.

ART. 6. Without injury to what has been provided, half of the uncultivated and public lands of the monarchy, excepting the commons of the town, is reserved, that the entire, or any part which is deemed necessary, may serve as a pledge for the payment of the national debt; and, with preference for the credits which the inhabitants of the towns to which the lands appertain may have against the nation, the first place amongst those credits to be given to such as arise from supplies of the national armies, or loans which the said inhabitants may have made for the war, since the 1st of May, 1808.

ART. 7. In the alienation for the public debt of this half of the uncultivated lands, or the part which it is deemed necessary to pledge the inhabitants of the respective towns, and the occupiers who use the said lands, shall be preferred as purchasers; and the credits competently adjusted, which either the one or the other may have on account of the said supplies and loans, shall be admitted in payment for the full value, and, in defect thereof, any other lawful national credit which they may have.

ART. 8. In the said half of the uncultivated and public lands, there shall be comprehended and computed the part which may be justly and lawfully alienated, in some provinces, for the expenses of the present war.

ART. 9. Of the remaining uncultivated and public lands, or of the arable lands belonging to corporations of towns, there shall be given, gratuitously, a quantity of those fittest for culture to each captain, lieutenant, or sub-lieutenant, who, from advanced age, or from being disabled in the military service, with due leave, without censure, and with a lawful document, accrediting his good behavior; and the same to each sergeant, corporal, soldier, trumpeter, and drummer, who, for the same causes, or having completed his time, obtain a final discharge, without censure, whether either the one or the other be natives or foreigners, wherever, in the districts in which they may fix their residence, there may be this class of lands.

ART. 10. The quantity which, in each town, is granted to officers or soldiers, shall be in equal proportion of value to the space and quality of the same, and more or less in some places than in others, according to their circumstances, and the greater or less extent of the lands, managing, if possible, that, at the least, each quantity shall be such as to be sufficient, regularly cultivated, for the maintenance of an individual.

ART. 11. The assignment of these quantities shall be made by the constitutional councils of the towns to which lands appertain, as soon as the interested present to them the documents which accredit their good services and resignation, the syndic being heard, as respects the whole, in a concise and lawful manner, without exacting any costs or dues whatever. After which the proceedings shall be sent to the provincial deputation, that they may approve it, and remedy any grievance.

ART. 12. The concession of these quantities of land, which shall be called patriotic bounty, shall not extend at present to other individuals but those who served, or have served in the present war, or in the pacification of the actual disturbances of any of the ultra-marine provinces; but includes the captains, lieutenants, sub-lieutenants, and troops, who, having served in one or the other, have retired without censure, and with lawful leave, from having been wounded and incapacitated to serve in action, and not in any other manner.

ART. 13. It also includes those individuals, not military, who, having served as partisans, or contributed in any other manner to the national defence in this war, or in the disturbances of America, have remained, or remain wounded or disabled by the result.

ART. 14. These favors shall be granted to the said individuals, although they should enjoy other rewards for their services and distinguished actions.

ART. 15. Out of the same remaining uncultivated and public lands, those fittest for culture shall be marked out and given, gratuitously, by lot, to every inhabitant of the respective towns who asks for it, and has no other land of his own, and in a quantity proportioned to the extent of the land, so as that the whole of those thus divided, in any case, do not exceed the fourth part of the said uncultivated and public lands; and, if these should not be sufficient, the quantity shall be given in the arable land of the corporations of the town, directing in such case a redeemable fee, equivalent to the income of the same in the five years up to the end of 1807, in order that the municipal funds should not decay.

ART. 16. If any of the grantees in the preceding article should, for two successive years, fail to pay the fee, the quantity of land belonging to the corporation, or to keep it employed usefully, it shall be granted to a more laborious inhabitant who has no land of his own.

ART. 17. The writings for these concessions shall be made, also, without any expense, by the councils, and shall be approved by the provincial deputations.

ART. 18. All the quantities of land which are conceded conformably to articles 9, 10, 12, 13, and 15, shall be also in full property for the grantees and their successors, on the terms and with the privileges which the second article expresses; but the owners of these quantities cannot alienate them before four years from the time they were granted, nor ever subject them to entail, or pass them at any time, or by any title, to mortmain.

ART. 19. Whoever of the said grantees, or his successors, establishes his permanent residence on the same quantity of land, shall be exempt, for eight years, from every contribution or impost upon that land or its products.

ART. 20. This decree shall be circulated not only in all the towns of the monarchy, but also in all the national armies, publishing it in them, so as that it may come to be known by all the individuals composing them.

The regency of the kingdom will take notice of the above, and will do what is necessary for its accomplishment, causing it to be printed, published, and circulated.

To the REGENCY of the Kingdom.

Wherefore, we command all tribunals, judges, chiefs, governors, and other authorities, as well civil as military and ecclesiastical, of whatever class or degree, that they keep and cause to be kept, comply with and execute, the present decree, in all its parts. You will take notice of the same for its completion, and you will order that it be printed, published, and circulated.

By order of the regency of the kingdom, I communicate this to your excellency, in order that, transmitting it to the provincial deputation as soon as it be installed, you keep, and comply punctually with, the part which respects you, exciting the zeal of your excellency to the end that agriculture and industry, aided by this powerful auxiliary, should be elevated to the point of grandeur of which it is susceptible, and that the beneficent views of the august national congress, and of their highnesses, in their incessant toils, may produce the happy results anticipated for the Spaniards of both hemispheres. Their highnesses also desire that the same provincial deputations give an account, through the medium of the ultra-marine department provisionally in my charge, of the circulation of this decree as soon as your excellency has communicated it, without preventing your excellency from doing so separately; and also making the observations which, from the knowledge you have of the country, you judge proper and conducive to the elucidation of the matter. God preserve your excellency many years.

MADRID, June 8, 1814.

The King wishing to prevent the doubts which have begun to arise on account of the decree of the 4th of January, of the last year, relative to the distribution of lands, and that whatever competition might have taken place disappear in the forgetfulness or little observance in the provisions of the laws of the Indies and ordinances of Intendants, with great injury to the royal exchequer, and of the owners, who, regulating themselves accordingly, had obtained the legal acquisition; he has therefore been pleased to order that the Intendants comply strictly with what has been ordered in the said ordinances relative to the distribution of lands, the proceeds of which, together with the rest appertaining to the royal finance, serve to support the expenses of the same; and in the proceedings thereof they adhere to what is prescribed in the laws of the Indies, and particularly in the royal instruction of the 15th of October, 1754; not admitting, in any wise, the least appeal of a corporation or town whatever against those lands that are laid off or measured for the use of their owners in virtue of a title of gift, agreement, or purchase, as His Majesty wishes, in nowise, that interpretations be given contrary to what has been ordered, to the prejudice of his royal interests, or those of his loyal subjects in those dominions: which I communicate to your lordship, by royal order, for your information, and that you may order the punctual compliance thereof. God preserve your lordship many years.

The GOVERNOR of St. Augustine, Florida.

The Governor of St. Augustine to the Captain General of Cuba.

[TRANSLATION.]

MOST EXCELLENT SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, June 4, 1813.

The first of this month I discharged from the military service in which they were employed the three companies of white militia of this city, not only for want of provisions here, but for the urgent necessity there was that the inhabitants should be allowed to turn once more their attention to the care of their respective families and occupations, with the object of making as light as possible the injuries suffered by them in the insurrection of the province.

With this motive I cannot but recommend to your excellency the fidelity manifested by the militia and third battalion of Cuba in the performance of their duty, from the first moment in which the rebellion broke out, and for which I consider them worthy the gifts to which the supreme Government may think them entitled, taking the liberty of recommending the granting of some, which may be as follows: to each officer, who has been in actual service in said militia, a royal commission for each grade he may obtain as provincial; and to the soldiery, a certain quantity of land as established by regulation in this province, agreeably to the number of persons composing each family; and which gift can also be made to the married officers and soldiers of the said third battalion of Cuba.

Men in general require to be excited by some stimulus, and it is not easy to find any who are indifferent to public approbation of their services. What I propose, without giving them in reality any thing, will be the means of contenting them, and produce henceforward the best effects; it being understood that this gift will be for those who occupy themselves in the defence. And for this end, and in case that these, my ideas, merit the approbation of your excellency, I enclose, as regards the officers of both corps, lists of those who ought, in that case, to be comprehended. God preserve your excellency many years.

His Excellency Don JUAN RUIZ DE APODACA.

The Governor of the city of St. Augustine, East Florida, gives notice of his having discharged from the military service the companies of white militia of said city, and recommends their merits, as well as the third battalion of Cuba, which they obtained on account of the insurrection of this province.

Under date of the 29th of March last, His Excellency the Minister of the Indies writes me the following:

"I have informed the King of what your excellency sets forth in your letter, No. 236, of the year 1813, relative to the rewards which the Governor of East Florida considers the individuals of the companies of white militia, and married officers and soldiers of the third battalion of the regiment of Cuba, entitled to for their meritorious conduct during the insurrection of this province; and at the same time that His Majesty approves said gifts, he desires that your excellency will inform him as to the reward which the commandant of the third battalion of Cuba, Don Juan José de Estrada, who acted as Governor pro tem. at the commencement of the rebellion, the officers of artillery, Don Ygnacio Salens, Don Manuel Paulin, and of dragoons, Don Juan Percheman, are entitled to, as mentioned by the Governor in his official letter. By royal order, I communicate the same to your excellency for your information and compliance therewith, enclosing the royal commissions, according to the note forwarded by your excellency."

I forward you a copy of the same, enclosing also the documents above mentioned, that you may give them their correspondent direction, with the intention, by the first opportunity, of informing His Majesty of what I consider just as to the remuneration before mentioned. God preserve you many years.

Ratification of the King.

Don Carlos, by the grace of God, King of Castile, of Leon, of Arragon, &c. &c.:

Whereas, in consequence of the preliminary articles of peace between my Crown and that of England, signed at Versailles, on the 20th of January of the present year, by Count de Aranda, my ambassador near His Most Christian Majesty, with my full powers, and by Don Alleyne Fitzherbert, minister plenipotentiary from the King of Great Britain; which ratifications, made by me and His Britannic Majesty, were afterwards exchanged in due form, and afterwards perfected by the above named Count de Aranda on my part, and by the Duke of Manchester, ambassador and plenipotentiary near His Majesty, on the part of His Britannic Majesty, having happily concluded the definitive treaty of peace, which is composed of a preamble and twelve articles, with two other separate articles, all of which are in the French language, and the contents, with a translation in Spanish, is of the following tenor: [Here the treaty is inserted.] Wherefore, having seen and examined the pre-inserted definitive treaty, the twelve articles contained therein, with the two separate ones which follow, I have thought proper to approve and ratify, and, by these presents, do approve and ratify the same, in the best form and manner possible; promising, faithfully, and on the word of a King, to comply with and observe the same, and to order a strict compliance and observance thereof, as if made and signed by myself. In testimony whereof, I order these presents despatched, signed by me, and sealed with my privy seal, and countersigned by the undersigned, my counsellor and secretary of state. Given at St. ILDEFONSO, September 12, 1783.

JOSE MONIMO.

I, THE KING.

MY DEAR SIR:

HAVANA, May 19, 1785.

At the moment of getting under way for Vera Cruz, the 16th of this month, His Excellency Count de Galvez has charged me to forward you a copy of the royal order, which he just received, on account of the loss of time for executing the same by his excellency, should he wait to do so from Mexico; in virtue of which, I forward you the said royal order, being as follows:

THE PRADO, February 7, 1784.

ROYAL ORDER.

In consequence of my indication to your excellency, in a letter of 24th January last, the King has been pleased to prolong, for four months, the eighteen stipulated in the definitive treaty of peace for the emigration of English subjects at present in West Florida. I make known to your excellency this royal determination, that you may have the same duly complied with. God preserve your excellency many years.

DON JOSE DE GALVEZ.

To the COUNT DE GALVEZ.

God preserve your lordship many years.

Your lordship's most attentive servant,

BERNARDO TRONCOSO.

To DON VICENTE MANUEL DE ZESPEDEZ, Florida.

Conformable to the above named documents, which were delivered me by the Governor and commandant general of this city, to whom I returned them; and, in compliance with his decree, I give the present in St. Augustine, Florida, March 8, 1781. [Here a notary signet.]

DOMINGO RODRIGUEZ DE LEON,
Government Notary.

Governor Zespedez to Count de Galvez.

MOST EXCELLENT SIR:

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, June 22, 1785.

Under date of the 19th of May last, which I received the 16th instant, the Governor pro tem. of the Havana informs me that your excellency had left him charged to forward me a copy of a royal order, of the 7th of February last past, of the following tenor:

"In consequence of what I have indicated to your excellency in a letter of the 24th of January last, the King has been pleased to protract for four months the eighteen stipulated in the definite article of peace for the emigration of English subjects who remain in East Florida. I communicate this royal determination to your excellency, that you may take measures for a due observance thereof."

In consequence of which I caused to be communicated the said royal order to the British subjects, the 20th of the same month, for their information and government, and, in virtue of it, I will consider all British property immoveable that was not legally alienated previous to the 19th instant, (except that appertaining to those being Catholics, or those who are desirous of being converted to that holy religion, as also the house of Panton and Leslie, they wait the royal determination relative to the memorials which I forwarded to your excellency in my representation, No. 42, and by this same opportunity I forward a triplicate in a private manner,) as devolved to His Majesty, persuaded that the royal magnanimity will extend to those who have supplied with provisions or money the urgent necessities of the royal finance, the officers, and troops, that they may not quit the province until they are reimbursed for what they have advanced; and I communicate the same to His Excellency the Minister of the Indies.

God preserve your excellency many happy years.

To His Excellency Count de GALVEZ.

Letter from the Count de Galvez to the Governor of Florida.

HAVANA, March 10, 1795.

I am informed of the various particulars contained in your lordship's letter, dated 10th February last, No. 663, and the letter of His Britannic Majesty's consul in Savannah, of which I enclose a copy. It is convenient that your lordship try to procure and transmit me a copy of the act of the Legislature of Georgia, for the purpose that I may form a calculation on the sale of the territory which the British consul announces having been made to American merchants; at the same time, your lordship will inform me relative to the limits of the said territory, and the reasons and documents showing it, appertaining to the province of West Florida, as the information which I have on this subject is limited and vague. God preserve your lordship many years.

ST. AUGUSTINE, February 16, 1802.

I have complied with the royal letter of the 17th of June last, pardoning the debtors of the rents of this city, from the payment of the capital and interest on the houses and lots which they acquired by the evacuation of the British, and every thing else as expressed therein.

I communicate the same to your lordship for the intelligence of that Supreme Council of the Indies, and in answer to your official letter of the 25th of July of last year. God preserve your lordship many years.

THE KING.

MY GOVERNOR OF THE FLORIDAS: The Duke de Alagon, Baron de Espes, made known to me, in a memorial of the 12th of July, of the year last past, that which follows: "Sir, the Duke de Alagon, Baron de Espes, captain of the guards of Your Majesty's royal person, respectfully sheweth: That, it being the interest of the Crown to bestow on great capitalists uncultivated lands, in order that they may be peopled and cultivated, from which result many advantages, evident, and to be advised by all politicians, in which case are many or the greatest part of the fertile soil of the Floridas; and it being also a right of Your Majesty, as absolute lord, to distribute them for the furtherance of agriculture, and as a reward and recompense for the interesting services which are done with profit to Your Majesty and your Kingdom; desirous to merit these marks of esteem of your magnanimous heart, and to contribute, on my part, to fulfil the views of population so interesting to the common good, he supplicates Your Majesty to deign to grant him the uncultivated land which is not found ceded in East Florida, between the banks of the rivers Santa Lucia and St. John's, unto their outlets unto the sea, and the coast of the Gulf of Florida, and the adjacent islands, with the inlet into the river Hijuelos, in the twenty-sixth degree of latitude, following its left bank unto its source, drawing a line to the lake Macaco; going down then by way of the river St. John's to lake Valdes; cutting, by another line, from the extreme north of this lake to the source of the river Amanima; following the right bank unto its mouth, near the twenty-eighth or twenty-fifth degree of latitude, and continuing by the sea-coast with all the adjacent islands, to the mouth of the river Hijuelos, in full property to himself and his heirs, and permitting the introduction of negroes for the labor and cultivation of the land, free of duties; a favor which he hopes to receive from the innate benevolence of Your Majesty."

Being informed of the contents of this representation, and attending to the distinguished merit of this individual, and to his approved zeal for my royal service, as also to the advantages which will result to the State from the increase of population of the said lands which he asks for, I have thought proper to accede to the favor which he solicits, inasmuch as it does not oppose the laws of these my Kingdoms, and to communicate it to my Council of the Indies for its execution, in my royal order of the 17th of December, of the said year. In consequence, I command and charge you, by this my royal letter patent, that, agreeably to the laws which govern in this matter, to effectually aid the execution of the said gift, taking all the dispositions which may tend to its due effect, without prejudice to a third person; and, in order that the said Duke de Alagon may, from this time, put in execution his design, conforming, in all things, to my beneficent desires for the advancement of the agriculture and commerce of said possessions, which call loudly for a population proportioned to the fertility of the soil, and to the defence and security of the coasts, giving an account, successively, of its progress, it being understood that the introduction of negroes, which the same gift comprises, shall be subject, as regards the traffic of them, to the rules prescribed in my royal letters patent, of the 19th of December last, for such is my will; and that, of this royal letter patent, an account shall be taken in the accountant general's office of the Indies.

Dated at the palace, the 6th of February, 1818.

By command of the King our master,

I, THE KING.

ESTEVAN VAREA.

MADRID, February 16, 1818.

To the Governor of the Floridas, that he may order the necessary steps to carry into effect the gift granted the Duke de Alagon, of various lands situated in East Florida, with the other things expressed therein.

Let an account be taken in the accountant general's office of North America.

JOSEF DE TEJADA.

[DUPLICATE AND TRIPPLICATE.]

HAVANA, July 19, 1818.

For the punctual compliance of the royal letter patent of the 6th of February last, presented by Don Nicolas Garrido, agent for His Excellency the Duke de Alagon, your lordship will take the necessary steps to put him in immediate possession of the lands of that province, which His Majesty has been pleased to grant him, without obstacle or impediment, and will aid him, inasmuch as it lies on your part to carry this gift more fully into effect; permitting him to make use of his full powers to all the extent to which they were conferred by the said duke, agreeably to the testimonial which your lordship has forwarded me, with your official letter, No. 13, of the 28th of June last past, and your lordship taking the necessary steps in this important affair, as the same royal letter patent has been communicated direct to him; and that you give me an account of what has been done in the same, that I may also inform His Majesty, as I am ordered. God preserve your lordship for many years.

Spanish decrees in relation to the land claims in Florida.

His Excellency Don Martin De Gary, Secretary of State and of the office of the Treasury of the Indies, has communicated to me, under date of the 31st July last, the following royal order:

Under date of the 27th instant, the Secretary of State informs me what follows:

‘EXCELLENT SIR:

“Under date of the 28th of April last, I have communicated, by royal order, to the President of the Council of the Indies what follows:

“‘EXCELLENT SIR: When the King, our master, thought proper, a little time since, to condescend to the distribution of various lands of his dominions in Floridas, as solicited by some of his meritorious subjects, it was under the idea that this gift would cause no injury, and that the donees should use them agreeably to the legislative system which governs on the subject, as is expressly manifested by His Majesty in his own concession communicated to that supreme tribunal, transmitting also correct copies of their respective solicitudes for examination. In this state his Majesty having understood that the covetousness of foreigners had deceived the good faith of the donees by trying to enter into negotiations for the purpose of appropriating a part or the whole of these gifts, or taking advantage of the benefits arising therefrom, which, should it be verified, would not only cause many political inconveniences, but might occasion great injuries to the said donees by the invalidity of their contracts, notwithstanding their good faith. To obviate, therefore, such evils, his Majesty has determined that, by the same supreme tribunal that has issued the orders of concession, each of the persons interested in the same be notified the precise terms in which they are to understand the tenor of said gifts, so as that the general expression granted in so much as it is not opposed to the laws, can give no room for explanations; and making them understand that it is not in their power to alienate them, in part or whole, particularly to foreigners. I communicate the same to your excellency, by his royal order, for your intelligence and compliance thereof in the council, of which you will give an account to his Majesty.’

“Which copy to your excellency, from the same royal order, inasmuch as it may refer to the same in that ministerial department of the Indies, as also that, under date of the 19th of the present month, I have informed the proper council of the punctual observance of that decree, inasmuch as his Majesty has understood that, compromising his high policy, and against the only sense and spirit of the laws, it was in contemplation to promote the alienation of the lands granted in the Floridas to various individuals; which I copy to your lordship, for your intelligence, by royal order.”

I transcribe the same to your lordship for your information and compliance thereof.

God preserve your lordship many years.

HAVANA, November 11, 1818.

ALEXANDRO RAMIREZ.

To the GOVERNOR, Sub-delegate of Finance, St. Augustine, Florida.

[TRANSLATION.]

The Captain General of Cuba to the Governor of East Florida.

HAVANA, October 30, 1818.

His excellency the Secretary of State and of that office, under date of the 18th of July last, states to me as follows:

“MOST EXCELLENT SIR: Under this date I state to the President of the Council of the Indies the following: The King, our master, has understood that the alienation of the lands granted in the Floridas to the Duke de Alagon, Count de Punon Rostro, and Don Pedro de Vargas, and others, has been encouraged, thereby compromising the high policy of his Majesty, and contrary to the only import and true meaning of the laws. His Majesty, therefore, commands me to renew to your excellency the order for the information of that council, that the gifts of said lands are not to be understood as alienable, and much less to foreigners, according as it is ordered, and is provided by our laws. By royal order I communicate the same to your excellency for your information, and that of the council, and for your more exact knowledge thereof; and by the same I forward it to your excellency for your information and government.”

I transcribe it to your lordship for the same ends on your part.

God preserve your lordship many years.

JOSE CIENFUEGOS.

PRADO, April 15, 1786.

Under this date I communicate to the Captain General of the two Floridas, the Count de Galvez, the following royal order:

“Having consulted the Council of State, and taking into consideration what your excellency has expressed, particularly in your letter No. 56, with the contents of the copy therein enclosed from the Governor of Louisiana, Don Esteban Miro, about the difficulties that occur relative to the English and American families established at Baton Rouge, Mobile, Pensacola, and Natchez, leaving said provinces in compliance with the last treaty of peace, His Majesty has deigned to approve of the preventive orders issued by your excellency to the said Governor, that nothing new should take place with the aforesaid families. It is his royal wish that permission be granted them to remain where they are settled, under that denomination for the present, they being of necessity obliged to make oath of fidelity and obedience to His Majesty, and not to exceed the limits of their actual settlements, nor remove to other parts, without the express permission of the Government; that those who do not comply with these just conditions may embark, at their own expense, for the colonies of North America, or, if they do not, to be sent by the King, who shall be reimbursed by their property, as far as it may be possible. That this same provision, as far as practicable, be extended to the inhabitants of East Florida; and that at Natchez, and all other places of the two Floridas where it may be convenient, parishes shall be organized, under the direction of Irish clergy, with a view to bring those inhabitants, their children and families, over to our religion, with the mildness and suavity which she prescribes.

"In order that this royal resolution have due effect, and the success which His Majesty promises to himself, it is necessary that your excellency, (from your own experience, and the knowledge which their Governors, Miro and Zepedez, possess of them,) form a plan of the manner in which those parishes ought to be conducted, expressing the number of clergymen necessary for the same; and, with that view I have, under this date, directed the Bishop of Salamanca to make choice of four of that university, or of any other where they may be had, and who may be distinguished for their zeal, virtue, and learning. And this royal resolution shall be transmitted to the aforesaid Governors, for their information and due compliance therewith. God preserve, &c."

And this I do by order of His Majesty, for the purposes therein expressed. God preserve you many years.
THE MARQUIS DE SONORA.

To the GOVERNOR of St. Augustine, Florida.

ST. AUGUSTINE, August 12, 1791.

Let a copy of this royal order be taken in the royal contaduria, and let the original be returned to this secretariat.

QUESADA.

NOTE.—That, under date of the foregoing decree, a copy of this royal order was taken in the contaduria under my charge, and it was returned to the secretariat of the Government, as ordered by said decree.

GONZALO ZAMORANO.

ST. AUGUSTINE, June 27, 1823.

I hereby certify the foregoing to be a true and correct copy of a document on file in my office.

WILL. REYNOLDS, Keeper of the Public Archives.

In compliance with orders, and having before me the definite treaty of peace concluded at Versailles on the 20th January, 1783, which was approved in Spain, by the King, our lord, I copy, to the letter, the third article of said treaty, pursuant to instructions, the tenor of which is as follows:

ART. 3. His Britannic Majesty will concede to His Catholic Majesty East Florida, and His Catholic Majesty will preserve West Florida, it being understood that, reckoning from the date of the definitive treaty, the term of eighteen months shall be granted to all His Britannic Majesty's subjects who are established on the island of Minorca and in the two Floridas, to settle their accounts, and remove their persons and property, without any molestation, through motives of religion, or under any other pretext, excepting that of debts or criminal causes; and His Britannic Majesty shall have the faculty of transporting from East Florida any property which may belong to him, whether of artillery or any other kind.

Ratification of the King, our lord.

Don Carlos, by the grace of God, King of Spain, &c. Whereas, in consequence of the preliminary articles of peace between my Crown and that of England, closed at Versailles on the 20th of January of this year, by the Count de Aranda, my ambassador near the Most Christian King, having my full powers, and by Don Alleyne Fitzherbert, minister plenipotentiary of the King of Great Britain, which ratifications, being made by me and by His Britannic Majesty, were afterwards exchanged in due form, they have successively proceeded, the said Count de Aranda on my part, and the Duke of Manchester, ambassador and plenipotentiary near the Most Christian King, on the part of his Britannic Majesty, and they have happily come to a conclusion of the definitive treaty of peace, which is composed of a preamble and twelve articles, with two more separate articles, the whole in the French language, the contents of which, with its translation into Spanish, is of the following tenor:

[Here follows the treaty.]

Therefore, having seen and examined the said treaty in all its articles, I have approved and ratified all and every part thereof, as by these presents I approve and ratify the same, in the most ample manner and form, promising, on the faith and word of a King, to comply therewith, and to cause it to be complied with and observed as if I myself had made and signed it. In virtue of which, I order the present to be executed, signed by me, and sealed with my private seal, and countersigned by the undersigned, my counsellor of state, first secretary of state and despatch. Done at ILDEFONSO, this 12th day of September, 1783.

I, THE KING.

JOSE MONIMO.

MY DEAR SIR:

HAVANA, May 19, 1785.

At the time of setting sail for Vera Cruz on the 16th instant, the excellent senor, the Count de Galvez, charged me to copy for you the royal order he had just received on account of the delay with which it would be attended had you to wait his arrival in Mexico. In consequence of which, I perform the same, said royal order being of the following tenor: Consequent to what I informed your excellency in my letter of the 24th January last, the King has been pleased to prolong, by four months, the term of eighteen months specified in the definitive treaty of peace for the migration of the British subjects who were settled in Florida. I communicate this royal determination to your excellency, that you may so act as that it have full effect.

God preserve you many years.

JON JOSE DE GALVEZ.

PRADO, February 7, 1785.

God preserve you many years. Your most humble and obedient servant,

BERNARDO TRONCOSO.

To the Senor DON VINCENTE MANUEL DE ZESPEDEZ, Florida.

They agree with the documents which have been delivered to me by the Governor and Commandant-in-chief of this place, to whom I returned them; and in virtue of his decree I deliver the present in St. Augustine, Florida, March 8, 1791.

BANDO DE BUEN GOBIERNO.

Regulations for the good government of the province.

DON JUAN NEPOMUCENO DE QUESADA, Colonel in the royal service, Governor of this place of St. Augustine, East Florida, for His Majesty.

[Here is a preamble.]

ART. 1. In the name of His Majesty there shall be granted to all his subjects being and domiciliated in this place, for their use such a portion of land as they may need, in proportion to their forces, in any part whatever of this desert province, without any exception whatever. To that end, those who may desire lands shall present themselves within the term of twenty days, declaring, by memorial, their circumstances, the lands they have obtained to the present period, the quantities and situations of the lands which they now solicit; it being understood that it is to be without injury to a third person. I shall attend to their solicitations according as I shall have examined into them; and, although the laws of the Indies authorize me to make an absolute partition of the lands, finding myself, as I precisely am, to be in point with article 1st, of chapter 12th, book 4th, I abstain from it, for serious motives; but, for the better security of the interested, my observations and representations shall be submitted to the King, being persuaded that, in consequence thereof, those who now may obtain lands from me will be maintained and protected in the possession of the same.

ART. 4. The King our lord, by royal order of the 5th April, 1786, grants to all foreigners who were inhabitants of this province at the time it was under the British dominion, leave to remain therein, and that they shall be protected in the possession of their lands and property, upon the necessary conditions that they take the oath of allegiance, that they do not extend the limits of their lands, nor transfer them to one another. Consequently all those who have not conformed, and those who do not conform thereto, shall leave this said province within the term of thirty days pre-emptorily; and all persons shall come forward and manifest in person their intentions; and, if absent, by letter, in order that the necessary measures may be adopted.

"I hereby certify the within and foregoing to be a true and correct copy of a 'bando' recorded in a book called 'Libro primero de gobierno,' which is on file in my office. Witness my hand and private seal, (there being no seal of office,) at St. Augustine, this 14th day of July, 1823."

WILL. REYNOLDS, Keeper of the Public Archives.

St. AUGUSTINE, July 16, 1823.

I hereby certify that the foregoing translation is faithfully made, and that the copy of certificate is correct.

P. LYNCH.

SIR:

WASHINGTON, May 12, 1824.

As an accompaniment to the tabular descriptive list, I make the following representations:

Antecedent to the arrival of my colleagues in St. Augustine, in the latter part of July, 1823, I appointed a temporary secretary, and collected about seventy claims, which I directed to be filed in the manner indicated in the table. And, notwithstanding the obvious utility of such an arrangement, and the absolute necessity of some organization of a similar character, to answer the expectations of Congress terminating our session on the first Monday in February last, this and every other corresponding proposition to preface a classification of the claims, was invariably rejected, until, at my request, and before the public, the district attorney offered, if permitted, to prepare the list, as now presented, at his own expense; when it was directed to be done by the commission; which was, at that time, composed alone of Mr. Floyd and myself.

When the claims are thus filed, and alphabetically arranged, in the names of the grantees, the quantity of the lands given to each will be exhibited; while, at the same view, it will appear in virtue of what authorities, and for what consideration, the grants were made. It will in fact, give a complete classification of the claims, and afford an opportunity for the detection of every imposition that might be attempted to be practised; and, as it frequently occurred that locations were changed, and distinct and separate titles issued, the greatest attention will be necessary to discover whether the claimant be not the representative of a forfeited or relinquished grant.

The concession made to John H. McIntosh by Governor White on the 18th day of May, 1803, apportioned to the ratio of his "head-rights," which he represented as his intention to introduce into the province, and for which he never acquired absolute titles, was undoubtedly forfeited, in consequence of his having abandoned the land three years after its occupation by two old negroes. The law on this subject, by reference to White's regulations, corroborated by the royal orders of 1813 and 1814, together with the fair interpretation of the laws of the Indies. This remark will also apply to many other claims, and especially to those where there never was any possession.

The claims that will be subject to the examination of the commissioners, exclusive of the city property, may be estimated to amount, at least, to fifteen hundred, of which not more than forty have been the subject of adjudication, in consequence of the entire want of system.

Under this state of mismanagement, no reasonable idea can be formed when the commission will probably terminate, creating a deleterious embarrassment deplorable to the Florida community, and in evident sacrifice of the public interest. The mere procrastination of the disposable available interests in the residuum of those lands will operate as an injury to the United States, not unworthy the consideration of the Government; and if it would not be pressing too much on the public attention, I would suggest, that if all the claims were reported to the President on the plan I have proposed, and the records of title in the possession of the keeper of the public archives correspondently scheduled, a measure which ought to be taken for their security, it might be ascertained which were the public lands totally disembarassed; and authorization might be given to the Executive to appoint a surveyor, and immediately to establish a land office in the neighborhood of St. Mark's, in order to check the present increasing illicit appropriation and occupation of the unquestionable public lands there.

With much respect, I have the honor to remain your obedient servant,

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

Hon. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, Secretary of State.

NOTE.—In the county of Gadsden, where the best lands are, there have been no grants, unless part of that to Pantan, Leslie, and Co. be embraced.

Documents A, B, and C, accompany this letter.

A.

To the Hon. &c.

The memorial of Bernardo Segui respectfully showeth, that your memorialist claims title to a tract of land containing sixteen thousand acres situated at the head of the river Ys, (Indian river,) on the west side, at a place known by the name of Tokay; bounded on the north by lands of Joseph Delespine, on the south, east, and west, by public lands, which title your memorialist obtained by a grant from the Spanish Government, made by His Excellency Governor Kindelan, for services, the 6th December, 1814, and filed herewith, and marked A; and your memorialist further showeth, that he is actually legally seized and possessed of said land; that he is a citizen of the United States, and resident of the city of St. Augustine.

All which is respectfully submitted, &c.

BERNARDO SEGUI.

LANCASTER, Attorney.

Certificate of survey in hand-writing of Segui, dated 2d September, 1818, and signatures apparently in same hand. The ink certainly the same. From the great quantity of surveying done by McHardy, as appears by his plats bearing date about this period, McHardy could not have been in St. Augustine; or, if so, could not have surveyed.

MEMORIAL TO THE GOVERNOR.

Don Bernardo Segui, native and resident in this city, respectfully showeth that, inasmuch as, by the accompanying documents, it is proved his having been commissioned by your excellency to take charge of the runaway negroes of this province, belonging to the inhabitants thereof, who, on account of the invasion of 1812, presented themselves under the protection of this Government, which service I performed gratuitously, with pecuniary disbursements for the maintenance of said slaves; until, in consequence of the royal pardon and order of your excellency, I delivered them to their respective owners who presented themselves, at the same time made known, I complied lastly with exactitude, going to the city of Havana in December of the year last past, 1813, elected by the inhabitants for the purpose of doing the duty of elector of the parish and district, for which purpose I was obliged to contract debts, suffering immense expenses. To these services, with others, not of so much consideration, which your excellency has been pleased to confide to me, there is added, that, on account of the death of my father, the captain of militia, Don Bernardo Segui, I have the charge of, and compromised, notwithstanding my losses, not to abandon his widow, my mother, and two sisters, single, who are under my protection. It is notorious and well known that said captain died last November, 1813, being in the service of His Majesty, omitting to make known his character and merits, on account of your excellency being satisfied as to the truth thereof. With this idea, and according to what has been set forth, not doubting to obtain the recompense that will be useful in future, and as I intend dedicating myself in this province in the cutting of timber, for which purpose some of my friends have proposed aiding me with their protection in beginning thereof, I therefore pray your excellency will be pleased to grant me, in absolute property, five miles square of land in the place Tokay, at the west end of the river Ys, situated between this and that of St. John's, in which place I intend establishing the necessary machinery for the sawing of said timber, by which a well known benefit is made to the public, and likewise to the royal domain, by the cheapness of the materials when it may be in want of the same: Wherefore, I humbly pray that your excellency will be pleased, in consideration of what has been set forth, grant me, in absolute dominion, the five miles square of land, or the wood of Tokay already designated, with the object of establishing the machinery for the sawing of timber, and enjoying as my own, in the manner they have been granted to others, (asi lo espacio), which I hope to obtain from the justice of your excellency. ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, 6th December, 1814.

B. SEGUI.

DECREE.

ST. AUGUSTINE, December 6, 1814.

The merits and services which the interested alleges in his memorial being, as they are, manifest, the utility and advantages which must accrue to this province and its commerce by the machinery to saw timber, which he intends constructing, and by what is ordered in the royal order of the 30th of October, 1790, communicated to this Government by the captaincy general of the island of Cuba and this said province, on concessions of land to the new settlers, there is conceded to said memorialist in the place which he designates, in absolute property, the five miles of land, or square, which he asks, and for its attainment and security, in whatever event, there shall be granted him by the secretary's office a certified copy of this said memorial and decree, which will serve him as a title in form.

KINDELAN.

Don Tomas de Aguilar, ensign of the army and secretary of Government of the city and province, by His Majesty: I certify that the foregoing copy is faithfully made from the original; and, in compliance with what is ordered, I give the present in St. Augustine, Florida, the 6th December, 1814.

TOMAS DE AGUILAR.

B.

PETITION TO THE GOVERNOR.

Don Bernardo Segui, notary public pro tem. of the town of Fernandina, resident in this city, respectfully showeth:

That, with the permission of your excellency, he has come to this capital solely with the object of making known to you, as he has already done verbally, the deplorable situation and condition of that population, originating from a want of commerce, in consequence of the declaration of peace between Great Britain and the United States of America. In May, of the present year, your memorialist was appointed by your lordship's predecessor, Don Sebastian Kindelan, to the office which he now holds in said town, and, as he thought to have obtained by it the greatest advantages, he abandoned in this city, as is well known, the business which he had for the support of himself and family, resulting thereby his leaving a certainty for an uncertainty, and consequently at present without any means whatever. The town of Fernandina, as he has already stated, is in such a deplorable situation, on account of there not being any trade whatever, that your memorialist passes entire weeks without obtaining a half real in fees. If, therefore, a fact so positive, adding thereto the limited services he has performed, merit the consideration of your lordship, he hopes to obtain, from your well known justice, and in virtue of the superior orders of His Majesty, (whom God preserve,) in which he recommends that lands be granted gratis to Spanish subjects, that you be pleased, therefore, grant him, in absolute property, the quantity of seven thousand acres of land on the east side of the river St. John's, between the place called Dunn's lake, and that known as Horse landing, including in said tract of land the place called Buffalo bluff, which latterly was given up to the Government by the house of Juan Forbes and Company in exchange for other lands. Therefore, your memorialist prays that your lordship may be pleased to grant him the said quantity of seven thousand acres of land in the place mentioned, not doubting that he will obtain them from the known justice of your lordship.

BERNARDO SEGUI.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, December 19, 1815.

DECREE.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, December 20, 1815.

The renunciation made by Don Juan Forbes and Co. of the lands mentioned by the interested in this memorial being certain, and in virtue of the reasons which he indicates to this Government, let there be granted to him, in absolute dominion, the seven thousand acres of land which he petitions for, under the boundaries which he points out, without injury to a third person, despatching for his security a certified copy of this concession, which will serve him in every event for a title in form.

ESTRADA.

Don Andrew Burgevin, private surveyor in this city of St. Augustine, East Florida:

I certify that, in virtue of the permission of this Government, I have measured and marked the boundaries of a tract of land containing seven thousand acres, more or less, situated on the east of the river St. John's, at the place known as Buffalo bluff, and running south, bounding the waters of the said river, as is more fully seen by the annexed plat, which piece of land belongs to Don Bernardo Segui, by a concession made to him by this Government, the 19th December, 1815.

ANDRES BURGEVIN.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLORIDA, September 10, 1818.

C.

To the honorable the Commissioners appointed to ascertain claims and titles to lands in East Florida.

The memorial of Bernardo Segui respectfully sheweth, that your memorialist claims title to a tract of land containing about seven thousand acres, situated on the east side of St. John's river, at a place known by the name of Buffalo bluff; bounded on the north by Buffalo creek and Piney island, on the south by vacant lands, on the east by part of Dunn's creek and vacant lands, and on the west by St. John's river; which title your memorialist obtained by a grant from the Spanish Government, made by His Excellency Governor Estrada, for services, the 20th December, 1815, and filed herewith; [A] and your memorialist further sheweth that he is actually legally seized and possessed of said lands, that he is a citizen of the United States, and resident of the city of St. Augustine. All which is respectfully submitted, &c.

BERNARDO SEGUI.

LANCASTER, Attorney.

Copy of concession, dated 19th December, 1815, and certificate of survey, dated 10th September, 1818, by Andres Burgevin the only evidence exhibited or seen by the commissioners. Received for confirmation.

* Order of survey dated April 26, 1821.

† Order of survey dated Sept. 3, 1818.

OBSERVATIONS.—In McIntosh's claim there were no absolute titles; the evidence was, that he had taken possession of his land by placing thereon two negroes, who abandoned it in 1805. The quantity of lands was determined by his head-rights, he having represented that he would introduce 250 negroes. The claims here inserted are in the order they were filed with the commission, 37 out of about 1200.
